INDICATE LENGTHY SETBACK IN CHINA INDUSTRIALIZATION

Red Speakers Claim Delay May Be Existant For Several Years

APPARENTLY COMMUNISTS CAN'T ACTIVATE SPOILS

(Note: You are reminded that dispatches from Shanghai are under Communist military censorship.)

SHANGHAI, July 23.—(AP)—Speeches by two top Chinese Communists within the last couple of weeks indicate the Red timetable for industrializing China has been set back possibly for years.

The delay, which also means postponement of the effort to bring socialism to China—since it was upon the industrial structure that socialism was to grow—is being blamed on the western economic blockade.

It all seems to add up to the fact that the Reds cannot make their conquered cities function.

These cities were to have been the cores from which the industrializing process would spread; but the cities are a mess. The paper plans which called for vast transformations are being altered.

TRUMAN TO ASK ARMING DAY

Wants 1 ½ Billion Nations On Cold War Front Of World

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—President Truman will ask Congress Monday for a higher flexible program of arms aid abroad—including a $45,000,000 fund for emergency use, and $155,000,000 to stimulate armament production in Europe.

The president's proposals, totaling $1,450,000,000 for countries on the cold war front all over the world will cover several kinds of aid, it was learned today.

European partners in the Atlantic security treaty would get the bulk of it to strengthen them against Red aggression.

Mr. Truman hopes to win senate and house approval for a program which would not nail him down to deliver to any particular country during the next 12 months an exact amount of war material. In that way, administration officials believe, the the president can meet most effectively conditions which are not possible now to forecast. It is proposed he be allowed to move the arms dollars around within reasonable limits.

Meanwhile, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) called for submission only of a stop-gap foreign arms program until the advisory council to be set up under the North Atlantic pact can name a defense committee to draft defense assignments.

This view was shared by Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Smith (R-N. J.), who said in separate interviews that the pattern of over-all defense should be decided before the United States starts supplying arms to European nations.

But Vandenberg said he would reserve decision until he saw the Truman proposals.

Vandenberg also repeated his pre-

Showers, Overcast Stop Local Scorchers

The weather man last night predicted thunder showers and clouds for today, while reminding residents that a heavy overcast yesterday was all that stood between this vicinity and a "real hot day."

According to the C. A. A. weather station, the clouds moved in to block the hot July sun at approximately 8 a. m. yesterday. The overcast was still in this vicinity last night, with signs of clearing skies later.

Maximum temperatures recorded at the weather station was a moderate 90.8 degrees at 2:30 p. m., with the mercury sitting on 77.0 degrees at 7 p. m.

Though rain threatened the vicinity several times throughout the day, only a few drops were reported to have fallen in this area at isolated points.

A shower gave fall farmers and weather beaten residents an opportunity Friday to "cool off," their first chance in several, scorching days.

3 States In Controversy With Government Will Convene In Attempt To Settle Ownership Of Submerged Oil-Rich Areas

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—A new conference scheduled to begin here Monday between state officials and House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) may settle the controversial oil-rich tidelands ownership issue.

Rayburn told a reporter today he thinks the meeting will be the final one on the problem and that some decision should be reached within a day or two.

Representatives of the three states with valuable off-shore oil deposits —Texas, Louisiana and California— will give their views on an outline of compromise legislation suggested by Rayburn during previous talks.

Should the current efforts of the speaker to settle the issue fail, it is considered likely that congress will not pass any tidelands legislation before adjournment.

In that event, the dispute is expected to be aired before the U. S. supreme court in suits the government has announced it will file against Texas and Louisiana.

The high tribunal in another case already has decided that the government has paramount rights over the submerged lands off the California coast.

Reports from the three states most directly involved in the controversy indicate that California and Louisiana may come to the meeting here Monday prepared to endorse the Rayburn proposal, but that Texas will not yield on several major points at issue.

Louisiana's Lieutenant Governor William J. Dodd, who took part in the last parley here, has said he thinks the compromise should be accepted as the best settlement his state is likely to get.

He said he also thinks Texas and California seem closer than ever to agreement to the proposal.

However, the Texas school land board has decided there are several features of the Rayburn proposal it could not accept.

Composed of Gov. Allan Shivers, Land Commissioner Bascom Giles and Attorney General Price Daniel, the board has jurisdiction over the public domain of the state of Texas.

Daniel has been the most insistent in refusal to yield on points which he says he believes rightfully come under jurisdiction of the states.

Points in the compromise proposal never have been made public by Rayburn.

He has said he is afraid the states

4 ARRESTED IN COHEN INCIDENT

Another Sought In Shooting Of Kingpin West Coast Gambler

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—(AP)—Four men were arrested and another sought for questioning today in the gangland shooting Wednesday of Gambler Mickey Cohen.

Cohen expressed surprise at two of the arrests.

Taken into custody here was Tony Brancato, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., ex-convict who once was questioned in the slaying of Hoodlum Bugsy Siegel two years ago.

Arrested in San Francisco were James Tarantino, editor of a Hollywood film trade publication; Hy Porter, his San Francisco representative, and Joseph Tenner, San Francisco nightclub owner.

Sheriff's Inspector Gordon Bowers said his men were still seeking Anthony Trombino, formerly of Kansas City.

Two Los Angeles officers flew to San Francisco today to question Tarantino and others. They were Franck Moulton, captain of detectives, and Detective Sgt. Dave Terry.

They said on arrival here they didn't plan to take the three in cus-

Dean George T. Walker, of Northwestern State College, was a visitor to the News-Star—World the past week. His visit here was largely to further the interests of the new course in nursing which it is possible to take at this college and which is affiliated with the hospitals of Shreveport. The graduates of the three-year diploma program may take additional courses that lead to a bachelor's degree in nursing. Full credit amounting to about 40 semester hours toward a degree, will be given for the work done on the campus during the first two semesters and summer session.

A student who has qualified for the R. N. certificate may secure the bachelor's degree by earning approximately 40 semester hours of additional credit. These credits can be earned in two semesters and a summer session. Graduates of hospital schools of nursing and who are now registered nurses, may complete requirements for the bachelor's degree in nursing in approximately two years, Dean Walker said. All of which seems to open up a broad new channel of ad-

Panther Rips Huge Gorilla Apart In 2-Hour Struggle

SPOKANE, Wash., July 23.—(AP)—A powerful black panther, who tore a 300-pound gorilla apart in a gory struggle, paced back and forth in his cage today and defied efforts to tend his wounds.

The panther slipped under an unlatched gate at a wild animal show last night and pounced on the ape in an adjoining cage. Nearly 400 spectators watched in terror.

They fought for more than two hours. Finally the gorilla was shot to death by attendants who were unable to separate them. The panther had torn off the gorilla's right arm and was clawing and chewing at his victim as the ape fought flat on his back.

A huge lion in an adjacent cage slammed against his bars in an attempt to get into the fight. Shrieks of pain and anger from the battle-cage could be heard for almost a mile.

Sheriff Ralph Smith made a personal inspection of all the cages today and said he would permit the show to go on. He said he was satisfied all were strong enough to hold the animals.

The show was held at Liberty Lake resort, 15 miles east of here. An attendant, who was discharged today, had left a connecting gate open between the cages, permitting the panther to get at the ape.

Ruby Smith, trainer and part owner of the shom, said the animals had been "feuding" since the cat tried to claw the gorilla through the bars three weeks ago.

The show closed here last night and did not open today despite the sheriff's permission. The troupe planned to leave tomorrow.

Diary Kept By Hunt Discloses Names, But Does Not Incriminate

REFUSES TO BE DIRECT ON CONTENTS OF DIARY

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Senator Hoey (D.-N. C.) said today a secret diary in the "five percenter" inquiry mentions some congress members, but "doesn't necessarily indicate they are connected with any improper transactions."

At the same time, a senate official who has studied the voluminous notebook said it "absolutely contains nothing that incriminates anyone."

The diary, now in the hands of the senate investigations subcommittee, was kept by James V. Hunt, a former army officers and war assets administration empolye. A Massachusetts manufacturer has asserted he paid Hunt for help in seeking a government contract.

The manufacturer, Paul Grindle, said in a copyrighted story in the New York Herald Tribune that Hunt claimed friendship with government officials, and that he worked for a fee. Hunt has denied any attempt to sell influence.

The term "five percenters" refers to Washington agents who hire out to help get government contracts, usually for five per cent of the gross proceeds. The practice is not illegal.

Two army major generals already have been suspended as a result of the subcommittee's preliminary investigations. They are Herman Feld-

MARINE BAND IS TO PLAY IN CITY

Men's Club Of First Methodist Church To Bring U. S. Group Here

At the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the First Methodist Church held Friday night, President C. P. Gray, Jr., announced plans to bring the United States Marine Band to Monroe on October 4, 1949.

Two performances will be given, one being planned for Tuesday afternoon, October 4th at which time a concert will be conducted for children, school students and band students from throughout northeast Louisiana. A night performance on the same date will be given. Both performances will be held at Neville High School, and based on reports from cities of the same size as Monroe, both performances are expected to be complete sellouts. The entire proceeds from both performances will be dedicated to the educational building fund of the First Methodist Church.

An intensive publicity program will be undertaken shortly to inform the people of northeast Louisiana of the wonderful opportunity for music lovers to see and hear this wonderful U. S. Marine Band from Washington, D. C. It is felt that Monroe is very fortunate in having the chance to book this fine band while it is on tour.

Urges U. S. To Wake Up, Keep Powder Dry

LENOIR, N. C., July 23.—(AP)—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson today took note of "foreign movements" in the world and urged the United States "to be awake and to keep our powder dry."

The chief justice dedicated Lenoir's new $150,000 American Legion home.

There was no direct mention of a foreign power in his speech, although at one point he referred to Pravada, Russian news agency, as being among those who would cause confusion about the American way of life.

"There are movements in this world that must be recognized and understood," the chief justice added. "They are so foreign to your thinking that you can hardly believe they exist."

But, he continued, "some folks are not born to be scared." He then urged America not to be too impatient over minor international incidents.

"See to it that our country stays awake and when we are gone men and women will rededicate their lives for God and country."

He was accompanied here by Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray, U. S. Senator Frank P. Graham (D-N. C.), Representative Robert Doughton (D-N. C.) and other high government officials.

Gray said the United States can avert war by being "not only strong militarily but strong in an economic sense." He cautioned that there is a limit to military power and too great a burden should not be placed on the country's economy to support its military establishment.

Threatens Big Fight To Keep Atom Secrets

May Seek To Tie President's Hands To Prevent Revealing Of Vital Data; Questions legality of Such Disclosures

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) threatened today to carry to the senate floor a fight to tie President Truman's hands against giving atomic bomb information to Great Britain or any other foreign nation.

Knowland, a member of the senate-house atomic committee, said in a statement it is his "firm belief" that under the 1946 atomic energy act, "the executive branch of this government and the atomic energy commission have no legal or moral right to disclose information regarding our atomic weapons to any other nation without the approval of the Congress of the United States."

The California senator thus brought into the open the issue members of Congress said was raised at a hush-hush Blair house conference of 16 top government officials with President Truman recently.

The question of whether the president, by his own action alone, could give Great Britain the final know-how on the making of atomic weapons was said to have caused explosive arguments at the conference.

There were indications that while Knowland spoke only for himself, he had the sympathy, if not open backing of most of the Republican members of the senate-house committee as well as some of the Democrats on that group.

Knowland's statement follows:

"It is my firme belief that under the atomic energy act of 1046 the executive branch of this government and the atomic energy commission have no legal or moral right to disclose information regarding our atomic weapons to any other nation without the approval of the Congress of the United States.

"Until the approval of Congress has been obtained or unless suitable world wide controls, approved by the Congress, can be instituted, as envisioned by the Baruch proposals for international atomic safeguards, I shall vigorously oppose, as a member

Cabbies To Assist In Catching Hoodlums

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—Public Safety Director John B. Keenan today disclosed a police plan to provide descriptions of all wanted bandits to the city's 1,000 taxicab drivers.

"This city will be hotter than ever for the hoodlum who thinks he can pick up an easy dollar at the point of a gun or knife," Keenan said.

Keenan said the cab drivers will in effect become "private eyes" for the police. He added that it doesn't mean they will spy on passengers or become amateur detectives.

They will, however, keep their eyes peeled for men wanted for holdups, and report suspicions to the police, he said.

Keenan said the plan was proposed by Samuel Steiglitz, president of Red Top Cabs.

Newark, largest city in New Jersey with a population of about 450,000, has a police force of some 1,200 members.

LEHMAN DEFENDS MRS. ROOSEVELT

Implies Spellman Trying To Prevent Free Speech With Bias

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., July 25.—(AP)—Former Governor Herbert H. Lehman said today he was "deeply shocked" by Francis Cardinal Spellman's attack on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt over her views on federal education aid.

"The issue," Lehman said in a statement, "Is whether Americans are entitled freely to express their views on public questions without being vilified or accused of religious bias."

Cardinal Spellman yesterday made public a letter to Mrs. Roosevelt, attacking her for expressing support of the Barden bill, which provides $300,000,000 in federal aid to schools.

The bill provides that none of the funds go to parochial or private schools.

The New York archbishop called her stand "discrimination unworthy of an American mother" and said that "your record of anti-catholicism stands for all to see."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she would not

CHURCHILL LASHES LABORITE POLICY; ATTLEE RAPS BACK

War-Time Leader Says Conservatives Will Set People Free

LABOR PARTY HEAD SAYS HE DOUBTS BOLD WORDS

WOLVERHAMPTON, Eng., July 23.—(AP)—Winston Churchill said today the Conservative party's main aim is to restore the greatness of Britain and "the first essential step is to regain our economic independence by earning our own livelihood."

Socialism and communism, he charged, differ only in methods.

The wartime prime minister, speaking before a sell-out crowd of 40,000 in the Wolverhampton Soccer Arena, said the Labor (Socialist) government had steered Britain near a ruin which would 'carry many other nations with us into chaos and communism."

"Never before in the history of human government has such great havoc been wrought by such small men," declared Churchill, departing from his prepared text. The aide recalled his tribute to R. A. F. fighters in the battle of Britain: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

The chunky Conservative statesman denounced "Socialist spend-thrifts and muddlers" in a major policy speech bidding for public support in the parliamentary election due sometime before the expiration of the Labor government's five-year term in mid-1950. Churchill elaborated on the Conservative party platform, released a few hours earlier today.

"We mean to set the people free, so

REPEAL OF EXCISE TAXES IS SOUGHT

Claim War-Time Originated Taxing Could Be Immediately Killed

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—All-out repeal of wartime excise taxes at this session of Cangress was urged today by Senator George (D-Ga). He said it would stimulate business and employment.

George, ranking senate tax expert as chairman of its finance committee, told reporters that the special wartime taxes could be wiped out at once if President Truman and Congress cooperate.

He referred to taxes now collected on sales of furs, railroad and airline tickets, most jewelry, and a long list of other items.

He said his repeal proposal would not cover the permanent federal excise taxes on such products as liquor, cigarettes and tobacco.

George said removal of the wartime levies would mean a loss of about $1,500,000,000 in present government revenues.

But the senate leader said the step would lead to higher federal income tax payments from corporations, individuals and other taxpayers and partially offset the tax loss.

He said that the taxes now are causing unemployment and shutdowns in a number of industries and specialty lines. If this trend can be halted and reversed, George said the savings in federal relief costs might be tremendous."

Previously George and most Democrats on his committee voted against a partial removal of the wartime ex-

Over 100 Attend Collier Graveside Rites In Rain

WINNSBORO, La., July 23.—(Special)—Marshall Eugene Collier, shot to death Wednesday night by his 16-year-old son, was buried at Wayside Cemetery five miles east of here yesterday afternoon. Over a hundred friends, relatives and spectators attended graveside rites in disregard to showering rains.

The Rev. Harm Dove, Baptist minister from near Winnsboro, conducted a 40-minute service at the grave, the only rites held for the 36-year-old farmer who met death when his son fired two blasts from a 20-gauge shotgun into his back and jaw in the height of a family brawl.

The son, Wesley Collier, attending his father's funeral, remained calm and collected, though an occasional tear dropped from his eyes.

Collier's wife, Hettie, 33-year-old expectant mother, cried throughout the service.

Other members attending the funeral besides his wife and son, Wesley, were four daughters, Kathleen, Vivian, Emma Sue, Rachel, and Sandra, and another son, Frank.

At a coroner's inquest Thursday, Kathleen told jurors that her brother (Wesley) shot "my father while protecting mother and the rest of our family."

Held in the Franklin parish prison Wednesday night, young Collier was released shortly after the coroner's inquest on orders from District Attorney Harry Anders who explained his actions with: "There isn't enough basis presentable in this case to warrant murder charges, and that would be all I could charge the boy with. Any another charge would have to be made by juvenile authorities.'

Anders said tonight that "he expected to confer with District Judge Carey J. Ellis, but had not had an opportunity since the shooting."

Pallbearers for Collier were Roy Stevens, G. W. Stevens, Alton Stevens, Leo Liles, R. O. Day and J. M. Lupo.

The body remained at the First National Funeral Home until shortly before time for the funeral at 2 p.m.

LIE IS BLAMED

Mystery Witness Says Employes Forced To Be Agent's Tools

U. N. SOURCES DESCRIBE ACCUSATIONS 'FANTASTIC'

By John Chadwick

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—A shadowy unidentified witness has told congress the United Nations staff under Secretary-General Trygve Lie is terrorized by Communist agents who force employes to become their tools.

U. N. officials promptly disputed the assertions, made by "witness No. 8" before a senate judiciary subcommittee.

Acting Secretary General Byron Price called the story "fantastically untrue" and added: "This is the nuttiest story I have heard yet."

The subcommittee made public witness No. 8's testimony today. It was given the committee some time ago behind closed doors. The witness spoke in broken English.

No clues as to his identity was given. But the testimony indicated he had worked for the U. N., in the past if not at present. Price's statement indicated he thought the witness was a U. N. employe.

The mysterious witness said Communist pressure comes "from the top of the secretariat of the secretary-general" he named no names in this connection. Nor did he indicate whether he meant those at "the top" were harboring Communists or being used by them.

He did, however, propose that the senators seek the ouster of Lie and urge the appointment of a "capable" successor.

Lie is now vacationing in his native Norway. He said through a representative he did not care to make any comment, that the matter had been referred to Price.

Price declared in an official statement issued at U. N. headquarters in Lake Success, N. Y.:

"I am in a position to know that the charges relating to the administrative policies of Secretary-General Trygve Lie and personnel policies of the United Nations are fantastically untrue.

"I am sure that no fair minded person will attach significance to the statement of a mysterious, so-called 'official' who attempts wholesale character assassination of his colleagues but refuses to give his name."

Lie's executive assistant, Andrew W. Cordier, termed witness No. 8's testimony "utterly fantastic."

He said Lie has "adhered strictly" to U. N. general assembly policies with regard to recruitment of personnel.

Other persons mentioned in witness No. 8's testimony were not immediately available for comment.

The witness said high United Nations officials from Democratic countries fail to resist the pressure he said comes from "the top" of the U. N. staff.

Cordier said Lie "has adhered strictly to the policies of the general assembly regarding the recruitment of United Nations personnel."

"Mr. Lie has always carried out the specific policies laid down by the general assembly for him," Cordier said.

Lie, now on vacation in Norway, is expected to return to Lake Success August 15.

Communist pressure comes from "the top," said No. 8. He charged that high United Nations officials from Democratic countries fail to resist it.

He said the Reds seek to use the secretariat and U. N. service for Soviet purposes.

The committee is taking evidence in connection with a bill of Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) that would give the government new powers to keep subversive aliens out of the country and put out those already here.

In testifying before the committee last week, Attorney General Tom

The manufacturer, Paul Grindle, said in a copyrighted story in the New York Herald Tribune that Hunt claimed friendship with government officials, and that he worked for a fee. Hunt has denied any attempt to sell influence.

The term "five percenters" refers to Washington agents who hire out to help get government contracts, usually for five per cent of the gross proceeds. The practice is not illegal.

MARINE BAND IS TO PLAY IN CITY

Men's Club Of First Methodist Church To Bring U. S. Group Here

At the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the First Methodist Church held Friday night, President C. P. Gray, Jr., announced plans to bring the United States Marine Band to Monroe on October 4, 1949.

Two performances will be given, one being planned for Tuesday afternoon, October 4th at which time a concert will be conducted for children, school students and band students from throughout northeast Louisiana. A night performance on the same date will be given. Both performances will be held at Neville High School, and based on reports from cities of the same size as Monroe, both performances are expected to be complete sellouts. The entire proceeds from both performances will be dedicated to the educational building fund of the First Methodist Church.

An intensive publicity program will be undertaken shortly to inform the people of northeast Louisiana of the wonderful opportunity for music lovers to see and hear this wonderful U. S. Marine Band from Washington, D. C. It is felt that Monroe is very fortunate in having the chance to book this fine band while it is on tour.

Jes' Ramblin'

Dean George T. Walker, of Northwestern State College, was a visitor to the News-Star—World the past week. His visit here was largely to further the interests of the new course in nursing which it is possible to take at this college and which is affiliated with the hospitals of Shreveport. The graduates of the three-year diploma program may take additional courses that lead to a bachelor's degree in nursing. Full credit amounting to about 40 semester hours toward a degree, will be given for the work done on the campus during the first two semesters and summer session.

A student who has qualified for the R. N. certificate may secure the bachelor's degree by earning approximately 40 semester hours of additional credit. These credits can be earned in two semesters and a summer session. Graduates of hospital schools of nursing and who are now registered nurses, may complete requirements for the bachelor's degree in nursing in approximately two years, Dean Walker said. All of which seems to open up a broad new channel of ad-

Urges U. S. To Wake Up, Keep Powder Dry

LENOIR, N. C., July 23.—(AP)—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson today took note of "foreign movements" in the world and urged the United States "to be awake and to keep our powder dry."

The chief justice dedicated Lenoir's new $150,000 American Legion home.

There was no direct mention of a foreign power in his speech, although at one point he referred to Pravada, Russian news agency, as being among those who would cause confusion about the American way of life.

"There are movements in this world that must be recognized and understood," the chief justice added. "They are so foreign to your thinking that you can hardly believe they exist."

But, he continued, "some folks are not born to be scared." He then urged America not to be too impatient over minor international incidents.

"See to it that our country stays awake and when we are gone men and women will rededicate their lives for God and country."

He was accompanied here by Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray, U. S. Senator Frank P. Graham (D-N. C.), Representative Robert Doughton (D-N. C.) and other high government officials.

Gray said the United States can avert war by being "not only strong militarily but strong in an economic sense." He cautioned that there is a limit to military power and too great a burden should not be placed on the country's economy to support its military establishment.

Panther Rips Huge Gorilla Apart In 2-Hour Struggle

SPOKANE, Wash., July 23.—(AP)—A powerful black panther, who tore a 300-pound gorilla apart in a gory struggle, paced back and forth in his cage today and defied efforts to tend his wounds.

The panther slipped under an unlatched gate at a wild animal show last night and pounced on the ape in an adjoining cage. Nearly 400 spectators watched in terror.

They fought for more than two hours. Finally the gorilla was shot to death by attendants who were unable to separate them. The panther had torn off the gorilla's right arm and was clawing and chewing at his victim as the ape fought flat on his back.

A huge lion in an adjacent cage slammed against his bars in an attempt to get into the fight. Shrieks of pain and anger from the battle-cage could be heard for almost a mile.

Sheriff Ralph Smith made a personal inspection of all the cages today and said he would permit the show to go on. He said he was satisfied all were strong enough to hold the animals.

The show was held at Liberty Lake resort, 15 miles east of here. An attendant, who was discharged today, had left a connecting gate open between the cages, permitting the panther to get at the ape.

Ruby Smith, trainer and part owner of the shom, said the animals had been "feuding" since the cat tried to claw the gorilla through the bars three weeks ago.

The show closed here last night and did not open today despite the sheriff's permission. The troupe planned to leave tomorrow.

COHEN VISITING AMBUSH VICTIM

Gambling King Mickey Cohen visits at the bedside of Dee David, film bit player, critically wounded in the gangland ambush outside a Los Angeles cafe. Cohen, too, was shot in the ambush. Threatens Big Fight To Keep Atom Secrets

May Seek To Tie President's Hands To Prevent Revealing Of Vital Data; Questions legality of Such Disclosures

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) threatened today to carry to the senate floor a fight to tie President Truman's hands against giving atomic bomb information to Great Britain or any other foreign nation.

Knowland, a member of the senate-house atomic committee, said in a statement it is his "firm belief" that under the 1946 atomic energy act, "the executive branch of this government and the atomic energy commission have no legal or moral right to disclose information regarding our atomic weapons to any other nation without the approval of the Congress of the United States."

The California senator thus brought into the open the issue members of Congress said was raised at a hush-hush Blair house conference of 16 top government officials with President Truman recently.

The question of whether the president, by his own action alone, could give Great Britain the final know-how on the making of atomic weapons was said to have caused explosive arguments at the conference.

There were indications that while Knowland spoke only for himself, he had the sympathy, if not open backing of most of the Republican members of the senate-house committee as well as some of the Democrats on that group.

Knowland's statement follows:

"It is my firme belief that under the atomic energy act of 1046 the executive branch of this government and the atomic energy commission have no legal or moral right to disclose information regarding our atomic weapons to any other nation without the approval of the Congress of the United States.

"Until the approval of Congress has been obtained or unless suitable world wide controls, approved by the Congress, can be instituted, as envisioned by the Baruch proposals for international atomic safeguards, I shall vigorously oppose, as a member

Implies Spellman Trying To Prevent Free Speech With Bias

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., July 25.—(AP)—Former Governor Herbert H. Lehman said today he was "deeply shocked" by Francis Cardinal Spellman's attack on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt over her views on federal education aid.

"The issue," Lehman said in a statement, "Is whether Americans are entitled freely to express their views on public questions without being vilified or accused of religious bias."

Cardinal Spellman yesterday made public a letter to Mrs. Roosevelt, attacking her for expressing support of the Barden bill, which provides $300,000,000 in federal aid to schools.

The bill provides that none of the funds go to parochial or private schools.

The New York archbishop called her stand "discrimination unworthy of an American mother" and said that "your record of anti-catholicism stands for all to see."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she would not

Cabbies To Assist In Catching Hoodlums

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—Public Safety Director John B. Keenan today disclosed a police plan to provide descriptions of all wanted bandits to the city's 1,000 taxicab drivers.

"This city will be hotter than ever for the hoodlum who thinks he can pick up an easy dollar at the point of a gun or knife," Keenan said.

Keenan said the cab drivers will in effect become "private eyes" for the police. He added that it doesn't mean they will spy on passengers or become amateur detectives.

They will, however, keep their eyes peeled for men wanted for holdups, and report suspicions to the police, he said.

Keenan said the plan was proposed by Samuel Steiglitz, president of Red Top Cabs.

Newark, largest city in New Jersey with a population of about 450,000, has a police force of some 1,200 members.

CHURCHILL LASHES LABORITE POLICY; ATTLEE RAPS BACK

War-Time Leader Says Conservatives Will Set People Free

LABOR PARTY HEAD SAYS HE DOUBTS BOLD WORDS

WOLVERHAMPTON, Eng., July 23.—(AP)—Winston Churchill said today the Conservative party's main aim is to restore the greatness of Britain and "the first essential step is to regain our economic independence by earning our own livelihood."

Socialism and communism, he charged, differ only in methods.

The wartime prime minister, speaking before a sell-out crowd of 40,000 in the Wolverhampton Soccer Arena, said the Labor (Socialist) government had steered Britain near a ruin which would 'carry many other nations with us into chaos and communism."

"Never before in the history of human government has such great havoc been wrought by such small men," declared Churchill, departing from his prepared text. The aide recalled his tribute to R. A. F. fighters in the battle of Britain: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

The chunky Conservative statesman denounced "Socialist spend-thrifts and muddlers" in a major policy speech bidding for public support in the parliamentary election due sometime before the expiration of the Labor government's five-year term in mid-1950. Churchill elaborated on the Conservative party platform, released a few hours earlier today.

"We mean to set the people free, so

REPEAL OF EXCISE TAXES IS SOUGHT

Claim War-Time Originated Taxing Could Be Immediately Killed

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—All-out repeal of wartime excise taxes at this session of Cangress was urged today by Senator George (D-Ga). He said it would stimulate business and employment.

George, ranking senate tax expert as chairman of its finance committee, told reporters that the special wartime taxes could be wiped out at once if President Truman and Congress cooperate.

He referred to taxes now collected on sales of furs, railroad and airline tickets, most jewelry, and a long list of other items.

He said his repeal proposal would not cover the permanent federal excise taxes on such products as liquor, cigarettes and tobacco.

George said removal of the wartime levies would mean a loss of about $1,500,000,000 in present government revenues.

But the senate leader said the step would lead to higher federal income tax payments from corporations, individuals and other taxpayers and partially offset the tax loss.

He said that the taxes now are causing unemployment and shutdowns in a number of industries and specialty lines. If this trend can be halted and reversed, George said the savings in federal relief costs might be tremendous."

Previously George and most Democrats on his committee voted against a partial removal of the wartime ex-

LIE IS BLAMED

Mystery Witness Says Employes Forced To Be Agent's Tools

U. N. SOURCES DESCRIBE ACCUSATIONS 'FANTASTIC'

By John Chadwick

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—A shadowy unidentified witness has told congress the United Nations staff under Secretary-General Trygve Lie is terrorized by Communist agents who force employes to become their tools.

U. N. officials promptly disputed the assertions, made by "witness No. 8" before a senate judiciary subcommittee.

Acting Secretary General Byron Price called the story "fantastically untrue" and added: "This is the nuttiest story I have heard yet."

The subcommittee made public witness No. 8's testimony today. It was given the committee some time ago behind closed doors. The witness spoke in broken English.

No clues as to his identity was given. But the testimony indicated he had worked for the U. N., in the past if not at present. Price's statement indicated he thought the witness was a U. N. employe.

The mysterious witness said Communist pressure comes "from the top of the secretariat of the secretary-general" he named no names in this connection. Nor did he indicate whether he meant those at "the top" were harboring Communists or being used by them.

He did, however, propose that the senators seek the ouster of Lie and urge the appointment of a "capable" successor.

Lie is now vacationing in his native Norway. He said through a representative he did not care to make any comment, that the matter had been referred to Price.

Price declared in an official statement issued at U. N. headquarters in Lake Success, N. Y.:

"I am in a position to know that the charges relating to the administrative policies of Secretary-General Trygve Lie and personnel policies of the United Nations are fantastically untrue.

"I am sure that no fair minded person will attach significance to the statement of a mysterious, so-called 'official' who attempts wholesale character assassination of his colleagues but refuses to give his name."

Lie's executive assistant, Andrew W. Cordier, termed witness No. 8's testimony "utterly fantastic."

He said Lie has "adhered strictly" to U. N. general assembly policies with regard to recruitment of personnel.

Other persons mentioned in witness No. 8's testimony were not immediately available for comment.

The witness said high United Nations officials from Democratic countries fail to resist the pressure he said comes from "the top" of the U. N. staff.

Cordier said Lie "has adhered strictly to the policies of the general assembly regarding the recruitment of United Nations personnel."

"Mr. Lie has always carried out the specific policies laid down by the general assembly for him," Cordier said.

Lie, now on vacation in Norway, is expected to return to Lake Success August 15.

Communist pressure comes from "the top," said No. 8. He charged that high United Nations officials from Democratic countries fail to resist it.

He said the Reds seek to use the secretariat and U. N. service for Soviet purposes.

The committee is taking evidence in connection with a bill of Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) that would give the government new powers to keep subversive aliens out of the country and put out those already here.

In testifying before the committee last week, Attorney General Tom

Over 100 Attend Collier Graveside Rites In Rain

WINNSBORO, La., July 23.—(Special)—Marshall Eugene Collier, shot to death Wednesday night by his 16-year-old son, was buried at Wayside Cemetery five miles east of here yesterday afternoon. Over a hundred friends, relatives and spectators attended graveside rites in disregard to showering rains.

The Rev. Harm Dove, Baptist minister from near Winnsboro, conducted a 40-minute service at the grave, the only rites held for the 36-year-old farmer who met death when his son fired two blasts from a 20-gauge shotgun into his back and jaw in the height of a family brawl.

The son, Wesley Collier, attending his father's funeral, remained calm and collected, though an occasional tear dropped from his eyes.

Collier's wife, Hettie, 33-year-old expectant mother, cried throughout the service.

Other members attending the funeral besides his wife and son, Wesley, were four daughters, Kathleen, Vivian, Emma Sue, Rachel, and Sandra, and another son, Frank.

At a coroner's inquest Thursday, Kathleen told jurors that her brother (Wesley) shot "my father while protecting mother and the rest of our family."

Held in the Franklin parish prison Wednesday night, young Collier was released shortly after the coroner's inquest on orders from District Attorney Harry Anders who explained his actions with: "There isn't enough basis presentable in this case to warrant murder charges, and that would be all I could charge the boy with. Any another charge would have to be made by juvenile authorities.'

Anders said tonight that "he expected to confer with District Judge Carey J. Ellis, but had not had an opportunity since the shooting."

Pallbearers for Collier were Roy Stevens, G. W. Stevens, Alton Stevens, Leo Liles, R. O. Day and J. M. Lupo.

The body remained at the First National Funeral Home until shortly before time for the funeral at 2 p.m.

Free Men—Vatican's War

The Catholic Church and totalitarian communism are locked in bitter struggle throughout the world. The chief battleground right now is eastern Europe. But why should a religious organization be fighting the advocates of a political and economic system?

The answer is that communism, like any totalitarianism, cannot limit itself to the purely practical realm. It fans out into the spiritual sphere and seeks to supplant or destroy the regular religious authority.

Catholic leaders therefore see their historic guardianship over the spiritual life of millions of Europeans—not to mention others—threatened with extinction.

The Vatican has tried for a long time to arrive at an ideological truce that would allow Catholicism and communism to live side by side. But the Mindszenty affair in Hungary and the current attacks on high churchmen in Czechoslovakia convinced the Pope an accord is impossible.

These events led to a papal decree ordering excommunication for all Catholics who join or support the Communist party anywhere. It is the heaviest weapon the church has ever brought into play against a totalitarian system.

Why do Communists in the predominantly Catholic European countries feel it necessary to engage so stubborn a foe?

The answer is, of course, that a dictatorship like communism can brook no opposition whatsoever. It demands one single overriding loyalty—to the state. Ties of allegiance to church, union, social organization, all these must be severed.

For any one of these minor loyalties could serve as a rallying point for opposition to the regime, a nucleus for the forces of rebellion.

Above all, Communists are bent upon maintaining themselves in power wherever they enjoy it. What is more sensible, then, than to keep the people in a great shapeless, helpless mass? Revolt takes organization as well as weapons.

It should be evident immediately that the Catholic Church is the toughest possible center of resistance to communism in eastern Europe. Because it has many millions of followers, Catholicism wields a power far beyond its mere spiritual guidance in one country or another.

That fact is all we need to remember as we watch the Communists work relentlessly to crush this force in Russia's European satellites.

For the sake of Europe's Catholics and all free-worshipping men everywhere, let us hope the Communists somehow fail to marshal the strength they need to achieve full success in this effort.

Credit Taft With An Assist

The "big three" in the steel industry acted wisely in finally accepting President Truman's plan to create a special fact-finding board to study the dispute over contract terms with C. I. O.'s United Steel Workers.

The top firms had held out on the ground that the proposal represented an attempt by the president to by-pass fact-finding machinery called for by the Taft-Hartley law.

But this position looked pretty weak after Senator Taft, a sponsor of that controversial law, declared that he believes Mr. Truman has the power to set up a special board.

Whether or not the president may have had political considerations in mind when he avoided use of Taft-Hartley, the steel companies owed it to the public to go along with any fair proposal that would avert a serious strike in a time of receding business activity.

Battle of the Elements

The year 1949 promises to go into the records as most unusual so far as weather is concerned. After a severe winter the central area has been scourged with wind storms which have brought death in a half-dozen states, and widespread property damage.

For the past several weeks a cold front has stretched half way across the United States, from Cape Hatteras on the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. Warm, moist air from the Gulf has piled into this unyielding cold wall and erupted into cloudbursts, hail storms and the deadly twisters.

Fortunately, in most cases the storms struck early in the evening or late afternoon, and gave warning of their approach. Death toll was much greater where the storm hit after dark. Total death toll in all the states did not equal half the number killed in the Woodward, Okla., storm of 1947, when 106 persons lost their lives in a tornado which came after dark.

As usual the Red Cross was on the job in all the stricken areas and is caring for the injured and homeless. A million dollars was made immediately available for those purposes. These are facts to remember when the next year's Red Cross quota is being raised. That great organization is ready to help in time of trouble, as is being demonstrated during these days of storm and disaster.

Destroying by Taxation

That excessive taxation will strangle business has been proved many times. One of the principles of socialism is that taxation is the weapon by which the property holder can be destroyed.

The present tax on railway fares has caused a serious slump in travel and put that part of the railroad industry badly in the red. This tax, an excessive one, was imposed during the war to discourage travel by rail at a time when all the facilities were needed for the business of war.

It was explained that the tax was set unconscionably high to effectively discourage the purchase of a ticket. The theory was simple: The higher the tax, the fewer the sales. Although a war measure, the tax is still in effect, and is working out as it was planned to do.

Thurman Sensing,

Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

'NONE ARE SO BLIND'

For four years we have looked on as socialism took over in Great Britain. We have seen the British people, traditionally sound and conservative in their thinking, become so entangled in the web of the planned economy and the welfare state that their outlook for the future is now almost hopeless. As I made an eight weeks' first-hand study of the situation in Great Britain this spring, more than by most anything else was impressed with the complete frustration and sense of despair felt by those who could understand what was happening to them. They realized that socialism has brought their nation to the brink of hisaster.

It is ever thus when people violate the fundamental laws of economics and common sense. By turning all provisions for their welfare over to their socialist government, the people of Great Britain killed their own incentive and initiative and ambition. The individual from then on only became a cog in the machinery of state. The things the people wanted—higher wages and better housing and good health conditions and better educational facilities and welfare benefits of all sorts—were all to be desired, but their chances of obtaining them were doomed from the moment they turned the responsibility for them over to the state rather than depending upon their own individual efforts. Common sense should tell a man that no government can be as interested in him as he is interested in himself. And try though men and governments will, there are certain fundamental economic laws that will not be ignored.

Prime Minister Atlee, of Great Britain, recently made the statement that "it is the function of socialism to control the blind economic forces" that govern the affairs of man. He thereby let himself into the fallacy that is the underlying fault of even those who sincerely believe in the welfare state. These fundamental economic forces are anything but blind. They are the most alive, wide-awake forces in the world. They represent the combined judgment of all the people all the time. They are man's best guide.

The experience of Great Britain during the past four years has shown us that it makes no difference whether people believe in socialism or not, if just won't work. Their experience has demonstrated that socialism defeats its very ends. Promising a higher standard of living, the wastefulness and bungling and inefficiency of state control and operation makes the cost of government so high that socialism cannot afford the benefits that it promises. Nationalization of industry in Great Britain has resulted in enormous losses, which must be paid for by the people in taxes, and the incompetence of government operation is such that these losses can only be avoided by greatly increasing the cost of the product or the service. In either case, it is the people who pay.

And now, after living through four years of continued rationing and price control and almost unbearable taxation and high cost of living and a redistribution of the national wealth which has benefited them not at all, the people of Great Britain find themselves at the end of their socialist rope—they face even more stringent living conditions, and they face national bankruptcy. Their only hope now, say both Socialists and Conservatives, is more American dollars—created under the American free enterprise system!

Are we learning our lesson from the experience of Great Britain? To the extent that we do shall we get our money's worth from the aid we have been giving them. As we adopt such socialist measures here in our country as subsidized agriculture and federal housing, and as we consider various others that are presented to us from time to time, do we realize we are headed down the same path to disaster as that traveled by Great Britain? As we watch the failure of the socialist experiment we have helped pay for in Great Britain, are we so foolish as to continue the experiment here in our own country? "None are so blind as those who will not see." We must wake up. Now is the time to stop socialism in the United States of America—tomorrow will be too late!

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

PANHANDLING HABIT

Here are the contents of another letter from a small landlord in Buffalo, N. Y.:

"I am one of the great army of small landlords. I occupy an upper flat, rent out the lower. There is also a small third floor apartment which we rent furnished. In 1942 the third floor brought $10.00 per week, the ceiling rent. The first floor rent was frozen at $41.00 per month, including garage.

"Here is the situation under rent control. I need not go into detail how maintenance costs have risen since 1942. Nor to the fact my county tax has increased 75 per cent and will continue to grow each year, for Erie county has taken over some new functions previously cared for by the city.

"I applied a couple of years ago for an increase on ground of hardship and a major capital improvement costing $400.00. I received permission to increase the third floor rent $2.00 per week, and the first floor apartment $2.35 per month.

"The third floor consists of three rooms and bath. It is furnished, and utilities are included. Similar apartments decontrolled are bringing from $15.00 to $20.00 per week, sometimes more.

"The first floor is large and attractive, with 7 rooms, including 4 bedrooms. Garage goes with the apartment. This flat today brings $43.35 per month, the present ceiling. A few years ago it brought $72.00 and there was no complaint. Regulations do not permit the area rent director to consider how much it previously brought, nor how much similar decontrolled apartments are bringing today, which is from $80.00 to $100.00 per month.

"Now, a few personal facts. I was laid off last September from a government job as adjudicator with the veterans administration and am still unemployed. A man of 56 doesn't find it too easy to get a job today. That is why rent control hits me so hard. Where I should have some small profit from the investment in my home I have shown it as a loss for the past four years on my income tax return, and the figures have not been questioned by the internal revenue department. . . . "

Most of my correspondence on this subject has not been of this nature. Most of it has been insultingly vituperative. Most of my correspondents object to paying a rent that will permit the owner of the property to break even, much less to earn some income from his investment.

It is an interesting phenomenon. What some desire is panhandling on a vast scale. Nations panhandle each other. Such a proud country as Great Britain is not ashamed, for instance, to use money which the American taxpayer provides for the reconstruction of its industries, its agriculture and its trade, to reduce its debt. Some American businesses, like the airplane industry, dislike the free competitive system, which involves ingenuity and skill, but look to the government for coddling aid. The farmer wants to be subsidized against all odds. The industrial worker has organized to browbeat the entire population, including himself.

Panhandling can become an awful curse and can grow into a permanent habit by practice. The president of the United States, whenever his politics go sour, shrieks against the real estate lobby, which is no better and no worse than the labor union lobby or the farm lobby or the teachers lobby or the manufacturers lobby. As a matter of fact, every ten Americans with an ax to grind or a cause to pursue or an ideal to follow organize a lobby. The civil liberties union, for instance, is such a lobby, as is the League of Women Voters. For that matter, the state department, the department of defense, of interior, of agriculture, and the White House itself maintain lobbies for which the taxpayer actually foots the bill.

The question of real estate is fundamental in our economic system and therefore must be dealt with seriously. Since the federal government has intervened in the situation, real estate has not been regarded as an economic, but as a political problem. More voters pay rent than collect rent. Therefore, the politicians have pursued the axiom that the greatest concessions to the largest number of voters is good for the country.

Around Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

The public power controversy, which has raged from investigation to investigation for more than fifteen years, may be heading toward some sort of compromise solution.

The senate appropriations committee the other day reported out the interior department appropriation bill with instructions to federal power agencies to study and report back on the compromise.

It directed the southwestern power administration to work out contracts with other utilities in that area similar to its two-year-old contract with Texas Power and Light Company.

The T. P. & L. contract has obviated the necessity of building duplicating transmission lines to deliver power from federally-constructed dams in the vicinity.

Under the contract, the company buys the power at the bus bar, carries it over its transmission lines and at various points delivers it to the government for sale to the government's preferred customers. (R. E. A.'s municipalities, and so on).

Other southwestern power companies have signed similar agreements, and the senate committee directed S. P. A. to report back by the end of the year as to its reaction.

Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem., Oklahoma), who has long been plugging for a uniform federal public power policy, says this looks like the answer to his plug.

A nation-wide application of the T. P. & L. principle will make it unnecessary for the government to build steam plants to firm up its hydro power. The private companies operate on steam almost exclusively in most parts of the country.

The savings will amount to hundreds of millions a year, Thomas estimates.

In anticipation of application of the T. P. & L. principle to the area covered by southwestern power administration, the senate committee cut the S. P. A. funds by more than half.

Construction was confined to "a backbone transmission line" linking the Denison, Fort Gibson, Norfork, Bull Shoals and other hydro projects in the southwest.

The committee's cuts applied also to several bureau of reclamation projects in Montana and Idaho, in anticipation of a T. P. & L. compromise.

The compromise does not please either side to the fullest. The private power companies would prefer to buy power at the bus bar under an arrangement not unlike that between the Alabama Power Company and the government at Muscle Shoals—before advant of T. V. A.

A private utility magnate phrased the industry's reaction rather well when he said he was "satisfied but not content." But it does appeal to the private utilities because it removes threat of duplicating construction and competition.

The all-out public power advocates are up in arms. They concede "a hundred per cent private utility victory." They distrust the private utilities, and doubt that any T. P. & L. arrangement will be executed in best of faith. There are old scars as between the two groups that still give trouble.

If the senate should place its stamp of approval on the compromise—which is not to be taken for granted—the house conferees will likely oppose.

House Chairman Michael J. Kirwan (Dem., Ohio) has already sounded off in opposition. He is backed by public power congressmen from the northwest and other sections.

General belief in Washington is that a strike in the large steel company mills will have to last probably two months before the nation would begin to feel its effects. Many large users of steel, such as the automobile manufacturers, have been building up their steel inventories during recent months as production has exceeded demand in anticipation of such a strike and are prepared to keep going at present capacities for between thirty and sixty days.

Reports reaching here also indicate that the steel companies themselves as well as steel jobbers have built up some backlog which they can supply their customers if production is halted.

Biggest fear by the large manufacturers is that some of their small suppliers will exhaust their steel stocks quickly and be unable to furnish parts which are essential to the finished products. If this develops, it is considered likely that steel produced by the smaller plants will be diverted to these suppliers. In some cases, it is even likely that the auto makers may turn over some of their own steel inventory to the smaller suppliers so that the chain will not be broken.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Dixi, a remarkable Belgian shepherd dog, nearly 16 years old, died recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Code and Lyle Kennedy, in Washington. Lyle, a realty man and Dr. J. B. Code, son of the Washington Codes living in New York, often have told me about Dixi, who came from Belgium, and understood French, German and English.

Says Lyle, in a recent letter to me, "I'm a very sentimental Irishman, but I hope there's a heaven for dogs and that Dixi is near St. Francis. This great love that Dixi gave us far surpasses the shabby affection of most men. His was the love of a great heart. He asked nothing but the honor of serving."

I told the mourners for Dixi a story related by one of my readers. A little boy asked a famous minister whether he might have his dog with him if he went to heaven, and the minister thoughtfully replied, "If you still want your dog when you are there, I am sure you will have him." Rather sound theology in that reply, don't you think?

I also mentioned a little poem, sent me by a reader a few years ago, entitled "Did Christ Have a Little Black Dog?" I have lost the poem, but if any reader has a copy I'll make a great hit by passing it on to Dr. Code. The verse ends with a speculation that if there was such a dog he followed his Master all the way to Calvary.

Ever since I mentioned in the column that Daughter Mary and her family are moving out to Berkeley, Calif., in the fall or earlier, I've been getting loads of booster literature and glowing letters about that region on the Pacific. Latest is a four-color litho folder about Oakland and the regional parks of California. It's an effective piece, and they didn't spare ink, color, paper or words in telling their story.

One way of judging a community is by the expressions of faith in it by the people who live there.

So this is a good time to say that Daughter Pat and her husband are extremely happy at State College, near Las Cruces, New Mexico. They love the sun and the desert, so unlike Times Square. They live in barracks while Danny goes to school, but they've found that a happy home may be a little less than a palace and still be good.

Mrs. Charles Akins, Jacksonville, tells me there is in Birmingham, Ala., a statue to the memory of one Brother Bryan, Presbyterian minister, who really would give his own coat to a wayfarer who was cold or insufficiently clad. That's the kind of person to raise monuments to, is it not?

Mrs. John Gaetz, Hereford, Texas, (where they really do have open space and Hereford cattle), tells me a one-legged mocking bird used to stand on her garden gate and sing to her and her family, only a few feet from an open window, for days at a time. He was a great inspiration on blue days, which come into every life, even in Hereford.

The first place I stopped to pick up a news note, on my first day as a cub reporter, was the office of Charlie Noll, brick dealer. Wichita, in depths of an ancient depression, needed brick as badly as it needed the Eiffel Tower. But there was Charlie, willing to sell the brick in case anybody should want it. I've a letter from him, telling of the fabulous growth of Wichita, mostly in brick buildings and people, of course. Charlie stuck it out during those lean years because he couldn't find railroad fare.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D.D.

The poet, Walt Whitman, who wrote more wisely in other matters, thought lightly of the sense of sin. He wrote somewhere about animals not having any sense of sin, and suggested man's inferiority in this respect.

The Hebrew Psalmists-poets knew better. They lived in times, like our own, full of violence and man's cruelty to man. They had either experienced, or they lived close to, exiles and disruptions of peoples. There were plenty of "displaced persons" in those days, and the Psalmists knew that these inhumanities and cruelties were of man's purpose and design, and had their root in sinful hearts.

They were realists about life and man. They had no illusions about man's natural goodness and innocency. Surely in times when we have seen the wickedness of men sending millions of innocent persons to cruel death in extermination camps and ovens, and to even more cruel torture we, too, should have no illusions about sin, as the Psalmists had none.

They knew, too, that the evils so deeply perpetrated were not matters of chance or circumstance. Everything proceeded out of the heart of man, and in that heart of man they saw mirrored what they themselves might be, or become.

The writer of Proverbs 27:19 expressed this grim fact in a beautiful figure: "As in water face answereth to face, so the heart of man to man." I suppose that stooping down somewhere to drink in a clear, limpid pool, he had seen his features mirrored there, and the thought had come to him, "That is like the heart of man, a vast depth in which man may see himself reflected and understand his nature."

He knew that in that heart of man there was evil as well as good, and it was this that made him so earnest and determined that his own heart should be free from evil.

His deepest prayer was that God would give him a clean heart, and renew a right spirit within him (Psalm 51:10). Nor was his prayer always a confession of conscious guilt. In moods of despair or contrition he might bewail the depth of his sins; and as for Psalms that King David may have written, he had plenty of cause for contrition, for he had adultery and murder on his conscience.

But often the prayer was a confession of the Psalmist's integrity, not a confession of evil, but of his deep sincerity about being free from evil. So it was that he called on God to search his heart, and to know his thoughts, and to see if there was any wicked way in him (Psalm 139:23).

That was a matter of rare spiritual courage. We all know that God sees our hearts and knows us for what we are, but I wonder how many of us rejoice in the fact, or really want God to search us.

I make bold to say that the deepest defect of our American life today is the lack of the sense of sin. How can we ever build up a good life without standards of judgment, and a deep and unswerving purpose to be and do right?

BIBLE THOUGHTS

The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity.—Malachi 2:6.

What we have in us of the imagine of God is the love of truth and justice. —Demosthenes.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

DEFICIT SPENDING

Editors, in very large majority, see President Truman's withdrawal of his demand for a $4 billion tax increase largely offset by his proposed decifit spending. They see in his proposals much unnecessary and wasteful federal expenditure, siphoning off credit which could be used better in private investment for expansion of economic activity. A small minority, however, favors most of the president's proposed program now and agrees with him that a temporarily unbalanced federal budget is necessary to level off a slightly declining economy.

Norfolk (Va.) Ledger - Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "The President's withdrawal of his $4 billion tax increase proposal was an act of bowing to the inevitable. It has been obvious for several months that congress would not approve the increase. The importance of this reversal of the Truman policy, therefore, is subject to heavy discount. Its value as a stimulus to a flagging economy is materially reduced by the President's suggestion that the only alternative to a substantial increase in taxes is an unbalanced budget."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Dem.): "As a general rule, not much can be said for deficit spending. President Truman knows as well as the next one that it is a principle not to be too freely embraced, but he also knows that in a time of recession, such as is now being experienced, it becomes an entirely sound and sensible policy. . . . There never was a better time to make effective the program for expanded social welfare, for government aid to encourage lagging business and to ease unemployment."

Boston (Mass.) Herald (Ind.): "If spending must go on unabated, we face mounting deficits, higher than the $1,811,000,000 we ended fiscal 1949 on. And this red ink financing is occurring not in a depression, but at a time when civilian employment stands at 59.6 million and the gross national product of the nation is up around $254 billion, higher than any year except 1948. Indeed the president himself states that 'our economy is still operating at high levels of employment and production.'"

Washington (D. C.) Star (Ind.): "The president makes clear that . . . there will have to be deficit financing because economies right now would, in his judgment . . . deepen the recession just when we need to halt and reverse it. Perhaps he is right, But still, even though slashes in foreign aid could have very serious political and economic consequences, it is difficult to agree . . . that no government programs of any kind should be cut. What he is espousing, in effect, is pump-priming of a sort that has always been open to the gravest question."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "Even the most conservative Republicans in congress, we are sure, realize as does the administration the degree to which national defense and European aid are bolstering the economy. It is doubtful that many of them would oppose channeling what public works programs are available to points where unemployment is acute . . . What the president's opponents can attack with consistency is not his pronouncement against retreat into lower standards of education, health and housing, but his call to expand federal welfare and insurance programs at this time."

St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times (Dem.): "Such measures as increasing the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour, raising and broadening social security pensions and unemployment compensation, if the tax drain is not too heavy, will contribute positively toward better business . . . by increasing the buying power of a good many millions of people."

Baltimore (Md.) Sun (Ind.-Dem.): "The more the government directs the money and energies of the people into channels of its own choosing, the less money and energy for the expansion of production and markets. . . . There are some outlays which are obviously necessary for national survival and which only the government can direct. But expanding governmental services into fields hitherto reserved by the states, the towns and by individuals are not to be included in such categories."

St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch (Ind.): "There is realism in acknowledgment by President Truman that 'We cannot expect to achieve a budget surplus in a declining national economy.' He wants no cuts in spending that would endanger social gains. . . . There are savings that can be made without damage to any real essentials . . . in support of Hoover commission proposals for federal economies (through reorganization)."

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

"I TOLD HIM"

Parents are often puzzled when children do something wrong, or do something right the wrong way and they say plaintively, "But I told him."

Words are just sounds to children and to a good many grown-up folk as well. It is only when experience has put meaning into the words that the children can understand them. Saying to a child who has never had a stomach ache in his life, "If you eat those green apples you will have a stomach ache" has no meaning beyond that of a prohibition. Intelligent people, young and old, are likely to test a prohibition. When they eat the green apples and get the stomach ache they understand the prohibition.

It would be fine if children took our word for things; fine for us only because they would then give us very little trouble. But nature did not plan things that way and the children will, in spite of all we say, step over the safety line now and then and get into trouble. We are not to be surprised about that but we should be on guard to prevent as much of the costly experiences as possible. We must remember that telling him is not enough. We must act to protect the child.

I would like to be able to tell people how to protect children. But I have never found a truly successful way, a blanket plan that will save all children and all youth from errors and their consequences. The best we can do is to set the background of home so that children live in a good atmosphere, that they enjoy pleasant experiences in a good life and that they hear and see and feel goodness about them.

Then we must bestir ourselves to watch what goes on about us. Who is the boy making friends with a girl of the house? Who are his folks? Where does the boy go after school, or in the evening? No child should live a life so apart from his parents that they do not share in the child's thoughts and wishes and ways.

That sort of relationship is not built up in an afternoon. It is the result of living together for years on end, of hours of service, of days of shared experiences. Don't shut children out of the family troubles. They are part of their home life and the very thought of their sharing all that comes of grief or joy knits them into the family group and strengthens them.

It takes a lot of doing to rear chil-

Free Men—Vatican's War

The Catholic Church and totalitarian communism are locked in bitter struggle throughout the world. The chief battleground right now is eastern Europe. But why should a religious organization be fighting the advocates of a political and economic system?

The answer is that communism, like any totalitarianism, cannot limit itself to the purely practical realm. It fans out into the spiritual sphere and seeks to supplant or destroy the regular religious authority.

Catholic leaders therefore see their historic guardianship over the spiritual life of millions of Europeans—not to mention others—threatened with extinction.

The Vatican has tried for a long time to arrive at an ideological truce that would allow Catholicism and communism to live side by side. But the Mindszenty affair in Hungary and the current attacks on high churchmen in Czechoslovakia convinced the Pope an accord is impossible.

These events led to a papal decree ordering excommunication for all Catholics who join or support the Communist party anywhere. It is the heaviest weapon the church has ever brought into play against a totalitarian system.

Why do Communists in the predominantly Catholic European countries feel it necessary to engage so stubborn a foe?

The answer is, of course, that a dictatorship like communism can brook no opposition whatsoever. It demands one single overriding loyalty—to the state. Ties of allegiance to church, union, social organization, all these must be severed.

For any one of these minor loyalties could serve as a rallying point for opposition to the regime, a nucleus for the forces of rebellion.

Above all, Communists are bent upon maintaining themselves in power wherever they enjoy it. What is more sensible, then, than to keep the people in a great shapeless, helpless mass? Revolt takes organization as well as weapons.

It should be evident immediately that the Catholic Church is the toughest possible center of resistance to communism in eastern Europe. Because it has many millions of followers, Catholicism wields a power far beyond its mere spiritual guidance in one country or another.

That fact is all we need to remember as we watch the Communists work relentlessly to crush this force in Russia's European satellites.

For the sake of Europe's Catholics and all free-worshipping men everywhere, let us hope the Communists somehow fail to marshal the strength they need to achieve full success in this effort.

Credit Taft With An Assist

The "big three" in the steel industry acted wisely in finally accepting President Truman's plan to create a special fact-finding board to study the dispute over contract terms with C. I. O.'s United Steel Workers.

The top firms had held out on the ground that the proposal represented an attempt by the president to by-pass fact-finding machinery called for by the Taft-Hartley law.

But this position looked pretty weak after Senator Taft, a sponsor of that controversial law, declared that he believes Mr. Truman has the power to set up a special board.

Whether or not the president may have had political considerations in mind when he avoided use of Taft-Hartley, the steel companies owed it to the public to go along with any fair proposal that would avert a serious strike in a time of receding business activity.

Battle of the Elements

The year 1949 promises to go into the records as most unusual so far as weather is concerned. After a severe winter the central area has been scourged with wind storms which have brought death in a half-dozen states, and widespread property damage.

For the past several weeks a cold front has stretched half way across the United States, from Cape Hatteras on the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. Warm, moist air from the Gulf has piled into this unyielding cold wall and erupted into cloudbursts, hail storms and the deadly twisters.

Fortunately, in most cases the storms struck early in the evening or late afternoon, and gave warning of their approach. Death toll was much greater where the storm hit after dark. Total death toll in all the states did not equal half the number killed in the Woodward, Okla., storm of 1947, when 106 persons lost their lives in a tornado which came after dark.

As usual the Red Cross was on the job in all the stricken areas and is caring for the injured and homeless. A million dollars was made immediately available for those purposes. These are facts to remember when the next year's Red Cross quota is being raised. That great organization is ready to help in time of trouble, as is being demonstrated during these days of storm and disaster.

Destroying by Taxation

That excessive taxation will strangle business has been proved many times. One of the principles of socialism is that taxation is the weapon by which the property holder can be destroyed.

The present tax on railway fares has caused a serious slump in travel and put that part of the railroad industry badly in the red. This tax, an excessive one, was imposed during the war to discourage travel by rail at a time when all the facilities were needed for the business of war.

It was explained that the tax was set unconscionably high to effectively discourage the purchase of a ticket. The theory was simple: The higher the tax, the fewer the sales. Although a war measure, the tax is still in effect, and is working out as it was planned to do.

Thurman Sensing,
Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

'NONE ARE SO BLIND'

For four years we have looked on as socialism took over in Great Britain. We have seen the British people, traditionally sound and conservative in their thinking, become so entangled in the web of the planned economy and the welfare state that their outlook for the future is now almost hopeless. As I made an eight weeks' firsthand study of the situation in Great Britain this spring, more than by most anything else I was impressed with the complete frustration and sense of despair felt by those who could understand what was happening to them. They realized that socialism has brought their nation to the brink of hisaster.

It is ever thus when people violate the fundamental laws of economics and common sense. By turning all provisions for their welfare over to their socialist government, the people of Great Britain killed their own incentive and initiative and ambition. The individual from then on only became a cog in the machinery of state. The things the people wanted—higher wages and better housing and good health conditions and better educational facilities and welfare benefits of all sorts—were all to be desired, but their chances of obtaining them were doomed from the moment they turned the responsibility for them over to the state rather than depending upon their own individual efforts. Common sense should tell a man that no government can be as interested in him as he is interested in himself. And try though men and governments will, there are certain fundamental economic laws that will not be ignored.

Prime Minister Atlee, of Great Britain, recently made the statement that "it is the function of socialism to control the blind economic forces" that govern the affairs of man. He thereby let himself into the fallacy that is the underlying fault of even those who sincerely believe in the welfare state. These fundamental economic forces are anything but blind. They are the most alive, wide-awake forces in the world. They represent the combined judgment of all the people all the time. They are man's best guide.

The experience of Great Britain during the past four years has shown us that it makes no difference whether people believe in socialism or not, if just won't work. Their experience has demonstrated that socialism defeats its very ends. Promising a higher standard of living, the wastefulness and bungling and inefficiency of state control and operation makes the cost of government so high that socialism cannot afford the benefits that it promises. Nationalization of industry in Great Britain has resulted in enormous losses, which must be paid for by the people in taxes, and the incompetence of government operation is such that these losses can only be avoided by greatly increasing the cost of the product or the service. In either case, it is the people who pay.

And now, after living through four years of continued rationing and price control and almost unbearable taxation and high cost of living and a redistribution of the national wealth which has benefited them not at all, the people of Great Britain find themselves at the end of their socialist rope—they face even more stringent living conditions, and they face national bankruptcy. Their only hope now, say both Socialists and Conservatives, is more American dollars—created under the American free enterprise system!

Are we learning our lesson from the experience of Great Britain? To the extent that we do shall we get our money's worth from the aid we have been giving them. As we adopt such socialist measures here in our country as subsidized agriculture and federal housing, and as we consider various others that are presented to us from time to time, do we realize we are headed down the same path to disaster as that traveled by Great Britain? As we watch the failure of the socialist experiment we have helped pay for in Great Britain, are we so foolish as to continue the experiment here in our own country? "None are so blind as those who will not see." We must wake up. Now is the time to stop socialism in the United States of America—tomorrow will be too late!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Dixi, a remarkable Belgian shepherd dog, nearly 16 years old, died recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Code and Lyle Kennedy, in Washington. Lyle, a realty man and Dr. J. B. Code, son of the Washington Codes living in New York, often have told me about Dixi, who came from Belgium, and understood French, German and English.

Says Lyle, in a recent letter to me, "I'm a very sentimental Irishman, but I hope there's a heaven for dogs and that Dixi is near St. Francis. This great love that Dixi gave us far surpasses the shabby affection of most men. His was the love of a great heart. He asked nothing but the honor of serving."

I told the mourners for Dixi a story related by one of my readers. A little boy asked a famous minister whether he might have his dog with him if he went to heaven, and the minister thoughtfully replied, "If you still want your dog when you are there, I am sure you will have him." Rather sound theology in that reply, don't you think?

I also mentioned a little poem, sent me by a reader a few years ago, entitled "Did Christ Have a Little Black Dog?" I have lost the poem, but if any reader has a copy I'll make a great hit by passing it on to Dr. Code. The verse ends with a speculation that if there was such a dog he followed his Master all the way to Calvary.

Ever since I mentioned in the column that Daughter Mary and her family are moving out to Berkeley, Calif., in the fall or earlier, I've been getting loads of booster literature and glowing letters about that region on the Pacific. Latest is a four-color litho folder about Oakland and the regional parks of California. It's an effective piece, and they didn't spare ink, color, paper or words in telling their story.

One way of judging a community is by the expressions of faith in it by the people who live there.

So this is a good time to say that Daughter Pat and her husband are extremely happy at State College, near Las Cruces, New Mexico. They love the sun and the desert, so unlike Times Square. They live in barracks while Danny goes to school, but they've found that a happy home may be a little less than a palace and still be good.

Mrs. Charles Akins, Jacksonville, tells me there is in Birmingham, Ala., a statue to the memory of one Brother Bryan, Presbyterian minister, who really would give his own coat to a wayfarer who was cold or insufficiently clad. That's the kind of person to raise monuments to, is it not?

Mrs. John Gaetz, Hereford, Texas, (where they really do have open space and Hereford cattle), tells me a one-legged mocking bird used to stand on her garden gate and sing to her and her family, only a few feet from an open window, for days at a time. He was a great inspiration on blue days, which come into every life, even in Hereford.

The first place I stopped to pick up a news note, on my first day as a cub reporter, was the office of Charlie Noll, brick dealer. Wichita, in depths of an ancient depression, needed brick as badly as it needed the Eiffel Tower. But there was Charlie, willing to sell the brick in case anybody should want it. I've a letter from him, telling of the fabulous growth of Wichita, mostly in brick buildings and people, of course. Charlie stuck it out during those lean years because he couldn't find railroad fare.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

PANHANDLING HABIT

Here are the contents of another letter from a small landlord in Buffalo, N. Y.:

"I am one of the great army of small landlords. I occupy an upper flat, rent out the lower. There is also a small third floor apartment which we rent furnished. In 1942 the third floor brought $10.00 per week, the ceiling rent. The first floor rent was frozen at $41.00 per month, including garage.

"Here is the situation under rent control. I need not go into detail how maintenance costs have risen since 1942. Nor to the fact my county tax has increased 75 per cent and will continue to grow each year, for Erie county has taken over some new functions previously cared for by the city.

"I applied a couple of years ago for an increase on ground of hardship and a major capital improvement costing $400.00. I received permission to increase the third floor rent $2.00 per week, and the first floor apartment $2.35 per month.

"The third floor consists of three rooms and bath. It is furnished, and utilities are included. Similar apartments decontrolled are bringing from $15.00 to $20.00 per week, sometimes more.

"The first floor is large and attractive, with 7 rooms, including 4 bedrooms. Garage goes with the apartment. This flat today brings $43.35 per month, the present ceiling. A few years ago it brought $72.00 and there was no complaint. Regulations do not permit the area rent director to consider how much it previously brought, nor how much similar decontrolled apartments are bringing today, which is from $80.00 to $100.00 per month.

"Now, a few personal facts. I was laid off last September from a government job as adjudicator with the veterans administration and am still unemployed. A man of 56 doesn't find it too easy to get a job today. That is why rent control hits me so hard. Where I should have some small profit from the investment in my home I have shown it as a loss for the past four years on my income tax return, and the figures have not been questioned by the internal revenue department. . . . "

Most of my correspondence on this subject has not been of this nature. Most of it has been insultingly vituperative. Most of my correspondents object to paying a rent that will permit the owner of the property to break even, much less to earn some income from his investment.

It is an interesting phenomenon. What some desire is panhandling on a vast scale. Nations panhandle each other. Such a proud country as Great Britain is not ashamed, for instance, to use money which the American taxpayer provides for the reconstruction of its industries, its agriculture and its trade, to reduce its debt. Some American businesses, like the airplane industry, dislike the free competitive system, which involves ingenuity and skill, but look to the government for coddling aid. The farmer wants to be subsidized against all odds. The industrial worker has organized to browbeat the entire population, including himself.

Panhandling can become an awful curse and can grow into a permanent habit by practice. The president of the United States, whenever his politics go sour, shrieks against the real estate lobby, which is no better and no worse than the labor union lobby or the farm lobby or the teachers lobby or the manufacturers lobby. As a matter of fact, every ten Americans with an ax to grind or a cause to pursue or an ideal to follow organize a lobby. The civil liberties union, for instance, is such a lobby, as is the League of Women Voters. For that matter, the state department, the department of defense, of interior, of agriculture, and the White House itself maintain lobbies for which the taxpayer actually foots the bill.

The question of real estate is fundamental in our economic system and therefore must be dealt with seriously. Since the federal government has intervened in the situation, real estate has not been regarded as an economic, but as a political problem. More voters pay rent than collect rent. Therefore, the politicians have pursued the axiom that the greatest concessions to the largest number of voters is good for the country.

Around Washington With

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

The public power controversy, which has raged from investigation to investigation for more than fifteen years, may be heading toward some sort of compromise solution.

The senate appropriations committee the other day reported out the interior department appropriation bill with instructions to federal power agencies to study and report back on the compromise.

It directed the southwestern power administration to work out contracts with other utilities in that area similar to its two-year-old contract with Texas Power and Light Company.

The T. P. & L. contract has obviated the necessity of building duplicating transmission lines to deliver power from federally-constructed dams in the vicinity.

Under the contract, the company buys the power at the bus bar, carries it over its transmission lines and at various points delivers it to the government for sale to the government's preferred customers. (R. E. A.'s municipalities, and so on).

Other southwestern power companies have signed similar agreements, and the senate committee directed S. P. A. to report back by the end of the year as to its reaction.

Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem., Oklahoma), who has long been plugging for a uniform federal public power policy, says this looks like the answer to his plug.

A nation-wide application of the T. P. & L. principle will make it unnecessary for the government to build steam plants to firm up its hydro power. The private companies operate on steam almost exclusively in most parts of the country.

The savings will amount to hundreds of millions a year, Thomas estimates.

In anticipation of application of the T. P. & L. principle to the area covered by southwestern power administration, the senate committee cut the S. P. A. funds by more than half.

Construction was confined to "a backbone transmission line" linking the Denison, Fort Gibson, Norfork, Bull Shoals and other hydro projects in the southwest.

The committee's cuts applied also to several bureau of reclamation projects in Montana and Idaho, in anticipation of a T. P. & L. compromise.

The compromise does not please either side to the fullest. The private power companies would prefer to buy power at the bus bar under an arrangement not unlike that between the Alabama Power Company and the government at Muscle Shoals—before advant of T. V. A.

A private utility magnate phrased the industry's reaction rather well when he said he was "satisfied but not content." But it does appeal to the private utilities because it removes threat of duplicating construction and competition.

The all-out public power advocates are up in arms. They concede "a hundred per cent private utility victory." They distrust the private utilities, and doubt that any T. P. & L. arrangement will be executed in best of faith. There are old scars as between the two groups that still give trouble.

If the senate should place its stamp of approval on the compromise—which is not to be taken for granted—the house conferees will likely oppose.

House Chairman Michael J. Kirwan (Dem., Ohio) has already sounded off in opposition. He is backed by public power congressmen from the northwest and other sections.

General belief in Washington is that a strike in the large steel company mills will have to last probably two months before the nation would begin to feel its effects. Many large users of steel, such as the automobile manufacturers, have been building up their steel inventories during recent months as production has exceeded demand in anticipation of such a strike and are prepared to keep going at present capacities for between thirty and sixty days.

Reports reaching here also indicate that the steel companies themselves as well as steel jobbers have built up some backlog which they can supply their customers if production is halted.

Biggest fear by the large manufacturers is that some of their small suppliers will exhaust their steel stocks quickly and be unable to furnish parts which are essential to the finished products. If this develops, it is considered likely that steel produced by the smaller plants will be diverted to these suppliers. In some cases, it is even likely that the auto makers may turn over some of their own steel inventory to the smaller suppliers so that the chain will not be broken.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

DEFICIT SPENDING

Editors, in very large majority, see President Truman's withdrawal of his demand for a $4 billion tax increase largely offset by his proposed decifit spending. They see in his proposals much unnecessary and wasteful federal expenditure, siphoning off credit which could be used better in private investment for expansion of economic activity. A small minority, however, favors most of the president's proposed program now and agrees with him that a temporarily unbalanced federal budget is necessary to level off a slightly declining economy.

Norfolk (Va.) Ledger - Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "The President's withdrawal of his $4 billion tax increase proposal was an act of bowing to the inevitable. It has been obvious for several months that congress would not approve the increase. The importance of this reversal of the Truman policy, therefore, is subject to heavy discount. Its value as a stimulus to a flagging economy is materially reduced by the President's suggestion that the only alternative to a substantial increase in taxes is an unbalanced budget."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Dem.): "As a general rule, not much can be said for deficit spending. President Truman knows as well as the next one that it is a principle not to be too freely embraced, but he also knows that in a time of recession, such as is now being experienced, it becomes an entirely sound and sensible policy . . . There never was a better time to make effective the program for expanded social welfare, for government aid to encourage lagging business and to ease unemployment."

Boston (Mass.) Herald (Ind.): "If spending must go on unabated, we face mounting deficits, higher than the $1,811,000,000 we ended fiscal 1949 on. And this red ink financing is occurring not in a depression, but at a time when civilian employment stands at 59.6 million and the gross national product of the nation is up around $254 billion, higher than any year except 1948. Indeed the president himself states that 'our economy is still operating at high levels of employment and production.'"

Washington (D. C.) Star (Ind.): "The president makes clear that . . . there will have to be deficit financing because economies right now would, in his judgment . . . deepen the recession just when we need to halt and reverse it. Perhaps he is right, But still, even though slashes in foreign aid could have very serious political and economic consequences, it is difficult to agree . . . that no government programs of any kind should be cut. What he is espousing, in effect, is pump-priming of a sort that has always been open to the gravest question."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "Even the most conservative Republicans in congress, we are sure, realize as does the administration the degree to which national defense and European aid are bolstering the economy. It is doubtful that many of them would oppose channeling what public works programs are available to points where unemployment is acute . . . What the president's opponents can attack with consistency is not his pronouncement against retreat into lower standards of education, health and housing, but his call to expand federal welfare and insurance programs at this time."

St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times (Dem.): "Such measures as increasing the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour, raising and broadening social security pensions and unemployment compensation, if the tax drain is not too heavy, will contribute positively toward better business . . . by increasing the buying power of a good many millions of people."

Baltimore (Md.) Sun (Ind.-Dem.): "The more the government directs the money and energies of the people into channels of its own choosing, the less money and energy for the expansion of production and markets. . . . There are some outlays which are obviously necessary for national survival and which only the government can direct. But expanding governmental services into fields hitherto reserved by the states, the towns and by individuals are not to be included in such categories."

St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch (Ind.): "There is realism in acknowledgment by President Truman that 'We cannot expect to achieve a budget surplus in a declining national economy.' He wants no cuts in spending that would endanger social gains. . . . There are savings that can be made without damage to any real essentials . . . in support of Hoover commission proposals for federal economies (through reorganization)."

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D.D.

The poet, Walt Whitman, who wrote more wisely in other matters, thought lightly of the sense of sin. He wrote somewhere about animals not having any sense of sin, and suggested man's inferiority in this respect.

The Hebrew Psalmists-poets knew better. They lived in times, like our own, full of violence and man's cruelty to man. They had either experienced, or they lived close to, exiles and disruptions of peoples. There were plenty of "displaced persons" in those days, and the Psalmists knew that these inhumanities and cruelties were of man's purpose and design, and had their root in sinful hearts.

They were realists about life and man. They had no illusions about man's natural goodness and innocency. Surely in times when we have seen the wickedness of men sending millions of innocent persons to cruel death in extermination camps and ovens, and to even more cruel torture we, too, should have no illusions about sin, as the Psalmists had none.

They knew, too, that the evils so deeply perpetrated were not matters of chance or circumstance. Everything proceeded out of the heart of man, and in that heart of man they saw mirrored what they themselves might be, or become.

The writer of Proverbs 27:19 expressed this grim fact in a beautiful figure: "As in water face answereth to face, so the heart of man to man." I suppose that stooping down somewhere to drink in a clear, limpid pool, he had seen his features mirrored there, and the thought had come to him, "That is like the heart of man, a vast depth in which man may see himself reflected and understand his nature."

He knew that in that heart of man there was evil as well as good, and it was this that made him so earnest and determined that his own heart should be free from evil.

His deepest prayer was that God would give him a clean heart, and renew a right spirit within him (Psalm 51:10). Nor was his prayer always a confession of conscious guilt. In moods of despair or contrition he might bewail the depth of his sins; and as for Psalms that King David may have written, he had plenty of cause for contrition, for he had adultery and murder on his conscience.

But often the prayer was a confession of the Psalmist's integrity, not a confession of evil, but of his deep sincerity about being free from evil. So it was that he called on God to search his heart, and to know his thoughts, and to see if there was any wicked way in him (Psalm 139:23).

That was a matter of rare spiritual courage. We all know that God sees our hearts and knows us for what we are, but I wonder how many of us rejoice in the fact, or really want God to search us.

I make bold to say that the deepest defect of our American life today is the lack of the sense of sin. How can we ever build up a good life without standards of judgment, and a deep and unswerving purpose to be and do right?

BIBLE THOUGHTS

The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity.—Malachi 2:6.

What we have in us of the imagine of God is the love of truth and justice. —Demosthenes.

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

"I TOLD HIM"

Parents are often puzzled when children do something wrong, or do something right the wrong way and they say plaintively, "But I told him."

Words are just sounds to children and to a good many grown-up folk as well. It is only when experience has put meaning into the words that the children can understand them. Saying to a child who has never had a stomach ache in his life, "If you eat those green apples you will have a stomach ache" has no meaning beyond that of a prohibition. Intelligent people, young and old, are likely to test a prohibition. When they eat the green apples and get the stomach ache they understand the prohibition.

It would be fine if children took our word for things; fine for us only because they would then give us very little trouble. But nature did not plan things that way and the children will, in spite of all we say, step over the safety line now and then and get into trouble. We are not to be surprised about that but we should be on guard to prevent as much of the costly experiences as possible. We must remember that telling him is not enough. We must act to protect the child.

I would like to be able to tell people how to protect children. But I have never found a truly successful way, a blanket plan that will save all children and all youth from errors and their consequences. The best we can do is to set the background of home so that children live in a good atmosphere, that they enjoy pleasant experiences in a good life and that they hear and see and feel goodness about them.

Then we must bestir ourselves to watch what goes on about us. Who is the boy making friends with a girl of the house? Who are his folks? Where does the boy go after school, or in the evening? No child should live a life so apart from his parents that they do not share in the child's thoughts and wishes and ways.

That sort of relationship is not built up in an afternoon. It is the result of living together for years on end, of hours of service, of days of shared experiences. Don't shut children out of the family troubles. They are part of their home life and the very thought of their sharing all that comes of grief or joy knits them into the family group and strengthens them.

It takes a lot of doing to rear chil-

HOLLYWOOD, July 23.—Wonder how many Hollywoodites realize that Warner Brothers, during the past few months, has dropped more than 25 important feature players? . . . Aside to Hollywood screen Romeos who profess scorn for cowboy heroics: Roy Rogers' new two-year-contract with Republic, added to his royalties from gadgets bearing his name, will pay him better than $1,000,000 a year! . . Mrs. Dane Clark is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Santa Monica, for observation and a possible stomach operation . . . Time out for Pat O'Brien, bedded by severe sunburn.

Shirley Temple's brother, George, who's been wrestling professionally for several years, will make his screen debut in Republic's "Pardon My Toe Hold" . . . Actress Mary Anderson ("The Song of Bernadette" and "Keys to the Kingdom") has separated from her husband, Leonard Behrens, and plans a divorce suit . . .Add unusual gifts from fans: the talking mynah bird sent Jeanette MacDonald by an Indian maharajah . . . Dan Dailey and his estranged wife will make up their minds about reconciliation or divorce when they take a two-week vacation jaunt together after the completion of his current picture.

Merle Oberon, according to European informants, has a late summer date with a plastic surgeon in Switzerland. . . . Wotzis about Anna Maria Mussolini, daughter of the late, unlamented dictator, trying to get a visa for a visit in the U. S. A. on the claim that she's engaged to marry a former American army captain? . . . Jack Dempsey and Mickey Rooney's manager, Sam Stiefel, have bought the contract of promising heavyweight boxer, Clarence Henry.

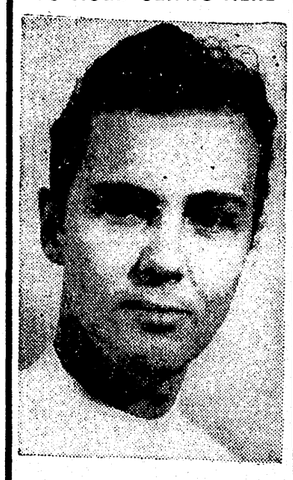
PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a flimsy week: Eagle-Lion's "Reign of Terror" (Robert Cummings-Richard Baseheart-Arlene Dahl). Action melodrama "based" on the French revolution—short on historical accuracy, but long on excitement. FAIR: Eagle-Lion's "Sleeping Car to Trieste" (Jean Kent-Albert Lieven-Derrick De Marney). Made-in-England cops-and-robbers drama offering better than average performances. Screen Guild's 'Ringside" (Don Barry-Tom Brown-Sheila Ryan). Another prize-fight entry with enough dramatic punches to make it too-notch "supporting" fare. HO-HUM: Monogram's "Mississippi Rhythm" (Jimmie Davis-Veda Ann Borg-Lee "Lasses" White). A Class "C" musical, made to capitalize on the fact that Jimmie Davis used to be "His Excellency," the governor of Louisiana. BEST PERFORMANCE: Robert Cummings in "Reign of Terror."

About fifteen years ago, a couple of high-pressure publicists tried to sell Irene Dunne a bill of goods, and nearly succeeded. They warned her that her Hollywood career was going to be all washed up in another year or two if she continued her quiet, ladylike behavior. "Colorless," they called it. Well, Irene was sufficiently frightened by their ominous croakings that she attempted on one or two occasions to inject a little sensation into her press interviews, but her own innate common sense and dignity made the attempts abortive. So she concluded that she'd just go on being her own ladylike self, concentrate on her acting chores, and take the consequences. She's getting them now—in the form of a resolution, signed by some 36,000 members of the Motion Picture Industry Council, attesting the pride and affection with which Hollywood regards her.

While I'm making bows to Hollywood stars, I want to direct one to Danny Kaye, who's decided to undertake personal appearances in fifteen major American cities to help exploit his picture, "Happy Times." The unusual thing about this project is the fact that Danny, instead of demanding big pay from his studio or from the theaters he will play, is going to do the tour free-gratis-for-nothing. He believes that with the movie industry in the financial limboes, every star should be willing to put forth a little extra-curricular effort to bolster the box office receipts which will guarantee his own future prosperity. Actually, I'm bowing to him because it's amazing to find a Hollywood actor so "smart."

At least three times a week, since he entered the independent production field, Mickey Rooney's press agents have announced new enterprises for their boss. Last week, on three successive days, the world was informed that he would (1) do a New York stage play this fall, (2) make a picture entitled "The Bashful Buccaneer" in partnership with Harry Joe Brown, and (3) go to Argentina to make a picture in association with Director Busby Berkeley. Since not even a human dynamo of Mickey's voltage can possibly carry out 10 percent of the plans announced for him, the whole business is becoming ridiculous. Either he should restrain his press agents, or (much more likely) his press agents should restrain him. The Rooney kid has an amazing quota of talent and he should go places as a producer, if ever he learns to concentrate his attention on one enterprise at a time.

HEARING SPECIALIST TO HOLD CLINIC HERE



BUELL H. BROWN

A revolutionary new hearing development, the Acousticon Hearette, will be demonstrated in the offices of Acousticon of Monroe, 209½ DeSiard St., (Amman Building), Monday, July 25, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The new Acousticon Hearette does for the hard of hearing what reading glasses do for those with defective vision. There is nothing to wear! There is no receiver in the ear! And there are no cords or extra batteries to carry around!

This instrument is so different that the services of the above hearing expert have been secured. This authorized Acoustician has a record of wonderful results in fitting difficult cases, especially those who have never been able to successfully wear the usual type of hearing aid. All of the hard of hearing are invited.

Billy Rose:
PITCHING HORSESHOES

Up in Harlem, they will tell you that Charlie-Ed Harris is the smoothest-talking man who ever put leather to Lenox avenue.

For example, there was the time a cop picked him up on 116th street for passing a red light.

"Sorry, sir," said Charlie-Ed, "but I saw the white folks passing the green lights, so naturally I figured the red ones were for colored people."

But the classic story of Charlie-Ed's genius dates back to the summer he worked as butler for Reginald Parker III.

Reginald, as the saying goes, was quite a decent sort, and butlering at the Parker manse was made even easier by the fact that Mrs. Parker, a professional do-gooder with a finger in a dozen sticky pies, was generally out of town lecturing and letting her conscience be the other fellow's guide.

That July, Reginald Parker decided to spend a few weeks in Southampton and instructed Charlie-Ed to board up the house.

"If it's just for a month," said Charlie-Ed, "I'd be glad to live here and take care of the place."

This seemed like a first-rate idea to Mr. Parker, seeing as how he never knew when he might be called back to town on business.

The following Saturday, Charlie-Ed got lonesome and decided to throw a little party, and at 3 a. m., as the joints began to close, there was a mass exodus from Lenox avenue which included bartenders, a couple of jump bands and the complete chorus line of the Pink Elephant club and the Blue Tiger cafe.

Most of the performers came without bothering to change makeup or costumes, and for the next few hours everybody had himself a time as the hottest fingers in Harlem plunked away on the Steinway grand, and a big-name trumpeter did his best to splinter the crystal in the chandelier.

Then, as luck would have it, Mrs. Parker, fresh from a bout with the devil in Denver, picked out this particular morning to return unexpectedly.

"What is the meaning of this?" she asked, nostrils akimbo, as she walked into the living room.

"Meaning?" Charlie-Ed said smoothly. "May I ask who you are, madam?"

"I am Mrs. Reginald Parker."

"Parker? Ah—you must be the wife of the gentleman who used to live here. The house changed hands last week."

"That's impossible. It was in both our names."

"I suggest you take that up with Mr. Parker," said Charlie-Ed.

At this moment, a trio of girls, wearing their Pink Elephant finale costumes, dashed into the living room pursued by a couple of Blue Tiger hoofers.

"Wh-what's that.?" asked Mrs. Parker.

"Pink elephants and blue tigers, madam."

Mrs. Parker made a noise like a suction pump and left.

Next afternoon the miffy matron was back, accompanied by Mr. Parker and a policeman.

"Glad to see you, sir," said Charlie-Ed. "I hope nothing is wrong."

Reginald made a quick inspection and found everything in order. "Mrs. Parker tells me there was a wild party here last night," he said.

"Then the lady really is Mrs. Parker?" said Charlie-Ed. "She claimed to be, but of course, I didn't believe her, because—I wonder, sir, if I could talk to you alone a minute."

He lowered his voice and began to confide something.

"You don't say!" said Reginald. "You mean she was actually dr. . ."

"No whispering," said Mrs. Parker. "Tell him about the party."

"Party? What party, madam."

"Are you trying to deny what I saw with my own eyes last night?"

"What, exactly, did you see?" asked Mr. Parker.

"Pink elephant girls."

"What else?"

"Blue tigers."

Mr. Parker shook his head sadly.

"Well. . ." said his wife, tapping her foot. "What are you going to do about it?"

"Under the circumstances, my dear, there isn't much I can do."

"Either that man goes, or I go."

Mr. Parker made no reply.

"Very well," said his wife. "You'll hear from my lawyers immediately."

"Sorry, sir," said the policeman as he turned to leave, "I know how it is. . ."

"Hope I didn't say anything wrong, sir," said Charlie-Ed. "Can I fix you a drink."

"No thanks, I feel fine," said Reginald. "I'm returning to Southampton. Look after things while I'm gone."

"Very good, sir."

"—and, oh, by the way." Mr. Parker reached into his pocket and pulled out a blue tiger tail. "I found this behind the umbrella stand," he said. "You might want to return it to its owner."

"Very good, sir," said Charlie-Ed.

DeWitt Mackenzie:
MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

America's ratification of the North Atlantic treaty bids fair to be a tremendous contribution to global peace and progress.

Acceptance by the world's greatest power was essential to endow the 12-nation alliance with success. Basically the pact is designed to afford powerful mutual defense against aggression. It is a commitment of one for all and all for one.

Without the adherance of the United States, Europe would have been thrust headlong into a slough of despond—worse off than when the pact was proposed, for seven nations already had ratified it. The powers of aggression would have been strengthened.

But the alliance is far more than a defensive agreement. By ensuring peace it will facilitate the rehabilitation of western Europe's war-shocked countries. And it will safeguard the development of our democratic way of life which will allow us to escape the yoke of totalitarianism and maintain the status of free men.

There is nothing in the pact which conflicts with the spirit of the United Nations. However, since such an alliance is a unique and far-reaching commitment it is small wonder that the peoples of the various countries concerned, and especially we of America, should have insisted on examining the proposition thoroughly before accepting it.

As things stand we are not committed to any eventuality which we wouldn't encounter if there were another major war in Europe. It is scientifically possible for rain to fall on your neighbor's house across the street without falling on yours. But it's mighty improbable.

By the same token there is virtually no chance of America escaping involvement in another European upheaval. We've learned that lesson (or should have) the hard way in two world wars. We know that preparedness is the best form of security pending the arrival of the happy day when mankind will subscribe to the tenets of the Sermon on the Mount.

Of course it's natural that the average citizen should be anxious about the heavy cost of supporting the alliance. For example the White House announced yesterday that President Truman will send to congress Monday a proposed program of foreign military aid to back up the Atlantic Pact. It is understood that the proposed authorization will be for $1,450,000,000 for foreign military aid, of which $1,130,000,000 would go to America's associates in the Atlantic treaty.

However, our past war experience—as it has been tough during the last generation—has demonstrated that preparedness is the cheapest form of security. Apropos of the question of reviving Europe and Asia for peace, President Truman had this to say in an extemporaneous foreign policy speech at a Shrine dinner in Chicago last Tuesday:

"And I am saying to you: 'Which is better, to spend three or four or five billions a year for peace, or to spend a hundred billion dollars a year for another war?"

There would seem to be only one answer to that cogent question. It's cheaper to ensure peace than to go to war.

Looking Ahead
IN WASHINGTON

(By The World Staff of Associated Press)

Scientists who should know say its foolish to think that Britain knows less than the United States about how to make good atom bombs. The difference, they say, is simply that this country has the industrial equipment to make larger bombs than Britain.

Even so, these scientists hold, the weakest bomb that England—or Russia, or any other country—could make would be so close to the most powerful one the United States now has that you probably couldn't tell the difference if you flew over a bombed-out place.

All this being so, British officials in Washington and London were taken by surprise when they learned the topic of the secret conferences among President Truman and military, scientific and congressional leaders.

This was stated by Senator McMahon, chairman of the senate-house atomic committee, as: "The continuing problem of our relations with the United Kingdom and Canada in the field of atomic energy."

Although they apparently were informed before McMahon's statement, the British officials said they were astonished because they couldn't see any reason for such conferences.

From the American and British records of scientific accomplishments in the A-bomb field in pre-war and early war days, the British might be expected to have fully as much knowledge as the Americans.

However, the British have frequently asked the United States for information on some mechanical process connected with manufacture of the bomb. They have always received a reply. Sometimes the information was given, and sometimes United States officials said sorry but they were forbidden by law to talk about that.

Eventually the turn-downs became so numerous that British officials suggested that in the mutual interest of the two countries something might be done to loosen up information. But, British informants emphasize, there was never any actual complaint, formal or informal.

Canadians in Washington ridicule suggestions that Canada (at Britain's urging, or its own) is attempting to use Canada's uranium ore as a lever to force technical A-bomb secrets out of the United States.

An embassy spokesman says: "We are not attempting to make an atom bomb. Our attention is concentrated on industrial research in atomic energy."

Canadian Trade Minister C. D. Howe, the dominion's atomic big-shot, has said in Ottawa: "Britain has never brought pressure to bear on Canada—and it would not be taken very kindly if she did."

United States atomic energy commission people have made several speeches this year saying the United States supply of uranium comes from the Belgian Congo and Great Bear Lake in Canada. They have never specified which one is the mainstay. A scientific informant in New York says it's his understanding it's the Congo.

Supreme Court

WASHINGTON — (AP) — While not claiming any inside information, people around Democratic national headquarters are passing the word that President Truman will name a supreme court justice from one of these three among several whom speculation has touched:

Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, a Catholic as was Frank Murphy, whose death caused the vacancy.

Senator McGrath, Democrat, Rhode Island, national Democratic chairman, also a Catholic.

People

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Friends are talking about running John L. Sullivan, former navy secretary, as Democratic candidate for senator in New Hampshire. His action in quitting when Defense Secretary Johnson sank the navy's super-carrier has earned him something of a martyr's role at home.

Five Percenters

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The same hard-hitting senate investigators who dug up evidence that helped convict Bennet E. Myers, former chief of air force buying, are handling the "five percenters" case.

Chief investigator for the special senate subcommittee checking allegations of influence in the awarding of government contracts is William P. Rogers, an aide to Thomas E. Dewey in his New York City racket-busting days. Rogers' assistant is Francis D. Flanagan, former F. B. I. agent.

Senator Hoey, Democrat, North Carolina, credits Rogers and Flanagan with digging up the information that has already resulted in suspension of two key army generals.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt—(AP)—Former Queen Elena, of Italy, who has been living here, is on her way to Europe to visit her daughter, Princess Marie, and her son, former King Umberto.

ADDIS ABABA—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, in greeting new United States Ambassador George Merrell, expressed hope American oil explorations will pave the way for closer United States-Ethiopian ties.

Move To Canada?

OTTAWA—(AP)—A resources department official says Canada is likely to look to the United States for immigrants in the future. Many European countries now restrict emigrants. Those going to Canada are expected to decline from 125,000 in 1948 to 100,000 this year.

Harry Or Horse?

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Morse, Republican, Oregon, had to make a tough choice the other night.

He wanted to hear President Truman's radio chat, but one of his three mares (he's an avid horseman) was about to have a colt.

"I finally decided in favor of the humanitarian party," the senator is telling people—adding that he has probably helped deliver more colts than some veterinarians.

British Press

LONDON — (AP) — The cabinet will decide this week whether to accept the report of the royal commission on the press.

The commission criticized several aspects of the operation of British newspapers but said they were "inferior to none in the world." It urged that publishers voluntarily form a press council. The cabinet almost certainly will decide agaiinst compelling any such move.

Farm Surpluses

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McClellan Democrat Arkansas says he's "not backing up an inch" on his move to require the economic cooperation administration (ECA) to buy surplus American farm commodities.

McClellan got a rider attached to the foreign aid bill which has ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman in a dither. Hoffman complains the amendments put a straight jacket on ECA.

McClellan says the amendment probably will be stricken out "but at least we are going to have a showdown about it."

Not Quite So Extinct

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—If adequately protected an animal once believed extinct may again roam the islands off southern California says Dr. George A. Bartholomew of the University of California.

The animal is the elephant seal, slaughtered wholesale during the last century for its voluminous supply of whale-like oil. A few managed to survive on islands of Mexico. In the past few years small herds have again appeared on the American Coronados and Channel Islands.

Capital Briefs

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The state department says most of the 4,000 Chinese students in the United States are stranded because of the spread of communism at home . . . Secret conversations are going on in administration circles about increasiing by $150,000,000 the grant of $400,000,000,000 to the Philippines for private war losses. . . . The semi-annual atomic energy commission report this week will accent atomic energy in medicine and biology.

FOREIGN WORKERS

BANGKOK — (AP) — Premier Phibun has drawn up a list of six categories of professions which will be restricted from now on to Thai (Siamese) workers only. The professions: Forestry; production and distribution of charcoal; ice production and distribution; soft drink factories; syrup and flavoring factories; printing plants (Thai language). Further, it was decided, all rice mills and sawmills must have at least 25 percent Thai workmen.

Hal Boyle's
NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—This is the built-in age.

Nobody any longer wants anything unless it is also guaranteed to have at least a couple of other features built into it.

This goes for practically everything from brassieres to bookcases, from three-color ice cream to cigarette boxes that play "Yankee Doodle" when opened. If it doesn't have that built-in something extra, it's strictly "twenty-three skiddoo." Even the pigeons turn up their beaks at popcorn today unless it contains three kinds of built-in vitamins.

Think I'm kidding? Well, over in Glasgow they've just developed a blouse with built-in perfume. Makes a girl smell sweet in any flavor she wants for months and months.

But this international craze to build something into something else probably has reached its true flower in the motor car and household gadget industries.

An automobile used to be a vehicle to get you from here to there. But now cars are gradually taking the place of the old-fashioned home. You can shave in them, listen to a concert, smoke, carry on a long distance telephone conversation with Paris, or push a button and slice your mother-in-law in half with an automatic sliding window. About the only thing you can't do in them is play a tuba.

Take what happened to the simple broom. It used to be a straightforward instrument for gathering dust out of odd corners. Then they turned it into a carpet sweeper. Then it developed into the vacuum cleaner. And what won't it do now? It'll paint walls, wax floors, dry the baby, manicure the furniture and shampoo your rug or your dog or your wife.

In another year it'll serve meals, fight peddlers, attack poisonous snakes, and play you gin rummy for keeps.

Furniture has become so complicated by built-in gadgets that you can't even tell its function from an outside look. Soon we'll have to hang an index on each piece to know all it is capable of. You'll have to approach it by radar.

As it is now I always have a moment of fear when a host asks me to pull open the door of a new cabinet in his living room. I never know whether the thing will dump a sack of laundry on the floor, flip out an X-ray picture of my lungs, spray me with martinis, roll out into a sofa bed or just show another television wrestling match from Chicago.

Yes, it's all confused. Try to dial a telephone and somebody complains you're turning off the air-conditioning unit. Are are living at peace in a built-in war, or dwelling at war in a built-in peace? Call a social engineer. The planet's a-wry.

The corner saloon no longer offers any escape. I met a friend emerging from one the other day, and he said with a dazed look:

"What a new slot machine they got in there! I put in a nickel. And what happened? Why the darn thing rang up a 10,000,000 score, shot off three Roman candles, weighed me, shined my shoes, told my fortune, played a Bing Crosby record—and reached into my pocket for another nickel.

"Don't go in there, pal. I barely got out alive. If I'd put in a quarter, the thing would probably have married me, moved into my apartment and set up housekeeping."

There is only one way to end the built-in age. That's to develop a race with some built-in common sense. Who really wants a fountain pen that will write letters, brush his teeth, take his passport photo and—for 50 cents extra—has three knife blades and a bottle opener at one end?

The Nation Today
JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—President Truman this week said that "tensions and conflicts appear to be increasing" within the circle of Russia's control.

There are some tensions and conflicts in eastern Europe, and here are three examples of them:

1. The Catholic Church has thrown a time-bomb into Communists' ranks by excommunicating any Catholic who helps them. This bomb will cause damage for years.

2. Marshal Tito, busy communising Yugoslavia, has been having a cat-and-dog fight with the Russian leaders and the Communists of the other European countries under Russia's thumb.

3. American government experts on Russia point out that the Communists of eastern Europe are having economic troubles. For example:

The Communist world wants to build up its industries as fast as it can but still lacks many tools it would like to get from this country and western Europe. So it would like to increase trade between east and west.

But—

These same American experts brush aside any notion that there is tension or conflict—in the sense of a split or quarrel—among the dozen top Communists who run Russia and direct Communist world strategy.

Those 12 men, headed by Josef Stalin, are members of the poliburo. They're the rulers of Russia. And this is what the American experts have to say about them:

First of all, the Americans' information isn't good enough to say precisely what happens inside the politburo. But they have no information on politburo splits.

They may disagree among themselves on what strategy to use in any given situation but, once a decision is made, they all go along with it. Take the case of Vyacheslav Molotov.

He's a politburo member, and has been for years. And he's an old-time shoulder-to-shoulder comrade of Stalin. Also, for years, Molotov was Russia's foreign minister.

Some months ago he was relieved of the foreign minister's job. But he remained in the politburo. Some people may have thought he had fallen out of favor and was going downhill.

But—other members of the politburo who had important government jobs were relieved of them, one by one, since the war ended. Why?

To enable them, the American experts say, to devote full time to their politburo jobs.

As members of the politburo it's their job to do the top policy-making for Russia and direct the strategy of world communism. They have their hands full, doing that.

The members of the politburo, in addition to Stalin and Molotov, are:

Andrei Andreev, expert in agriculture; Lavrenti Beria, who used to be head of the secret police; Nikolai Bulganin, who was chairman of the state bank of Moscow and helped plan Moscow's defense in the war; Lazar Kaganovich, who ran Russia's railroads in the war; Alexei Kosygin, expert in light industry; Nikita Khrushchev, head of the Ukrainian republic; Georgi Malenkov, one of Stalin's right-hand men; Anasta Mikoyan, expert in foreign trade; Nikolai Shvernik, chairman of the supreme soviet, closest Russian job to that of U. S. president; and Klimenti Boroshilov, marshal of the army and a revolutionary hero.

dren. We have to drag ourselves out of our comfortable chairs, out of our restful comfortable habits and go with them along the rugged path of youth. Telling them just won't do.

Says U. S. Undermined Chaing, Assisted Reds

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) today accused the state department of "undermining the leadership of Chiang Kai-Shek and the legitimate Chinese government" and indirectly aiding the Communist "drive for world domination."

The senator said he has learned that the department is planning to release a so-called white paper on the situation in China. He expressed a hope "that the state department will refrain from any such action at this time."

McCarran and other senators have opposed cutting off of United States aid for Chiang and the Nationalist government after their long series of defeats in the Chinese internal conflict.

His statement today said the white paper "will defend the department's 'do nothing' policy and seek to cover up its blunders and to excuse or condone, if not conceal, the department's long failure to do any constructive planning toward preventing the further spread of communism in the far east."

Former Boat Builder Cruises With Bathtub

CARLSTADT, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—A 61-year-old former speedboat builder chugs happily along the Hackensack river these hot days—in a bathtub.

Emil Meyer, its owner, driver and designer, said the tub is one which Sears, Roebuck and Co. gave away 50 years ago to anyone who sold $10 worth of the firm's soap.

The galvanized tin bathtub is mounted on two boards supported by two balsa pontoons. It is powered by a 2 1/2 horsepower outboard motor. The board supporting the outboard supplants the usual faucets.

The "special" goes no faster than a rowed boat. The pontoons keep the tub steady and steerable. The navigator-bather must sort of squat in the tub or else use a slanting board as a seat.

In most European countries females outnumber males, and in most non-European countries the opposite is true.

Indonesia Prefers European Government

JOGJAKARTA, Java, July 23.—(AP)—A government on the west European model is the reported choice of Indonesian political leaders for the projected United States of Indonesia.

Republican officials and representatives of 15 other Indonesian states and territories adjourned here last night after three days' discussion of the future of the islands after the Dutch yield control. They plan to meet again in Batavia July 30.

The conferees agreed the government should have a president at its head, but with actual authority in the hands of cabinet ministers.

Republican Premier Mohamed Hatta, the conference chairman, read results at a 20-minute open meeting: The name will be "The Republic of Indonesia Serikat (United)."

A technical committee will discuss what states should form it.

The Indonesian peoples will be represented by a house of representatives and senate. The house would have limited number of members; 150 is considered sufficient. No agreement could be reached on the power of the senate.

Citizens will consist of three categories—Indonesians who are now Dutch subjects or citizens of the Indonesian Republic; Chinese and Arabs of similar status who do not object to citizenship; all European (whites) who wish to become citizens.

As soon as possible after the Dutch transfers sovereignty, the provisional Indonesian government will prepare free, secret elections for a constituent (constitutional) assembly.

An agreement was reached on major points regarding finances, but financial and economic policy will be discussed further in Batavia.

A discussion on union with The Netherlands also was deferred.

Men In Service

FERRIDAY, La., July 23.—(Special)—Sergeant Thomas E. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad H. George of Newellton, recently reenlisted in the United States air force at Tampa, Fla., and he is now assigned to the 1856th flight checking squadron of the airways and air communications service as a radar operator.

Sergeant George first enlisted in the air force, May 17, 1946. He recently returned from a 17-month tour of duty in Alaska with the airways and air communications service, the major communications system in the air force. Sergeant George graduated from Newellton High School in 1945.

Two Olla, La., men, William K. Hemphill, seaman, USN, husband of Mrs. William K. Hemphill and Willie J. Lanehart, seaman, USN, of Route 1, are scheduled to arrive at Annapolis, Md., July 25, from Portsmouth, England, after a 15-day stop at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, as crew members aboard the battleship U. S. S. Missouri.

The Missouri was flagship of the Midshipmen Practice Cruise Squadron which carried 1,235 Naval Academy and Naval Reserve Midshipmen.

Before their departure they were hosts to a group of opera stars from the La Scala Opera House in Milan, Italy, who are appearing for a season in London. This was one of the many forms of entertainment arranged for the visiting Navy men, which included tours, parties, dances and sports programs.

PRESSING BUSINESS

CHICAGO — (AP) — Alderman John Hoellen has introduced a proposal that the city give policeman $100 a year to keep their uniforms cleaned, creased and in good shape. "Chicago has one of the poorest dressed police forces in the country," Hoellen said. "It's important from the standpoint of morale and pride that the force be dressed up."

NAME SPEAKERS FOR FARM WEEK

General Assemblies Will Be Held At L. S. U. August 15 Through August 18

Mrs. Raymond Sayre, Ackworth, Iowa, president of the Associated Country Women of the World; R. M. Short, president of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, and Dr. W. A. Martin, head of the rural church department of the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, will be among the visiting speakers at the annual Louisiana State University Farm and Home Week, August 15-18. The three will be heard at general assemblies, Short speaking at 7 p. m. August 16, Mrs. Sayre at 7 p. m. August 17, and Dr. Martin at 7 p. m. August 18.

The first general assembly, on August 15, will hear talks by Gov. Earl K. Long, Lt. Gov. W. J. Dodd, Commissioner of Agriculture W. E. Anderson, and President Harold Stoke of L. S. U., according to a program announcement by H. C. Sanders, director of the L. S. U. agricultural extension service, the agency in charge of Farm and Home Week arrangements. The agricultural experiment station, the teaching division of the college, and other branches of the university will cooperate in staging the Farm and Home Week program. A general invitation has been extended to all Louisiana farm people, and between 2,000 and 3,000 are expected to be present.

The general assemblies will be held in the L. S. U. Greek Theatre, or in the gymnasium-armory in case of rain. Each night, in addition to the featured speakers, there will be group singing and special music by a Home Demonstration Club chorus.

Registration will be Monday afternoon, August 15, and the program will get under way at 8:15 a. m. the following morning. There will be lectures and demonstrations dealing with almost every phase of farming and homemaking.

Girl Is Well After Numbutal Overdosage

With her three-year-old daughter, Frances Elizabeth Powell, completely recovered from the effects of filched numbutal tablets, Mrs. E. L. Powell has a new problem.

Since the article about her child first appeared in the News-Star Wednesday she has been receiving many telephone calls offering sympathy.

"Many people of whom I had not the least knowledge have been calling. We can't start to do anything without the telephone ringing. Please tell everybody that Frances is doing fine and completely recovered," Mrs. Powell requested.

In Hollywood With

JIMMIE FIDLER

HOLLYWOOD, July 23.—Wonder how many Hollywoodites realize that Warner Brothers, during the past few months, has dropped more than 25 important feature players? . . . Aside to Hollywood screen Romeos who profess scorn for cowboy heroics: Roy Rogers' new two-year-contract with Republic, added to his royalties from gadgets bearing his name, will pay him better than $1,000,000 a year! . . Mrs. Dane Clark is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Santa Monica, for observation and a possible stomach operation . . . Time out for Pat O'Brien, bedded by severe sunburn.

Shirley Temple's brother, George, who's been wrestling professionally for several years, will make his screen debut in Republic's "Pardon My Toe Hold" . . . Actress Mary Anderson ("The Song of Bernadette" and "Keys to the Kingdom") has separated from her husband, Leonard Behrens, and plans a divorce suit . . .Add unusual gifts from fans: the talking mynah bird sent Jeanette MacDonald by an Indian maharajah . . . Dan Dailey and his estranged wife will make up their minds about reconciliation or divorce when they take a two-week vacation jaunt together after the completion of his current picture.

Merle Oberon, according to European informants, has a late summer date with a plastic surgeon in Switzerland. . . . Wotzis about Anna Maria Mussolini, daughter of the late, unlamented dictator, trying to get a visa for a visit in the U. S. A. on the claim that she's engaged to marry a former American army captain? . . . Jack Dempsey and Mickey Rooney's manager, Sam Stiefel, have bought the contract of promising heavyweight boxer, Clarence Henry.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a flimsy week: Eagle-Lion's "Reign of Terror" (Robert Cummings-Richard Baseheart-Arlene Dahl). Action melodrama "based" on the French revolution—short on historical accuracy, but long on excitement. FAIR: Eagle-Lion's "Sleeping Car to Trieste" (Jean Kent-Albert Lieven-Derrick De Marney). Made-in-England cops-and-robbers drama offering better than average performances. Screen Guild's 'Ringside' (Don Barry-Tom Brown-Sheila Ryan). Another prize-fight entry with enough dramatic punches to make it too-notch "supporting" fare. HO-HUM: Monogram's 'Mississippi Rhythm" (Jimmie Davis-Veda Ann Borg-Lee "Lasses" White). A Class "C" musical, made to capitalize on the fact that Jimmie Davis used to be "His Excellency," the governor of Louisiana. BEST PERFORMANCE: Robert Cummings in "Reign of Terror."

About fifteen years ago, a couple of high-pressure publicists tried to sell Irene Dunne a bill of goods, and nearly succeeded. They warned her that her Hollywood career was going to be all washed up in another year or two if she continued her quiet, ladylike behavior. "Colorless," they called it. Well, Irene was sufficiently frightened by their ominous croaking that she attempted on one or two occasions to inject a little sensation into her press interviews, but her own innate common sense and dignity made the attempts abortive. So she concluded that she'd just go on being her own ladylike self, concentrate on her acting chores, and take the consequences. She's getting them now—in the form of a resolution, signed by some 36,000 members of the Motion Picture Industry Council, attesting the pride and affection with which Hollywood regards her.

While I'm making bows to Hollywood stars, I want to direct one to Danny Kaye, who's decided to undertake personal appearances in fifteen major American cities to help exploit his picture, "Happy Times." The unusual thing about this project is the fact that Danny, instead of demanding big pay from his studio or from the theaters he will play, is going to do the tour free-gratis-for-nothing. He believes that with the movie industry in the financial limboes, every star should be willing to put forth a little extra-curricular effort to bolster the box office receipts which will guarantee his own future prosperity. Actually, I'm bowing to him because it's amazing to find a Hollywood actor so "smart."

At least three times a week, since he entered the independent production field, Mickey Rooney's press agents have announced new enterprises for their boss. Last week, on three successive days, the world was informed that he would (1) do a New York stage play this fall, (2) make a picture entitled "The Bashful Buccaneer" in partnership with Harry Joe Brown, and (3) go to Argentina to make a picture in association with Director Busby Berkeley. Since not even a human dynamo of Mickey's voltage can possibly carry out 10 percent of the plans announced for him, the whole business is becoming ridiculous. Either he should restrain his press agents, or (much more likely) his press agents should restrain him. The Rooney kid has an amazing quota of talent and he should go places as a producer, if ever he learns to concentrate his attention on one enterprise at a time.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

Up in Harlem, they will tell you that Charlie-Ed Harris is the smoothest-talking man who ever put leather to Lenox avenue.

For example, there was the time a cop picked him up on 116th street for passing a red light.

"Sorry, sir," said Charlie-Ed, "but I saw the white folks passing the green lights, so naturally I figured the red ones were for colored people."

But the classic story of Charlie-Ed's genius dates back to the summer he worked as butler for Reginald Parker III.

Reginald, as the saying goes, was quite a decent sort, and butlering at the Parker manse was made even easier by the fact that Mrs. Parker, a professional do-gooder with a finger in a dozen sticky pies, was generally out of town lecturing and letting her conscience be the other fellow's guide.

That July, Reginald Parker decided to spend a few weeks in Southampton and instructed Charlie-Ed to board up the house.

"If it's just for a month," said Charlie-Ed, "I'd be glad to live here and take care of the place."

This seemed like a first-rate idea to Mr. Parker, seeing as how he never knew when he might be called back to town on business.

The following Saturday, Charlie-Ed got lonesome and decided to throw a little party, and at 3 a. m., as the joints began to close, there was a mass exodus from Lenox avenue which included bartenders, a couple of jump bands and the complete chorus line of the Pink Elephant club and the Blue Tiger cafe.

Most of the performers came without bothering to change makeup or costumes, and for the next few hours everybody had himself a time as the hottest fingers in Harlem plunked away on the Steinway grand, and a big-name trumpeter did his best to splinter the crystal in the chandelier.

Then, as luck would have it, Mrs. Parker, fresh from a bout with the devil in Denver, picked out this particular morning to return unexpectedly.

"What is the meaning of this?" she asked, nostrils akimbo, as she walked into the living room.

"Meaning?" Charlie-Ed said smoothly. "May I ask who you are, madam?"

"I am Mrs. Reginald Parker."

"Parker? Ah—you must be the wife of the gentleman who used to live here. The house changed hands last week."

"That's impossible. It was in both our names."

"I suggest you take that up with Mr. Parker," said Charlie-Ed.

At this moment, a trio of girls, wearing their Pink Elephant finale costumes, dashed into the living room pursued by a couple of Blue Tiger hoofers.

"Wh-what's that.?" asked Mrs. Parker.

"Pink elephants and blue tigers, madam."

Mrs. Parker made a noise like a suction pump and left.

Next afternoon the miffy matron was back, accompanied by Mr. Parker and a policeman.

"Glad to see you, sir," said Charlie-Ed. "I hope nothing is wrong."

Reginald made a quick inspection and found everything in order. "Mrs. Parker tells me there was a wild party here last night," he said.

"Then the lady really is Mrs. Parker?" said Charlie-Ed. "She claimed to be, but of course, I didn't believe her, because—I wonder, sir, if I could talk to you alone a minute."

He lowered his voice and began to confide something.

"You don't say!" said Reginald. "You mean she was actually dr. . "

"No whispering," said Mrs. Parker. "Tell him about the party."

"Party? What party, madam."

"Are you trying to deny what I saw with my own eyes last night?"

"What, exactly, did you see?" asked Mr. Parker.

"Pink elephant girls."

"What else?"

"Blue tigers."

Mr. Parker shook his head sadly.

"Well. . ." said his wife, tapping her foot. "What are you going to do about it?"

"Under the circumstances, my dear, there isn't much I can do."

"Either that man goes, or I go."

Mr. Parker made no reply.

"Very well," said his wife. "You'll hear from my lawyers immediately."

"Sorry, sir," said the policeman as he turned to leave, "I know how it is. . . ."

"Hope I didn't say anything wrong, sir," said Charlie-Ed. "Can I fix you a drink."

"No thanks, I feel fine," said Reginald. "I'm returning to Southampton. Look after things while I'm gone."

"Very good, sir."

"—and, oh, by the way." Mr. Parker reached into his pocket and pulled out a blue tiger tail. "I found this behind the umbrella stand," he said. "You might want to return it to its owner."

"Very good, sir," said Charlie-Ed.

Looking Ahead

IN WASHINGTON

(By The World Staff of Associated Press)

Scientists who should know say its foolish to think that Britain knows less than the United States about how to make good atom bombs. The difference, they say, is simply that this country has the industrial equipment to make larger bombs than Britain.

Even so, these scientists hold, the weakest bomb that England—or Russia, or any other country—could make would be so close to the most powerful one the United States now has that you probably couldn't tell the difference if you flew over a bombed-out place.

All this being so, British officials in Washington and London were taken by surprise when they learned the topic of the secret conferences among President Truman and military, scientific and congressional leaders.

This was stated by Senator McMahon, chairman of the senate-house atomic committee, as: "The continuing problem of our relations with the United Kingdom and Canada in the field of atomic energy."

Although they apparently were informed before McMahon's statement, the British officials said they were astonished because they couldn't see any reason for such conferences.

From the American and British records of scientific accomplishments in the A-bomb field in pre-war and early war days, the British might be expected to have fully as much knowledge as the Americans.

However, the British have frequently asked the United States for information on some mechanical process connected with manufacture of the bomb. They have always received a reply. Sometimes the information was given, and sometimes United States officials said sorry but they were forbidden by law to talk about that.

Eventually the turn-downs became so numerous that British officials suggested that in the mutual interest of the two countries something might be done to loosen up information. But, British informants emphasize, there was never any actual complaint, formal or informal.

Canadians in Washington ridicule suggestions that Canada (at Britain's urging, or its own) is attempting to use Canada's uranium ore as a lever to force technical A-bomb secrets out of the United States.

An embassy spokesman says: "We are not attempting to make an atom bomb. Our attention is concentrated on industrial research in atomic energy."

Canadian Trade Minister C. D. Howe, the dominion's atomic big-shot, has said in Ottawa: "Britain has never brought pressure to bear on Canada—and it would not be taken very kindly if she did."

United States atomic energy commission people have made several speeches this year saying the United States supply of uranium comes from the Belgian Congo and Great Bear Lake in Canada. They have never specified which one is the mainstay. A scientific informant in New York says it's his understanding it's the Congo.

Supreme Court

WASHINGTON — (AP) — While not claiming any inside information, people around Democratic national headquarters are passing the word that President Truman will name a supreme court justice from one of these three among several whom speculation has touched:

Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, a Catholic as was Frank Murphy, whose death caused the vacancy.

Senator McGrath, Democrat, Rhode Island, national Democratic chairman, also a Catholic.

People

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Friends are talking about running John L. Sullivan, former navy secretary, as Democratic candidate for senator in New Hampshire. His action in quitting when Defense Secretary Johnson sank the navy's super-carrier has earned him something of a martyr's role at home.

Five Percenters

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The same hard-hitting senate investigators who dug up evidence that helped convict Bennet E. Myers, former chief of air force buying, are handling the "five percenters" case.

Chief investigator for the special senate subcommittee checking allegations of influence in the awarding of government contracts is William P. Rogers, an aide to Thomas E. Dewey in his New York City racket-busting days. Rogers' assistant is Francis D. Flanagan, former F. B. I. agent.

Senator Hoey, Democrat, North Carolina, credits Rogers and Flanagan with digging up the information that has already resulted in suspension of two key army generals.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt—(AP)—Former Queen Elena, of Italy, who has been living here, is on her way to Europe to visit her daughter, Princess Marie, and her son, former King Umberto.

ADDIS ABABA—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, in greeting new United States Ambassador George Merrell, expressed hope American oil explorations will pave the way for closer United States-Ethiopian ties.

Move To Canada?

OTTAWA—(AP)—A resources department official says Canada is likely to look to the United States for immigrants in the future. Many European countries now restrict emigrants. Those going to Canada are expected to decline from 125,000 in 1948 to 100,000 this year.

Harry Or Horse?

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Morse, Republican, Oregon, had to make a tough choice the other night.

He wanted to hear President Truman's radio chat, but one of his three mares (he's an avid horseman) was about to have a colt.

"I finally decided in favor of the humanitarian party," the senator is telling people—adding that he has probably helped deliver more colts than some veterinarians.

British Press

LONDON — (AP) — The cabinet will decide this week whether to accept the report of the royal commission on the press.

The commission criticized several aspects of the operation of British newspapers but said they were "inferior to none in the world." It urged that publishers voluntarily form a press council. The cabinet almost certainly will decide againist compelling any such move.

Farm Surpluses

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McClellan Democrat Arkansas says he's "not backing up an inch" on his move to require the economic cooperation administration (ECA) to buy surplus American farm commodities.

McClellan got a rider attached to the foreign aid bill which has ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman in a dither. Hoffman complains the amendments put a straight jacket on ECA.

McClellan says the amendment probably will be stricken out "but at least we are going to have a showdown about it."

Not Quite So Extinct

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—If adequately protected an animal once believed extinct may again roam the islands off southern California says Dr. George A. Bartholomew of the University of California.

The animal is the elephant seal, slaughtered wholesale during the last century for its voluminous supply of whale-like oil. A few managed to survive on islands of Mexico. In the past few years small herds have again appeared on the American Coronados and Channel Islands.

Capital Briefs

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The state department says most of the 4,000 Chinese students in the United States are stranded because of the spread of communism at home . . . Secret conversations are going on in administration circles about increasing by $150,000,000 the grant of $400,000,000,000 to the Philippines for private war losses. . . . The semi-annual atomic energy commission report this week will accent atomic energy in medicine and biology.

FOREIGN WORKERS

BANGKOK — (AP) — Premier Phibun has drawn up a list of six categories of professions which will be restricted from now on to Thai (Siamese) workers only. The professions: Forestry; production and distribution of charcoal; ice production and distribution; soft drink factories; syrup and flavoring factories; printing plants (Thai language). Further, it was decided, all rice mills and sawmills must have at least 25 percent Thai workmen.

DeWitt Mackenzie:

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

America's ratification of the North Atlantic treaty bids fair to be a tremendous contribution to global peace and progress.

Acceptance by the world's greatest power was essential to endow the 12-nation alliance with success. Basically the pact is designed to afford powerful mutual defense against aggression. It is a commitment of one for all and all for one.

Without the adherance of the United States, Europe would have been thrust headlong into a slough of despond—worse off than when the pact was proposed, for seven nations already had ratified it. The powers of aggression would have been strengthened.

But the alliance is far more than a defensive agreement. By ensuring peace it will facilitate the rehabilitation of western Europe's war-shocked countries. And it will safeguard the development of our democratic way of life which will allow us to escape the yoke of totalitarianism and maintain the status of free men.

There is nothing in the pact which conflicts with the spirit of the United Nations. However, since such an alliance is a unique and far-reaching commitment it is small wonder that the peoples of the various countries concerned, and especially we of America, should have insisted on examining the proposition thoroughly before accepting it.

As things stand we are not committed to any eventuality which we wouldn't encounter if there were another major war in Europe. It is scientifically possible for rain to fall on your neighbor's house across the street without falling on yours. But it's mighty improbable.

By the same token there is virtually no chance of America escaping involvement in another European upheaval. We've learned that lesson (or should have) the hard way in two world wars. We know that preparedness is the best form of security pending the arrival of the happy day when mankind will subscribe to the tenets of the Sermon on the Mount.

Of course it's natural that the average citizen should be anxious about the heavy cost of supporting the alliance. For example the White House announced yesterday that President Truman will send to congress Monday a proposed program of foreign military aid to back up the Atlantic Pact. It is understood that the proposed authorization will be for $1,450,000,000 for foreign military aid, of which $1,130,000,000 would go to America's associates in the Atlantic treaty.

However, our past war experience—as it has been tough during the last generation—has demonstrated that preparedness is the cheapest form of security. Apropos of the question of reviving Europe and Asia for peace, President Truman had this to say in an extemporaneous foreign policy speech at a Shrine dinner in Chicago last Tuesday:

"And I am saying to you: 'Which is better, to spend three or four or five billions a year for peace, or to spend a hundred billion dollars a year for another war?"

There would seem to be only one answer to that cogent question. It's cheaper to ensure peace than to go to war.

NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—This is the built-in age.

Nobody any longer wants anything unless it is also guaranteed to have at least a couple of other features built into it.

This goes for practically everything from brassieres to bookcases, from three-color ice cream to cigarette boxes that play "Yankee Doodle" when opened. If it doesn't have that built-in something extra, it's strictly "twenty-three skiddoo." Even the pigeons turn up their beaks at popcorn today unless it contains three kinds of built-in vitamins.

Think I'm kidding? Well, over in Glasgow they've just developed a blouse with built-in perfume. Makes a girl smell sweet in any flavor she wants for months and months.

But this international craze to build something into something else probably has reached its true flower in the motor car and household gadget industries.

An automobile used to be a vehicle to get you from here to there. But now cars are gradually taking the place of the old-fashioned home. You can shave in them, listen to a concert, smoke, carry on a long distance telephone conversation with Paris, or push a button and slice your mother-in-law in half with an automatic sliding window. About the only thing you can't do in them is play a tuba.

Take what happened to the simple broom. It used to be a straightforward instrument for gathering dust out of odd corners. Then they turned it into a carpet sweeper. Then it developed into the vacuum cleaner. And what won't it do now? It'll paint walls, wax floors, dry the baby, manicure the furniture and shampoo your rug or your dog or your wife.

In another year it'll serve meals, fight peddlers, attack poisonous snakes, and play you gin rummy for keeps.

Furniture has become so complicated by built-in gadgets that you can't even tell its function from an outside look. Soon we'll have to hang an index on each piece to know all it is capable of. You'll have to approach it by radar.

As it is now I always have a moment of fear when a host asks me to pull open the door of a new cabinet in his living room. I never know whether the thing will dump a sack of laundry on the floor, flip out an X-ray picture of my lungs, spray me with martinis, roll out into a sofa bed or just show another television wrestling match from Chicago.

Yes, it's all confused. Try to dial a telephone and somebody complains you're turning off the air-conditioning unit. Are are living at peace in a built-in war, or dwelling at war in a built-in peace? Call a social engineer. The planet's a-wry.

The corner saloon no longer offers any escape. I met a friend emerging from one the other day, and he said with a dazed look:

"What a new slot machine they got in there! I put in a nickel. And what happened? Why the darn thing rang up a 10,000,000 score, shot off three Roman candles, weighed me, shined my shoes, told my fortune, played a Bing Crosby record—and reached into my pocket for another nickel.

"Don't go in there, pal. I barely got out alive. If I'd put in a quarter, the thing would probably have married me, moved into my apartment and set up housekeeping."

There is only one way to end the built-in age. That's to develop a race with some built-in common sense. Who really wants a fountain pen that will write letters, brush his teeth, take his passport photo and—for 50 cents extra—has three knife blades and a bottle opener at one end?

The Nation Today

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—President Truman this week said that "tensions and conflicts appear to be increasing" within the circle of Russia's control.

There are some tensions and conflicts in eastern Europe, and here are three examples of them:

1. The Catholic Church has thrown a time-bomb into Communists' ranks by excommunicating any Catholic who helps them. This bomb will cause damage for years.

2. Marshal Tito, busy communising Yugoslavia, has been having a cat-and-dog fight with the Russian leaders and the Communists of the other European countries under Russia's thumb.

3. American government experts on Russia point out that the Communists of eastern Europe are having economic troubles. For example:

The Communist world wants to build up its industries as fast as it can but still lacks many tools it would like to get from this country and western Europe. So it would like to increase trade between east and west.

But—

These same American experts brush aside any notion that there is tension or conflict—in the sense of a split or quarrel—among the dozen top Communists who run Russia and direct Communist world strategy.

Those 12 men, headed by Josef Stalin, are members of the politburo. They're the rulers of Russia. And this is what the American experts have to say about them:

First of all, the Americans' information isn't good enough to say precisely what happens inside the politburo. But they have no information on politburo splits.

They may disagree among themselves on what strategy to use in any given situation but, once a decision is made, they all go along with it. Take the case of Vyacheslav Molotov.

He's a politburo member, and has been for years. And he's an old-time shoulder-to-shoulder comrade of Stalin. Also, for years, Molotov was Russia's foreign minister.

Some months ago he was relieved of the foreign minister's job. But he remained in the politburo. Some people may have thought he had fallen out of favor and was going downhill.

But—other members of the politburo who had important government jobs were relieved of them, one by one, since the war ended. Why?

To enable them, the American experts say, to devote full time to their politburo jobs.

As members of the politburo it's their job to do the top policy-making for Russia and direct the strategy of world communism. They have their hands full, doing that.

The members of the politburo, in addition to Stalin and Molotov, are:

Andrei Andreev, expert in agriculture; Lavrenti Beria, who used to be head of the secret police; Nikolai Bulganin, who was chairman of the state bank of Moscow and helped plan Moscow's defense in the war; Lazar Kaganovich, who ran Russia's railroads in the war; Alexei Kosygin, expert in light industry; Nikita Khrushchev, head of the Ukrainian republic; Georgi Malenkov, one of Stalin's right-hand men; Anasta Mikoyan, expert in foreign trade; Nikolai Shvernik, chairman of the supreme soviet, closest Russian job to that of U. S. president; and Klimenti Boroshilov, marshal of the army and a revolutionary hero.

Says U. S. Undermined Chaing, Assisted Reds

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) today accused the state department of "undermining the leadership of Chiang Kai-Shek and the legitimate Chinese government" and indirectly aiding the Communist "drive for world domination."

The senator said he has learned that the department is planning to release a so-called white paper on the situation in China. He expressed a hope "that the state department will refrain from any such action at this time."

McCarran and other senators have opposed cutting off of United States aid for Chiang and the Nationalist government after their long series of defeats in the Chinese internal conflict.

His statement today said the white paper "will defend the department's 'do nothing' policy and seek to cover up its blunders and to excuse or condone, if not conceal, the department's long failure to do any constructive planning toward preventing the further spread of communism in the far east."

Former Boat Builder Cruises With Bathtub

CARLSTADT, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—A 61-year-old former speedboat builder chugs happily along the Hackensack river these hot days—in a bathtub.

Emil Meyer, its owner, driver and designer, said the tub is one which Sears, Roebuck and Co. gave away 50 years ago to anyone who sold $10 worth of the firm's soap.

The galvanized tin bathtub is mounted on two boards supported by two balsa pontoons. It is powered by a 2 1 2 horsepower outboard motor. The board supporting the outboard supplants the usual faucets.

The "special" goes no faster than a rowed boat. The pontoons keep the tub steady and steerable. The navigator-bather must sort of squat in the tub or else use a slanting board as a seat.

In most European countries females outnumber males, and in most non-European countries the opposite is true.

Indonesia Prefers European Government

JOGJAKARTA, Java, July 23.—(AP)—A government on the west European model is the reported choice of Indonesian political leaders for the projected United States of Indonesia.

Republican officials and representatives of 15 other Indonesian states and territories adjourned here last night after three days' discussion of the future of the islands after the Dutch yield control. They plan to meet again in Batavia July 30.

The conferees agreed the government should have a president at its head, but with actual authority in the hands of cabinet ministers.

Republican Premier Mohamed Hatta, the conference chairman, read results at a 20-minute open meeting: The name will be "The Republic of Indonesia Serikat (United)."

A technical committee will discuss what states should form it.

The Indonesian peoples will be represented by a house of representatives and senate. The house would have limited number of members; 150 is considered sufficient. No agreement could be reached on the power of the senate.

Citizens will consist of three categories—Indonesians who are now Dutch subjects or citizens of the Indonesian Republic; Chinese and Arabs of similar status who do not object to citizenship; all European (whites) who wish to become citizens.

As soon as possible after the Dutch transfers sovereignty, the provisional Indonesian government will prepare free, secret elections for a constituent (constitutional) assembly.

An agreement was reached on major points regarding finances, but financial and economic policy will be discussed further in Batavia.

A discussion on union with The Netherlands also was deferred.

Men In Service

FERRIDAY, La., July 23.—(Special)—Sergeant Thomas E. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad H. George of Newellton, recently reenlisted in the United States air force at Tampa, Fla., and he is now assigned to the 1856th flight checking squadron of the airways and air communications service as a radar operator.

Sergeant George first enlisted in the air force, May 17, 1946. He recently returned from a 17-month tour of duty in Alaska with the airways and air communications service, the major communications system in the air force. Sergeant George graduated from Newellton High School in 1945.

Two Olla, La., men, William K. Hemphill, seaman, USN, husband of Mrs. William K. Hemphill and Willie J. Lanehart, seaman, USN, of Route 1, are scheduled to arrive at Annapolis, Md., July 25, from Portsmouth, England, after a 15-day stop at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, as crew members aboard the battleship U. S. S. Missouri.

The Missouri was flagship of the Midshipmen Practice Cruise Squadron which carried 1,235 Naval Academy and Naval Reserve Midshipmen.

Before their departure they were hosts to a group of opera stars from the La Scala Opera House in Milan, Italy, who are appearing for a season in London. This was one of the many forms of entertainment arranged for the visiting Navy men, which included tours, parties, dances and sports programs.

PRESSING BUSINESS

CHICAGO — (AP) — Alderman John Hoellen has introduced a proposal that the city give policeman $100 a year to keep their uniforms cleaned, creased and in good shape. "Chicago has one of the poorest dressed police forces in the country," Hoellen said. "It's important from the standpoint of morale and pride that the force be dressed up."

NAME SPEAKERS FOR FARM WEEK

General Assemblies Will Be Held At L. S. U. August 15 Through August 18

Mrs. Raymond Sayre, Ackworth, Iowa, president of the Associated Country Women of the World; R. M. Short, president of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, and Dr. W. A. Martin, head of the rural church department of the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, will be among the visiting speakers at the annual Louisiana State University Farm and Home Week, August 15-18. The three will be heard at general assemblies, Short speaking at 7 p. m. August 16, Mrs. Sayre at 7 p. m. August 17, and Dr. Martin at 7 p. m. August 18.

The first general assembly, on August 15, will hear talks by Gov. Earl K. Long, Lt. Gov. W. J. Dodd, Commissioner of Agriculture W. E. Anderson, and President Harold Stoke of L. S. U., according to a program announcement by H. C. Sanders, director of the L. S. U. agricultural extension service, the agency in charge of Farm and Home Week arrangements. The agricultural experiment station, the teaching division of the college, and other branches of the university will cooperate in staging the Farm and Home Week program. A general invitation has been extended to all Louisiana farm people, and between 2,000 and 3,000 are expected to be present.

The general assemblies will be held in the L. S. U. Greek Theatre, or in the gymnasium-armory in case of rain. Each night, in addition to the featured speakers, there will be group singing and special music by a Home Demonstration Club chorus.

Registration will be Monday afternoon, August 15, and the program will get under way at 8:15 a. m. the following morning. There will be lectures and demonstrations dealing with almost every phase of farming and homemaking.

Girl Is Well After Numbutal Overdosage

With her three-year-old daughter, Frances Elizabeth Powell, completely recovered from the effects of filched numbutal tablets, Mrs. E. L. Powell has a new problem.

Since the article about her child first appeared in the News-Star Wednesday she has been receiving many telephone calls offering sympathy.

"Many people of whom I had not the least knowledge have been calling. We can't start to do anything without the telephone ringing. Please tell everybody that Frances is doing fine and completely recovered," Mrs. Powell requested.

Girl Takes Preacher's Job As Own

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—At an age when most girls are busy playing with dolls, 11-year-old Linda Kassimatis spends her time playing preacher before a sun-suited "congregation."

Every Wednesday afternoon for an hour she gathers her flock of neighborhood youngsters in her backyard for a Bible class. More than 40 children usually attend.

With all the decorum of one dedicated to the church, she calmly leads them in hymns and tells Biblical stories.

"Linda's always played church. She'd get her dolls together and preach to them," said her mother.

"Most children don't go to story hour at church, so I just thought I'd start one here," Linda explained.

Her seriousness in leading her squirming audience never deserts her. Her answer to the discipline problem is, "I just start talking and they keep quiet."

It's not really that simple. A couple of the older children act as monitors and her parents stand by to shake a finger at the too active. Linda's father, a cook, is unemployed because of illness.

In front of her on a little bench, she keeps her briefcase with church papers, Bible and bookmarks with religious pictures or texts. She gives the bookmarks to members of the congregation for good attendance or for bringing new members.

Every service ends with the distribution of religious literature and a "treat," a cold drink and cookies. Linda's church and some of the neighbors help her with the expenses.

A CHUMMY GHOST

SINGAPORE—(AP)—The ghost that walks the Singapore Mental Hospital grounds is a lonely ghost that hates to walk alone. It's favorite partner is Hoshal Khan, the head watchman.

Hoshal Khan likes to tell about his walks with a ghost. He says the ghost wears a yellow drape like a Buddhist monk. About a year ago, Hoshal was making his rounds when the ghost detached itself from the mortuary shadows and began walking alongside him. He noticed that the ghost didn't care to talk, so they walked in silence. Soon, the ghost took its leave. "On the next visitation, he addressed me by name and said that I was well fed and not talkative. I made no reply," Hoshal recalled, and quoted an old Afghanistan proverb, "If a ghost appears, speak not or you die."

Blaine lost the 1884 presidential election by a margin of only 1,149 votes—the number by which he lost New York state, and thus the electorial college, to Cleveland.

Scenes at the Smith Cemetery, six miles west of Monroe on the old Natchitoches road, show how near excavation operations came to the sides of the two-acre plot. At the upper left is shown a sign pointing the way in to the road leading off through the mounds of earth, with cemetery mispelled. The plot which contains the mausoleum of Hypolite La Baume is shown at the right, only about 25 feet from the pit on the north side. Operation of the draglines was halted six feet beyond the actual line. On the bottom left a view down the newly worked road that leads directly into the cemetery is given. Bottom right shows a lone tomb near the north edge. Space between the stone and the edge of the 40-foot hole is only enough for one automobile's passage.

Old Traditions Stay Long In Netherlands

Village Of 7,000, Staphorst, Looks Upon Cameras As Evil Eye; Strange Folkways Linger On In This Quiet Dutch Province

By Agnes Raateland
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

AMSTERDAM—Though Holland is not a country where everybody wears wooden shoes there are a good many Dutchmen still who cling to old traditions. Such people live in Staphorst.

A village of about 7,000 inhabitants, situated in the eastern province of Overijsel, 50 miles from the German border, Staphorst has its own way of life.

Staphorst is a colorful village. Red and blue are the womens costumes. The interiors of farms and houses are gay: red furniture, white-tiled walls, multicoloured crockery, bright paper flowers. On the outside the houses are blue with white and green shutters and windowsills, red, blue and green farmcarts and gates.

Tradition holds sway in Staphorst. Every man, woman and child wears this village-dress: a black suit for the men an intricate variety of coloured bodices, skirts, aprons and shawls for the women. Each garment has its own special meaning. It's a blue apron for mourning, for example, a red one for everyday-wear. A silver headdress goes with it all. When a girl is seven or eight, she gets her first "oorijzer" or casque, when she leaves school at 13, she has two gold curls attached to it. The more turns in these curls, the richer the girl's parents.

Staphorsters have been sleeping in cupboard-beds (with doors) for generations, they still do.

Courtships, marriages, births and deaths are wrought with traditions, some very old and pagan. Before marriage is even contempleted, boy sleeps with girl, in her room at the side of her parents' house. The young man comes by night and steals in through the window. It's his right, according to the clan. When the girl is found to be with child, however, the marriage must take place.

If the young man shows signs of wanting to desert the girl, he is reminded of his duty by his friends, who chase him and take him to the girl's house, where he must go through the wedding ceremony. If on the other hand, the girl is barren, it is she, who is held in contempt by the community. The young men bring dead wood to her house, to symbolize her state.

Ministers have long been trying to get the pre-marriage practices abolished, but many a young Staphorster still courts his girl in the old traditional way.

Superstition plays a big role, too. A pregnant woman must not handle any preserves, she might spoil them. She must drink camomile-tea.

Strangers and strange, new inventions are regarded with suspicion and distrust. Camera's were seized and destroyed in the early days of photography, when someone ventured to take pictures. A Staphorster never goes to a movie. It's the work of the devil, one sees there.

'El Bizarro' Data Is Sought

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(AP)—How could a character like "el Bizarro" help but fire the imagination of a professor of history?

He commanded a vessel at the age of 25 and privateered against the British in the War of 1812.

He became one of Jean Lafitte's most trusted lieutenants.

He sailed with Simon Bolivar, "The George Washington of South America."

He joined Bolivar in an attempt to save Grand Colombia by rounding Cape Horn from Venezuela to Peru.

He earned from Bolivar his nickname—"el Bizarro"—and wore it proudly before his given name, like a title, "el Bizarro Renato Beluche."

The history professor is Mrs. Jane Lucas DeGrummond of Louisiana State University. She hopes some day to piece together enough of Beluche's history to put it all down in a book.

Her research to date has taken her to Panama and Venezuela, to dusty archives at the St. Louis Cathedral in New Orleans and to ancient ship registers and crew lists.

Her hottest leads, she believes, may come from Louisianians who bear such typically Louisiana names as Marchand and Beaudry. And she is also looking for Beluches. Marchand, she has discovered, was the name of the husband of one of el Bizarro's sisters. Beaudry was the privateer's wife's maiden name.

Mrs. DeGrummond says she stumbled on the little-known contemporary of the LaFittes, Dominique You and Bolivar while editing a diary of John G. Williamson, first United States charge d'affaires to Venezuela. El Bizarro was mentioned in the diary.

Know anybody named Beluche? Beaudry? Marchand?

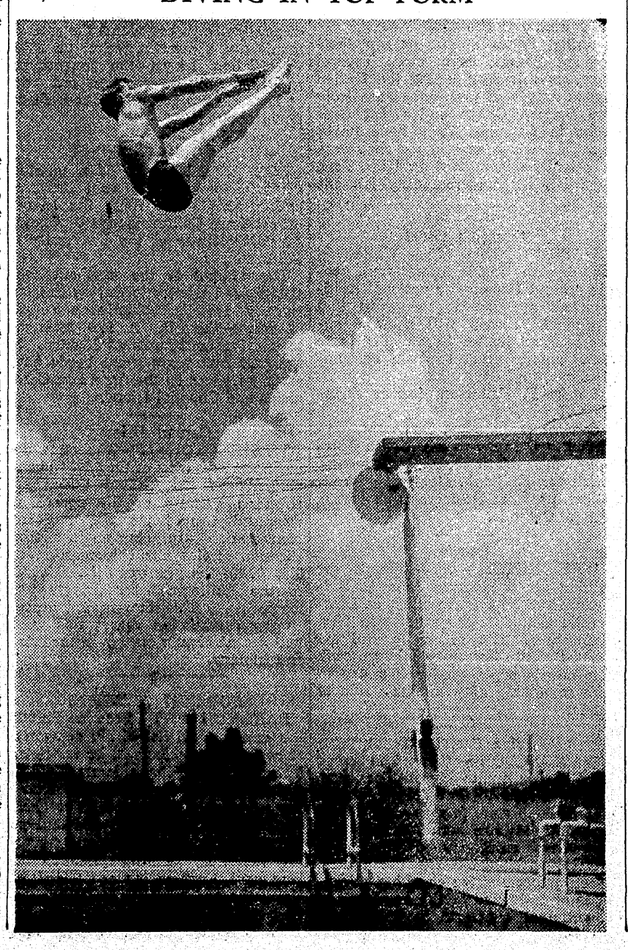
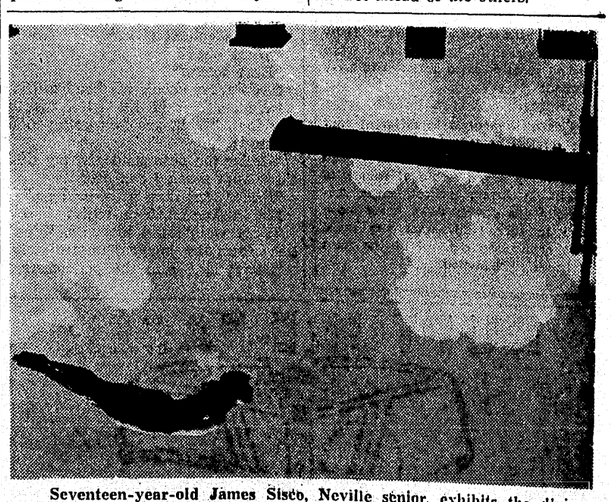
DIVING IN TOP FORM





Seventeen-year-old James Sisco, Neville senior, exhibits the diving form which kept him in second place last year at Water Carnival Contests. Sisco, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sisco, Sr., 400 Wilson street, started diving while still toddling. Until he was thirteen he dove off any board but refused to swim. His parents used a raft to retrieve their son. This year young Sisco is a life guard at the city pool and a swimming instructor for Girl Scouts. He hopes to better his standing in diving circles this year at the contests, providing Jeff Hennesy, S. E. A. diver, doesn't return. Sorority Conventions Welcome, Reporter Says

By James V. Mathis
(Of The Morning World Staff)

A reporter's job, a man once said, is a job where you can have the most fun for the least amount of money.

Generally speaking, however, you end up with the least amount of money minus the fun.

Cops hate you when you break a story before they get their man, convicts promise to "burn" you along with the judge, and politicians look upon you as a necessary evil with a dirty mind. You break your neck chasing ambulances and wear holes in your shoes pounding hot pavement.

About once in a coon's age, however, the good Lord smiles down at you and you get a break. Usually its on the story that you can't swap, overlook, or avoid in any way.

This time it was the Beta Delta national sorority convention which had been rolling along for two days at the Frances Hotel without a bit of help from me.

Conventions of any sort are usually like taking a drink of tepid water. About the only previous acquaintances with sororities I have is at a distance. They are only sweater girls with big pins out in front during my abbreviated college days. Occasionally around town I see a bunch of bobby-soxers rigged up like Indians at a war dance, lifting their skirts so-so and throwing their hands over their heads bowing like a Hindu meeting his maharajah.

Sororities and conventions rolled up together sound like bad moonshine—not to be taken.

But I go. Quarter-pint Annie Lee West Stahl, society editor, is the only woman outside of my wife that I can't say no to.

So I get escorted up to the roof of the hotel and ease out of the elevator to look around. Down at the far end this convention was moving smoothly along. One girl was standing up reading what I later found to be a chapter report. The others, contrary to regular convention procedure, were listening. That is all except one. She had her shoes off, her feet up on the chair before her evidently trying to get forty winks of that sleep that is always lost at conventions. Later I found out that she had been giving the lowdown on how Texarkana, Tex., girls fought during "rush" week when girls are pledged. That must have been strenuous.

Thirty-two of these delegates from four states were present Thirty of them had on different colored dresses. The other two wore yellow dresses which must have been an oversight by both. All thirty-two of them were as cute as speckled pups under a little red wagon. The oldest one must have been twenty.

Right away I am welcomed. They want me to go "right on up front where you can hear everything." But when a man walks out in front of thirty-two teen-agers he must either be mighty assured of himself or Frank Sinatra. I'm not either, so I say, "No, thanks," and hang around the back looking which is what I enjoy anyhow.

In a few minutes these girls get a 15-minute recess and stream downstairs for refreshments. I get a chance to meet two of the officers, Pat Boyet, Monroe, and Mary Ann Casey, Little Rock, Ark. Both are confident, thoughtful girls, with the looks to go along. They give me a few angles on sororities in general which are unusual.

Seems that the Beta Delta group, once a thriving outfit, had dwindled from 34 active chapters over four states to just 13 in three states. This Casey girl outlines some very real persecution going on in Little Rock now against sorority members and tells how other chapters have been stamped out by state laws and county school boards. Most of the opposition, she says, comes rom parents whose children have been turned down for one reason or another. Shreveport, Jackson, Miss., Fort Worth, Tex., Houston, Tex., Oklahoma City, Okla.—all have been driven out of existence, she says, along with many lesser towns.

Pat Boyet, she's formerly of Baton Rouge and national president, and is now in L. S. U., gives me a brief survey on the situation. She shows me a Baton Rouge chapter report, fixed up fine and done entirely in verse. This one took first prize and detailed action during the year which included everything from a routine dance to a Chinese tot they had adopted.

Baton Rouge was evidently out to take convention honors in a big way. One of the top members, a tall blonde, who held a list of offices in organizations as long as your arm, went down to her room and returned with the sorority scrap book. It was the real thing.

They must have a full time publicity agent. The darn book was the size of a newspaper file. They followed Beta Deltas from the cradle to the grave. Many of the Baton Rouge Deltas ended up in the Spinsterette Club but I don't think she meant this. Surely those guys aren't blind down there.

This big book was so impressive that the delegates kinda crowded around it. Before long it looked like an Indian pow wow going on with Ooh's and Ah's substituted for Ugh's.

In the background, however, one girl had tuned up the piano and was sweeping out with a fast rendition of several Hit Parade tunes.

Just as the meeting began to look like a bonafide convention Boyet got things underway and they went back into session for a charity report. With little real interest in charity unless directed my way I decided to shove off.

Boyet followed me and my guide, Peggy Williamson, to the elevator. She said things were quiet and peaceful, with small chance for good news.

"We're going to throw a party tonight of our own after being entertained," she says. "A half-quilt and pajama party. If you want something to write about you ought to see that."

Well, I'm a married man and I can imagine what it would sound like if I told my wife I had to cover a party with thirty-two girls at one o'clock in the morning.

I skipped the party.

But I think that right now the Monroe Chamber of Commerce ought to start advertising for sorority conventions. Monroe is a real spot and they get a big welcome.

Progress Catches Up With Cemetery

Gravel Company Machines Dig On Three Sides Of Burial Plot; Road Reworked After Entrance Becomes Extremely Difficult

By James V. Mathis

Progress not only caught up with Smith Cemetery, but at one time almost surrounded it.

In this instance progress came to the tiny, neighborhood burial ground in the form of huge drag lines of a gravel company which bit deep into the earth, seeking rock for the state's highways.

The big machines started operations on the south side of the old Natchitoches road, six miles west of West Monroe, digging along the 30-foot right-of-way, pulling truckloads of pebbles from either side. Surface earth known as "spoil dirt" was tossed on to high piles.

They ate their way down to where the road made a right angle turn, and they turned with it. They pushed on, reaching downward to between 30 and 40 feet before striking non-producing soil. The huge pits stretched on two sides of the two-acre plot. Piles of spoil dirt in the rear from operations around 15 years before blocked entrance at the rear of the tract.

Entrance into the grounds became a precarious proposition. As late as April, 1949, one funeral director found the highway almost impassable.

Established in 1882 with the burial of 22-year-old James E. La Baume, member of a prominent pioneer family of Ouachita parish, the cemetery was dedicated to the dead for all time by John T. Haynes in 1908. Haynes gave a committee of W. A. Smith, William Thompson, and John Blazier a deed to the two acres, with ownership reverting back in the event of use for other than burial grounds.

D. L. Byers and G. B. Haynes provided the 30-foot roadway leading off the highway approximately six miles west of Monroe. The deed was notarized by the then deputy clerk of court, Courtenay Tindall, and witnessed by H. H. Russell, Jr., and W. A. Myatt.

Representatives of the families buried in the cemetery this spring contacted officials of the gravel company, directed by H. C. Menuet. They asked that the road be made passable. A petition was circulated.

Menuet's company stepped in promptly to remedy the situation. They had left a 50-foot right-of-way, using part of this for spoil piles. Road graders were sent in, the company donated gravel. They patched up the road, giving a curved turn where strict adherence to the 30-foot width at the right angle would have stopped all traffic. Families affected were satisfied.

Someone erected a white "cemetary" sign at the spot where the new road left the Old Natchitoches road. Dissatisfaction virtually disappeared.

Today the cemetery is used only sparingly. Only about 100 graves are visible on the plot. A mausoleum containing the body of Hypolite La Baum, who died in 1908, is perhaps the most imposing structure on the grounds.

In the future the roadway will be maintained by the parish. Menuet said last week that when work slowed enough to permit it, he would send earth-movers to the rear of the cemetery to level the area for parking space. This was contingent, however, upon the approval of Conrad Cage, Jr., from whom the land is leased.

Although progress has moved near, those who rest in the cemetery will be undisturbed.

Leo's Spree A $5,000 Give-Away

(By NEA Service)

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—For 23 years, Leo Brunetti worked, slaved and saved for one big splurge. For 18 of those years, he was a tree trimmer. The other five years he worked as a dock laborer.

Altogether he saved up $5,000. That, he and his wife felt, was enough. The time was ripe for their long awaited spree.

What they did was, literally, give it away.

The Brunettis went to their native Italy. Leo hadn't been there in 28 years, but he'd been reading about the conditions. He'd heard of the poverty gripping the Italian peasant.

So Leo and his wife bought $2000 worth of clothing and took it along with them. He gave all of it away to relatives and old friends that he tried to locate.

They were a shabby lot, "dressed like gypsies," Leo recalls. They were all tearfully grateful for the gift of a decent coat or a dress.

When the supply of clothing was exhausted, the Brunettis found that the supply of needy persons was still big. So they began to give away their own wardrobe.

By the time they were ready to come back, all they had with them was the clothes they were wearing.

Leo Brunetti is back on his job as dock laborer for a big industrial firm here. His bank account is slim again, but his smile is broader than it's ever been. And, maybe in another 23 years, there may be another spree.

Beans, Yams Worked Over

By Warren Rogers, Jr.
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

BATON ROUGE, La.,—Stringless string beans, sweet potatoes bursting with vitamins, and castoffs that may some day be worth a billion dollars are samples of what Louisiana State University's horticultural research division is turning up these days. And they are a tribute to the flowering genius of its director, Dr. Jullan C. Miller.

The string beans look scarcely different from any other you've ever seen. But there are no strings attached. They were bred in experiments that began in 1936.

One of the power-packed sweet potatoes is called L-241. In experiments this month, it outdid the best sweet potato on the market—Unit One Porto Rico. The L-241, at the end of four months in storage, wound up with 40 milligrams of carotene per 100 grams dry weight. The Porto Rico rated only 21 milligrams. Carotene is made into Vitamin A in the body.

"If a man ate between two and four a week," says Dr. Miller, "he'd get all the Vitamin A he needs."

The castoffs with the billion dollar future are also sweet potatoes. They're the ones that are ill-shaped or too small for table use. Dr. Miller believes that, with complete mechanization, these offgrades are "a potential billion dollar industry."

They could be converted into alcohol for use as a booster motor fuel with low octane gasoline, he says, or cut up and canned. Dehydrated, he adds, they could be used as feed for livestock to compete with corn.

Louisiana has 20 sweet potato canneries, more than any other state. Since the war, 52 dehydration plants—many of them small and inexpensive and built in the state—have gone into operation. One national chain store recently reported an 18 percent increase in use of canned sweet potatoes, some of it as baby food.

A few hundred pounds of the stringless string beans were marketed last year. They sprang from "the Kentucky Wonder," a popular variety for table use, but unsatisfactory for canning or quick freezing. Dr. Miller says he crossed the "Wonder" with others until he found the right combination. He dubbed it, "the Canfreezer."

Another stringless variety is "the Green Savage." It is named for Mrs. W. E. Savage, of Marion, La., who brought a big, plump variety with her two years ago to a farmers' short course at the university.

Mrs. Savage's bean, originally brought from Ireland by her family, had one drawback, Dr. Miller recalls. It was red. Marketing housewives shunned it. He crossed it with "the Canfreezer" and it came out stringless—and green.

The varieties have another advantage, Dr. Miller claims. They mature about ten days earlier and get to market ahead of the others.

ENCAMPMENT WILL MEET

Fort Miro Encampment No. 15, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will hold their regular meeting at 8 p.m., July 25, in the W. O. W. hall. There will be the installation of those officers who were unable to be on hand for the joint public installation of July 2. The Patriarchal degree will be conferred on a class and Chief Patriarch Gilbert Irving, Sr., urges all members to attend.

Girl Takes Preacher's Job As Own

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—At an age when most girls are busy playing with dolls, 11-year-old Linda Kassimatis spends her time playing preacher before a sun-suited "congregation."

Every Wednesday afternoon for an hour she gathers her flock of neighborhood youngsters in her backyard for a Bible class. More than 40 children usually attend.

With all the decorum of one dedicated to the church, she calmly leads them in hymns and tells Biblical stories.

"Linda's always played church. She'd get her dolls together and preach to them," said her mother.

"Most children don't go to story hour at church, so I just thought I'd start one here," Linda explained.

Her seriousness in leading her squirming audience never deserts her. Her answer to the discipline problem is, "I just start talking and they keep quiet."

It's not really that simple. A couple of the older children act as monitors and her parents stand by to shake a finger at the too active. Linda's father, a cook, is unemployed because of illness.

In front of her on a little bench, she keeps her briefcase with church papers, Bible and bookmarks with religious pictures or texts. She gives the bookmarks to members of the congregation for good attendance or for bringing new members.

Every service ends with the distribution of religious literature and a "treat," a cold drink and cookies. Linda's church and some of the neighbors help her with the expenses.

A CHUMMY GHOST

SINGAPORE—(AP)—The ghost that walks the Singapore Mental Hospital grounds is a lonely ghost that hates to walk alone. It's favorite partner is Hoshal Khan, the head watchman.

Hoshal Khan likes to tell about his walks with a ghost. He says the ghost wears a yellow drape like a Buddhist monk. About a year ago, Hoshal was making his rounds when the ghost detached itself from the mortuary shadows and began walking alongside him. He noticed that the ghost didn't care to talk, so they walked in silence. Soon, the ghost took its leave. "On the next visitation, he addressed me by name and said that I was well fed and not talkative. I made no reply," Hoshal recalled, and quoted an old Afghanistan proverb, "If a ghost appears, speak not or you die."

Blaine lost the 1884 presidential election by a margin of only 1,149 votes—the number by which he lost New York state, and thus the electorial college, to Cleveland.

This big book was so impressive that the delegates kinda crowded around it. Before long it looked like an Indian pow wow going on with Ooh's and Ah's substituted for Ugh's.

In the background, however, one girl had tuned up the piano and was sweeping out with a fast rendition of several Hit Parade tunes.

Just as the meeting began to look like a bonafide convention Boyet got things underway and they went back into session for a charity report. With little real interest in charity unless directed my way I decided to shove off.

Boyet followed me and my guide, Peggy Williamson, to the elevator. She said things were quiet and peaceful, with small chance for good news.

"We're going to throw a party tonight of our own after being entertained," she says. "A half-quilt and pajama party. If you want something to write about you ought to see that."

Well, I'm a married man and I can imagine what it would sound like if I told my wife I had to cover a party with thirty-two girls at one o'clock in the morning.

I skipped the party.

But I think that right now the Monroe Chamber of Commerce ought to start advertising for sorority conventions. Monroe is a real spot and they get a big welcome.

Progress Catches Up With Cemetery

Gravel Company Machines Dig On Three Sides Of Burial Plot; Road Reworked After Entrance Becomes Extremely Difficult

By James V. Mathis

Progress not only caught up with Smith Cemetery, but at one time almost surrounded it.

In this instance progress came to the tiny, neighborhood burial ground in the form of huge drag lines of a gravel company which bit deep into the earth, seeking rock for the state's highways.

The big machines started operations on the south side of the old Natchitoches road, six miles west of West Monroe, digging along the 30-foot right-of-way, pulling truckloads of pebbles from either side. Surface earth known as "spoil dirt" was tossed on to high piles.

They ate their way down to where the road made a right angle turn, and they turned with it. They pushed on, reaching downward to between 30 and 40 feet before striking non-producing soil. The huge pits stretched on two sides of the two-acre plot. Piles of spoil dirt in the rear from operations around 15 years before blocked entrance at the rear of the tract.

Entrance into the grounds became a precarious proposition. As late as April, 1949, one funeral director found the highway almost impassable.

Established in 1882 with the burial of 22-year-old James E. La Baume, member of a prominent pioneer family of Ouachita parish, the cemetery was dedicated to the dead for all time by John T. Haynes in 1908. Haynes gave a committee of W. A. Smith, William Thompson, and John Blazier a deed to the two acres, with ownership reverting back in the event of use for other than burial grounds.

D. L. Byers and G. B. Haynes provided the 30-foot roadway leading off the highway approximately six miles west of Monroe. The deed was notarized by the then deputy clerk of court, Courtenay Tindall, and witnessed by H. H. Russell, Jr., and W. A. Myatt.

Representatives of the families buried in the cemetery this spring contacted officials of the gravel company, directed by H. C. Menuet. They asked that the road be made passable. A petition was circulated.

Menuet's company stepped in promptly to remedy the situation. They had left a 50-foot right-of-way, using part of this for spoil piles. Road graders were sent in, the company donated gravel. They patched up the road, giving a curved turn where strict adherence to the 30-foot width at the right angle would have stopped all traffic. Families affected were satisfied.

Someone erected a white "cemetary" sign at the spot where the new road left the Old Natchitoches road. Dissatisfaction virtually disappeared.

Today the cemetery is used only sparingly. Only about 100 graves are visible on the plot. A mausoleum containing the body of Hypolite La Baum, who died in 1908, is perhaps the most imposing structure on the grounds.

In the future the roadway will be maintained by the parish. Menuet said last week that when work slowed enough to permit it, he would send earth-movers to the rear of the cemetery to level the area for parking space. This was contingent, however, upon the approval of Conrad Cage, Jr., from whom the land is leased.

Although progress has moved near, those who rest in the cemetery will be undisturbed.

Leo's Spree A $5,000 Give-Away

(By NEA Service)

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—For 23 years, Leo Brunetti worked, slaved and saved for one big splurge. For 18 of those years, he was a tree trimmer. The other five years he worked as a dock laborer.

Altogether he saved up $5,000. That, he and his wife felt, was enough. The time was ripe for their long awaited spree.

What they did was, literally, give it away.

The Brunettis went to their native Italy. Leo hadn't been there in 28 years, but he'd been reading about the conditions. He'd heard of the poverty gripping the Italian peasant.

So Leo and his wife bought $2000 worth of clothing and took it along with them. He gave all of it away to relatives and old friends that he tried to locate.

They were a shabby lot, "dressed like gypsies," Leo recalls. They were all tearfully grateful for the gift of a decent coat or a dress.

When the supply of clothing was exhausted, the Brunettis found that the supply of needy persons was still big. So they began to give away their own wardrobe.

By the time they were ready to come back, all they had with them was the clothes they were wearing.

Leo Brunetti is back on his job as dock laborer for a big industrial firm here. His bank account is slim again, but his smile is broader than it's ever been. And, maybe in another 23 years, there may be another spree.

Beans, Yams Worked Over

By Warren Rogers, Jr.
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

BATON ROUGE, La.,—Stringless string beans, sweet potatoes bursting with vitamins, and castoffs that may some day be worth a billion dollars are samples of what Louisiana State University's horticultural research division is turning up these days. And they are a tribute to the flowering genius of its director, Dr. Julian C. Miller.

The string beans look scarcely different from any other you've ever seen. But there are no strings attached. They were bred in experiments that began in 1936.

One of the power-packed sweet potatoes is called L-241. In experiments this month, it outdid the best sweet potato on the market—Unit One Porto Rico. The L-241, at the end of four months in storage, wound up with 40 milligrams of carotene per 100 grams dry weight. The Porto Rico rated only 21 milligrams. Carotene is made into Vitamin A in the body.

"If a man ate between two and four a week," says Dr. Miller, "he'd get all the Vitamin A he needs."

The castoffs with the billion dollar future are also sweet potatoes. They're the ones that are ill-shaped or too small for table use. Dr. Miller believes that, with complete mechanization, these offgrades are "a potential billion dollar industry."

They could be converted into alcohol for use as a booster motor fuel with low octane gasoline, he says, or cut up and canned. Dehydrated, he adds, they could be used as feed for livestock to compete with corn.

Louisiana has 20 sweet potato canneries, more than any other state. Since the war, 52 dehydration plants—many of them small and inexpensive and built in the state—have gone into operation. One national chain store recently reported an 18 percent increase in use of canned sweet potatoes, some of it as baby food.

A few hundred pounds of the stringless string beans were marketed last year. They sprang from "the Kentucky Wonder," a popular variety for table use, but unsatisfactory for canning or quick freezing. Dr. Miller says he crossed the "Wonder" with others until he found the right combination. He dubbed it, "the Canfreezer."

Another stringless variety is "the Green Savage." It is named for Mrs. W. E. Savage, of Marion, La., who brought a big, plump variety with her two years ago to a farmers' short course at the university.

Mrs. Savage's bean, originally brought from Ireland by her family, had one drawback, Dr. Miller recalls. It was red. Marketing housewives shunned it. He crossed it with "the Canfreezer" and it came out stringless—and green.

The varieties have another advantage, Dr. Miller claims. They mature about ten days earlier and get to market ahead of the others.

ENCAMPMENT WILL MEET

Fort Miro Encampment No. 15, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will hold their regular meeting at 8 p.m., July 25, in the W. O. W. hall. There will be the installation of those officers who were unable to be on hand for the joint public installation of July 2. The Patriarchal degree will be conferred on a class and Chief Patriarch Gilbert Irving, Sr., urges all members to attend.

PEASANTS FIGHT TO SAVE CHINA

Carry On Sabotage, Guerrilla Warfare In Vast Red Section

NANKING, July 23.—(AP)—Reliable reports reaching this Communist-held city say rebellious peasants in Manchuria—heartland of Red China—are committing sabotage and carrying on guerrilla warfare.

Responsible Chinese sources report the peasants have blown up bridges, destroyed railway roadbeds and committed industrial sabotage.

Isolated patrols of Communist soldiers are said to have been attacked.

The scale of the peasant unrest cannot be determined, but high Communist officials are quoted as terming it "serious." They attribute it to bandits and Nationalist agents.

The Communists have held much of Manchuria since 1945 and all of it since last December. They regard it is the key base for their program of modernizing all China.

First intimation of trouble with the peasants—who have largely been the main Red supporters — came last month from the official Communist new China news agency. It reported Communist troops had suppressed scattered peasant revolts led by nationalist agents, landlords and bandits in Kiangsu and Anhwei provinces.

Fuller details of peasant unrest in north China now have reached here. Travelers say revolts also have occurred in Shensi and Honan provinces.

(All these provinces mentioned are in China-proper, not Manchuria. This sudden shift from a report on Manchuria to discussion of conditions in central China might indicate Communist censorship of Topping's story. There was no external evidence of censorship, but dispatches from Nanking must pass through Shanghai, where the Communist military censorship operates.)

The majority of these revolts are reported to be non-political. The dissidents are peasants opposing heavy taxes. In north Kiangsu, one such group raised the slogan: "Oppose the Communists and exterminate the Nationalists."

Peasant uprisings in north Anhwei follow a general pattern. Poorly armed peasants there attacked Communist soldiers and killed an official while resisting tax collections.

Strong Communist forces, sent out to districts where revolts have flared, usually find nothing but peasants peasefully tilling their fields.

The Reds now are experiencing what the Nationalists went through.

Gen. Lin Piao, Communist commander in central China, warned this week that in his region "feudal rule and influence of bandits and Kuomintan—Nationalist—secret agents is still very strong in the villages."

Experienced observers believe the peasants will increasingly form the most stubborn opposition to the Communists.

The peasants now must support the Red armies and soon will be called upon to finance the ambitious Communist industrialization program.

The Communists used the peasants as their vehicle for achieving power. Through sweeping land reforms they created a vast body of peasant support for the Red armies. Now the tempo of land reform has slowed down and the countryside is being asked to yield larger taxes.

Mao Tze-Tung, China's chief Communist, recently told party workers, "the grave problem is that of educating the peasants. The peasant economy is scattered. According to the experiences of the Soviet Union, it require a very long time and hard work to attain socalization of agriculture."

REVIVALIST

Rev. James Thorn (above), pastor of McClendon Baptist Church, West Monroe, will conduct services in the Archibald Baptist Church starting today. The services are to be continued through July 31 with two services daily at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The pastor, Rev. C. S. Wroten, invites the public to attend all these services.

CHURCHILL LASHES

far as possible and as soon as possible, from wrong-headed planning and from official interference with our daily life and work," he said.

"Our tory (conservative) faith is that the gifts and genius of our men and women, if released, will not be found unequal to the first task and duty of every community, namely to earn its daily bread."

At Durham, 160 miles north of this midlands industrial center, Prime Minister Attlee delivered a rival political speech before a miner's rally and injected a comment on the Conservative leader.

"The strength of Churchill's language is in adverse ratio to his knowledge of the subject," Attlee said. "It is unfortunate that his words are taken at their face value in other countries. They just don't realize it is just Winnie's sentiments."

Attlee said the new Conservative platform—pledging, among other things, to do a better job with Socialist laws already enacted and to halt further nationalization of industry—was dishonest and "only a great piece of window dressing." He said every page was "A damning indictment of what the Conservative party did not do" while it held the reins of the government.

"The Conservative party has never been able to put forward a real alternative policy to that of the Labor party," the prime minister said. "* * * I shudder to think what would have happened had they had control of Britain."

Churchill told the Wolverhampton rally socialism is a costly fallacy and "Its most direct expression, nationalization, is a failure."

The Socialists "have brought Great Britain low alike in prosperity and reputation, both at home and abroad," he said.

"They have squandered the reserves and resources which had been gathered in the past and have darkened and narrowed the future of every man, woman and child in this famous island.

"It is all the more amazing that they should have brought us down like this and given us such hard times during four years when they have not only been eating up our savings, but have enjoyed in enormous advantage of outside help on a scale never known in the history of any country in time of peace.

"The United States and the Dominion of Canada together have given to us subsidies which amount to nearly £2,000,000,000—£1,750,000,000 ($7,000,000,000) have come into this island by loan or gift from these two great capitalist countries, who also have their own troubles and burdens to bear. * * *

"Our Socialist spendthrifts and muddlers have dissipated every overseas asset they could lay their hands on and, in addition, have exacted and extracted from our people a higher rate of taxation than was required at the very height of the war."

Churchill said the sterling area's dollar holdings of $1,600,000,000 "Are the last reserves that stand between us and insolvency."

"The present government," he said, "Have obviously no effective plan for dealing with this imminent peril."

He said the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, "Told us only the other day that we have spent £900,000,000 in gifts and loans to assist world recovery."

"What was the sense, or indeed the sanity, or borrowing £1,000,000,000 from the United States with one hand to enable us to get on our feet again and giving it away to foreigners with the other?"

Churchill said the greatest help Britain can give the world "Is to stand erect in her native strength." Every country west of the Iron Curtain has made a better postwar come back than Britain, he said, even defeated Italy and Germany.

THREATS

of the joint committee and on the floor of the senate, any effort to transmit such atomic weapon information to any other nation on the face of the earth.

"Once the information is imparted it can never be regained. I believe this issue is of great magnitude to the future of our republic. Opposition to revealing weapon information without Congressional approval will, in my opinion, be intense."

Appraised of Knowland's statement, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) declined to comment. There were signs, however, that he shares Knowland's view that the atomic act bars any exchange of information until an international agreement has been made for atomic control.

The act bars export of fissionable materials and of atomic weapons. It says no information on "industrial application of atomic power shall be given other nations until there is an international control agreement.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), former chairman of the senate-house committee, has contended that A-bomb making comes under the industrial clause and thus bars the exchange of information.

On the other hand, Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the atomic energy commission is reported to hold the belief that the president has inherent authority to exchange atomic information with the British by executive agreement.

Such an agreement would by-pass Congress, a development that Knowland signified he doesn't want to see take place. A Democratic official has emphasized that Mr. Truman at the Blair house meeting was not threatening to act without officially consulting Congress.

While Knowland would not comment, there are reports that he and other members of the senate-house committee have discussed the possibility of bringing before the senate a resolution putting that body on record as holding that the present law bars an exchange of information by any method.

Some committee members were known to have been seeking at a session last Wednesday with Lilienthal, Secretary of State Acheson, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the acting chiefs of staff, and others assurance that the president would not act without advance approval by Congress.

That they received no such assurance was directly implied by Knowland's decision to issue a public statement.

Some committee members said privately they fear that while any action might be held up now, the exchange of information might be carried out after Congress goes home.

British officials have denied that they have made any demand upon this country for technical know-how, although they have said they would like to be kept up to date on developments.

Testimony before the senate-house committee has disclosed that this country had a new type of bomb much improved over the wartime models dropped on Japan. Improvements apparently have been made in the manufacturing process.

The British have a lever, if they choose to use it, in their search for the technical information which seems to have been denied them since the 1946 act was passed despite their wartime partnership in developing the bomb. American contracts with British-owned mines in the Belgian Congo, where a large share of the world's usable uranium comes from, expires this year.

REPEAL OF

cise taxes sponsored by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) and most Republicans.

Senator Millikin (R-Colo), former finance chairman under Republican control of the senate, said:

"I heartily agree with the view of Senator George that we should get rid of all of our wartime excise taxes."

"If we cannot get rid of all of them I favor cuttting off part as provided in the amendment proposed by Senator Johnson," Millikin said.

"I am against a piecemeal removal," George said.

George said that when Congress imposed the wartime levies "we promised to take all of them off six months after the end of the war."

Although hostilities have ended, George said formal peace treaties have not been signed and so the taxes have continued.

He said the wartime taxes were for two purposes: To increase revenues and to discourage the use of materials and services needed to win the war.

George stressed that his proposal to wipe out excise taxes was not a move to cut the general level of federal incomes and other taxes.

"The general level of taxes must remain high," he said. "We should have a large surplus to apply each year to the national debts. But the tax burden is not fairly adjusted by wartime excise taxes."

publicly answer the attack, but would write a reply to Spellman.

Lehman said the issue "Is not whether one agrees or disagrees with Mrs. Roosevelt on this or any other public question."

"I strongly believe," he said, "As I have always believed, that in our American democracy every responsible citizen is entitled to express his or her views on public issues without being subjected to the accusation of being against any religion or any race."

He said that during Mrs. Roosevelt's 25 years as a public figure "I do not know of a single act or word that would in the slighest degree indicate bias or prejudice against any religion or any race."

"Her whole life has been dedicated to a constant fight for tolerance and brotherhood of men as children of one God," Lehman added. "She will, I am confident, retain the trust and affection of all peoples irrespective of creed or race."

LIE IS BLAMED

Clark disclosed that more than a score of United Nations employes are being investigated by the justice department.

The 30-page transcript of testimony by Witness No. 8 indicated he is a foreigner. From the many questions he was asked relating to Czechoslovakia, it appears he might be a Czech.

There was speculation whether he was the "Mr. X" who testified early in the hearings. The committee then said that a disclosure of his identiy might endanger his life.

No. 8 told the committee that "The Communist influence" in the U. N. secretariat could never have developed to the extent it has "if there had not been pressure from the top."

It is so great, he said, that "People, even of Democratic conviction, who don't like to lose their positions, become instruments of the Communist apparatus or are to frightened to resist and to take a clearcut Democratic standpoint."

"There must be," he said, a machine within the U. N. organizations which sees to it that employes who are hired from the different countries, including the United States, are of Communist inclination.

The witness said the only assistant secretary-general who resisted was "the Australian, Commander Jackson" and added he was fired last summer under pressure from Arkady Sobolev, described as the Russian assistant secretary in charge of the security department.

Jackson "was dismissed by Trygve Lie on the insistence of Sobolev," the witness said.

He told the committee that Sobolev, whom he said was recently replaced by another Russian, Konstantine E. Zinchenko, "exercised a silent terror on the personnel" of the United Nations.

The dismissal of Jackson, he continued, "increased the fear of the United Nations personnel. It was not any more sure of any protection."

At another point he remarked:

"The people are so afraid of losing their well paid jobs there, under the pressure which is coming from the top, that they are swallowing everything which Trygve Lie wishes."

An unidentified senator broke in to remark:

"I think that is the kind of thing that we want to know, the domination of the top, which is communistically inclined, controlling the action of the secretariat."

The witness: "Yes, and terrorizing the whole secretariat."

Among other things in his testimony, the witness said that iron curtain nations are favored over democratic nations in receiving in fellowships to make studies in the United States.

It was in connection with this discussion that he said:

"Why doesn't the United States government speak clear language with Mr. Trygve Lie? Say, 'We know what you stand for.' If you say, 'No more of this (if I may say) monkey business, not any more fellowships mostly for the iron curtain countries * * *

"Why shouldn't you bring pressure on the United States delegation or advice on the United States delegation to them not any more Mr. Trygve Lie, that we want there a man who is capable to take care in the right way."

He said Lie put a Russian in charge of the security council "which he considers and the world considers the main outfit of the United Nations."

As an example of Communists who have been employed in the U. N., the witness cited Paul Eisler, whom he identified as a Czechoslovakian citizen.

Eisler, he said, first was employed during the U. N. general assembly in London and "for some time was the closest collaborator of Gunnar Myrdal as head of the European Economic Commission."

He said that Eisler later came to U. N. headquarters at Lake Success but since has quit to become "an economic adviser to he Czechoslovakian Communist president, Klement Gottwald."

The witness said that some Communists and fellow travelers came into the U. N. from the old U. N. R. R. A. organization and mentioned Howard Daniel as an example.

He described Daniel as an Australian lawyer in the economic department of the U. N.

The witness said that a year ago the executive officer of the department of economic affairs was Leo Mallania, "Canadian citizen of Russian origin." he added:

In 1948 he (Mallania) joined the Palestine commission and is now one of the closest collaborators of Trygve Lie. "He has very close contact with the Soviet delegates, " No. 8 added.

The witness stated that most of the personnel of the economic department was recruited through Mallania.

He described Louis Dolivet, "previously a Romanian citizen, presently international editor of the private paper called United Nations World" as a liaison of the Communists with the secretariat.

Dolivet also serves as an "outside consultant" to the U. N., the witness said, and as such "all the archives and papers of the secretariat are accessible to him."

The witness said that among the purposes of Communists within the U. N. is to keep employes "who are of democratic conviction under pressure and terror."

He appealed to the committee to help "break the Communistic terrors in the organizations of the United Nations."

Paratrooper Admits Staging Bank Holdup

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 23.—(AP)—. 21-year-old paratrooper was arrested here today as he shopped for a $3,500 car. Police said he was the cool gunman who robbed a New Britain, Conn., bank for $6,000 on Friday.

Police Capt. William F. Lonergan identified the soldier as John C. Hamilton, Jr., 21, of 43 Golf street, Newington, Conn.

Lonergan said Hamilton admitted orally that he held up the Fidelity Industrial Bank and escaped after exchanging a polite "good morning" with a girl employe.

The brown-haired, good-looking paratrooper gave this as his reason, Lonergan said:

"It looked like easy money and I wanted a nice car and a good time." Hamilton was quoted as saying he was on furlough from Camp Campbell, Ky.

Lonergan said an automobile dealer was approached by Hamilton Friday afternoon and became suspicious.

The dealer called police today when the youth returned to look over a $3,500 automobile.

Lonergan said $3,500 in cash was found in a car which Hamilton said belonged to his brother.

The paratrooper insisted that his loot was $6,000 and that he left the other $2,500 at home, the captain said.

Bank Employe Geraldine Curtin, 16, told police yesterday that as she was going into the bank she said "good morning" to a young man.

The young man replied with a smiling "good morning" and made an unhurried escape, she said.

After only one look at an existing powder mill, Paul Revere was able to build a duplicate.

Deaths

PFC. LINDEL C. JACKSON

The body of Pfc. Lindel C. Jackson, 100 North Fourth, West Monroe, arrived in Monroe over the Illinois Central Railway Friday morning at 10:20 o'clock. It was taken to the home where it remained until time for funeral services Saturday afternoon at 3:00 at the Trinity Baptist Church, with Rev. J. Filer Seal, officiating, assisted by Rev. John Cutrer and Rev. Marvin Stone. Interment, under the direction of Hall Funeral Home was in Hasley Cemetery.

Pfc. Jackson is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jackson, West Monroe; three brothers, E. A. Jackson, Missouri; Wesley Jackson, of Lufkin, Tex., and Fay Jackson, of West Monroe; three sisters, Norma Moreau, of West Monroe; Mrs. Opal Matthews, West Monroe, and Mrs. Jettie Queen, of Memphis, Tenn.

Pallbearers were Durwood Franks, Durwood Thrasher, W. H. Springfield, Lawrence Wilson, Phillip Bernhardt and Robert L. Caldwell.

The Hudson-Leehy post of West Monroe had charge of full military rites at the graveside.

MRS. JIM PRICE

Funeral services for Mrs. Jim Price, 56, of Monroe who died early Friday evening, were conducted at the Baucomville Apostlic Church at 4:00 p.m. Saturday with Rev. W. T. Hemphill, officiating. Interment was in Hasley Cemetery, under the direction of Hall Funeral Home.

She is survived by her husband, Jim Price, of Monroe; two daughters, Mrs. Peggy M. Bell, Monroe, and Mrs. Lucy Thompson, of West Monroe; one son, Leza Price, West Monroe; and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers were J. W. Schanks, Doyle Aaron, Theodore Foster, Ivan D. Dycus, Ed Pace and Oliver Vallery.

PFC. LINDEL C. JACKSON

Funeral services for Pfc. Lindel C. Jackson, brought home for reburial, will be conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Trinity Baptist Church with the Rev. J. Filer Seal, assisted by the Rev. Marvin Stone, officiating. Interment, under the direction of the Hall Funeral Home, will follow in the Hasley cemetery.

Pfc. Jackson, a veteran of five years in the service, was killed July 31, 1945 at Leyte, Philippine Islands.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jackson, West Monroe; three brothers, E. A. Jackson, of Missouri, Wesley Jackson, Lufkin, Tex., and Fay Jackson, of West Monroe; three sisters, Norma Moreau of West Monroe, Mrs. Opal Matthews, West Monroe, and Mrs. Jettie Queen, of Memphis, Tenn.

Pallbearers will be Durwood Franks, Durwood Thrasher, W. H. Springfield, Lawrence Wilson, Phillips Bernhardt and Robert L. Caldwell.

2-Week-Old Child Survives 3 Operations

PORTLAND, Ore., July 23.—(AP)—David Gerard Mahar in his first 14 days of life has survived three major abdominal operations and seems to be winning his "one chance in a thousands" struggle for life.

He was born two weeks ago today, in an Oregon city hospital, with a break in his abdominal wall. Rushed to Providence Hospital here. Surgeons operated, replaced the intestines which had gone through the break, and repaired the wall. They said the day-old child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mahar of Gladstone, had one chance in a thousand.

Three days later another break developed and the operation was repeated.

The baby then was taken to Doernbecker Children's Hospital and last Sunday, on his eighth day of life, he underwent a third operation in which a part of the intestine was removed and the ends joined.

"That's an awful lot for a small baby to take," the surgeon told the father, a paper mill worker at West Linn.

But today the hospital reported he was taking his food regularly, and it's a little early to say, but we really think he will be all right."

Blessing Of Biloxi Shrimp Fleet Slated

BILOXI, Miss., July 23.—(AP)—The annual blessing of the Biloxi shrimp fleet is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, August 7.

More than 300 vessels are expected to participate in ceremonies which follow ancient European customs.

Many of the Biloxi fishermen are of French, Yugoslav and French-Acadian descent.

First event on the program is a concert by the Sacred Heart Academy all-girls band beginning at 2:30 p. m. At 3 o'clock there will be a contest for selection of a queen of the Biloxi fishing fleet. Contestants will be girls employed in seafood canneries and shore fisheries establishments.

Following selection of the fishing fleet queen, a sermon will be delivered by Father Herbert Mullin, pastor of St. Michael's Church. Then Father D. O. O'Hanlon, assistant pastor of St. Michael's will bless the fishing fleet.

After the religious ceremonies the fleet will parade from the bay of Biloxi down the gulf side of the Biloxi peninsula to the outside harbor beacon, and return.

Prizes will be awarded Sunday night to the captains of the three best-decorated boats. The queen is to be crowned that night by Brig. Gen. James F. Powell, commanding general of Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi.

Sen. Long Without Governor Ambitions

PITTSBURGH, July 23.—(AP)—Senator Russel Long (D-La.) declared here today he has no ambitions to occupy the governor's chair in Louisiana once filled by his famous father, Huey Long.

"I'm convinced that I never want to be governor—that I'd rather be a senator," the 30-year-old legislator said. "I'm going to try for re-election next year."

The Democrat was in Pittsburgh to be best man at the wedding of a Louisiana State University classmate, Richard James Dempsey of New Orleans.

"While we were in school 'Jack' (Dempsey) helped elect me as president of the student body," Long said. "That gave me my start in political tactics."

HIGH KLANSMAN STILL IN JAIL

Efforts To Gain Release Fail After Sentencing July 7

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 23.—(AP)—Alabama's top klansman failed again today to win release from jail.

William Hugh Morris, heavy-set director of the Federated Ku Klux Klans, Inc., is in jail for contempt. He was sentenced July 7 when he refused to bring klan records before a grand jury.

Today he sought release on the ground the records have been stolen and he cannot bring them in. Judge Alta L. King dismissed the plea, saying his court had no jurisdiction.

Morris' attorney, Hugh Locke, argued that under the ruling Morris could stay in jail forever. The attorney said he would make another attempt before the Alabama supreme court.

The grand jury today charged a minister with three masked floggings.

The minister, the Rev. R. C. Lyons, 47, is the 18th man indicted in the state's campaign against hooded lashers. All are out on bond.

The Rev. Lyons, in jail since Tuesday on a warrant, was charged by one flogging victim with praying over him just before the lash was applied.

Lyons, who took his new testament into jail with him, told newsmen he had been "preaching about three years." He said he had no regular church, and was a mule-handler at a coal mine on weekdays.

He was charged today with three floggings while masked and one first degree burglary. Bond for the four cases was fixed at $4,000.

Morris came into court today prepared to swear the secret records of the K. K. K. were stolen from his home Wednesday night. He had been taken there by a deputy sheriff just before the court hearing.

Dr. Lycurgus Spinks, silver-headed "klansman for 40 years and proud of it," was at Morris' side during the brief hearing.

Spinks pledged a klan war on its political opponents last night at a public meeting in suburban Tarrant City.

A candidate for governor of Mississippi in 1947, Dr. Spinks now lives in Thomasville, Ala. He said he moved three years ago when he retired as a lecturer.

Spinks told newsmen he lived in a plantation home at Thomasville built by his great, great, great-grandfather in 1812, seven years before Alabama became a state.

He said he had lectured "on almost every subject under the sun" in all the states and in some foreign countries, for more than 30 years. He is 64.

OPERA AT 40

WORTHING, Sussex, England—(AP)—Bus Driver Trevor Jones believes life can begin at 40—even if it's an operatic career you have in mind. So he is going to quit his job on a Worthing doubledeck bus, sell his house in nearby Lancing, move his family to Milan and take singing lessons for the next two years from Ubaldo Carrozzo. He first sang in public years ago in a choir back in Pontycymmer, Wales. He has wanted to become a professional singer ever since. He's an admirer of Beniamino Gigli, Italian Tenor. Six months ago, he heard Gigli sing at Eastbourne. He asked him for an audition. Gigli heard the bus driver in his London hotel. Jone said the singer told him: "You have a wonderful voice but it must be trained at once. Go to Ubaldo Carrozzo in Milan."

The Philco 76-E cools and dehumidifies hot, sticky summer air, keeping you fresh and comfortable all summer long. Provides gentle draft-free ventilation, independent of cooling, all year 'round. Reduces dust and airborne pollens, bringing relief to hay fever sufferers. Cooling capacity . . . 7750 B.T.U. per hour. Hermetically sealed ¾ H.P. motor-compressor. Compact two-tone brown cabinet.

PEASANTS FIGHT TO SAVE CHINA

Carry On Sabotage, Guerrilla Warfare In Vast Red Section

NANKING, July 23.—(AP)—Reliable reports reaching this Communist-held city say rebellious peasants in Manchuria—heartland of Red China—are committing sabotage and carrying on guerrilla warfare.

Responsible Chinese sources report the peasants have blown up bridges, destroyed railway roadbeds and committed industrial sabotage.

Isolated patrols of Communist soldiers are said to have been attacked.

The scale of the peasant unrest cannot be determined, but high Communist officials are quoted as terming it "serious." They attribute it to bandits and Nationalist agents.

The Communists have held much of Manchuria since 1945 and all of it since last December. They regard it is the key base for their program of modernizing all China.

First intimation of trouble with the peasants—who have largely been the main Red supporters — came last month from the official Communist new China news agency. It reported Communist troops had suppressed scattered peasant revolts led by nationalist agents, landlords and bandits in Kiangsu and Anhwei provinces.

Fuller details of peasant unrest in north China now have reached here. Travelers say revolts also have occurred in Shensi and Honan provinces.

(All these provinces mentioned are in China-proper, not Manchuria. This sudden shift from a report on Manchuria to discussion of conditions in central Chi.. might indicate Communist censorship of Topping's story. There was no external evidence of censorship, but dispatches from Nanking must pass through Shanghai, where the Communist military censorship operates.)

The majority of these revolts are reported to be non-political. The dissidents are peasants opposing heavy taxes. In north Kiangsu, one such group raised the slogan: "Oppose the Communists and exterminate the Nationalists."

Peasant uprisings in north Anhwei follow a general pattern. Poorly armed peasants there attacked Communist soldiers and killed an official while resisting tax collections.

Strong Communist forces, sent out to districts where revolts have flared, usually find nothing but peasants peasefully tilling their fields.

The Reds now are experiencing what the Nationalists went through.

Gen. Lin Piao, Communist commander in central China, warned this week that in his region "feudal rule and influence of bandits and Kuomintan—Nationalist—secret agents is still very strong in the villages."

Experienced observers believe the peasants will increasingly form the most stubborn opposition to the Communists.

The peasants now must support the Red armies and soon will be called upon to finance the ambitious Communist industrialization program.

The Communists used the peasants as their vehicle for achieving power. Through sweeping land reforms they created a vast body of peasant support for the Red armies. Now the tempo of land reform has slowed down and the countryside is being asked to yield larger taxes.

Mao Tze-Tung, China's chief Communist, recently told party workers, "the grave problem is that of educating the peasants. The peasant economy is scattered. According to the experiences of the Soviet Union, it require a very long time and hard work to attain socalization of agriculture."

REVIVALIST

Rev. James Thorn (above), pastor of McClendon Baptist Church, West Monroe, will conduct services in the Archibald Baptist Church starting today. The services are to be continued through July 31 with two services daily at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The pastor, Rev. C. S. Wroten, invites the public to attend all these services.

CHURCHILL LASHES

far as possible and as soon as possible, from wrong-headed planning and from official interference with our daily life and work," he said.

"Our tory (conservative) faith is that the gifts and genius of our men and women, if released, will not be found unequal to the first task and duty of every community, namely to earn its daily bread."

At Durham, 160 miles north of this midlands industrial center, Prime Minister Attlee delivered a rival political speech before a miner's rally and injected a comment on the Conservative leader.

"The strength of Churchill's language is in adverse ratio to his knowledge of the subject," Attlee said. "It is unfortunate that his words are taken at their face value in other countries. They just don't realize it is just Winnie's sentiments."

Attlee said the new Conservative platform—pledging, among other things, to do a better job with Socialist laws already enacted and to halt further nationalization of industry—was dishonest and "only a great piece of window dressing." He said every page was "A damning indictment of what the Conservative party did not do" while it held the reins of the government.

"The Conservative party has never been able to put forward a real alternative policy to that of the Labor party," the prime minister said. "* * * I shudder to think what would have happened had they had control of Britain."

Churchill told the Wolverhampton rally socialism is a costly fallacy and "Its most direct expression, nationalization, is a failure."

The Socialists "have brought Great Britain low alike in prosperity and reputation, both at home and abroad," he said.

"They have squandered the reserves and resources whic' had been gathered in the past and have darkened and narrowed the future of every man, woman and child in this famous island.

"It is all the more amazing that they should have brought us down like this and given us such hard times during four years when they have not only been eating up our savings, but have enjoyed in enormous advantage of outside help on a scale never known in the history of any country in time of peace.

"The United States and the Dominion of Canada together have given to us subsidies which amount to nearly £2,000,000,000—£1,750,000,000 ($7,000,000,000) have come into this island by loan or gift from these two great capitalist countries, who also have their own troubles and burdens to bear. * * *

"Our Socialist spendthrifts and muddlers have dissipated every overseas asset they could lay their hands on and, in addition, have exacted and extracted from our people a higher rate of taxation than was required at the very height of the war."

Churchill said the sterling area's dollar holdings of $1,600,000,000 "Are the last reserves that stand between us and insolvency."

"The present government," he said, "Have obviously no effective plan for dealing with this imminent peril."

He said the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, "Told us only the other day that we have spent £900,000,000 in gifts and loans to assist world recovery."

"What was the sense, or indeed the sanity, or borrowing £1,000,000,000 from the United States with one hand to enable us to get on our feet again and giving it away to foreigners with the other?"

Churchill said the greatest help Britain can give the world "Is to stand erect in her native strength." Every country west of the Iron Curtain has made a better postwar come back than Britain, he said, even defeated Italy and Germany.

THREATS

of the joint committee and on the floor of the senate, any effort to transmit such atomic weapon information to any other nation on the face of the earth.

"Once the information is imparted it can never be regained. I believe this issue is of great magnitude to the future of our republic. Opposition to revealing weapon information without Congressional approval will, in my opinion, be intense."

Appraised of Knowland's statement, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) declined to comment. There were signs, however, that he shares Knowland's view that the atomic act bars any exchange of information until an international agreement has been made for atomic control.

The act bars export of fissionable materials and of atomic weapons. It says no information on "industrial application of atomic power shall be given other nations until there is an international control agreement.

Senator Hickenlooper (R - Iowa), former chairman of the senate-house committee, has contended that A-bomb making comes under the industrial clause and thus bars the exchange of information.

On the other hand, Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the atomic energy commission is reported to hold the belief that the president has inherent authority to exchange atomic information with the British by executive agreement.

Such an agreement would by-pass Congress, a development that Knowland signified he doesn't want to see take place. A Democratic official has emphasized that Mr. Truman at the Blair house meeting was not threatening to act without officially consulting Congress.

While Knowland would not comment, there are reports that he and other members of the senate-house committee have discussed the possibility of bringing before the senate a resolution putting that body on record as holding that the present law bars an exchange of information by any method.

Some committee members were known to have been seeking at a session last Wednesday with Lilienthal, Secretary of State Acheson, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the acting chiefs of staff, and others assurance that the president would not act without advance approval by Congress.

That they received no such assurance was directly implied by Knowland's decision to issue a public statement.

Some committee members said privately they fear that while any action might be held up now, the exchange of information might be carried out after Congress goes home.

British officials have denied that they have made any demand upon this country for technical know-how, although they have said they would like to be kept up to date on developments.

Testimony before the senate-house committee has disclosed that this country had a new type of bomb much improved over the wartime models dropped on Japan. Improvements apparently have been made in the manufacturing process.

The British have a lever, if they choose to use it, in their search for the technical information which seems to have been denied them since the 1946 act was passed despite their wartime partnership in developing the bomb. American contracts with British-owned mines in the Belgian Congo, where a large share of the world's usable uranium comes from, expires this year.

REPEAL OF

cise taxes sponsored by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) and most Republicans.

Senator Millikin (R-Colo), former finance chairman under Republican control of the senate, said:

"I heartily agree with the view of Senator George that we should get rid of all of our wartime excise taxes."

"If we cannot get rid of all of them I favor cuttting off part as provided in the amendment proposed by Senator Johnson," Millikin said.

"I am against a piecemeal removal," George said.

George said that when Congress imposed the wartime levies "we promised to take all of them off six months after the end of the war."

Although hostilities have ended, George said formal peace treaties have not been signed and so the taxes have continued.

He said the wartime taxes were for two purposes: To increase revenues and to discourage the use of materials and services needed to win the war.

George stressed that his proposal to wipe out excise taxes was not a move to cut the general level of federal incomes and other taxes.

"The general level of taxes must remain high," he said. "We should have a large surplus to apply each year to the national debts. But the tax burden is not fairly adjusted by wartime excise taxes."

publicly answer the attack, but would write a reply to Spellman.

Lehman said the issue "Is not whether one agrees or disagrees with Mrs. Roosevelt on this or any other public question."

"I strongly believe," he said, "As I have always believed, that in our American democracy every responsible citizen is entitled to express his or her views on public issues without being subjected to the accusation of being against any religion or any race."

He said that during Mrs. Roosevelt's 25 years as a public figure "I do not know of a single act or word that would in the slighest degree indicate bias or prejudice against any religion or any race."

"Her whole life has been dedicated to a constant fight for tolerance and brotherhood of men as children of one God," Lehman added. "She will, I am confident, retain the trust and affection of all peoples irrespective of creed or race."

LIE IS BLAMED

Clark disclosed that more than a score of United Nations employes are being investigated by the justice department.

The 30-page transcript of testimony by Witness No. 8 indicated he is a foreigner. From the many questions he was asked relating to Czechoslovakia, it appears he might be a Czech.

There was speculation whether he was the "Mr. X" who testified early in the hearings. The committee then said that a disclosure of his identiy might endanger his life.

No. 8 told the committee that "The Communist influence" in the U. N. secretariat could never have developed to the extent it has "if there had not been pressure from the top."

It is so great, he said, that "People, even of Democratic conviction, who don't like to lose their positions, become instruments of the Communist apparatus or are to frightened to resist and to take a clearcut Democratic standpoint."

"There must be," he said, a machine within the U. N. organizations which sees to it that employes who are hired from the different countries, including the United States, are of Communist inclination.

The witness said the only assistant secretary-general who resisted was "the Australian, Commander Jackson" and added he was fired last summer under pressure from Arkady Sobolev, described as the Russian assistant secretary in charge of the security department.

Jackson "was dismissed by Trygve Lie on the insistence of Sobolev," the witness said.

He told the committee that Sobolev, whom he said was recently replaced by another Russian, Konstantine E. Zinchenko, "exercised a silent terror on the personnel" of the United Nations.

The dismissal of Jackson, he continued, "increased the fear of the United Nations personnel. It was not any more sure of any protection."

At another point he remarked:

"The people are so afraid of losing their well paid jobs there, under the pressure which is coming from the top, that they are swallowing everything which Trygve Lie wishes."

An unidentified senator broke in to remark:

"I think that is the kind of thing that we want to know, the domination of the top, which is communistically inclined, controlling the action of the secretariat."

The witness: "Yes, and terrorizing the whole secretariat."

Among other things in his testimony, the witness said that iron curtain nations are favored over democratic nations in receiving in fellowships to make studies in the United States.

It was in connection with this discussion that he said:

"Why doesn't the United States government speak clear language with Mr. Trygve Lie? Say, 'We know what you stand for.' If you say, 'No more of this (if I may say) monkey business, not any more fellowships mostly for the iron curtain countries * * *

"Why shouldn't you bring pressure on the United States delegation or advice on the United States delegation to them not any more Mr. Trygve Lie, that we want there a man who is capable to take care in the right way."

He said Lie put a Russian in charge of the security council "which he considers and the world considers the main outfit of the United Nations."

As an example of Communists who have been employed in the U. N., the witness cited Paul Eisler, whom he identified as a Czechoslovakian citizen.

Eisler, he said, first was employed during the U. N. general assembly in London and "for some time was the closest collaborator of Gunnar Myrdal as head of the European Economic Commission."

He said that Eisler later came to U. N. headquarters at Lake Success but since has quit to become "an economic adviser to he Czechoslovakian Communist president, Klement Gottwald."

The witness said that some Communists and fellow travelers came into the U. N. from the old U. N. R. R. A. organization and mentioned Howard Daniel as an example.

He described Daniel as an Australian lawyer in the economic department of the U. N.

The witness said that a year ago the executive officer of the department of economic affairs was Leo Mallania, "Canadian citizen of Russian origin." he added:

In 1948 he (Mallania) joined the Palestine commission and is now one of the closest collaborators of Trygve Lie. "He has very close contact with the Soviet delegates, " No. 8 added.

The witness stated that most of the personnel of the economic department was recruited through Mallania.

He described Louis Dolivet, "previously a Romanian citizen, presently international editor of the private paper called United Nations World" as a liaison of the Communists with the secretariat.

Dolivet also serves as an "outside consultant" to the U. N., the witness said, and as such "all the archives and papers of the secretariat are accessible to him."

The witness said that among the purposes of Communists within the U. N. is to keep employes "who are of democratic conviction under pressure and terror."

He appealed to the committee to help "break the Communistic terrors in the organizations of the United Nations."

Paratrooper Admits Staging Bank Holdup

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 23.—(AP)—A 21-year-old paratrooper was arrested here today as he shopped for a $3,500 car. Police said he was the cool gunman who robbed a New Britain, Conn., bank for $6,000 on Friday.

Police Capt. William F. Lonergan identified the soldier as John C. Hamilton, Jr., 21, of 43 Golf street, Newington, Conn.

Lonergan said Hamilton admitted orally that he held up the Fidelity Industrial Bank and escaped after exchanging a polite "good morning" with a girl employe.

The brown-haired, good-looking paratrooper gave this as his reason, Lonergan said:

"It looked like easy money and I wanted a nice car and a good time." Hamilton was quoted as saying he was on furlough from Camp Campbell, Ky.

Lonergan said an automobile dealer was approached by Hamilton Friday afternoon and became suspicious.

The dealer called police today when the youth returned to look over a $3,500 automobile.

Lonergan said $3,500 in cash was found in a car which Hamilton said belonged to his brother.

The paratrooper insisted that his loot was $6,000 and that he left the other $2,500 at home, the captain said.

Bank Employe Geraldine Curtin, 16, told police yesterday that as she was going into the bank she said "good morning' to a young man.

The young man replied with a smiling "good morning" and made an unhurried escape, she said.

After only one look at an existing powder mill, Paul Revere was able to build a duplicate.

2-Week-Old Child Survives 3 Operations

PORTLAND, Ore., July 23.—(AP)—David Gerard Mahar in his first 14 days of life has survived three major abdominal operations and seems to be winning his "one chance in a thousands" struggle for life.

He was born two weeks ago today, in an Oregon city hospital, with a break in his abdominal wall. Rushed to Providence Hospital here, Surgeons operated, replaced the intestines which had gone through the break, and repaired the wall. They said the day-old child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mahar of Gladstone, had one chance in a thousand.

Three days later another break developed and the operation was repeated.

The baby then was taken to Doernbecker Children's Hospital and last Sunday, on his eighth day of life, he underwent a third operation in which a part of the intestine was removed and the ends joined.

"That's an awful lot for a small baby to take," the surgeon told the father, a paper mill worker at West Linn.

But today the hospital reported he was taking his food regularly, and it's a little early to say, but we really think he will be all right."

Blessing Of Biloxi Shrimp Fleet Slated

BILOXI, Miss., July 23.—(AP)—The annual blessing of the Biloxi shrimp fleet is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, August 7.

More than 300 vessels are expected to participate in ceremonies which follow ancient European customs.

Many of the Biloxi fishermen are of French, Yugoslav and French-Acadian descent.

First event on the program is a concert by the Sacred Heart Academy all-girls band beginning at 2:30 p. m. At 3 o'clock there will be a contest for selection of a queen of the Biloxi fishing fleet. Contestants will be girls employed in seafood canneries and shore fisheries establishments.

Following selection of the fishing fleet queen, a sermon will be delivered by Father Herbert Mullin, pastor of St. Michael's Church. Then Father D. O. O'Hanlon, assistant pastor of St. Michael's will bless the fishing fleet.

After the religious ceremonies the fleet will parade from the bay of Biloxi down the gulf side of the Biloxi peninsula to the outside harbor beacon, and return.

Prizes will be awarded Sunday night to the captains of the three best-decorated boats. The queen is to be crowned that night by Brig. Gen. James F. Powell, commanding general of Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi.

Sen. Long Without Governor Ambitions

PITTSBURGH, July 23.—(AP)—Senator Russel Long (D-La.) declared here today he has no ambitions to occupy the governor's chair in Louisiana once filled by his famous father, Huey Long.

"I'm convinced that I never want to be governor—that I'd rather be a senator," the 30-year-old legislator said. "I'm going to try for re-election next year."

The Democrat was in Pittsburgh to be best man at the wedding of a Louisiana State University classmate, Richard James Dempsey of New Orleans.

"While we were in school 'Jack' (Dempsey) helped elect me as president of the student body," Long said. "That gave me my start in political tactics."

CARDS SLICE DODGER LEAD TO HALF GAME

9TH INNING RALLY BRINGS RED BIRDS WIN BY 5-4 SCORE

Singles By Marion, Garagiola Hand Brooks Second Straight Loss

BROOKLYN, July 23.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals staged a two-run ninth inning rally with two out today to whip the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-4, and cut the Brooks' National League lead to a half game. The triumph was the runner-up Cards' second straight victory over the Dodgers in the crucial four-game series which ends Monday.

Martin Marion

Marty Marion singled home Stan Musial with the tying run and Joe Garagiola singled across Lou Klein with the winning run before a turnout of 28,396 fans.

The Cards, waging an uphill battle throughout, were within one strike of dropping the game in the pulse - pounding ninth. The Cards had trailed 2-1 after two innings, 3-1 after six and then tied the count with two in the seventh only to have Brooklyn take the lead again in its half of the seventh, 4-3.

Musial walked to start the final frame and Jack Banta, second Dodger pitcher, was relieved by Erv Palica. Palica, making his fifth appearance in as many days, fumbled Nippy Jones' bunt and both runners were safe.

Then the Dodgers got a break. With the infield in expecting a bunt, Enos Slaughter lined to First-Sacker Gil Hodges who beat Jones back to first for an unassisted double play. Klein kept the rally going by drawing a walk.

Palica got two strikes on Marion. Marion fouled off the next two pitches, then, as Klein broke for second on a hit-and-run play, Marion singled to right to score Musial with the tying run. Jackie Robinson had left his position to cover second as Klein broke and Marion's grounded zipped through the vacated spot. Garagiola followed with a hot single past short to plate Klein with the winning run

Bailey's Tomboys, Men Meet Lovers' Lane, Spatafora

STR-E-E-E-TCH!

Eleanor Maynard (above) long reaching first baseman, will be among the stars performing for Bailey's Supreme Coffee Tomboys when the Atlanta girls appear here next Saturday night against Lovers' Lane Pharmacy, leaders of the Girls' League here, in a double header program that also includes a battle between Spatafora's Pharmacy of the City League and the Bailey's Supreme men's team. The games were booked by John Spatafora of Spatafora's Pharmacy, who announced that he would turn net proceeds of the program over to the Goodfellows' Fund. The show is scheduled for Casino Park.

CLASSY ATLANTA CLUBS PLAY HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Softball Double Header Dated To Benefit Goodfellows' Fund

Twin City softball fans get an opportunity to see the fast brand of play performed by leading Atlanta, Ga., clubs here next Saturday night when Bailey's Supreme Coffee men and girls move into Monroe for a double header show with Spatafora's Pharmacy of the Cit yLeague and Lovers' Lane Pharmacy of the Girls' League.

Bailey's Tomboys, as the girls' club is known, have been beaten only once this year, losing to the Cas Walker outfit of Knoxville, Tenn., that has lost only one regular scheduled scrap in three seasons. The Tomboys won the southern regional championship last year as they ousted defending champion Tennessee Ramblers of Nashville by scores of 1-0 and 8-0.

Bailey's men, winners of 34 games while losing 14 this season, compiled a record of 55 wins against only 15 defeats last year. They were Georgia state champions in 1946 and metropolitan champions the last two years.

The pitching of Sambo Elliott is a feature of the Bailey's Supreme boys who claim Elliott is one of the finest of amateur softball hurlers. They boast a classy infield with Bill French at shortstop; Mack Harmon, a flashy player capable of "impossible" plays at second base; J. T. Roberts, steady hitter and good fielder at third base; "Shotgun" Waggoner, a fancy fielding first sacker and good hitter; Bob French, husky right fielder and one of the club's top sluggers; Outfielder Ed Posey, a "sure" fielder and dangerous bunter; Jeff Davis, a fine outfielder; and Carmen Carone, catcher and home run king of the club.

Other dependable Atlanta boys include Monk George, pitcher-outfielder; Jesse Bradshaw, catcher-first baseman; J. A. Hilbert, pitcher with an 8-1 record for the season and formerly hurler for state titled teams at Chattanooga, Tenn.; Cecil Phillips, outfielder; and Charlie Berry, utility.

The Tomboys boast a solid hitting girls' aggregaation that leans for its pitching strength on Ethel Abbott, a very attractive girl capable of playing any position of the team.

Other outstanding girls include Mickey Edwards, catcher; Eleanor Maynard, big first baseman; Mary Cole, "one of the best," second base; Martha Jackson, shortstop; Mary Pipkins, third base; and an outfield of Margaret Hanson, Dot Mauldin, and Dot Kersey.

Betty Grigg is the Tomboys' relief hurler, and others due to see action in the game include Sara Brown, outfielder; Mary Futch, outfielder-first base; Helen Avera, catcher; "Shorty" McClung, outfielder; Margaret Collins, infield; and Flora Castleberry, outfield.

Miss Hanson is considered the best of Tomboy hitters, but Miss Pipkins is leading in the batting department at the present, according to Atlanta reports.

The Tomboys are playing their second season of softball, and are better known as a basketball outfit. The Tomboy cagers are defending Southern Open Girls Basketball Tournament champions, having defeated the famous Sports Arena Blues, former National A. A. U. champs, in the title finals.

Ralph Marionneaux, manager of the City League Spatafora Club, who worked with John Spatafora in arranging the games, announced the games will be played at Casino Park, beginning at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Lover's Lane will strengthen for the invasion with girls from the Red Shield and Southern Bell clubs, while Marionneaux said he would enlist the aid of the Seroco battery of Wilbur Smith and "Chick" Downing to go along with his regular battery assortment of Joe Kilcoyne and George Fruge, pitchers, and Luke Coonrod, catcher.

Tickets, selling for 75 cents to adults and 35 cents to children, are on sale in advance at Spatafora's Pharmacy, Lovers' Lane Pharmacy, Lockhart-Blair Sports Shop, and Monroe Recreation Parlor.

Spatafora announced net proceeds of the show will be donated to the Goodfellows' Fund which had two previously scheduled benefit shows rained out.

Helena Sells Shortstop John Jeandron To Miami

HELENA, Ark., July 23.—(AP)—Sale of Shortstop John Jeandron to Miami of the Class B. Florida International League was announced today by Helena of the Class C Cotton States League.

Jeandron currently is batting .324.

John Lobert was 60 years old when he made his debut as big league manager with the Phillies in 1942.

CLOSE OUT SEASON

The Ken Elliott Motors' American Legion Junior baseball squad of Ruston, pictured above, has closed out its 1949 season, but the boys will be together this week for a final appearance when they journey to St. Louis Thursday to see major league clubs in action when the Cardinals entertain the Dodgers over the week-end. Nine of the boys will be back for Legion competition next year. Members of the squad, which was beaten out by Monroe-West Monroe in the finals of West League play in the Fifth District, are, left to right: Front row, Charles Clem Barham, Richard Berry Hinton, and James Everett Webb; middle row, John Glenn Fuller, Joseph George Lewis, Billy Jack Price, Billy Eugene Edwards, Jack Smith, Arthur M. Edwards, and Jessie James Edminston; and back row, Manager Larry Fox, Lovick Patrick McLane, Buck Wayne Fowler, James Alan Rentz, George Pierce Berry, Manager Ranne, and Coach John Long.

With Betting, Attendance Down, New York Tracks Reduce Stakes

By Frank Ortell

NEW YORK, July 23.—(NEA)—With dwindling mutuel and attendance returns and the trend so unmistakably pointing to a downward spiral in business, the New York racing associations are adjustings things to cope with the situation.

The days of the $100,000 variety of stakes now seem gone, at least in New York, where revenue from betting has decreased sharply this season.

Two associations, those which operate Belmont Park and Aqueduct, already have lashed the added values for many of the stakes to be renewed in the fall.

It seems a certainty Jamaica and Empire City likewise will cut the values of their fixtures in the fall.

Because of the slump, all the associations may go even further in this economy wave. The minimum purse in all claiming races may be cut from $3500 to $3000 in the Met area after the horses return from Saratoga, Aug. 29.

The minimum in claiming races on the flat at the Spa already has been reduced from $3000 to $2500.

Aqueduct and Belmont Park are maintaining their full stake list for the fall sessions, but four of the 11 stakes at Aqueduct have been reduced $5000 each in value—a total saving to the association of $20,000. These are the Aqueduct Handicap, Discovery Handicap, the Edgemere and the Cowdin, cut from $25,000 to 20,000 apiece. The Beldame retains its $50,000 added value.

Belmont Park lopped off the considerable sum of $112,500 from its fall stakes values, 10 of the 15 fixtures figuring in the slash.

The biggest drop is in the lowering of the Jockey Club Gold Cup from $100,000 to $50,000. The Grand National Steeplechase, outstanding through-the-field event in the country, carried $50,000 added in 1948. This year it was reduced to $20,000.

The fall Highweight, Jerome Handicap, Broad Hollow Steeplechase Handicap, the Sysonby Mile and the Lawrence Realization were clipped $5000 each; the Vosburgh Handicap and Ladies Handicap $10,000 each, and the Brook Steeplechase $2500.

Three Monroe Softball Clubs Enter Tournament

Three Monroe softball clubs became the first to file entries for the annual district softball tournament to be held here August 6 and 7, it was announced yesterday by District Commissioner Jack Hesketh.

Spatafora's Pharmacy, Nichols Motors, both of the City League, and Monroe Auto Auction of the Senior League are ready to go in the annual second district event.

Deadline for filing entries from the territory of northeast Louisiana is Tuesday, August 2. Only the winner of the district tournament, or the runner-up in the event the champion does not exercise its right, will be eligible for the state tournament to be held at Winnfield.

Restelli – King Of The Stars

By Robert Sundy
AP Newsfeatures

PITTSBURGH—You can give a bespectacled Italian from California most of the credit for pulling the Pittsburgh Pirates out of the dumps—and the National League cellar.

Dino Restelli, the Bucs' new 24-year-old hitting star, isn't the whole team, of course. But, oddly enough, much of his help has come a flock of California teammates.

The quiet, powerful rookie came up the hard way. Restelli got his first chance with the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast League. That was in 1944.

He was batting better than .300 and talent scouts were glued to him when he was called into the Army the same year.

The real struggle came after his discharge in 1946. Here's how he describes it:

"The end of the war sent swarms of players back to their clubs. The Coast League was loaded and it was hard to get back into the swing."

Last year Restelli returned to his old hitting pace. His batting earlier this season prompted a Buc spokesman to lable his purchase—for an undisclosed sum and two players—one of the "most promising in years."

Another Pirate from the same state, and who's ancestors claim the same "old country," is Vic Lombardi. The Bakersfield player stacks up as a real diamond oddity—a hitting pitcher. Besides his respectable hurling record, Lombardi's been hitting as high as .391.

Six other players from California are important cogs in the current Pirate resurge—Ralph Kiner, Wally Westlake, Ernie Bonham, Cliff Chambers, Bill Werle and Eddie Bockman.

The Golden State has always bred

Italian Find

a rich strain of Italian baseball greats. A few of note are Joe and Dom DiMaggio, Tony Lazzeri and Frank Crosetti.

And if the English translation of Restelli bears significance, the Pirates' Italian is designed for even greater doings. Dino explains it a little bashfully:

Restelli, in Italian means "King of the Stars."

RUSTON HOST TO COACHING CLINIC BY GULF STATES

High School And College Officials Invited To Sept. 10-11 Sessions

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(AP)—The Gulf States Conference will sponsor a high school and collegiate officials clinic at Louisiana Tech in Ruston on September 10-11, Joe Aillet, president of the G. S. C., announced today.

Johnny Morriss, Southwestern Louisiana Institute coach and chairman of the football officials' committee of the G. S. C., will be in charge of the meeting. He has obtained the approval of officials of the Louisiana High School Association to hold the clinic. Morriss is formulating plans for the the meeting and these will be distributed through the high school officials' organizations.

Collegiate and high school discussions will be held in alternate sessions during the two-day period. John Lynch of New Orleans will handle the discussions on rules and mechanics for the college section and Warren Brunner of New Orleans the same for the high schools.

Organized in the spring of 1948 the gridiron campaign will mark the second year of competition in the Gulf States Conference. Housing and meals will be available for the officials on the Louisiana Tech campus during the two-day period.

RUSTON, La., July 23.—(Special)—After losing an early lead, the Ruston Rebels were forced to come from behind to down the Hodge Red Sox, 12-7, enabling the Ruston club to move into second place ahead of Sterlington, who lost 7-5 to the Ruston Volunteers.

George Ferrington, Rebel catcher, paced his team with a home run and two singles, knocking in four tallies and scored twice. John Kelly, Hodge second sacker, boosted his "over .400" batting average by hitting safely three times to bat in three teammates.

Tinker Hood, who relieved starter Slim Cassibry in the fourth to stop a Red Sox rally, received credit for his fifth win. He has lost only one. Trailing 6-5 going into the sixth, the Rebs staged a five-run rally to take the lead they never lost.

The up-and-coming Ruston Volunteers won their fifth straight in coming from behind to trim the Commercial Solvents of Sterlington 7-to-5, shoving the Solvents into third place. The Vols now trail Sterlington by only two games.

A glittering relief job was turned in by Doug Colvin to even his record at two wins and two loses. Colvin relieved Starter Ches Jones in the third during a Solvent rally and then set his opponents down with only a pair of safeties the following six frames.

B. J. Price, Vol back-stopper, led his team with the stick by collecting three singles and was followed by Billy Hinton who hit safely twice. Ed Gulley contributed three hits for the losers.

The Vols drew first blood by counting three times in the third but only to fall behind when the Solvents scored five runs in their half of the same inning. A three-run rally in the sixth put the Rustonites out in front to stay and assure the win.

A much improved Farmerville club broke out with 12 base knocks to cop an easy 10-2 triumph over the Simsboro Devildogs. Three runs in the fourth, breaking a 2-2 deadlock, provided the margin for victory.

After giving up single runs in the first and third, William Gilbert held the Devildogs scoreless the rest of the way, to receive credit for the win. He gave up seven hits.

In addition to his fine hurling, Gilbert took top hitting honors by banging out three hits in four trips, scored twice, and knocked in five runs. McGehee led the losers with a pair of safeties.

Bernice continued their winning ways by crushing the Dubach Dodgers, 11-4, behind the pitching of Righthander Calvin Tanner, who cooped his sixth triumph.

The Scoreboard

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Cardinals had a pair of young outfielders with Rochester in 1941, and it was difficult to make a choice between them.

Branch Rickey, then head of the far-flung St. Louis National League organzation, believed he had the parent club's flychasing problem solved for years in the left-hand hitting Stanley Musial and the right-hand hitting Erv Dusak.

Eddie Dyer

Dusak was a remarkable outfielder with a rifle for an arm.

If there is a weakness in Musial it is that his arm could be stronger.

Stan the Man injured it leading the Florida State League pitchers in winning percentage with 18 and 5 in his third year out.

So Dusak was slated to succeed the great Terry Moore in center field.

Musial came up in the fall of 1941 to remain, and thrice lead National League hitters to be the circuit's most valuable player as many times.

Dusak was sent bask to the Red Wings, and when he returned from three years of military service in 1946, home runs at opportune times earned him the nickname of Four Sack Dusak.

Dusak gave some indication that he would live up to his early promise in 1947, but Eddie Dyer gave up on him as a hitter and outfielder when his average dropped to .209 last season.

It was around June 1 of this year that it was decided Dusak should try a Bucky Walters, attempt to salvage something out of his extraordinary arm. So back to Rochester he went as a pitcher.

Dusak, the last time we saw the records, had won seven and lost four.

As you might have heard, he turned in a one-hitter against the league-leading Buffalo outfit the other day.

"Erv is coming back to us as a pitcher sure pop, perhaps this fall,' says Manager Dyer of the Red Birds.

"He's exceptionally fast, and has good stuff, but what pleases me most is the quickness and ease with which he adapted himself.

"They tell me Dusak knows his way around in the box, and what is equally important he likes to pitch."

So here we have Dusak reversing Musial's rapid rise to the Cardinals, going the long way from the outfield to the mound.

Speaking of Bucky Walters, the most famous of pitching converts is still managing the Cincinnati club with his ticker ticking regularly.

A month has elapsed since Walters was reported resigning the management of the Redlegs because of a heart ailment. According to Gabe Paul, assistant to President Warren Giles, a radio announcer heard this wild rumor in a Cincinnati pub, and spread it as information direct from the feed box.

"If I had heart trouble," laughs Bucky Walters, "the old pump would have conked out on our last road trip, when the Reds lost 13 of 15."

Odds 10,486-To-1 Against Golf Ace

By Lawrence Robinson

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A hole-in-one can be tailor-made. This has been demonstrated on five occasions, and on five holes, in the 15-year history of the New York World-Telegram's Hole-in-One Tournament.

The first ace was made in 1933 by veteran Jack Hagen, and stands as the most famous. Hagen, was the first player to tee off, and he holed out on his third of the five allotted tries on the old Salisbury course, now Nassau County's public golf plant.

In 1936 the tournament, growing ever larger each year, was moved into the three-geographical divisions of the metropolitan district, as will be done this year—Aug. 1 and 2 at Leewood G. C., Tuckahoe; Aug. 3 and 4 at Forest Hill Field Club, Bloomfield, N. J., and Aug. 8, 9, 10 at Bayside Links, Bayside, L. I.

After Hagen's miracle shot, the field settled down to a long period of aceless play, with the nearest shot a four-incher by Dell Sharbutt in 1936.

Then in 1937 lighting struck not once but twice in sharp succession. The first ace flew from the No. 5 iron of Franklin A. Schriver, Middletown, N. Y., low-handicap player in Orange County, on the fifth hole at Forest Hill.

The very next day, at Leewood, a tall, muscular telephone engineer who plays golf in the 90s, T. Arthur Menzel, holed out a No. 9 iron shot on his fourth try.

Then came another wait until in 1941 the special hole built by Walter Grego at Bayside was aced. Oscar Goess, who competed in the first tournaments (and was third the year Hagen holed out), let fly with a No. 7 iron. The ball hit to the left of the cup, took backspin, whirled sideways and dropped out of sight.

The fifth and final ace was produced two years ago, on the special hole at Forest Hill by the home club pro—Emery Thomas, who won the New Jersey Open the other day. Thomas was competing in his first ace tournament, having qualified only that year by holing out in a state tournament.

This 1949 tournament starts with the odds standing at 10,486 to 1.

If you ever have made an ace you are eligible for the tournament, which attracted 1120 starters in 1948.

PROMISE LARGE REGATTA ENTRY

Boats From Five States Already Listed For August 7 Races

FERRIDAY, La., July 23.—(Special)—Grounds and roads are being placed in shape for the forthcoming Concordia Regatta which will be held on Lake Concordia August 7.

Earl Williams, president of the boat club of El Dorado, Ark., has promised twelve tntries from his club in the outboard races. Entries have also been received from Gulfport, New Orleans, Mobile, Jackson, Beaumont, Lake Village, Ark., El Dorado, Monroe and Natchez, Miss.

Williams believes that the regatta will attract a large crowd, Purser Raborn, regatta official, adding that he expected as large a crowd as the turnout of 8,000 which saw the El Dorado regatta recently.

The New Orleans Power Boat Association will enter 50 boats and between 85 and 100 professionals are expected to enter, according to publicity committee chairman, Raborn.

"The regatta will be held north of Ferriday, past the pecan grove at Watson's Camp," Raborn said, adding that there would be two fishermen class races for amateurs.

Meanwhile, H. A. Martin, grounds chairman, said a boat pier and judging stand is being constructed and that "there will be plenty of parking space for all."

The Rotary Club-sponsored race is drawing wide interest from all sections of Mississippi and Louisiana.

FIFTY PER CENT CHOICES

OCEANPORT, N. J.—(NEA)—Favorites clicked at the remarkable average of 50 per cent at Monmouth to restore the percentage to a respectable .34.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—"Why," asked the Giant fan, "don't you write something about the way that bum Branca gets knocked out all the time but still gets credit for winning games? That 10-3 record of his is the phoniest thing I ever saw." . . . That, besides plagiarizing Brooklyn's favorite word, bum, was being most unfair to Ralph Branca. But it did emphasize the part a "strong bench" has had in keeping the Dodgers ahead of the onrushing Cardinals. . . . For the records, Branca has won seven complete games. He has been knocked out about a dozen times and got credit for winning three of those starts. . . . Since July 1, the Bums have been using three or four pitchers a lot oftener than just one, but they've had the necessary relief men on the bench, not to mention pinch-hitters, good reserves and, in other words, the "bench" to keep the club rolling. . . . Maybe the Bums don't outclass the Cards, but they sure outnumber them.

So's Your Old Math

Discouraged because his home-town ball club was lingering in last place in the North Atlantic League, Sid Benjamin, of the Hazleton, Pa., Plain-Speaker resorted to arithmetic to get it out. . . . Sid lined up a "league" of last-place clubs from various circuits and, with an assist from the St. Louis Browns, Hazleton got into seventh in the percentages.

Sportspourri

Rocky Graziano, boxing's "bad boy" got into trouble again before he finished signing for his first New York fight in three years. While he was in the Garden for the ceremony, he drew a ticket for parking his car on Eighth avenue. . . . "Brave Dave" Shapiro, the George Washington University basketballer who exposed those would-be bribers last winter, was relapsed into anonymity in the G. W. law school, but he's looking forward to the job offered him in the New York district attorney's office. He'll be graduated within the next year. . . . Sam Jethroe, the Montreal speedster, has International League managers so perturbed that Buffalo's Paul Richards invariably orders Sam walked when there's a man on second. That's the only time he can't steal. . . . Besides the Charles-Lesnevich and Graziano-Fusari fighters, the I. B. C. (New York branch) is figuring on one or two more outdoor fights before the season ends.

Weak End Notes

Herman Hickman, Yale's rotund football coach, and Publicitor Charley Loftus went on a reducing diet recently. In three weeks Loftus lost three pounds and Herman, really holding his weight down, gained five. . . . Ray Arcel has taken over the management of Middleweight Sonny Horne and hopes to get somewhere with him. Ray also has 138-pound Tony Labua, who, he says, is "a kid who doesn't look bad." . . . When a University of Florida alumnus recently offered Coach Ray Wolf two "sure-fire touchdown plays," Ray sent one back with the explanation: "We only need one sure-fire touchdown play."

CARDS SLICE DODGER LEAD TO HALF GAME

9TH INNING RALLY BRINGS RED BIRDS WIN BY 5-4 SCORE

Singles By Marion, Garagiola Hand Brooks Second Straight Loss

BROOKLYN, July 23.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals staged a two-run ninth inning rally with two out today to whip the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-4, and cut the Brooks' National League lead to a half game. The triumph was the runner-up Cards' second straight victory over the Dodgers in the crucial four-game series which ends Monday.

Martin Marion

Marty Marion singled home Stan Musial with the tying run and Joe Garagiola singled across Lou Klein with the winning run before a turnout of 28,396 fans.

The Cards, waging an uphill battle throughout, were within one strike of dropping the game in the pulse - pounding ninth. The Cards had trailed 2-1 after two innings, 3-1 after six and then tied the count with two in the seventh only to have Brooklyn take the lead again in its half of the seventh, 4-3.

Musial walked to start the final frame and Jack Banta, second Dodger pitcher, was relieved by Erv Palica. Palica, making his fifth appearance in as many days, fumbled Nippy Jones' bunt and both runners were safe.

Then the Dodgers got a break. With the infield in expecting a bunt, Enos Slaughter lined to First-Sacker Gil Hodges who beat Jones back to first for an unassisted double play. Klein kept the rally going by drawing a walk.

Palica got two strikes on Marion. Marion fouled off the next two pitches, then, as Klein broke for second on a hit-and-run play, Marion singled to right to score Musial with the tying run. Jackie Robinson had left his position to cover second as Klein broke and Marion's grounded zipped through the vacated spot. Garagiola followed with a hot single past short to plate Klein with the winning run

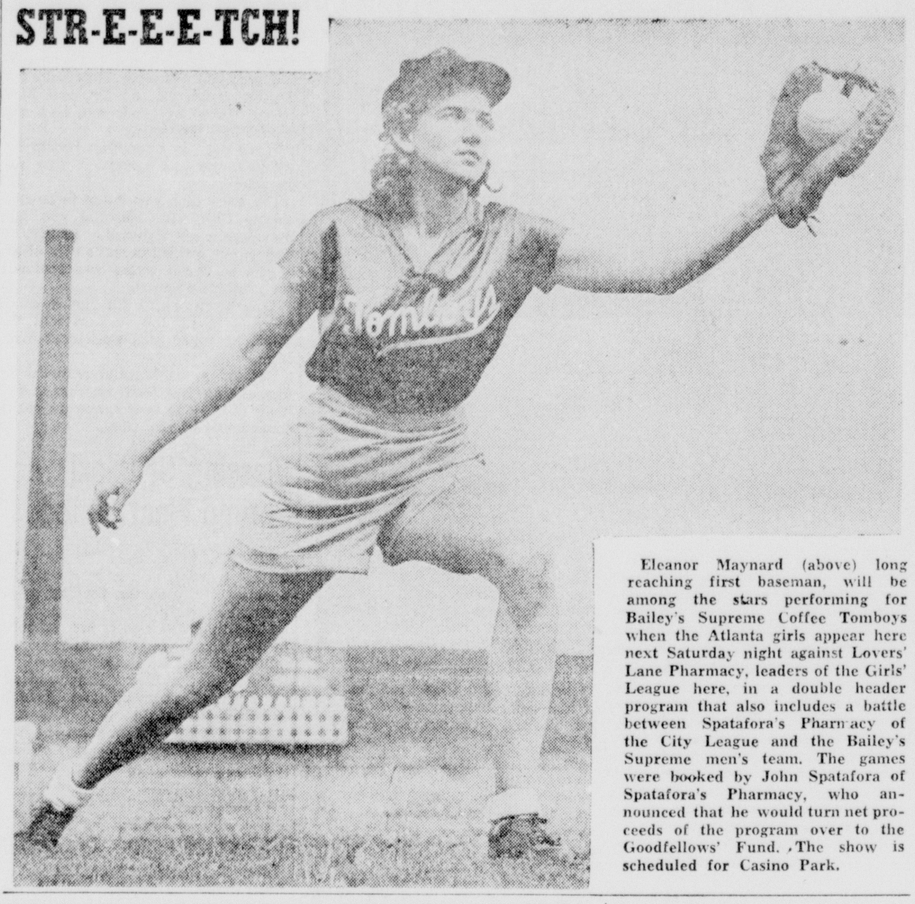
Bailey's Tomboys, Men Meet Lovers' Lane, Spatafora

STR-E-E-E-TCH!



Eleanor Maynard (above) long reaching first baseman, will be among the stars performing for Bailey's Supreme Coffee Tomboys when the Atlanta girls appear here next Saturday night against Lovers' Lane Pharmacy, leaders of the Girls' League here, in a double header program that also includes a battle between Spatafora's Pharmacy of the City League and the Bailey's Supreme men's team. The games were booked by John Spatafora of Spatafora's Pharmacy, who announced that he would turn net proceeds of the program over to the Goodfellows' Fund. The show is scheduled for Casino Park.

CLASSY ATLANTA CLUBS PLAY HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Softball Double Header Dated To Benefit Goodfellows' Fund

Twin City softball fans get an opportunity to see the fast brand of play performed by leading Atlanta, Ga., clubs here next Saturday night when Bailey's Supreme Coffee men and girls move into Monroe for a double header show with Spatafora's Pharmacy of the Cit yLeague and Lovers' Lane Pharmacy of the Girls' League.

Bailey's Tomboys, as the girls' club is known, have been beaten only once this year, losing to the Cas Walker outfit of Knoxville, Tenn., that has lost only one regular scheduled scrap in three seasons. The Tomboys won the southern regional championship last year as they ousted defending champion Tennessee Ramblers of Nashville by scores of 1-0 and 8-0.

Bailey's men, winners of 34 games while losing 14 this season, compiled a record of 55 wins against only 15 defeats last year. They were Georgia state champions in 1946 and metropolitan champions the last two years.

The pitching of Sambo Elliott is a feature of the Bailey's Supreme boys who claim Elliott is one of the finest of amateur softball hurlers. They boast a classy infield with Bill French at shortstop; Mack Harmon, a flashy player capable of "impossible" plays at second base; J. T. Roberts, steady hitter and good fielder at third base; "Shotgun" Waggoner, a fancy fielding first sacker and good hitter; Bob French, husky right fielder and one of the club's top sluggers; Outfielder Ed Posey, a "sure" fielder and dangerous bunter; Jeff Davis, a fine outfielder; and Carmen Carone, catcher and home run king of the club.

Other dependable Atlanta boys include Monk George, pitcher-outfielder; Jesse Bradshaw, catcher-first baseman; J. A. Hilbert, pitcher with an 8-1 record for the season and formerly hurler for state titled teams at Chattanooga, Tenn.; Cecil Phillips, outfielder; and Charlie Berry, utility.

The Tomboys boast a solid hitting girls' aggregaation that leans for its pitching strength on Ethel Abbott, a very attractive girl capable of playing any position of the team.

Other outstanding girls include Mickey Edwards, catcher; Eleanor Maynard, big first baseman; Mary Cole, "one of the best," second base; Martha Jackson, shortstop; Mary Pipkins, third base; and an outfield of Margaret Hanson, Dot Mauldin, and Dot Kersey.

Betty Grigg is the Tomboys' relief hurler, and others due to see action in the game include Sara Brown, outfielder; Mary Futch, outfielder-first base; Helen Avera, catcher; "Shorty" McClung, outfielder; Margaret Collins, infield; and Flora Castleberry, outfield.

Miss Hanson is considered the best of Tomboy hitters, but Miss Pipkins is leading in the batting department at the present, according to Atlanta reports.

The Tomboys are playing their second season of softball, and are better known as a basketball outfit. The Tomboy cagers are defending Southern Open Girls Basketball Tournament champions, having defeated the famous Sports Arena Blues, former National A. A. U. champs, in the title finals.

Ralph Marionneaux, manager of the City League Spatafora Club, who worked with John Spatafora in arranging the games, announced the games will be played at Casino Park, beginning at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Lover's Lane will strengthen for the invasion with girls from the Red Shield and Southern Bell clubs, while Marionneaux said he would enlist the aid of the Seroco battery of Wilbur Smith and "Chick" Downing to go along with his regular battery assortment of Joe Kilcoyne and George Fruge, pitchers, and Luke Coonrod, catcher.

Tickets, selling for 75 cents to adults and 35 cents to children, are on sale in advance at Spatafora's Pharmacy, Lovers' Lane Pharmacy, Lockhart-Blair Sports Shop, and Monroe Recreation Parlor.

Spatafora announced net proceeds of the show will be donated to the Goodfellows' Fund which had two previously scheduled benefit shows rained out.

CLOSE OUT SEASON

The Ken Elliott Motors' American Legion Junior baseball squad of Ruston, pictured above, has closed out its 1949 season, but the boys will be together this week for a final appearance when they journey to St. Louis Thursday to see major league clubs in action when the Cardinals entertain the Dodgers over the week-end. Nine of the boys will be back for Legion competition next year. Members of the squad, which was beaten out by Monroe-West Monroe in the finals of West League play in the Fifth District, are, left to right: Front row, Charles Clem Barham, Richard Berry Hinton, and James Everett Webb; middle row, John Glenn Fuller, Joseph George Lewis, Billy Jack Price, Billy Eugene Edwards, Jack Smith, Arthur M. Edwards, and Jessie James Edminston; and back row, Manager Larry Fox, Lovick Patrick McLane, Buck Wayne Fowler, James Alan Rentz, George Pierce Berry, Manager Ranne, and Coach John Long.

With Betting, Attendance Down, New York Tracks Reduce Stakes

By Frank Orteil

NEW YORK, July 23.—(NEA)—With dwindling mutuel and attendance returns and the trend so unmistakably pointing to a downward spiral in business, the New York racing associations are adjustings things to cope with the situation.

The days of the $100,000 variety of stakes now seem gone, at least in New York, where revenue from betting has decreased sharply this season.

Two associations, those which operate Belmont Park and Aqueduct, already have lashed the added values for many of the stakes to be renewed in the fall.

It seems a certainty Jamaica and Empire City likewise will cut the values of their fixtures in the fall.

Because of the slump, all the associations may go even further in this economy wave. The minimum purse in all claiming races may be cut from $3500 to $3000 in the Met area after the horses return from Saratoga, Aug. 29.

The minimum in claiming races on the flat at the Spa already has been reduced from $3000 to $2500.

Aqueduct and Belmont Park are maintaining their full stake list for the fall sessions, but four of the 11 stakes at Aqueduct have been reduced $5000 each in value—a total saving to the association of $20,000. These are the Aqueduct Handicap, Discovery Handicap, the Edgemere and the Cowdin, cut from $25,000 to 20,000 apiece. The Beldame retains its $50,000 added value.

Belmont Park lopped off the considerable sum of $112,500 from its fall stakes values, 10 of the 15 fixtures figuring in the slash.

The biggest drop is in the lowering of the Jockey Club Gold Cup from $100,000 to $50,000. The Grand National Steeplechase, outstanding through-the-field event in the country, carried $50,000 added in 1948. This year it was reduced to $20,000.

The fall Highweight, Jerome Handicap, Broad Hollow Steeplechase Handicap, the Sysonby Mile and the Lawrence Realization were clipped $5000 each; the Vosburgh Handicap and Ladies Handicap $10,000 each, and the Brook Steeplechase $2,500.

Three Monroe Softball Clubs Enter Tournament

Three Monroe softball clubs became the first to file entries for the annual district softball tournament to be held here August 6 and 7, it was announced yesterday by District Commissioner Jack Hesketh.

Spatafora's Pharmacy, Nichols Motors, both of the City League, and Monroe Auto Auction of the Senior League are ready to go in the annual second district event.

Deadline for filing entries from the territory of northeast Louisiana is Tuesday, August 2. Only the winner of the district tournament, or the runner-up in the event the champion does not exercise its right, will be eligible for the state tournament to be held at Winnfield.

RUSTON HOST TO COACHING CLINIC BY GULF STATES

High School And College Officials Invited To Sept. 10-11 Sessions

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(AP)—The Gulf States Conference will sponsor a high school and collegiate officials clinic at Louisiana Tech in Ruston on September 10-11, Joe Aillet, president of the G. S. C., announced today.

Johnny Morriss, Southwestern Louisiana Institute coach and chairman of the football officials' committee of the G. S. C., will be in charge of the meeting. He has obtained the approval of officials of the Louisiana High School Association to hold the clinic. Morriss is formulating plans for the the meeting and these will be distributed through the high school officials' organizations.

Collegiate and high school discussions will be held in alternate sessions during the two-day period. John Lynch of New Orleans will handle the discussions on rules and mechanics for the college section and Warren Brunner of New Orleans the same for the high schools.

Organized in the spring of 1948 the gridiron campaign will mark the second year of competition in the Gulf States Conference. Housing and meals will be available for the officials on the Louisiana Tech campus during the two-day period.

RUSTON, La., July 23.—(Special)—After losing an early lead, the Ruston Rebels were forced to come from behind to down the Hodge Red Sox, 12-7, enabling the Ruston club to move into second place ahead of Sterlington, who lost 7-5 to the Ruston Volunteers.

George Ferrington, Rebel catcher, paced his team with a home run and two singles, knocking in four tallies and scored twice. John Kelly, Hodge second sacker, boosted his "over .400" batting average by hitting safely three times to bat in three teammates.

Tinker Hood, who relieved starter Slim Cassibry in the fourth to stop a Red Sox rally, received credit for his fifth win. He has lost only one. Trailing 6-5 going into the sixth, the Rebs staged a five-run rally to take the lead they never lost.

The up-and-coming Ruston Volunteers won their fifth straight in coming from behind to trim the Commercial Solvents of Sterlington 7-to-5, shoving the Solvents into third place. The Vols now trail Sterlington by only two games.

A glittering relief job was turned in by Doug Colvin to even his record at two wins and two loses. Colvin relieved Starter Ches Jones in the third during a Solvent rally and then set his opponents down with only a pair of safeties the following six frames.

B. J. Price, Vol back-stopper, led his team with the stick by collecting three singles and was followed by Billy Hinton who hit safely twice. Ed Gulley contributed three hits for the losers.

The Vols drew first blood by counting three times in the third but only to fall behind when the Solvents scored five runs in their half of the same inning. A three-run rally in the sixth put the Rustonites out in front to stay and assure the win.

A much improved Farmerville club broke out with 12 base knocks to cop an easy 10-2 triumph over the Simsboro Devildogs. Three runs in the fourth, breaking a 2-2 deadlock, provided the margin for victory.

After giving up single runs in the first and third, William Gilbert held the Devildogs scoreless the rest of the way, to receive credit for the win. He gave up seven hits.

In addition to his fine hurling, Gilbert took top hitting honors by banging out three hits in four trips, scored twice, and knocked in five runs. McGehee led the losers with a pair of safeties.

Bernice continued their winning ways by crushing the Dubach Dodgers, 11-4, behind the pitching of Righthander Calvin Tanner, who coped his sixth triumph.

THE SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Cardinals had a pair of young outfielders with Rochester in 1941, and it was difficult to make a choice between them.

Branch Rickey, then head of the far-flung St. Louis National League organzation, believed he had the parent club's flychasing problem solved for years in the left-hand hitting Stanley Musial and the right-hand hitting Erv Dusak.

Eddie Dyer

Dusak was a remarkable outfielder with a rifle for an arm.

If there is a weakness in Musial it is that his arm could be stronger.

Stan the Man injured it leading the Florida State League pitchers in winning percentage with 18 and 5 in his third year out.

So Dusak was slated to succeed the great Terry Moore in center field.

Musial came up in the fall of 1941 to remain, and thrice lead National League hitters to be the circuit's most valuable player as many times.

Dusak was sent bask to the Red Wings, and when he returned from three years of military service in 1946, home runs at opportune times earned him the nickname of Four Sack Dusak.

Dusak gave some indication that he would live up to his early promise in 1947, but Eddie Dyer gave up on him as a hitter and outfielder when his average dropped to .209 last season.

It was around June 1 of this year that it was decided Dusak should try a Bucky Walters, attempt to salvage something out of his extraordinary arm. So back to Rochester he went as a pitcher.

Dusak, the last time we saw the records, had won seven and lost four.

As you might have heard, he turned in a one-hitter against the league-leading Buffalo outfit the other day.

"Erv is coming back to us as a pitcher sure pop, perhaps this fall,' says Manager Dyer of the Red Birds.

"He's exceptionally fast, and has good stuff, but what pleases me most is the quickness and ease with which he adapted himself.

"They tell me Dusak knows his way around in the box, and what is equally important he likes to pitch."

So here we have Dusak reversing Musial's rapid rise to the Cardinals, going the long way from the outfield to the mound.

Speaking of Bucky Walters, the most famous of pitching converts is still managing the Cincinnati club with his ticker ticking regularly.

A month has elapsed since Walters was reported resigning the management of the Redlegs because of a heart ailment. According to Gabe Paul, assistant to President Warren Giles, a radio announcer heard this wild rumor in a Cincinnati pub, and spread it as information direct from the feed box.

"If I had heart trouble," laughs Bucky Walters, "the old pump would have conked out on our last road trip, when the Reds lost 13 of 15."

Odds 10,486-To-1 Against Golf Ace

By Lawrence Robinson

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A hole-in-one can be tailor-made. This has been demonstrated on five occasions, and on five holes, in the 15-year history of the New York World-Telegram's Hole-in-One Tournament.

The first ace was made in 1933 by veteran Jack Hagen, and stands as the most famous. Hagen, was the first player to tee off, and he holed out on his third of the five allotted tries on the old Salisbury course, now Nassau County's public golf plant.

In 1936 the tournament, growing ever larger each year, was moved into the three-geographical divisions of the metropolitan district, as will be done this year—Aug. 1 and 2 at Leewood G. C., Tuckahoe; Aug. 3 and 4 at Forest Hill Field Club, Bloomfield, N. J., and Aug. 8, 9, 10 at Bayside Links, Bayside, L. I.

After Hagen's miracle shot, the field settled down to a long period of aceless play, with the nearest shot a four-incher by Dell Sharbutt in 1936.

Then in 1937 lighting struck not once but twice in sharp succession. The first ace flew from the No. 5 iron of Franklin A. Schriver, Middletown, N. Y., low-handicap player in Orange County, on the fifth hole at Forest Hill.

The very next day, at Leewood, a tall, muscular telephone engineer who plays golf in the 90s, T. Arthur Menzel, holed out a No. 9 iron shot on his fourth try.

Then came another wait until in 1941 the special hole built by Walter Grego at Bayside was aced. Oscar Goess, who competed in the first tournaments (and was third the year Hagen holed out), let fly with a No. 7 iron. The ball hit to the left of the cup, took backspin, whirled sideways and dropped out of sight.

The fifth and final ace was produced two years ago, on the special hole at Forest Hill by the home club pro—Emery Thomas, who won the New Jersey Open the other day. Thomas was competing in his first ace tournament, having qualified only that year by holing out in a state tournament.

This 1949 tournament starts with the odds standing at 10,486 to 1.

If you ever have made an ace you are eligible for the tournament, which attracted 1120 starters in 1949.

PROMISE LARGE REGATTA ENTRY

Boats From Five States Already Listed For August 7 Races

FERRIDAY, La., July 23.—(Special)—Grounds and roads are being placed in shape for the forthcoming Concordia Regatta which will be held on Lake Concordia August 7.

Earl Williams, president of the boat club of El Dorado, Ark., has promised twelve tntries from his club in the outboard races. Entries have also been received from Gulfport, New Orleans, Mobile, Jackson, Beaumont, Lake Village, Ark., El Dorado, Monroe and Natchez, Miss.

Williams believes that the regatta will attract a large crowd, Purser Raborn, regatta official, adding that he expected as large a crowd as the turnout of 8,000 which saw the El Dorado regatta recently.

The New Orleans Power Boat Association will enter 50 boats and between 85 and 100 professionals are expected to enter, according to publicity committee chairman, Raborn.

"The regatta will be held north of Ferriday, past the pecan grove at Watson's Camp," Raborn said, adding that there would be two fishermen class races for amateurs.

Meanwhile, H. A. Martin, grounds chairman, said a boat pier and judging stand is being constructed and that "there will be plenty of parking space for all."

The Rotary Club-sponsored race is drawing wide interest from all sections of Mississippi and Louisiana.

FIFTY PER CENT CHOICES

OCEANPORT, N. J.—(NEA)—Favorites clicked at the remarkable average of 50 per cent at Monmouth to restore the percentage to a respectable .34.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—"Why," asked the Giant fan, "don't you write something about the way that bum Branca gets knocked out all the time but still gets credit for winning games? That 10-3 record of his is the phoniest thing I ever saw." . . . That, besides plagiarizing Brooklyn's favorite word, bum, was being most unfair to Ralph Branca. But it did emphasize the part a "strong bench" has had in keeping the Dodgers ahead of the onrushing Cardinals. . . . For the records, Branca has won seven complete games. He has been knocked out about a dozen times and got credit for winning three of those starts. . . . Since July 1, the Bums have been using three or four pitchers a lot oftener than just one, but they've had the necessary relief men on the bench, not to mention pinch-hitters, good reserves and, in other words, the "bench" to keep the club rolling. . . . Maybe the Bums don't outclass the Cards, but they sure outnumber them.

So's Your Old Math

Discouraged because his home-town ball club was lingering in last place in the North Atlantic League, Sid Benjamin, of the Hazleton, Pa., Plain-Speaker resorted to arithmetic to get it out. . . . Sid lined up a "league" of last-place clubs from various circuits and, with an assist from the St. Louis Browns, Hazleton got into seventh in the percentages.

Sportspourri

Rocky Graziano, boxing's "bad boy" got into trouble again before he finished signing for his first New York fight in three years. While he was in the Garden for the ceremony, he drew a ticket for parking his car on Eighth avenue. . . . "Brave Dave" Shapiro, the George Washington University basketballer who exposed those would-be bribers last winter, was relapsed into anonymity in the G. W. law school, but he's looking forward to the job offered him in the New York district attorney's office. He'll be graduated within the next year. . . . Sam Jethroe, the Montreal speedster, has International League managers so perturbed that Buffalo's Paul Richards invariably orders Sam walked when there's a man on second. That's the only time he can't steal. . . . Besides the Charles-Lesnevich and Graziano-Fusari fighters, the I. B. C. (New York branch) is figuring on one or two more outdoor fights before the season ends.

Weak End Notes

Herman Hickman, Yale's rotund football coach, and Publicitor Charley Loftus went on a reducing diet recently. In three weeks Loftus lost three pounds and Herman, really holding his weight down, gained five. . . . Ray Arcel has taken over the management of Middleweight Sonny Horne and hopes to get somewhere with him. Ray also has 138-pound Tony Labua, who, he says, is "a kid who doesn't look bad." . . . When a University of Florida alumnus recently offered Coach Ray Wolf two "sure-fire touchdown plays," Ray sent one back with the explanation: "We only need one sure-fire touchdown play."

Restelli – King Of The Stars

By Robert Sundy
AP Newsfeatures

PITTSBURGH—You can give a bespectacled Italian from California most of the credit for pulling the Pittsburgh Pirates out of the dumps—and the National League cellar.

Dino Restelli, the Bucs' new 24-year-old hitting star, isn't the whole team, of course. But, oddly enough, much of his help has come a flock of California teammates.

The quiet, powerful rookie came up the hard way. Restelli got his first chance with the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast League. That was in 1944.

He was batting better than .300 and talent scouts were glued to him when he was called into the Army the same year.

The real struggle came after his discharge in 1946. Here's how he describes it:

"The end of the war sent swarms of players back to their clubs. The Coast League was loaded and it was hard to get back into the swing."

Last year Restelli returned to his old hitting pace. His batting earlier this season prompted a Buc spokesman to lable his purchase—for an undisclosed sum and two players—one of the "most promising in years."

Another Pirate from the same state, and who's ancestors claim the same "old country," is Vic Lombardi. The Bakersfield player stacks up as a real diamond oddity—a hitting pitcher. Besides his respectable hurling record, Lombardi's been hitting as high as .391.

Six other players from California are important cogs in the current Pirate resurge—Ralph Kiner, Wally Westlake, Ernie Bonham, Cliff Chambers, Bill Werle and Eddie Bockman.

The Golden State has always bred

Italian Find

a rich strain of Italian baseball greats. A few of note are Joe and Dom DiMaggio, Tony Lazzeri and Frank Crosetti.

And if the English translation of Restelli bears significance, the Pirates' Italian is designed for even greater doings. Dino explains it a little bashfully:

Restelli, in Italian means "King of the Stars."

YANKEES STAGGERED BY BENGALS, 2 TO 1

ART HOUTTEMAN TAMES LEADERS WITH 5-HIT JOB

Indians Measure Senators, 5 To 3; Red Sox Hammer Browns, 16-5

DETROIT, July 23.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers threw a roadblock in the path of the pennant-conscious New York Yankees by beating them 2 to 1 today behind the brilliant five-hit hurling of young Art Houtteman.

Art Houtteman

The defeat cut the Yankee's lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians to 4 1/2 games.

All the hits off Houtteman were in the first four frames, but only in the second inning could the Yankees score.

Joe DiMaggio walked to open that inning and advanced to third on Charley Keller's double. DiMaggio then raced home on Bobby Brown's long fly.

A double by George Kell gave the Tigers both their runs in the first stanza. His blow scored Pat Mullin who had doubled and Vic Wertz, who drew one of Duane Pilette's two bases.

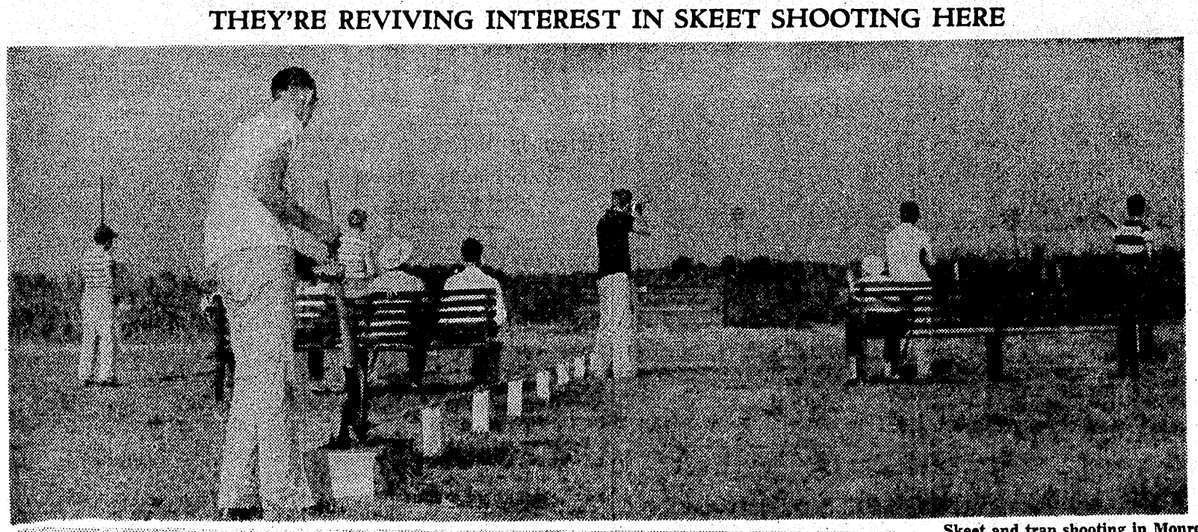
Clifford Gets Return Title Date With Jack Curtis

THEY'RE REVIVING INTEREST IN SKEET SHOOTING HERE



Skeet and trap shooting in Monroe has soared to its greatest popularity here this summer with ever-increasing turnouts of the shotgun enthusiasts each Sunday afternoon at the Monroe skeet range, Plum and South Sixth streets. Four thousand rounds of ammunition were fired during last Sunday's record shoot and another large response is expected today. Most rapid development of interest is among 'teen-aged boys. A 'teen-aged group is seen in action on the range in the top photo with Trap Operator Fisher in the foreground handling the mechanism that delivers the targets. In the middle photo is seen a men's squad, left to right, of Robert L. Fuller, Bert Williams, Gene Low, Glen Anderson, M. Harrell, and Ross Graves. Low, Anderson, Graves, and Williams were among the high shooters last week. In the lower picture is seen a group of 'teen-agers with their instructor and range manager, J. B. Thoman. Left to right, they are Thoman, "Buddy" Rizzo, T. J. Sandridge, Wayne Woods, Ralph King, and S. W. Hightower.

ANOTHER BIG DAY ON SKEET RANGE EXPECTED TODAY

Thirteen Awards Offered For Day's Top Shooters In Three Classes

Monroe Skeet Club officials are primed to handle another big turnout of shotgun artists this afternoon on the Monroe skeet range, Plum and South Sixth streets, with awards again being offered high shooters in classes for men, women, and 'teen-agers.

"We owe a great measure for the success of our skeet program to the merchant and businessmen of the Twin Cities," Range Manager J. B. Thoman said last night. "They have been mighty cooperative in offering awards to stimulate competition, and have proven they're all for sports one hundred per cent."

Thoman also reported he has installed a new 16-yard regulation trap that "threw the targets out so fast we couldn't find them. If anyone out Alto way or along the Winnsboro road thinks they're seeing the much discussed flying saucers ,they're probably seeing some of these fast moving clay targets."

Thoman was just stretching the point a bit about the speed of the targets coming out of the new trap, but the shooters will probably believe him after they've tried to stop some of the fast moving "birds."

City Commissioner Frank Cline is figuring a possible light arrangement for the range, Thoman said, and it is hoped that they will be able to arrive at a suitable setup soon so that work can begin toward making night shooting possible. Last Sunday's shoot lasted so long automobiles were arranged so that headlights could flood the range until the shoot was complete.

Awards being offered today's top shooters include a handsome trophy from R. and A. Jewelers; two full course dinners at Bakal's Restaurant; 20 gallons of gasoline, offered by "Chili" Baur, manager of Central Super Service; ten gallons of gas and a wash and grease job by Tidwell and Son No. 2; hunting knife, camera, and traveler's clock and bag by the Monroe Skeet Club; ladies' slacks by Silverstein's; a sports shirt from The Toggery; perfume from the Style Shop; case of beer from Hokus Pokus Liquor Store; sportsman's cap from Krauss and Cahn; and half-sole shoe repair job by Danna's Shoe Shop.

With the ever increasing demand of the shooters, S. K. Bernheim has been added to the range staff as assistant manager, Thoman said.

SPLIT DIFFERENCE—Chuck Diering of the Cardinals executes a passable split at the Polo Grounds plate scoring in the first inning after Nippy Jones' fly to Bobby Thomson. The center fielder's throw got away from Ray Mueller. The umpire is Lon Warneke. Four-run seventh won for the Giants, 7-4.

PIT BALK ESTES AGAINST MOBLEY IN SEMI-WINDUP

Al Getz Named To Referee Matches At Kallio's Arena Tuesday Night

"Flash" Clifford, the loser when he was disqualified in a title match with Jack Curtis, kingpin of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers here last Tuesday, did some fast talking immediately following the bloody brawl—so fast in fact that he got Curtis to accept a challenge for a return scramble next Tuesday.

Curtis admitted he is taking an awful chance, particularly with the referee set-up, but he authorized Promoter Gus Kallio to complete arrangements for the scrap at his Walnut street arena.

"Clifford was still bleeding from a gash on his head when I went to pay him off," Kallio said.

"Look what your champion did to me," complained the Louisville bruiser as he studied his gashed face in a mirror. "I don't like the way he hit me. (Curtis stopped him with a blow over the eye, twisting his fist as he hit). He meant to cut me open and it was a sneaky punch. The fans know me and I don't do anything that isn't in the open, like their sneaky hero-champion who always tries to cover the meanness and tricks he always pulls off when he gets in a tight match. He's a slick article, but I'll never be afraid of him, and am ready to face him again right now."

"Curtis knows I had the best of him when that referee disqualified me."

Carl Gray, himself a wrestler, had been assigned the job of handling the match and disqualified Clifford when he returned to the ring after being knocked out by the champ, went to work with an upper arm stomp, and he refused to break it up at the referee's order.

Kallio, apparently envisioning a sellout crowd, helped do Clifford's talking when he approached Curtis about a rematch.

"Just think what a good drawing card it would make," Kallio encouraged. "Clifford is still strong in his belief that he's ready for the title, but I think challengers always get over anxious and nervous. That's that's the time to meet a challenge—when they're a little mad and usually get careless. I think a better man can be beaten under those conditions."

Curtis looked steadily at Kallio for a long time before saying a word, thought over the renewed challenge, and then told Kallio, "I'm ready."

With Curtis' promise that the match was on, Clifford immediately began drumming for a different referee.

Kallio said he would do the job, but Clifford objected, "Oh, No! You're not going to referee this match."

Al Getz, who lost the night's semi-final to Rex Mobley, chimed in: "I don't think Gus should referee either. Gus remembers too much about the amateur rules when he was wrestling back there with the kids, and he breaks all the holds that wrestlers use today."

The injection of Getz into the discussion brought an invitation from Clifford that he referee the match.

"The commission probably won't want me handling this match," Getz said. "But I got in plenty of experience as a referee in Pittsburgh before I started wrestling. In fact, it was refereeing mat bouts that started me in the wrestling business.

Wrestlers don't get any favors from me. I call matches the way I see them, paying no attention to the fans. When I'm in the ring I work like there isn't a soul in the house but myself and the two wrestlers."

"That's the kind of referee I like to see!" exclaimed Clifford leaping up and shaking Getz's hand. "Sign him up, Gus."

Kallio took the news to Curtis.

"You don't figure those fellows are trying to pull a fast one on me?" Curtis asked Kallio. Then after studying awhile, he declared, "I'll take the chance."

Clifford, declaring he wanted to get even with Gray for his refereeing job last Tuesday, said he would offer Gray the first chance at the title if he wins it from Curtis.

Rex Mobley, so far silently awaiting his chance to lift the crown he once held, will be back for the semi-final against Balk Estes, the Oklahoma battler who last showed here seven years ago.

Estes exploits a dangerous flying-scissors and promised Mobley an interesting curtain-raiser.

L. S. U.'s Dickinson Takes Alabama State Golf Title

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 23.—(AP)—Gardner Dickinson, Jr., of Dothan won the 1949 Alabama State Golf championship today with a 5-4 decision over Nelson Debardeleben of Birmingham.

The 21-year-old L. S. U. golfer was never headed after he grabbed a 1-up lead at the halfway mark of the 6,350-yard course.

Dickinson shot an even par on the front nine of the afternoon round. Debardeleben, 19-year-old medalist, had a 39, three over regulation figures.

The Dothan entry was 1-up at the end of the first 18. He increased his margin steadily as they resumed the match after lunch.

Dickinson scored a birdie four on No. 12 to go 5-up. He and Debardeleben halved the 13th and 14th holes, winding up the contest.

YANKEES STAGGERED BY BENGALS, 2 TO 1

ART HOUTTEMAN TAMES LEADERS WITH 5-HIT JOB

Indians Measure Senators, 5 To 3; Red Sox Hammer Browns, 16-5

DETROIT, July 23.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers threw a roadblock in the path of the pennant-conscious New York Yankees by beating them 2 to 1 today behind the brilliant five-hit hurling of young Art Houtteman.

Art Houtteman

The defeat cut the Yankee's lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians to 4 1/2 games.

All the hits off Houtteman were in the first four frames, but only in the second inning could the Yankees score.

Joe DiMaggio walked to open that inning and advanced to third on Charley Keller's double. DiMaggio then raced home on Bobby Brown's long fly.

A double by George Kell gave the Tigers both their runs in the first stanza. His blow scored Pat Mullin who had doubled and Vic Wertz, who drew one of Duane Pilette's two bases.

Clifford Gets Return Title Date With Jack Curtis

PIT BALK ESTES AGAINST MOBLEY IN SEMI-WINDUP

Al Getz Named To Referee Matches At Kallio's Arena Tuesday Night

"Flash" Clifford, the loser when he was disqualified in a title match with Jack Curtis, kingpin of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers here last Tuesday, did some fast talking immediately following the bloody brawl—so fast in fact that he got Curtis to accept a challenge for a return scramble next Tuesday.

Curtis admitted he is taking an awful chance, particularly with the referee set-up, but he authorized Promoter Gus Kallio to complete arrangements for the scrap at his Walnut street arena.

"Clifford was still bleeding from a gash on his head when I went to pay him off," Kallio said.

"Look what your champion did to me," complained the Louisville bruiser as he studied his gashed face in a mirror. "I don't like the way he hit me. (Curtis stopped him with a blow over the eye, twisting his fist as he hit). He meant to cut me open and it was a sneaky punch. The fans know me and I don't do anything that isn't in the open, like their sneaky hero-champion who always tries to cover the meanness and tricks he always pulls off when he gets in a tight match. He's a slick article, but I'll never be afraid of him, and am ready to face him again right now."

"Curtis knows I had the best of him when that referee disqualified me."

Carl Gray, himself a wrestler, had been assigned the job of handling the match and disqualified Clifford when he returned to the ring after being knocked out by the champ, went to work with an upper arm stomp, and he refused to break it up at the referee's order.

Kallio, apparently envisioning a sellout crowd, helped do Clifford's talking when he approached Curtis about a rematch.

"Just think what a good drawing card it would make," Kallio encouraged. "Clifford is still strong in his belief that he's ready for the title, but I think challengers always get over anxious and nervous. That's that's the time to meet a challenge—when they're a little mad and usually get careless. I think a better man can be beaten under those conditions."

Curtis looked steadily at Kallio for a long time before saying a word, thought over the renewed challenge, and then told Kallio, "I'm ready."

With Curtis' promise that the match was on, Clifford immediately began drumming for a different referee.

Kallio said he would do the job, but Clifford objected, "Oh, No! You're not going to referee this match."

Al Getz, who lost the night's semi-final to Rex Mobley, chimed in: "I don't think Gus should referee either. Gus remembers too much about the amateur rules when he was wrestling back there with the kids, and he breaks all the holds that wrestlers use today."

The injection of Getz into the discussion brought an invitation from Clifford that he referee the match.

"The commission probably won't want me handling this match," Getz said. "But I get in plenty of experience as a referee in Pittsburgh before I started wrestling. In fact, it was refereeing mat bouts that started me in the wrestling business. Wrestlers don't get any favors from me. I call matches the way I see them, paying no attention to the fans. When I'm in the ring I work like there isn't a soul in the house but myself and the two wrestlers."

"That's the kind of referee I like to see!" exclaimed Clifford leaping up and shaking Getz's hand. "Sign him up, Gus."

Kallio took the news to Curtis.

"You don't figure those fellows are trying to pull a fast one on me?" Curtis asked Kallio. Then after studying awhile, he declared, "I'll take the chance."

Clifford, declaring he wanted to get even with Gray for his refereeing job last Tuesday, said he would offer Gray the first chance at the title if he wins it from Curtis.

Rex Mobley, so far silently awaiting his chance to lift the crown he once held, will be back for the semi-final against Balk Estes, the Oklahoma battler who last showed here seven years ago.

Estes exploits a dangerous flying-scissors and promised Mobley an interesting curtain-raiser.

L. S. U.'s Dickinson Takes Alabama State Golf Title

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 23.—(AP)—Gardner Dickinson, Jr., of Dothan won the 1949 Alabama State Golf championship today with a 5-4 decision over Nelson Debardeleben of Birmingham.

The 21-year-old L. S. U. golfer was never headed after he grabbed a 1-up lead at the halfway mark of the 6,350-yard course.

Dickinson shot an even par on the front nine of the afternoon round. Debardeleben, 19-year-old medalist, had a 39, three over regulation figures.

The Dothan entry was 1-up at the end of the first 18. He increased his margin steadily as they resumed the match after lunch.

Dickinson scored a birdie four on No. 12 to go 5-up. He and Debardeleben halved the 13th and 14th holes, winding up the contest.

THEY'RE REVIVING INTEREST IN SKEET SHOOTING HERE

Skeet and trap shooting in Monroe has soared to its greatest popularity here this summer with ever-increasing turnouts of the shotgun enthusiasts each Sunday afternoon at the Monroe skeet range, Plum and South Sixth streets. Four thousand rounds of ammunition were fired during last Sunday's record shoot and another large response is expected today. Most rapid development of interest is among 'teen-aged boys. A 'teen-aged group is seen in action on the range in the top photo with Trap Operator Fisher in the foreground handling the mechanism that delivers the targets. In the middle photo is seen a men's squad, left to right, of Robert L. Fuller, Bert Williams, Gene Low, Glen Anderson, M. Harrell, and Ross Graves. Low, Anderson, Graves, and Williams were among the high shooters last week. In the lower picture is seen a group of 'teen-agers with their instructor and range manager, J. B. Thoman. Left to right, they are Thoman, "Buddy" Rizzo, T. J. Sandridge, Wayne Woods, Ralph King, and S. W. Hightower.

ANOTHER BIG DAY ON SKEET RANGE EXPECTED TODAY

Thirteen Awards Offered For Day's Top Shooters In Three Classes

Monroe Skeet Club officials are primed to handle another big turnout of shotgun artists this afternoon on the Monroe skeet range, Plum and South Sixth streets, with awards again being offered high shooters in classes for men, women, and 'teen-agers.

"We owe a great measure for the success of our skeet program to the merchant and businessmen of the Twin Cities," Range Manager J. B. Thoman said last night. "They have been mighty cooperative in offering awards to stimulate competition, and have proven they're all for sports one hundred per cent."

Thoman also reported he has installed a new 16-yard regulation trap that "threw the targets out so fast we couldn't find them. If anyone out Alto way or along the Winnsboro road thinks they're seeing the much discussed flying saucers ,they're probably seeing some of these fast moving clay targets."

Thoman was just stretching the point a bit about the speed of the targets coming out of the new trap, but the shooters will probably believe him after they've tried to stop some of the fast moving "birds."

City Commissioner Frank Cline is figuring a possible light arrangement for the range, Thoman said, and it is hoped that they will be able to arrive at a suitable setup soon so that work can begin toward making night shooting possible. Last Sunday's shoot lasted so long automobiles were arranged so that headlights could flood the range until the shoot was complete.

Awards being offered today's top shooters include a handsome trophy from R. and A. Jewelers; two full course dinners at Bakal's Restaurant; 20 gallons of gasoline, offered by "Chili" Baur, manager of Central Super Service; ten gallons of gas and a wash and grease job by Tidwell and Son No. 2; hunting knife, camera, and traveler's clock and bag by the Monroe Skeet Club; ladies' slacks by Silverstein's; a sports shirt from The Toggery; perfume from the Style Shop; case of beer from Hokus Pokus Liquor Store; sportsman's cap from Krauss and Cahn; and half-sole shoe repair job by Danna's Shoe Shop.

With the ever increasing demand of the shooters, S. K. Bernheim has been added to the range staff as assistant manager, Thoman said.

HARBERT, HAMILTON LEAD INVERNESS 4-BALL

PACEMAKERS NAB EDGE OF 14 PLUS IN TOLEDO EVENT

Stranahan Steals Show In Masterful Performance With Lloyd Mangrum

By Fritz Howell

TOLEDO, O., July 23.—(AP)—Melvin (Chick) Harbert and Bob Hamilton had a strangle hold today on the top prize of $4,000 with two rounds to go in the $15,000 Inverness Four-Ball matches.

Harbert, the game's longest hitter, and former P. G. A. Champion Hamilton won two matches today to zoom into a commanding lead with plus 14, an edge of nine over their nearest foes in the 16-man eight-pair battle of birdies.

The surprise leaders won a four up victory over Sam Snead and Dick Metz this morning, and then came back this afternoon with a 29-31-60, and 11-under-par tournament record equalling score to snatch a six up decision over E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Jim Turnesa.

However, amateur Frank Stranahan stole today's show. The youngster, first Simon Pure ever to play in the event, paired with Jimmy Demaret to grab two matches, each by a three up margin. The pair opened today's play tied for last with Freddie Haas and Dave Douglas, and downed those rivals in the morning round.

Stiff opposition loomed in the afternoon, however, as Demaret-Stranahan clashed with Lloyd Mangrum, former National Open champ, and Johnny Palmer.

Stranahan promptly took charge and turned in seven birdies and an eagle on his own account for the finest one man score in the 12 year tournament history. Demaret contributed one birdie, and the result was a score of 61 and a three-up victory.

Harbett and Hamilton have won four of their five matches, and have ripped strokes off every hole on the course. They've scattered 38 birdies and a pair of eagles over the entire layout and have a long lead in the race for the $300 prize for the most sub-par holes. They're tied with Mangrum-Palmer at 60 for another $300 for low score for a round.

Bushy-browed Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander meet the leaders in tomorrow's first match, and the tournament probably hinges on that clash. Heafner-Alexander are in second place, nine points back of the top team, and need a five-up victory to go out front.

Under the Inverness scoring system a team gets a plus equal to the number of holes it finished ahead of its foe. And the loser gets a corresponding minus.

The 16-professionals ripped the Inverness layout apart for 87 birdies and an eagle in today's rounds, boosting the five-match total to 238 birdies and four eagles.

Fourth round results:

Dutch Harrison-Jim Turnesa (31-34—65) three up over Lloyd Mangrum-Johnny Palmer (33-35-68).

Clayton Haefner-Skip Alexander (33-31—64) three up over Dram Cary Middlecoff-Jim Ferrier (33-34—67).

Bob Hamilton-Chick Harbert (32-35—67) four up over Sam Snead-Dick Metz (35-36—71).

Jim Demaret-Frank Stranaham (33-32—65) three up over Freddie Haas-Dave Douglas (34-34—68).

Fifth round results.

Snead-Metz (33-33—66) even with Middlecoff-Ferrier (32-34—66).

Demaret-Stranahan (30-31—61) three up over Mangrum-Palmer (32-32—64).

Haas-Douglas (33-34—67) even with Haefner-Alexander (33-34—67).

Hamilton-Harbert (29-31—60) six up over Harrison-Turnesa (32-34—66).

Tommy Henrich of the Yankees tied the major league record for homers with the bases filled last season when he hit four with the sacks loaded.

Booby Prize Rifleman Of 1941 Sets Sights On International

By George A. Bowen
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

COLLEGE PARK, Md.,—"1941—Booby prize, Art Cook."

"1949—International champion, Art Cook."

That's the way the record may read soon for one of America's best eagle-eyes with a rifle. The young University of Maryland sharpshooter has his sights set on the international championships in Argentina in November.

It's a long way to come for a kid who eight years ago wound up last in a Boy Scout shooting match. But almost as sure as shootin' Art Cook can do it.

He's already done something no other collegian ever did—win the Olympic and American titles. "Cookie" did it last year, being the first American to win an Olympic rifle title since 1924.

Back in 1941 Cook won his first prize—the booby, for worst score. That was in Boy Scout Troop 32 in Washington, D. C.

Art learned to shoot with the scouts and now he's a master both of the scouts and with the rifle. He kept firing away until today at 21 he can hit a bulleye with the best marksmen in the world.

Cook reached national stature in 1946 when he won the junior championship. The next year he entered Maryland and took the national intercollegiate title.

Just to prove the fallacy of "Sure as shooting," Art was beaten for the collegiate title both in 1948 and this year. But in interim he proved to the rifle world to look out for the "kid."

Cook's youngish face belies his 21 years. Weighing only 120 pounds when he showed up for the country's biggest matches last year they must have thought he was carrying somebody's gun.

At the Olympics in London he took the small bore 50-meter championship with a 599 out of possible 600 score. Only one slug missed the bullseye. And 43 of them were marked "X" which meant they were in a special smaller ring within the bullseye.

"And it was a rotten day for competition," recalls Cook. "Rain bothered us all during the four hours we were shooting. It got windy and then it stopped suddenly."

Returning to the United States, he followed up with the National Senior Rifle championship in a field of 150 at Quantico, Va. He'll defend that title in September at Fort Dodge, Ia., before going to the Argentine for the internationals.

Records started falling before Cook's unwavering barrel in 1945. Since then he has broken more than 30. Most of them were with what he calls his "charmed rifle."

"I bought this beat-up standard barrel Winchester 52," he explains, "from a friend in 1945 for 60 bucks. He purchased it in a pawn shop."

The Maryland University rifle team used the "beat-up" gun to win the national intercollegiate team title.

The freckle-faced Cook says he finds the standing position the hardest for him. But once he scored 100 from that position on a bet for an ice cream sundae every day for a year.

Always fidgety before a match, Cook eats and drinks as little as possible before competition. "If I eat too much, my stomach seems to crowd my lungs," he says. Even the sugar in cold drinks makes "my pulse throb when the rifle sling tightens around my left arm."

The sandy-haired college junior is an honor student in engineering. He's planning a technical career in firearms.

But first there's that international match in Argentina.

Operation Forces Pep To Postpone Compo Battle

HARTFORD, Conn., July 23.—(AP)—Willie Pep, the world's featherweight champ, underwent an operation for hemorrhoids today forcing a postponement of his title bout with Eddie Compo. The fight was to have been held at Waterbury Thursday.

Setting of a new date for the scrap has been delayed temporarily pending a conference among Lou Viscusi, Pep's manager; Rocco Mara, the promoter, and Willie's physician.

A few hours after the operation, not considered serious, Pep was reported to be "responding nicely."

Samuel H. Malkan, Connecticut's new athletic commissioner, said he had been informed by Dr. Rocco J. Romanello, who operated on Pep, that the fighter might be in condition to enter the ring again in about three weeks or a month.

MEN WITHOUT A COUNTRY—Ordered by the Czech government to drop out of the Swiss Tennis Championships because of the presence of the Germans, Rolf Goepfert and Werner Beuthner, Jaroslav Drobny, left, and Vladimir Cernik beat them in the final, 6-3, 6-0, 6-3. Drobny lost the singles final to Earl Cochell, sixth-ranking American of San Francisco, 3-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5. Czechoslovakia's Davis Cup players do not plan to return to their native land, hope to compete in the United States.

Keesler Sets Pace In Semi-Pro Event

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 23.—(AP)—The Keesler Field Fliers advanced to the winners' bracket in the Mississippi State Semi-Pro Baseball tourney here today by defeating the Hub City Blues of Hattiesburg, 10 to 2.

Earlier today, the Blues had beaten the Laurel Jaycees 6 to 3 behind the seven-hit pitching of Southpaw Bob gates.

In a third game, moved to Purvis so that three games could be completed today, the once-defeated Cleveland Indians rallied to eliminate Pearl City, 2 to 1. Pearl City had met a previous defeat.

The Keesler Fliers, undefeated in three starts, will meet Silver City, which has won two straight, in the winners' bracket finals tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. The victor will meet the ultimate winner in the losers' bracket for the state championship.

Jackson and Cleveland are scheduled to meet Monday at 2 p. m. in the first game of a double header, with the winner to play the Hattiesburg Independents in the second game.

The first homer of the tourney came in the Keesler Field-Blues game when Catcher Billy Logan lined a two-run smash over the right field wall in the seventh inning to account for all of the Hub City scoring. The game was called in the eighth frame when the Fliers had rolled up a commanding eight-run lead.

REBS WHIP RAYVILLE

The West Monroe Rebels claimed a technical tie for third place in the Louisiana Delta Baseball League Friday night by defeating Rayville, 11 to 2, behind four-hit pitching by Bennett.

The Rebels, only a game out of first place, get a chance to shuffle the standings again today when they tangle with the Delhi Oilers, league leaders, at Cloyd's Park in West Monroe at 3 o'clock.

The Rebs were limited to nine-hits by Rayville hurlers, but they made good use of seven errors. The Rebs enjoyed one big inning, the fourth, in which they scored eight runs.

Bennett, the winning pitcher, was his team's top hitter with two for four. Dumas got two for five for the Rebs.

Albert Sandrin, Chicago, Wins Chess Championship

OMAHA, July 23.—(AP)—Albert Sandrin, 27-year-old Chicago chess champion, today won the National Open Chess Tournament.

Never beaten, but tied four times in 12 matches, Sandrin had a final score of 10-2.

BOB COX UPSETS HARVIE WARD IN COLONIAL GOLF

Moray In Runaway Victory; Semi-Finals, Finals Slated Today

MEMPHIS, July 23.—(AP)—Bob Cox, football star from North Carolina, upset his schoolmate and intercollegiate champion Harvie Ward 4-3 here today in the championship quarter-finals of the Colonial Country Club's Invitational Amateur Golf Tournament.

The match was one of the biggest upsets of the day, Ward having been picked as one of the top contenders for the championship.

Perhaps the hardest fought match was that of Jimmy Wittenberg, Memphis city champion, and W. L. "Dynamite" Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga. Wittenberg took the match with a subpart four on the 18th hole after a tough battle of birdies.

Cox will be matched with Wilford Wehrle, the burly veteran from Louisville, Ky., and Wittenberger will face Dale Morey, stylish shotmaker from Indianapolis, in tomorrow morning's semi-finals.

Wehrle took care of Eddie Halbach of Memphis today with a burst of threes, and Morey made it a runaway in his match with the Missouri champion, Jack Geiss of St. Louis.

Dizzy Dean bowed out to Cox 4-3 during the morning, and went back to his baseball. He turned in a nice game of golf, keeping Cox under pressure through most of the match. He also proved a favorite with the galleries.

The survivors of the morning's matches will battle it out during the afternoon.

Other results in today's matches:

Championship flight:

Dale Morey of Indianapolis defeated Trammel Cotton of Memphis 4-3.

Jack Geiss of St. Louis defeated Buddy Wade of Memphis 5-4.

Jimmy Wittenberg of Memphis defeated John Buzick of Monette, Ark., 1 up 19 holes.

W. L. Goodloe, Jr., of Valdosta, Ga., defeated Arthur MacDonald of Memphis 7-6.

Eddie Halbach of Memphis defeated Ham Carothers of Greenwood, Miss., 2-1.

Wilford Wehrle of Louisville, Ky., defeated Jimmy Coleman of Jackson, Miss., 2 up.

'Three Squares' For Athletes May Bring 'Sanity Code' Peace

(AP Newsfeatures)

DALLAS—James H. Stewart, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference who is a member of the powerful compliance committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, thinks peace has come to the N. C. A. A. in its plan for controlling subsidization and recruiting of athletes.

It's all because of a simple amendment which Stewart suggested and which will be submitted to the N. C. A. A. at its annual convention in New York next January.

The amendment would allow athletes three meals a day at the training table in season.

Some two months ago Stewart and other Southwest Conference representatives attended what was heralded as a "revolt" of the Southeastern and Southern Conferences. The meeting was at Atlanta and the Southwest Conference folks entered the session a little reluctantly, feeling that little could be accomplished. They were there only as observers.

"I dreaded going over there," Stewart says. "They had been insisting on complete freedom from controls and I was afraid nothing could be done."

But Dixie, to his sruprise, was in a mood for soft talk and conciliation. The southern conferences agreed to give up their commercialized program in return for Stewart's bargaining point: three meals a day.

"That meeting gave me strength," Stewart says. "Instead of just one conference we had three. We had strength in numbers and they were obliged to give us a hearing."

He took the plan to other conference heads and gained tacit approval. He thinks the compromise will be effected. Which isn't to say that he believes he has devised a cure-all. He knows there will be occasional flare-ups but fundamentally the spirit of compromise finally has seized the N. C. A. A.

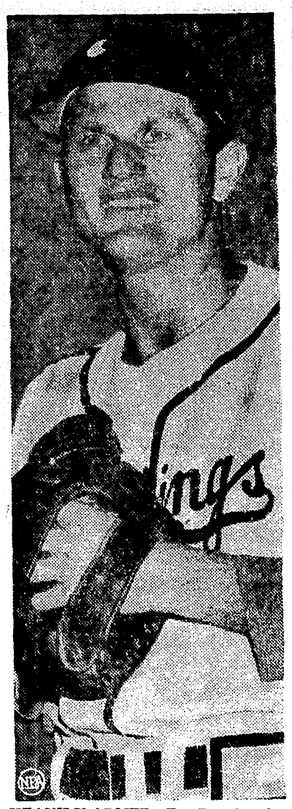
Stewart will meet with the compliance committee at Chicago in August and when the convention rolls around he and the South expect to establish that a student can't keep up his studies, participate in a major sport and still find time to earn two or three meals a day.

The "sanity code" of the N. C. A. A. permit athletic scholarships which provide housing, tuition and one meal a day in season. The Southwest Conference allows board, room, tuition and $10 a month for laundry. The Southwest in some respects is more restrictive than the N. C. A. A.

'Steamboat' Johnson Gets Night At Pelican Stadium

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—(AP)—Harry "Steamboat" Johnson, dean of Southern Association Umpires, will be the guest of honor at a "Steamer Johnson" night Thursday at Pelican Stadium here.

The testimonial for the patriarch of the umpiring flock was suggesetd by Mayor Delesseps Morrison of New Orleans. And it was willingly agreed upon by President Charles Hurth of the Southern Association and Manager Vincent Rizzo of the Pelicans.



HEAVILY ARMED—Erv Dusak, who failed to hit as a promising Cardinal outfielder, is headed back toward the St. Louis club as a pitcher. He recently turned in a one-hitter for Rochester against league-leading Buffalo.

COALTOWN WINS ARLINGTON 'CAP BY TEN LENGTHS

Nation's Leading Handicap Star Wins 10th In 11 Starts This Year

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—Coaltown, the nation's top handicap star, today streaked to his tenth victory in eleven starts this season in winning the $54,700 Arlington Handicap by three lengths.

Dixiana Stable's Star Reward, only horse to defeat Coaltown this year, finished second. Calumet Farm's 8-year-old Armed, Coaltown's stablemate, was third, a length behind Star Reward. Stud Poker was fourth, five lengths back of Armed. Then followed Oscar J. Breault's Brolite and Peter J. Valenti's Caillou Rouge.

The Calumet Farm entry went to the post at odds of 2 to 5 with Coaltown paying $2.80 to win. There was no place or show betting because of the small field.

A sweltering crowd of 27,127 witnessed Coaltown's run-away gallop.

The 20th running of the handicap proved to be just another outing for the 4-year-old horse, which surged out of the starting gate first and never was headed. At one time he had six lengths lead after Edward E. Voynow's Stud Poker, winner of the race last year, had forced him to set a hot early pace which saw him run the first half mile in :46 35. His time for the mile and a quarter was 2:03 2/5.

Herren, Waters Advance To Gulf States Finals

MOBILE, Ala., July 23.—(AP)—Two former Tulane players climbed into the finals of the rain-splashed Gulf States Tennis championships between showers today.

Top-seeded Wade Herren of Birmingham will meet second-ranked Harcourt Waters of Mobile in the finals at 2 p. m. tomorrow, the weather permitting.

The lanky Herren had an easy advance, winning by default from Vince DiStefano of New Orleans, who was unable to come back for the semi-finals.

Waters, after winning his quarter-finals match from Phil Ciaccio of New Orleans by default, downed Charles Hartridge of Mobile in the semi-finals in two hard-fought sets, 7-5, 6-4.

Herren and Waters teamed together to sweep into the finals of the men's doubles. Their opponents will be Hartridge and Walter Larsen of Mobile.

Robert (Red) Rolfe scored runs in 18 consecutive games for the New York Yankees in 1939, an American League record.

TAM O'SHANTER GROOMS FOR BIG GOLF PROGRAM

Rich $66,200 Tournament Billed For Chicago August 5 Through 14

CHICAGO, July 23.—(Special)—Golf's greatest, genuine gold rush, the 3-ply All-American and World Championship tournaments—to be renewed at Tam O'Shanter Country Club here on August 5-14—are the real money-pressure events on the globe's fairway calendar.

In dangling a prize bait of $66,200 for the lads and lassies of the links, George S. May, th sugar daddy of the bunkers, is breaking all records in this department, but is strictly keeping within precedent.

May, golf's greatest promoter, has paid out more cash to golfers than any other person, living or dead, or more than any club for that matter, in the nine seasons he's been associated with the sport from a competitive tournament standpoint.

Any lingering doubt of this is dissipated in cold, black figures. After the final putt has been sunk around sundown on August 14 or on August 15, if a playoff is necessary, May will have distributed $326,000 in round total to the play-for-pay and play-for-fun golf brigade since 1940.

This sum is inclusive of the $5,000 that went with the Chicago Open at Tam in 1940, and a modest $11,000 with which Maestro May enriched the inaugural All-Americans the next season. Last year, the awards aggregated a mere $55,300.

Immediately following the completion of the 9th annual All-American Men's Pro and Amateur and Women's Open on August 9, the best and sweetest boy and girl shooters in the land will start firing in the World Championship at the famous course on August 11. This meet will run four days.

Both events are 72-hole, medal play affairs. For the first time in history, the All-Americans will be played over a 5-day stretch. The contestants will not be required to qualify this year. The first two days will be devoted to the first 18-hole round for the big field.

ALL-STAR GRID SQUAD FORMING

College Aces Reporting To Wilkinson To Groom For Pro Eagles

EVANSTON, Ill., July 23.—(AP)—Head Coach Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma's Sugar Bowl champions began greeting college gridiron heroes of the 1948 season today as training officially opened for the annual All-Star football game in Soldier Field August 12.

A hand-picked squad of 68 players will tangle with the Philadelphia Eagles, champions of the National Football League, in the traditional gridiron season curtain-raiser. A majarity of them have signed with pro teams and will be seeing action throughout the fall.

The star-studded collegiate group will include such southern greats as Halfback Shorty McWilliams, Mississippi State and Clyde Scott of Arkansas; ends Emile O'Brien of Tulane; A. B. Wimberly of Louisiana State and Barney Poole of Mississippi.

Wilkinson and his staff will begin a rigorous 20-day training period at Northwestern University. They have high hopes of revenging last year's 28-0 defeat handed the All-Stars by the Chicago Cardinals.

Because there is so much high-caliber talent around, Wilkinson will find his toughest job is to select players for first, second and third teams. He has the material for any kind of formation he wishes—single wing, double wing, the T or the so-called split T which he has made famous at Oklahoma.

Grambling To Meet Houston Negro Club

The Grambling College Tigers, featuring Mack Hall, the Monroe Negro recently signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers for spring delivery, will meet the Houston Eagles of the Negro Southern League in an exhibition game here Wednesday night at Casino Park.

Hall, a pitcher, will take the mound against the invaders in hopes of a repeat performance such as that he did a few days ago in taming the New Orleans Creoles, also of the Negro Southern loop.

The Houston Eagles were formerly the property of the Newark Eagles, building ground of Larry Doby, who moved their franchise to Houston, Tex., this year.

The Wednesday game is scheduled to a begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Three Rings Claims Top Money In Monmouth Race

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—Three Rings, 4-year-old Blue Larkspur-Circus Ring gelding owned by Mrs. E. L. Hopkins won the sixth running of the $25,000-Added Monmouth Handicap at Monmouth Park today.

Perfectly handled by Jockey Hedley Woodhouse, Three Rings followed the fast early pace set by Papa Redbird, willingly assumed command on the stretch turn to win by two and one half lengths. The winner paid $15.80, $8.20 and $4.80.

HARBERT, HAMILTON LEAD INVERNESS 4-BALL

PACEMAKERS NAB EDGE OF 14 PLUS IN TOLEDO EVENT

Stranahan Steals Show In Masterful Performance With Lloyd Mangrum

By Fritz Howell

TOLEDO, O., July 23.—(AP)—Melvin (Chick) Harbert and Bob Hamilton had a strangle hold today on the top prize of $4,000 with two rounds to go in the $15,000 Inverness Four-Ball matches.

Harbert, the game's longest hitter, and former P. G. A. Champion Hamilton won two matches today to zoom into a commanding lead with plus 14, an edge of nine over their nearest foes in the 16-man eight-pair battle of birdies.

The surprise leaders won a four up victory over Sam Snead and Dick Metz this morning, and then came back this afternoon with a 29-31-60, and 11-under-par tournament record equalling score to snatch a six up decision over E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Jim Turnesa.

However, amateur Frank Stranahan stole today's show. The youngster, first Simon Pure ever to play in the event, paired with Jimmy Demaret to grab two matches, each by a three up margin. The pair opened today's play tied for last with Freddie Haas and Dave Douglas, and downed those rivals in the morning round.

Stiff opposition loomed in the afternoon, however, as Demaret-Stranahan clashed with Lloyd Mangrum, former National Open champ, and Johnny Palmer.

Stranahan promptly took charge and turned in seven birdies and an eagle on his own account for the finest one man score in the 12 year tournament history. Demaret contributed one birdie, and the result was a score of 61 and a three-up victory.

Harbett and Hamilton have won four of their five matches, and have ripped strokes off every hole on the course. They've scattered 38 birdies and a pair of eagles over the entire layout and have a long lead in the race for the $300 prize for the most sub-par holes. They're tied with Mangrum-Palmer at 60 for another $300 for low score for a round.

Bushy-browed Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander meet the leaders in tomorrow's first match, and the tournament probably hinges on that clash. Heafner - Alexander are in second place, nine points back of the top team, and need a five-up victory to go out front.

Under the Inverness scoring system a team gets a plus equal to the number of holes it finished ahead of its foe. And the loser gets a corresponding minus.

The 16-professionals ripped the Inverness layout apart for 87 birdies and an eagle in today's rounds, boosting the five-match total to 238 birdies and four eagles.

Fourth round results:

Dutch Harrison-Jim Turnesa (31-34—65) three up over Lloyd Mangrum-Johnny Palmer (33-35-68).

Clayton Haefner-Skip Alexander (33-31—64) three up over Dram Cary Middlecoff-Jim Ferrier (33-34—67).

Bob Hamilton-Chick Harbert (32-35—67) four up over Sam Snead-Dick Metz (35-36—71).

Jim Demaret - Frank Stranaham (33-32—65) three up over Freddie Haas-Dave Douglas (34-34—68).

Fifth round results.

Snead-Metz (33-33—66) even with Middlecoff-Ferrier (32-34—66).

Demaret - Stranahan (30-31—61) three up over Mangrum - Palmer (32-32—64).

Haas-Douglas (33-34—67) even with Haefner-Alexander (33-34—67).

Hamilton-Harbert (29-31—60) six up over Harrison-Turnesa (32-34—66).

Tommy Henrich of the Yankees tied the major league record for homers with the bases filled last season when he hit four with the sacks loaded.

Booby Prize Rifleman Of 1941 Sets Sights On International

By George A. Bowen
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

COLLEGE PARK, Md.,—"1941—Booby prize, Art Cook."

"1949—International champion, Art Cook."

That's the way the record may read soon for one of America's best eagle-eyes with a rifle. The young University of Maryland sharpshooter has his sights set on the international championships in Argentina in November.

It's a long way to come for a kid who eight years ago wound up last in a Boy Scout shooting match. But almost as sure as shootin' Art Cook can do it.

He's already done something no other collegian ever did—win the Olympic and American titles. "Cookie" did it last year, being the first American to win an Olympic rifle title since 1924.

Back in 1941 Cook won his first prize—the booby, for worst score. That was in Boy Scout Troop 32 in Washington, D. C.

Art learned to shoot with the scouts and now he's a master both of the scouts and with the rifle. He kept firing away until today at 21 he can hit a bullseye with the best marksmen in the world.

Cook reached national stature in 1946 when he won the junior championship. The next year he entered Maryland and took the national intercollegiate title.

Just to prove the fallacy of "Sure as shooting," Art was beaten for the collegiate title both in 1948 and this year. But in interim he proved to the rifle world to look out for the "kid."

Cook's youngish face belies his 21 years. Weighing only 120 pounds when he showed up for the country's biggest matches last year they must have thought he was carrying somebody's gun.

At the Olympics in London he took the small bore 50-meter championship with a 599 out of possible 600 score. Only one slug missed the bullseye. And 43 of them were marked "X" which meant they were in a special smaller ring within the bullseye.

"And it was a rotten day for competition," recalls Cook: "Rain bothered us all during the four hours we were shooting. It got windy and then it stopped suddenly."

Returning to the United States, he followed up with the National Senior Rifle championship in a field of 150 at Quantico, Va. He'll defend that title in September at Fort Dodge, Ia., before going to the Argentine for the internationals.

Records started falling before Cook's unwavering barrel in 1945. Since then he has broken more than 30. Most of them were with what he calls his "charmed rifle."

"I bought this beat-up standard barrel Winchester 52," he explains, "from a friend in 1945 for 60 bucks. He purchased it in a pawn shop."

The Maryland University rifle team used the "beat-up" gun to win the national intercollegiate team title.

The freckle-faced Cook says he finds the standing position the hardest for him. But once he scored 100 from that position on a bet for an ice cream sundae every day for a year.

Always fidgety before a match, Cook eats and drinks as little as possible before competition. "If I eat too much, my stomach seems to crowd my lungs," he says. Even the sugar in cold drinks makes "my pulse throb when the rifle sling tightens around my left arm."

The sandy-haired college junior is an honor student in engineering. He's planning a technical career in firearms.

But first there's that international match in Argentina.

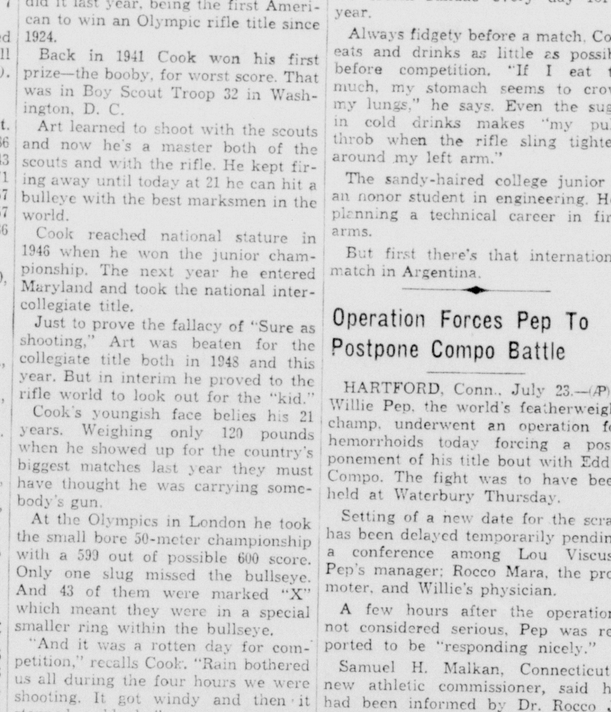
Operation Forces Pep To Postpone Compo Battle

HARTFORD, Conn., July 23.—(AP)—Willie Pep, the world's featherweight champ, underwent an operation for hemorrhoids today forcing a postponement of his title bout with Eddie Compo. The fight was to have been held at Waterbury Thursday.

Setting of a new date for the scrap has been delayed temporarily pending a conference among Lou Viscusi, Pep's manager; Rocco Mara, the promoter, and Willie's physician.

A few hours after the operation, not considered serious, Pep was reported to be "responding nicely."

Samuel H. Malkan, Connecticut's new athletic commissioner, said he had been informed by Dr. Rocco J. Romanello, who operated on Pep, that the fighter might be in condition to enter the ring again in about three weeks or a month.



MEN WITHOUT A COUNTRY—Ordered by the Czech government to drop out of the Swiss Tennis Championships because of the presence of the Germans, Rolf Goepfert and Werner Beuthner, Jaroslav Drobny, left, and Vladimir Cernik beat them in the final, 6-3, 6-0, 6-3. Drobny lost the singles final to Earl Cochell, sixth-ranking American of San Francisco, 3-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5. Czechoslovakia's Davis Cup players do not plan to return to their native land, hope to compete in the United States.

Keesler Sets Pace In Semi-Pro Event

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 23.—(AP)—The Keesler Field Fliers advanced to the winners' bracket in the Mississippi State Semi-Pro Baseball tourney here today by defeating the Hub City Blues of Hattiesburg, 10 to 2.

Earlier today, the Blues had beaten the Laurel Jaycees 6 to 3 behind the seven-hit pitching of Southpaw Bob gates.

In a third game, moved to Purvis so that three games could be completed today, the once-defeated Cleveland Indians rallied to eliminate Pearl City, 2 to 1. Pearl City had met a previous defeat.

The Keesler Fliers, undefeated in three starts, will meet Silver City, which has won two straight, in the winners' bracket finals tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. The victor will meet the ultimate winner in the losers' bracket for the state championship.

Jackson and Cleveland are scheduled to meet Monday at 2 p. m. in the first game of a double header, with the winner to play the Hattiesburg Independents in the second game.

The first homer of the tourney came in the Keesler Field-Blues game when Catcher Billy Logan lined a two-run smash over the right field wall in the seventh inning to account for all of the Hub City scoring. The game was called in the eighth frame when the Fliers had rolled up a commanding eight-run lead.

REBS WHIP RAYVILLE

The West Monroe Rebels claimed a technical tie for third place in the Louisiana Delta Baseball League Friday night by defeating Rayville, 11 to 2, behind four-hit pitching by Bennett.

The Rebels, only a game out of first place, get a chance to shuffle the standings again today when they tangle with the Delhi Oilers, league leaders, at Cloyd's Park in West Monroe at 3 o'clock.

The Rebs were limited to nine-hits by Rayville hurlers, but they made good use of seven errors. The Rebs enjoyed one big inning, the fourth, in which they scored eight runs.

Bennett, the winning pitcher, was his team's top hitter with two for four. Dumas got two for five for the Rebs.

Albert Sandrin, Chicago, Wins Chess Championship

OMAHA, July 23.—(AP)—Albert Sandrin, 27-year-old Chicago chess champion, today won the National Open Chess Tournament.

Never beaten, but tied four times in 12 matches, Sandrin had a final score of 10-2.

BOB COX UPSETS HARVIE WARD IN COLONIAL GOLF

Moray In Runaway Victory; Semi-Finals, Finals Slated Today

MEMPHIS, July 23.—(AP)—Bob Cox, football star from North Carolina, upset his schoolmate and intercollegiate champion Harvie Ward 4-3 here today in the championship quarter-finals of the Colonial Country Club's Invitational Amateur Golf Tournament.

The match was one of the biggest upsets of the day, Ward having been picked as one of the top contenders for the championship.

Perhaps the hardest fought match was that of Jimmy Wittenberg, Memphis city champion, and W. L. "Dynamite" Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga. Wittenberg took the match with a subpart four on the 18th hole after a tough battle of birdies.

Cox will be matched with Wilford Wehrle, the burly veteran from Louisville, Ky., and Wittenberger will face Dale Morey, stylish shotmaker from Indianapolis, in tomorrow morning's semi-finals.

Wehrle took care of Eddie Halbach of Memphis today with a burst of threes, and Morey made it a runaway in his match with the Missouri champion, Jack Geiss of St. Louis.

Dizzy Dean bowed out to Cox 4-3 during the morning, and went back to his baseball. He turned in a nice game of golf, keeping Cox under pressure through most of the match. He also proved a favorite with the galleries.

The survivors of the morning's matches will battle it out during the afternoon.

Other results in today's matches:

Championship flight:

Dale Morey of Indianapolis defeated Trammel Cotton of Memphis 4-3.

Jack Geiss of St. Louis defeated Buddy Wade of Memphis 5-4.

Jimmy Wittenberg of Memphis defeated John Buzick of Monette, Ark., 1 up 19 holes.

W. L. Goodloe, Jr., of Valdosta, Ga., defeated Arthur MacDonald of Memphis 7-6.

Eddie Halbach of Memphis defeated Ham Carothers of Greenwood, Miss., 2-1.

Wilford Wehrle of Louisville, Ky., defeated Jimmy Coleman of Jackson, Miss., 2 up.

'Three Squares' For Athletes May Bring 'Sanity Code' Peace

(AP Newsfeatures)

DALLAS—James H. Stewart, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference who is a member of the powerful compliance committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, thinks peace has come to the N. C. A. A. in its plan for controlling subsidization and recruiting of athletes.

It's all because of a simple amendment which Stewart suggested and which will be submitted to the N. C. A. A. at its annual convention in New York next January.

The amendment would allow athletes three meals a day at the training table in season.

Some two months ago Stewart and other Southwest Conference representatives attended what was heralded as a "revolt" of the Southeastern and Southern Conferences. The meeting was at Atlanta and the Southwest Conference folks entered the session a little reluctantly, feeling that little could be accomplished. They were there only as observers.

"I dreaded going over there," Stewart says. "They had been insisting on complete freedom from controls and I was afraid nothing could be done."

But Dixie, to his sruprise, was in a mood for soft talk and conciliation. The southern conferences agreed to give up their commercialized program in return for Stewart's bargaining point: three meals a day.

"That meeting gave me strength," Stewart says. "Instead of just one conference we had three. We had strength in numbers and they were obliged to give us a hearing."

He took the plan to other conference heads and gained tacit approval. He thinks the compromise will be effected. Which isn't to say that he believes he has devised a cure-all. He knows there will be occasional flare-ups but fundamentally the spirit of compromise finally has seized the N. C. A. A.

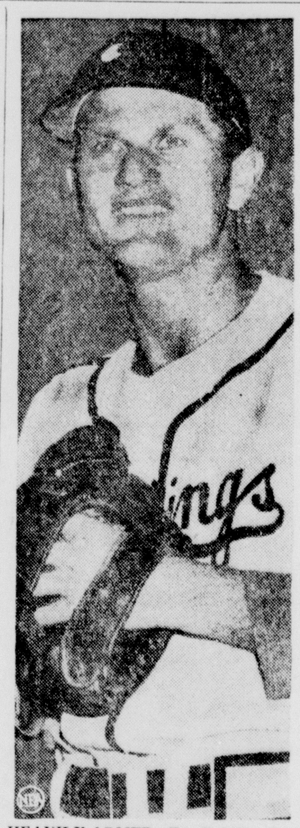
Stewart will meet with the compliance committee at Chicago in August and when the convention rolls around he and the South expect to establish that a student can't keep up his studies, participate in a major sport and still find time to earn two or three meals a day.

The "sanity code" of the N. C. A. A. permit athletic scholarships which provide housing, tuition and one meal a day in season. The Southwest Conference allows board, room, tuition and $10 a month for laundry. The Southwest in some respects is more restrictive than the N. C. A. A.

'Steamboat' Johnson Gets Night At Pelican Stadium

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—(AP)—Harry "Steamboat" Johnson, dean of Southern Association Umpires, will be the guest of honor at a "Steamer Johnson" night Thursday at Pelican Stadium here.

The testimonial for the patriarch of the umpiring flock was suggesetd by Mayor Delesseps Morrison of New Orleans. And it was willingly agreed upon by President Charles Hurth of the Southern Association and Manager Vincent Rizzo of the Pelicans.



HEAVILY ARMED—Erv Dusak, who failed to hit as a promising Cardinal outfielder, is headed back toward the St. Louis club as a pitcher. He recently turned in a one-hitter for Rochester against league-leading Buffalo.

COALTOWN WINS ARLINGTON 'CAP BY TEN LENGTHS

Nation's Leading Handicap Star Wins 10th In 11 Starts This Year

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—Coaltown, the nation's top handicap star, today streaked to his tenth victory in eleven starts this season in winning the $54,700 Arlington Handicap by three lengths.

Dixiana Stable's Star Reward, only horse to defeat Coaltown this year, finished second. Calumet Farm's 8-year-old Armed, Coaltown's stablemate, was third, a length behind Star Reward. Stud Poker was fourth, five lengths back of Armed. Then followed Oscar J. Breault's Brolite and Peter J. Valenti's Caillou Rouge.

The Calumet Farm entry went to the post at odds of 2 to 5 with Coaltown paying $2.80 to win. There was no place or show betting because of the small field.

A sweltering crowd of 27,127 witnessed Coaltown's run-away gallop.

The 20th running of the handicap proved to be just another outing for the 4-year-old horse, which surged out of the starting gate first and never was headed. At one time he had six lengths lead after Edward E. Voynow's Stud Poker, winner of the race last year, had forced him to set a hot early pace which saw him run the first half mile in :46 3/5. His time for the mile and a quarter was 2:03 2/5.

Herren, Waters Advance To Gulf States Finals

MOBILE, Ala., July 23.—(AP)—Two former Tulane players climbed into the finals of the rain-splashed Gulf States Tennis championships between showers today.

Top-seeded Wade Herren of Birmingham will meet second-ranked Harcourt Waters of Mobile in the finals at 2 p. m. tomorrow, the weather permitting.

The lanky Herren had an easy advance, winning by default from Vince DiStefano of New Orleans, who was unable to come back for the semi-finals.

Waters, after winning his quarter-finals match from Phil Ciaccio of New Orleans by default, downed Charles Hartridge of Mobile in the semi-finals in two hard-fought sets, 7-5, 6-4.

Herren and Waters teamed together to sweep into the finals of the men's doubles. Their opponents will be Hartridge and Walter Larsen of Mobile.

Robert (Red) Rolfe scored runs in 18 consecutive games for the New York Yankees in 1939, an American League record.

TAM O'SHANTER GROOMS FOR BIG GOLF PROGRAM

Rich $66,200 Tournament Billed For Chicago August 5 Through 14

CHICAGO July 23.—(Special)—Golf's greatest, genuine gold rush, the 3-ply All-American and World Championship tournaments—to be renewed at Tam O'Shanter Country Club here on August 5-14—are the real money-pressure events on the globe's fairway calendar.

In dangling a prize bait of $66,200 for the lads and lassies of the links George S. May, th sugar daddy of the burlkers, is breaking all records in this department, but is strictly keeping within precedent.

May, golf's greatest promoter, has paid out more cash to golfers than any other person, living or dead, or more than any club for that matter, in the nine seasons he's been associated with the sport from a competitive tournament standpoint.

Any lingering doubt of this is dissipated in cold, black figures. After the final putt has been sunk around sundown on August 14 or on August 15, if a playoff is necessary, May will have distributed $326,000 in round total to the play-for-pay and play-for-fun golf brigade since 1940.

This sum is inclusive of the $5,000 that went with the Chicago Open at Tam in 1940, and a modest $11,000 with which Maestro May enriched the inaugural All-Americans the next season. Last year, the awards aggregated a mere $55,300.

Immediately following the completion of the 9th annual All-American Men's Pro and Amateur and Women's Open on August 9, the best and sweetest boy and girl shooters in the land will start firing in the World Championship at the famous course on August 11. This meet will run four days.

Both events are 72-hole, medal play affairs. For the first time in history, the All-Americans will be played over a 5-day stretch. The contestants will not be required to qualify this year. The first two days will be devoted to the first 18-hole round for the big field.

ALL-STAR GRID SQUAD FORMING

College Aces Reporting To Wilkinson To Groom For Pro Eagles

EVANSTON, Ill., July 23.—(AP)—Head Coach Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma's Sugar Bowl champions began greeting college gridiron heroes of the 1948 season today as training officially opened for the annual All-Star football game in Soldier Field August 12.

A hand-picked squad of 68 players will tangle with the Philadelphia Eagles, champions of the National Football League, in the traditional gridiron season curtain-raiser. A majarity of them have signed with pro teams and will be seeing action throughout the fall.

The star-studded collegiate group will include such southern greats as Halfback Shorty McWilliams, Mississippi State and Clyde Scott of Arkansas; ends Emile O'Brien of Tulane; A. B. Wimberly of Louisiana State and Barney Poole of Mississippi.

Wilkinson and his staff will begin a rigorous 20-day training period at Northwestern University. They have high hopes of revenging last year's 28-0 defeat handed the All-Stars by the Chicago Cardinals.

Because there is so much high-caliber talent around, Wilkinson will find his toughest job is to select players for first, second and third teams. He has the material for any kind of formation he wishes—single wing, double wing, the T or the so-called split T which he has made famous at Oklahoma.

Grambling To Meet Houston Negro Club

The Grambling College Tigers, featuring Mack Hall, the Monroe Negro recently signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers for spring delivery, will meet the Houston Eagles of the Negro Southern League in an exhibition game here Wednesday night at Casino Park.

Hall, a pitcher, will take the mound against the invaders in hopes of a repeat performance such as that he did a few days ago in taming the New Orleans Creoles, also of the Negro Southern loop.

The Houston Eagles were formerly the property of the Newark Eagles, building ground of Larry Doby, who moved their franchise to Houston, Tex., this year.

The Wednesday game is scheduled to a begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Three Rings Claims Top Money In Monmouth Race

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—Three Rings, 4-year-old Blue Larkspur-Circus Ring gelding owned by Mrs. E. L. Hopkins won the sixth running of the $25,000-Added Monmouth Handicap at Monmouth Park today.

Perfectly handled by Jockey Hedley Woodhouse, Three Rings followed the fast early pace set by Papa Redbird, willingly assumed command on the stretch turn to win by two and one half lengths. The winner paid $15.80, $8.20 and $6.80.

ACE ADMIRAL SHATTERS MAN O'WAR MARK

29-YEAR RECORD FALLS IN SUNSET HANDICAP CHASE

New Figure For Mile And Five Eights In 2:39 ¾; Natural Second

By Bob Myers

ARCADIA, Calif., July 23.—(AP)—Speed horse Ace Admiral, breaking Man O'War's 29-year-old world record, won the $50,000 Sunset Handicap today as the Hollywood Turf Club meeting ended with a flourish.

The classy Maine Chance farm four-year-old, uncorking a burst of speed that sent him to the finish line a six-length winner in a wire to wire performance, eclipsed the American and world record for a mile and five-lengths set in September, 1920 by the great Man O'War.

The record, later tied at the Hollywood meeting of 1946 by Historian, was 2:40 4/5. Ace Admiral clipped a full second off the mark with a clocking of 2:39 3/4.

Mrs Elizabeth Graham's crack colt carried 122 pounds today as a getaway day throng of 39,300 looked on. Man O'War packed 126 pounds on that memorable 1920 day at Belmont Park. Historian packed 121 in his feat.

There wasn't much to the Sunset running except Ace Admiral and his farmous rider, Johnny Longden. The Ace broke on top of the field of 10 starters, built the lead to a length and a half as he pounded past the grandstand the first time, widened it to four lengths over the then persistent On Trust, and raced in six lengths to the good over longshot Natural.

The well liked Dinner Gong, owned by Abe Hirschberg of San Francisco, was third.

Ace Admiral was coupled with On Trust and the Irish importation, Esprit De France, in the betting, all being trained by the meeting's leading handler, Willie Molter. The entry went off favored.

The Ace paid $7.50, $3.70 and $2.60. Natural, owned by Edward Lasker and ridden by Apprentice William Shoemaker, paid $12.50 and $4.90. Dinner Gong with Jack Westrope in the saddle, paid $3.20.

Ace Admiral's triumph was worth $34,650 net to Mrs. Graham's well-heeled Maine Chance farm stable out of the Sunset's gross value of $57,900.

Westside Flower Shop gained ground in the Midget National Softball League race last night by defeating McVay Plumbing, 7 to 2, in a make-up game. Bonnett, hurling for Westside, gave up only two hits, while Shatzer, the losing chunker, issued five. Latham was the Westside catcher, and Lawrence and Whitt shared the backstopping for McVay.

N. O. MAN TAKES FISHING CROWN

Captures 132 ½ Pound Tarpon; Adjudged Best All-Round

GRAND ISLE, La., July 23.—(AP)—Peter Banville of New Orleans hooked a 132 1/2 pound tarpon to win the all-around fisherman crown today in the Grand Isle Tarpon Rodeo.

Contestants weathered wind-buffeted waters and squalls most of the day as the contest drew to a close at sundown.

Nearly 1,000 fishermen in 250 boats ranging from outboard skiffs to 100-foot yachts were estimated to have participated in the three-day fishing tourney.

Three tarpons were caught, one during each day of the contest. A. O. Rappelet of Houma was runner-up with a 106-pound fighter. Capt. J. N. Cappeletti, New Orleans, pulled in one weighing 101 1/2 pounds.

There were two ties in two other classes. J. H. Summersgill and Joseph Picciola of Golden Meadow each caught a 40-pound Cobia. Felix Savoie of LaFitte and Gus G. Jaquet of New Orleans tied with two jackfish, each tripping the scales at 27 1/2 pounds.

Here the first and second prize winners and their catches in all the contest classes:

Tarpon—Peter Banville, New Orleans, 132 1/2 pounds; A. O. Rapplelet, Houma, 106.

Spanish mackerel—Dr. Willard Ellender, Houma, 5 pounds, 2 ounces; H. G. Powell, Gulfport, Miss., 4 pounds, 14 ounces.

King Mackrel—Mrs. Joseph Hotard, Jr., New Orleans, 18 pounds; A. D. Chatham, New Orleans, 14 pounds.

Cobia—J. H. Summersgill and Joseph Picciola, Golden Meadow, tie with 40 pounds each.

Jack Crevalle—Joe Savoie, Lafitte, 27 3/4 pounds; Felix Savoie, Lafitte, and Gus G. Jacquet, New Orleans, 27 1/2 pounds tie.

Red Fish—John J. Plaisance, Golden Meadow, 10 pounds, 14 ounces; Joe Nicoll, Golden Meadow, 6 pounds, 4 ounces.

Bonita—Stirling Couch, New Orleans, 24 pounds; Lt. Charles Andres III 23 pounds.

Dolphin—W. J. Sandison, New Orleans, 12 pounds, 1 ounce; Russell Braun, Biloxi, Miss., 7 pounds, 1 ounce.

Sheepshead—Fred Brondum, New Orleans, 9 1/2 pounds; Steve Bruno, New Orleans, 7 pounds, 14 ounces.

Speckled trout—Butley Mahler, Jr., Houma, 3 pounds; Wilbert Collins, Chenier Caminada, 2 pounds, 14 ounces.

Tripletail—Nat L. Totter, New Orleans, 31 pounds; Murphy Crosby, Grand Isle, 7 3/4 pounds.

Civil War Treasure Reported In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 23.—(AP)—Arkansas officials were notified today that a $200,000 civil war treasure has been found in the state.

The secretary of state's office received a letter from Miss Helen M. Wilcox, Philadelphia attorney, saying:

"I am interested in removing from Arkansas a cache of gold coins and would appreciate your directing this letter to someone who could give me the state's laws on removing this gold.

"It is estimated these coins are worth approximately $200,000 and were buried there sometime during the civil war."

The letter was turned over to Attorney General Ike Murry, who wrote Miss Wilcox for more information which would enable him to form an opinion.

Murry didn't mention to Miss Wilcox that the 1949 legislature passed a law which gives the state any personal property abandoned for seven years or more.

The attorney general explained to a reporter, however, that a living relative of the person who buried any such treasure could claim it.

MASONITE STRIKE GROUP WILL MEET

Will Meet Federal Mediators To Iron Out Lengthy Walkout

LAUREL, Miss., July 23.—(AP)—Strikers' representatives and Masonite officials will meet here again Tuesday to try to iron out a dispute of more than three months' standing.

A spokesman who asked not to be identified said today that union and plant officials agreed to meet with Federal Mediator W. G. Byars of Jackson.

It will be the first session with the federal mediator since negotiations were broken off 10 days ago. At that time John M. Coates, Masonite vice-president, termed the conferences "hair-splitting."

He urged workers to return to their jobs before continuing the talks.

However, the International Woodworkers of America Local 4-443 (C. I. O.) submitted a counter proposal asking that Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin name three arbitrators acceptable to both sides to settle remaining issues. This in turn the company rejected.

Meanwhile, efforts have been launched to organize an independent union of Masonite employes only.

C. W. Jenkins, a Masonite worker who has held office in the C. I. O. Union, sounded the call for an independent group with an advertisement in a Laurel newspaper.

"What are we going to do now?" He asked in the ad. "Will the strike continue forever? What are you going to do about it? These questions are in the minds and hearts of all the employes of Masonite and in the minds and hearts of the members of the families of these employes."

In his statement Jenkins went on to say:

"The answers are simple: First, abandon the leadership of the International Union which is responsible for the present desperate deplorable condition. Second, join with others in organizing a strong new independent union under new independent leadership and composed of employes of Masonite Corp. only."

The ad was signed "Independent Industrial Workers Union, by the organizing committee, C. W. Jenkins, temporary chairman."

Belle Livingstone Suffers Heart Attack

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Belle Livingstone, famed showgirl beauty of the 90's and flamboyant hostess of New York's speakeasy era, is ill in a hospital ward with a heart ailment.

The hospital disclosed her stay there today and said her condition was not serious.

The toast of Broadway when she was on the stage and a friend of many notable world figures in later years. Miss Livingstone has been virtually out of the news since repeal ended New York's gaudiest decade.

In her memoirs, "Belle of Bohemia," published more than 26 years ago, she told of her friendship with J. P. Morgan, King Edward VII of Britain, King Leopold of Belgium, Theodore Roosevelt, Lord Kitchner and Harry Thaw.

Now in her late 70's, she has been in virtual retirement for several years, reportedly writing a new book of memoirs.

One Injured In West Monroe Auto Crash

Frank May, about 40, of 610 Hilton street, Monroe, was in the St. Francis Sanitarium last night suffering minor injuries sustaained in a West Monroe automobile collision.

Attendants at the sanitarium said May was not injured seriously.

West Monroe police officers said the injured man was hurt when his automobile collided with another car, driven by Fern Griffin, 16, of Polk street, Monroe, at the intersection of North Seventh and Natchitoches streets. The accident occurred shortly before 10 p.m., officers said.

Miss Griffin escaped the accident without injury, police said.

First Baseman Johnny Mize of the Giants was the veteran of the National League All-Star team this season. It was his ninth appearance in the dream game.

Wally Westlake of the Pittsburgh Pirates has hit 17 home runs in each of the last two seasons.

GIRL AMPUTEE IS SLIGHTLY BETTER

Been In Coma Since Feb. 9 When Struck By Coal Lowery

SALEM, Ohio, July 23.—(AP)—Seven-year-old Donna Marie Saunders is showing a "slight improvement" following the amputation of her left leg. She has been in a coma since Feb. 9.

On that the date she suffered a fractured skull and two compound fractures of the left leg, above and below the knee, when she was hit by a coal truck.

The lower fractured healed normally, but physicians were unable to halt an infection in the upper fracture. The operation, performed at city hospital, removed the leg at a point five or six inches above the knee.

The accident occurred as the girl ran across the road in front of a school bus.

She never has regained consciousness, though she has given some signs that she was partly conscious.

At first she was fed through the veins. Later she was fed liquids through a tube inserte through her clenched jaws, where a tooth was missing. More recently her jaws have relaxed and she has been fed soft foods with a spoon.

Occasionally she will obey a simple command after it has been repeated several times by a nurse, and occasionally she cries out.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Saunders, have two other children, a girl 12 years old and a boy 23 months old. They live on a farm.

Contributions to help pay medical expenses have been coming in here. What started as a "Dimes for Donna" campaign developed later into "Dollars for Donna." The Salem News and the Salem chapter of Amvets have collected about $1,700.

Truman's Intervention Of Steel Strike Awaited

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Administration leaders in congress are depending on President Truman's intervention in the threatened steel strike to pull them out of the hole on repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

They say some sort of settlement, based on recommendations from the presidential fact-finding board, is likely in the steel dispute, and it will demonstrate the workability of Mr. Truman's proposal for handling national emergency strikes.

Taft-Hartley repeal, bogged down in the house labor committee, is dead for this session of congress, a prominent house Democrat said privately today. It will not be revived until next spring—about the time congressional primary election campaigns begin.

"By next spring," this Democrat explained, "tempers will have cooled off a little, and we will have the example of the steel strike to point to. Things will be a lot different then, with the primaries coming up."

When steel producers and the United Steelworkers (C. I. O.) reached a deadlock early this month, the president stepped in after a strike date was set and asked for a 60-day truce.

He offered to name a three-man board of inquiry to study the controversy, and emphasized that the situation did not require invoking the Taft-Hartley law. This referred to authority the law gives the government to enforce an 80-day cooling off period by an injunction against the union in national emergency disputes.

President Phil Murray of the steelworkers accepted the offer promptly, and the steel companies followed along. The board is at work.

This is in line with the formula proposed in the administration's Taft-Hartley repeal bill.

Okay Half Million Slashes In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Most senate leaders accepted without much protest today a slash of more than a half billion dollars in foreign aid spending during the next year.

But they promised a battle royal on the senate floor next week against a long string of what they called "crippling amendments" to the multi-billion dollar European recovery program.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) of the foreign relations committee was the latest to back up the economy move but warn against rigid restrictions on E. C. A. and its administrator Paul Hoffman.

"I intend to support the 10 per cent cut in funds for this year voted by the appropriations committee which has given this careful consideration," Connally told a reporter. "In the main I do not want to cripple or hamper Mr. Hoffman by amendments. I think he is doing a fine job."

Connally thus lined up with his Republican teammate on foreign affairs, Senator aVndenberg (R.-Mich.) in accepting the bulk of a cutback of about $525,000,000 in foreign-aid spending for the fiscal year that started July 1.

Majority Leader Lucas (D.-Ill.) previously had announced that the administration fight will be aimed, not at this reduction, but the long series of amendments approved by the appropriations group.

But chairman McKellar (D.-Tenn.) stuck by all reductions ordered by his appropriations committee as well as the numerous riders and amendments it approved.

The hottest dispute is expected on an amendment by Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.). It would earmark more than $1,500,000,000 of E. C. A. funds for purchase of United States farm products classed as "surplus."

Groveland Violences Come To Standstill

GROVELAND, Fla., July 23.—(AP)—This community was quiet tonight following racial disorders earlier in the week.

A National Guard unit still was on duty, however.

The outbreaks started after a 17-year-old white girl reported she had been raped by four Negroes, three of whom later were captured and—authorities reported—confessed. The fourth still is at large.

Armed mobs went on shooting sprees, and three Negro houses were burned.

Conditions quieted then, but last night the guard banned liquor sales over the week-end as a precautionary measure. The ban applied to Groveland, Clermont and Mascotte.

FRENCH WILL NOT POSTPONE DEBATE

Overrule Red Motion To Adjourn Pact Ratification Discussion

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—The French national assembly voted more than two to one today against a Communist motion to adjourn debate on ratification of the North Atlantic treaty indefinitely.

The count was 407 to 186, with Communists and their sympathizers supplying all the smaller total.

With that out of the way, the deputies put off further talk until Monday. When the treaty finally comes up for ratification, the vote is expected to be about the same.

The legislatures of seven nations have ratified the 12-nation agreement to date, but action by France and The Netherlands is necessary before it can become effective.

The upper house of the Dutch parliament is to debate the pact next Wednesday and Thursday. In France also, the pact must also be submitted to the upper house, the council of the republic, though rejection there can be overridden by a mere majority of the national assembly. Less opposition, however, is expected in the council than in the assembly.

Final approval of the treaty, which links American and western European nations in an alliance against aggression, is pending in Denmark, Italy and Portugal.

The ratification process has been completed by the United States, Canada, Britain, Luxumbourg, Belgium, Iceland and Norway.

Though final passage in the French assembly appeared assured, there will be preliminary skirmishing. Many votes may be held on proposed reservations or conditions.

The assembly's foreign affairs committee, in recommending ratification, suggested a reservation that the assembly should be consulted before any new members are admitted. The Socialists and Popular Republicans sponsored this clause. It was believed to have developed with an eye on the possibility Germany or Spain might be proposed for membership.

Communists may seek to delay the test with other tactics.

When today's vote was first counted it was discovered more ballots were cast than there are deputies. The same thing had happened in Italy, holding up approval of the pact by the chamber of deputies a few hours. The problem here was worked out by counting the ballots again, making certain that each deputy had voted only once.

Francois Billoux, a Communist deputy, proposed the indefinite adjournment of the debate. He declared the treaty is "the most monstrous act committed in history by the reactionary government,." He called it a "holy alliance against the liberties of men and peoples."

Ku Klux Launches Membership Campaign

COLUMBIA, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan apparently is launching a campaign to enlist new members here.

The city has been deluged with K. K. K. circulars lately and two crosses have been burned on reservoir hill in recent months.

One of the most widely circulated piece of Klan literature is one entitled "Wake Up America." It calls on those interested to write Box 925, Atlanta, Georgia.

Circulars have been placed in automobiles, under doors, in yards and places of business.

Sheriff Flo Fleming says that as yet he has found no evidence of a Klan organization here. He said no one was found at the scene of the two cross burnings.

DENIES VIOLENCE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—A man who claims he is the Tennessee kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan said tonight the Klan had nothing to do with recent cross burnings in middle Tennessee.

An unemployed carpenter who identified himself as L. M. Emery of Nashville walked unannounced into the Nashville Tennessean and told a reporter:

"We believe in white supremacy, but we are not fighting the Negro. Our stand is against communism and socialism."

Emery, who says he was a member of the Klan organization group in 1915, said the mid-state cross burnings were not in orders from the Klan and that the Klan at no time ordered the whipping of anyone.

In recent weeks there have been six or seven cross burnings in the nearby mid-state area.

The per capita output of steel in the United States in 1947 was roughly eight times the average for the entire world.

VETS PAYMENTS TO BE REDUCED

'52-20' Dies Monday, But Pending Legislation May Modify

By Vern Haughland

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—The "52-20" program dies Monday night but thousands of veterans may be eligible for its benefits for years to come.

The program since its beginning in September 1944, has funneled $3,600,000,000 into the pockets of some 8,770,000 World War II veterans during their periods of unemployment.

By contrast, state unemployment agencies, functioning for 13 years for the benefit of the whole public, have paid out $6,000,000,000.

The 52-20 benefits paid through May were (1) $3,051,958,059 in unemployment allowances which allow a maximum of $20 a week up to a total of 52 weeks, and (2) $570,882,765 in self-employment allowances. The latter include $100 a month for not more than ten and two-fifths months for unemployed agricultural workers and others working for themselves who earn less than $100 a month.

Despite the amounts paid and the number sharing, only 839,737 veterans had exhausted their full benefits. The World War II veteran population at the end of May was 15,163,000, all of whom were entitled to unemployment aid.

At least seven bills were submitted in the 81st congress to extend the expiring program for from one to five years and in some cases to increase weekly payments to $30 to $35 with $5 week additional for each dependent.

No action was taken on them. The nearest approach was a unanimous vote by the senate labor committee Friday to extend unemployment benefits for a year, but to drop the self-employment provisions. Members of the committee said that phase of the program had been abused.

The bill was believed to have little chance of passing the senate. Meanwhile, Representative Rankin (D-Miss.), has bottled up a similar measure in the house in his veterans committee. Rankin is strongly opposed to extension of the program, and has urged adoption of a bonus instead.

As the program enters its final hours, some 650,000 veterans are on its rolls.

The veterans administration said the majority of them would draw their final checks at the end of this week. Some states operate on a bi-weekly basis, and will issue their checks in August. In the case of most veterans, claims will not be allowed on any unemployment week starting after Monday.

Possibly ten per cent of the 650,000 may remain longer on the rolls. They are:

1. Veterans who have been discharged from the armed services since July 25, 1947, following a period of war service. Their benefits were to continue for two years from the date of discharge or the official end of hostilities, whichever was the latest.

2. Veterans who enlisted or reenlisted under the voluntary recruitment act, between Oct. 6, 1945, and Oct. 5, 1946, and whose benefits continue for two years from the date of expiration of the period of enlistment. Some of these veterans signed up for as long as six years.

The veterans administration said benefits will stand in these cases despite expiration of the law.

New York leads in the states from the standpoint of unemployment allowances paid to date—$365,567,478.

Next in order are Pennsylvania with $335,248,545 and California with $209,026,406.

States where payments have totaled less than $200,000,000 but more than $130,000,000 are Michigan, Texas, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Illinois and Ohio.

In no state have the payments been less than $1,000,000. Wyoming is lowest at $1,687,874.

Rankin's home state, Mississippi, leads in self-employment allowance payments, totaling $52,984,351.

Next in order are North Carolina, $45,211,541, Texas, $43,983,104 and Alabama $38,611,807.

The lowest payments of self-employment allowances were $273,632 in Nevada, and $330,094 in Rhode Island.

Shepherd War-Dog Walks 2,000 Miles

SEATTLE, July 23.—(AP)—Schultz, a German Shepherd war-dog, apparently hoofed it some 2,000 miles from Wakarusa, Ind., to Seattle to be with his owner.

The home-loving dog turned up at a Seattle housing development. He was turned over to the marine corp's recruiting office and today returned to his owner, Pfc. Richard B. Anthony who is stationed near here.

Anthony shipped the dog to his mother about two weeks ago, because Shultz couldn't get along with "Blackie," the mascot dog at the marine base where Anthony is stationed.

His mother wrote him that Schultz escaped about July 1.

Anthony originally bought Schultz from the dog pound, where he had been kept after becoming lost from a previous owner.

The recruiting office said Schultz was born into the marine corps on March 9, 1942 and served with the marines in China. He wears an identification card bearing the name Sgt. Hardy of the 3rd marines, and his own picture and serial number.

Schultz was in good shape on arrival here, except his toenails were worn down.

During its 15 years of operation the Federal Housing Administration has insured more than $16 billion in loans for buildings and improvements.

The Federal Housing Administration does no building and make no loans. It insures housing loans.

ACE ADMIRAL SHATTERS MAN O'WAR MARK

29-YEAR RECORD FALLS IN SUNSET HANDICAP CHASE

New Figure For Mile And Five Eights In 2:39 ¾; Natural Second

By Bob Myers

ARCADIA, Calif., July 23.—(AP)—Speed horse Ace Admiral, breaking Man O'War's 29-year-old world record, won the $50,000 Sunset Handicap today as the Hollywood Turf Club meeting ended with a flourish.

The classy Maine Chance farm four-year-old, uncorking a burst of speed that sent him to the finish line a six-length winner in a wire to wire performance, eclipsed the American and world record for a mile and five-lengths set in September, 1920 by the great Man O'War.

The record, later tied at the Hollywood meeting of 1946 by Historian, was 2:40 4 5. Ace Admiral clipped a full second off the mark with a clocking of 2:39 3/4.

Mrs Elizabeth Graham's crack colt carried 122 pounds today as a getaway day throng of 39,300 looked on. Man O'War packed 126 pounds on that memorable 1920 day at Belmont Park. Historian packed 121 in his feat.

There wasn't much to the Sunset running except Ace Admiral and his farmous rider, Johnny Longden. The Ace broke on top of the field of 10 starters, built the lead to a length and a half as he pounded past the grandstand the first time, widened it to four lengths over the then persistent On Trust, and raced in six lengths to the good over longshot Natural.

The well liked Dinner Gong, owned by Abe Hirschberg of San Francisco, was third.

Ace Admiral was coupled with On Trust and the Irish importation, Esprit De France, in the betting, all being trained by the meeting's leading handler, Willie Molter. The entry went off favored.

The Ace paid $7.50, $3.70 and $2.60. Natural, owned by Edward Lasker and ridden by Apprentice William Shoemaker, paid $12.50 and $4.90. Dinner Gong with Jack Westrope in the saddle, paid $3.20.

Ace Admiral's triumph was worth $34,650 net to Mrs. Graham's well-heeled Maine Chance farm stable out of the Sunset's gross value of $57,000.

N. O. MAN TAKES FISHING CROWN

Captures 132 ½ Pound Tarpon; Adjudged Best All-Round

GRAND ISLE, La., July 23.—(AP)—Peter Banville of New Orleans hooked a 132 1/2 pound tarpon to win the all-around fisherman crown today in the Grand Isle Tarpon Rodeo.

Contestants weathered wind-buffeted waters and squalls most of the day as the contest drew to a close at sundown.

Nearly 1,000 fishermen in 250 boats ranging from outboard skiffs to 100-foot yachts were estimated to have participated in the three-day fishing tourney.

Three tarpons were caught, one during each day of the contest. A. O. Rappelet of Houma was runner-up with a 106-pound fighter. Capt. J. N. Cappeletti, New Orleans, pulled in one weighing 101 1/2 pounds.

There were two ties in two other classes. J. H. Summersgill and Joseph Picciola of Golden Meadow each caught a 40-pound Cobia. Felix Savoie of LaFitte and Gus G. Jaquet of New Orleans tied with two jackfish, each tripping the scales at 27 1/2 pounds.

Here the first and second prize winners and their catches in all the contest classes:

Tarpon—Peter Banville, New Orleans, 132 1/2 pounds; A. O. Rapplelet, Houma, 106.

Spanish mackerel—Dr. Willard Ellender, Houma, 5 pounds, 2 ounces; H. G. Powell, Gulfport, Miss., 4 pounds, 14 ounces.

King Mackrel—Mrs. Joseph Hotard, Jr., New Orleans, 18 pounds; A. D. Chatham, New Orleans, 14 pounds.

Cobia—J. H. Summersgill and Joseph Picciola, Golden Meadow, tie with 40 pounds each.

Jack Crevalle—Joe Savoie, Lafitte, 27 3/4 pounds; Felix Savoie, Lafitte, and Gus G. Jacquet, New Orleans, 27 1/2 pounds tie.

Red Fish—John J. Plaisance, Golden Meadow, 10 pounds, 14 ounces; Joe Nicoll, Golden Meadow, 6 pounds, 4 ounces.

Bonita—Stirling Couch, New Orleans, 24 pounds; Lt. Charles Andres III 23 pounds.

Dolphin—W. J. Sandison, New Orleans, 12 pounds, 1 ounce; Russell Braun, Biloxi, Miss., 7 pounds, 1 ounce.

Sheepshead—Fred Brondum, New Orleans, 9 1/2 pounds; Steve Bruno, New Orleans, 7 pounds, 14 ounces.

Speckled trout—Butley Mahler, Jr., Houma, 3 pounds; Wilbert Collins, Chenier Caminada, 2 pounds, 14 ounces.

Tripletail—Nat L. Totter, New Orleans, 31 pounds; Murphy Crosby, Grand Isle, 7 3/4 pounds.

Civil War Treasure Reported In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 23.—(AP)—Arkansas officials were notified today that a $200,000 civil war treasure has been found in the state.

The secretary of state's office received a letter from Miss Helen M. Wilcox, Philadelphia attorney, saying:

"I am interested in removing from Arkansas a cache of gold coins and would appreciate your directing this letter to someone who could give me the state's laws on removing this gold.

"It is estimated these coins are worth approximately $200,000 and were buried there sometime during the civil war."

The letter was turned over to Attorney General Ike Murry, who wrote Miss Wilcox for more information which would enable him to form an opinion.

Murry didn't mention to Miss Wilcox that the 1949 legislature passed a law which gives the state any personal property abandoned for seven years or more.

The attorney general explained to a reporter, however, that a living relative of the person who buried any such treasure could claim it.

MASONITE STRIKE GROUP WILL MEET

Will Meet Federal Mediators To Iron Out Lengthy Walkout

LAUREL, Miss., July 23.—(AP)—Strikers' representatives and Masonite officials will meet here again Tuesday to try to iron out a dispute of more than three months' standing.

A spokesman who asked not to be identified said today that union and plant officials agreed to meet with Federal Mediator W. G. Byars of Jackson.

It will be the first session with the federal mediator since negotiations were broken off 10 days ago. At that time John M. Coates, Masonite vice-president, termed the conferences "hair-splitting."

He urged workers to return to their jobs before continuing the talks.

However, the International Woodworkers of America Local 4-443 (C. I. O.) submitted a counter proposal asking that Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin name three arbitrators acceptable to both sides to settle remaining issues. This in turn the company rejected.

Meanwhile, efforts have been launched to organize an independent union of Masonite employes only.

C. W. Jenkins, a Masonite worker who has held office in the C. I. O. Union, sounded the call for an independent group with an advertisement in a Laurel newspaper.

"What are we going to do now?" He asked in the ad. "Will the strike continue forever? What are you going to do about it? These questions are in the minds and hearts of all the employes of Masonite and in the minds and hearts of the members of the families of these employes."

In his statement Jenkins went on to say:

"The answers are simple: First, abandon the leadership of the International Union which is responsible for the present desperate deplorable condition. Second, join with others in organizing a strong new independent union under new independent leadership and composed of employes of Masonite Corp. only."

The ad was signed "Independent Industrial Workers Union, by the organizing committee, C. W. Jenkins, temporary chairman."

Belle Livingstone Suffers Heart Attack

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Belle Livingstone, famed showgirl beauty of the 90's and flamboyant hostess of New York's speakeasy era, is ill in a hospital ward with a heart ailment.

The hospital disclosed her stay there today and said her condition was not serious.

The toast of Broadway when she was on the stage and a friend of many notable world figures in later years. Miss Livingstone has been virtually out of the news since repeal ended New York's gaudiest decade.

In her memoirs, "Belle of Bohemia," published more than 20 years ago, she told of her friendship with J. P. Morgan, King Edward VII of Britain, King Leopold of Belgium, Theodore Roosevelt, Lord Kitchner and Harry Thaw.

Now in her late 70's, she has been in virtual retirement for several years, reportedly writing a new book of memoirs.

One Injured In West Monroe Auto Crash

Frank May, about 40, of 610 Hilton street, Monroe, was in the St. Francis Sanitarium last night suffering minor injuries sustaained in a West Monroe automobile collision.

Attendants at the sanitarium said May was not injured seriously.

West Monroe police officers said the injured man was hurt when his automobile collided with another car, driven by Fern Griffin, 16, of Polk street, Monroe, at the intersection of North Seventh and Natchitoches streets. The accident occurred shortly before 10 p.m., officers said.

Miss Griffin escaped the accident without injury, police said.

First Baseman Johnny Mize of the Giants was the veteran of the National League All-Star team this season. It was his ninth appearance in the dream game.

Wally Westlake of the Pittsburgh Pirates has hit 17 home runs in each of the last two seasons.

GIRL AMPUTEE IS SLIGHTLY BETTER

Been In Coma Since Feb. 9 When Struck By Coal Lowery

SALEM, Ohio, July 23.—(AP)—Seven-year-old Donna Marie Saunders is showing a "slight improvement" following the amputation of her left leg. She has been in a coma since Feb. 9.

On that the date she suffered a fractured skull and two compound fractures of the left leg, above and below the knee, when she was hit by a coal truck.

The lower fractured healed normally, but physicians were unable to halt an infection in the upper fracture. The operation, performed at city hospital, removed the leg at a point five or six inches above the knee.

The accident occurred as the girl ran across the road in front of a school bus.

She never has regained consciousness, though she has given some signs that she was partly conscious.

At first she was fed through the veins. Later she was fed liquids through a tube inserte through her clenched jaws, where a tooth was missing. More recently her jaws have relaxed and she has been fed soft foods with a spoon.

Occasionally she will obey a simple command after it has been repeated several times by a nurse, and occasionally she cries out.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Saunders, have two other children, a girl 12 years old and a boy 23 months old. They live on a farm.

Contributions to help pay medical expenses have been coming in here. What started as a "Dimes for Donna" campaign developed later into "Dollars for Donna." The Salem News and the Salem chapter of Amvets have collected about $1,700.

Truman's Intervention Of Steel Strike Awaited

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Administration leaders in congress are depending on President Truman's intervention in the threatened steel strike to pull them out of the hole on repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

They say some sort of settlement, based on recommendations from the presidential fact-finding board, is likely in the steel dispute, and it will demonstrate the workability of Mr. Truman's proposal for handling national emergency strikes.

Taft-Hartley repeal, bogged down in the house labor committee, is dead for this session of congress, a prominent house Democrat said privately today. It will not be revived until next spring—about the time congressional primary election campaigns begin.

"By next spring," this Democrat explained, "tempers will have cooled off a little, and we will have the example of the steel strike to point to. Things will be a lot different then, with the primaries coming up."

When steel producers and the United Steelworkers (C. I. O.) reached a deadlock early this month, the president stepped in after a strike date was set and asked for a 60-day truce.

He offered to name a three-man board of inquiry to study the controversy, and emphasized that the situation did not require invoking the Taft-Hartley law. This referred to authority the law gives the government to enforce an 80-day cooling off period by an injunction against the union in national emergency disputes.

President Phil Murray of the steelworkers accepted the offer promptly, and the steel companies followed along. The board is at work.

This is in line with the formula proposed in the administration's Taft-Hartley repeal bill.

Okay Half Million Slashes In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—Most senate leaders accepted without much protest today a slash of more than a half billion dollars in foreign aid spending during the next year.

But they promised a battle royal on the senate floor next week against a long string of what they called "crippling amendments" to the multi-billion dollar European recovery program.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) of the foreign relations committee was the latest to back up the economy move but warn against rigid restrictions on E. C. A. and its administrator Paul Hoffman.

"I intend to support the 10 per cent cut in funds for this year voted by the appropriations committee which has given this careful consideration," Connally told a reporter. "In the main I do not want to cripple or hamper Mr. Hoffman by amendments. I think he is doing a fine job."

Connally thus lined up with his Republican teammate on foreign affairs, Senator aVndenberg (R.-Mich.) in accepting the bulk of a cutback of about $525,000,000 in foreign-aid spending for the fiscal year that started July 1.

Majority Leader Lucas (D.-Ill.) previosuly had announced that the administration fight will be aimed, not at this reduction, but the long series of amendments approved by the appropriations group.

But chairman McKellar (D.-Tenn.) stuck by all reductions ordered by his appropriations committee as well as the numerous riders and amendments it approved.

The hottest dispute is expected on an amendment by Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.). It would earmark more than $1,500,000,000 of E. C. A. funds for purchase of United States farm products classed as "surplus."

Groveland Violences Come To Standstill

GROVELAND, Fla., July 23.—(AP)—This community was quiet tonight following racial disorders earlier in the week.

A National Guard unit still was on duty, however.

The outbreaks started after a 17-year-old white girl reported she had been raped by four Negroes, three of whom later were captured and—authorities reported—confessed. The fourth still is at large.

Armed mobs went on shooting sprees, and three Negro houses were burned.

Conditions quieted then, but last night the guard banned liquor sales over the week-end as a precautionary measure. The ban applied to Groveland, Clermont and Mascotte.

FRENCH WILL NOT POSTPONE DEBATE

Overrule Red Motion To Adjourn Pact Ratification Discussion

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—The French national assembly voted more than two to one today against a Communist motion to adjourn debate on ratification of the North Atlantic treaty indefinitely.

The count was 407 to 186, with Communists and their sympathizers supplying all the smaller total.

With that out of the way, the deputies put off further talk until Monday. When the treaty finally comes up for ratification, the vote is expected to be about the same.

The legislatures of seven nations have ratified the 12-nation agreement to date, but action by France and The Netherlands is necessary before it can become effective.

The upper house of the Dutch parliament is to debate the pact next Wednesday and Thursday. In France also, the pact must also be submitted to the upper house, the council of the republic, though rejection there can be overridden by a mere majority of the national assembly. Less opposition, however, is expected in the council than in the assembly.

Final approval of the treaty, which links American and western European nations in an alliance against aggression, is pending in Denmark, Italy and Portugal.

The ratification process has been completed by the United States, Canada, Britain, Luxumbourg, Belgium, Iceland and Norway.

Though final passage in the French assembly appeared assured, there will be preliminary skirmishing. Many votes may be held on proposed reservations or conditions.

The assembly's foreign affairs committee, in recommending ratification, suggested a reservation that the assembly should be consulted before any new members are admitted. The Socialists and Popular Republicans sponsored this clause. It was believed to have developed with an eye on the possibility Germany or Spain might be proposed for membership.

Communists may seek to delay the test with other tactics.

When today's vote was first counted it was discovered more ballots were cast than there are deputies. The same thing had happened in Italy, holding up approval of the pact by the chamber of deputies a few hours. The problem here was worked out by counting the ballots again, making certain that each deputy had voted only once.

Francois Billoux, a Communist deputy, proposed the indefinite adjournment of the debate. He declared the treaty is "the most monstrous act committed in history by the reactionary government." He called it a "holy alliance against the liberties of men and peoples."

Ku Klux Launches Membership Campaign

COLUMBIA, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan apparently is launching a campaign to enlist new members here.

The city has been deluged with K. K. K. circulars lately and two crosses have been burned on reservoir hill in recent months.

One of the most widely circulated piece of Klan literature is one entitled "Wake Up America." It calls on those interested to write Box 925, Atlanta, Georgia.

Circulars have been placed in automobiles, under doors, in yards and places of business.

Sheriff Flo Fleming says that as yet he has found no evidence of a Klan organization here. He said no one was found at the scene of the two cross burnings.

DENIES VIOLENCE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—A man who claims he is the Tennessee kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan said tonight the Klan had nothing to do with recent cross burnings in middle Tennessee.

An unemployed carpenter who identified himself as L. M. Emery of Nashville walked unannounced into the Nashville Tennessean and told a reporter.

"We believe in white supremacy, but we are not fighting the Negro. Our stand is against communism and socialism."

Emery, who says he was a member of the Klan organization group in 1915, said the mid-state cross burnings were not on orders from the Klan and that the Klan at no time ordered the whipping of anyone.

In recent weeks there have been six or seven cross burnings in the nearby mid-state area.

The per capita output of steel in the United States in 1947 was roughly eight times the average for the entire world.

VETS PAYMENTS TO BE REDUCED

'52-20' Dies Monday, But Pending Legislation May Modify

By Vern Haughland

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—The "52-20" program dies Monday night but thousands of veterans may be eligible for its benefits for years to come.

The program since its beginning in September 1944, has funneled $3,600,000,000 into the pockets of some 8,770,000 World War II veterans during their periods of unemployment.

By contrast, state unemployment agencies, functioning for 13 years for the benefit of the whole public, have paid out $6,000,000,000.

The 52-20 benefits paid through May were (1) $3,051,958,059 in unemployment allowances which allow a maximum of $20 a week up to a total of 52 weeks, and (2) $570,882,765 in self-employment allowances. The latter include $100 a month for not more than ten and two-fifths months for unemployed agricultural workers and others working for themselves who earn less than $100 a month.

Despite the amounts paid and the number sharing, only 839,737 veterans had exhausted their full benefits. The World War II veteran population at the end of May was 15,163,000, all of whom were entitled to unemployment aid.

At least seven bills were submitted in the 81st congress to extend the expiring program for from one to five years and in some cases to increase weekly payments to $30 to $35 with $5 week additional for each dependent.

No action was taken on them. The nearest approach was a unanimous vote by the senate labor committee Friday to extend unemployment benefits for a year, but to drop the self-employment provisions. Members of the committee said that phase of the program had been abused.

The bill was believed to have little chance of passing the senate. Meanwhile, Representative Rankin (D-Miss.), has bottled up a similar measure in the house in his veterans committee. Rankin is strongly opposed to extension of the program, and has urged adoption of a bonus instead.

As the program enters its final hours, some 650,000 veterans are on its rolls.

The veterans administration said the majority of them would draw their final checks at the end of this week. Some states operate on a bi-weekly basis, and will issue their checks in August. In the case of most veterans, claims will not be allowed on any unemployment week starting after Monday.

Possibly ten per cent of the 650,000 may remain longer on the rolls. They are:

1. Veterans who have been discharged from the armed services since July 25, 1947, following a period of war service. Their benefits were to continue for two years from the date of discharge or the official end of hostilities, whichever was the latest.

2. Veterans who enlisted or reenlisted under the voluntary recruitment act, between Oct. 6, 1945, and Oct. 5, 1946, and whose benefits continue for two years from the date of expiration of the period of enlistment. Some of these veterans signed up for as long as six years.

The veterans administration said benefits will stand in these cases despite expiration of the law.

New York leads in the states from the standpoint of unemployment allowances paid to date—$365,567,478.

Next in order are Pennsylvania with $335,248,545 and California with $209,026,406.

States where payments have totaled less than $200,000,000 but more than $100,000,000 are Michigan, Texas, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Illinois and Ohio.

In no state have the payments been less than $1,000,000. Wyoming is lowest at $1,687,874.

Rankin's home state, Mississippi, leads in self-employment allowance payments, totaling $52,934,351.

Next in order are North Carolina, $45,211,541, Texas, $43,983,104 and Alabama $38,611,807.

The lowest payments of self-employment allowances were $273,632 in Nevada, and $330,094 in Rhode Island.

Shepherd War-Dog Walks 2,000 Miles

SEATTLE, July 23.—(AP)—Schultz, a German Shepherd war-dog, apparently hoofed it some 2,000 miles from Wakarusa, Ind., to Seattle to be with his owner.

The home-loving dog turned up at a Seattle housing development. He was turned over to the marine corp's recruiting office and today returned to his owner, Pfc. Richard B. Anthony who is stationed near here.

Anthony shipped the dog to his mother about two weeks ago, because Shultz couldn't get along with "Blackie," the mascot dog at the marine base where Anthony is stationed.

His mother wrote him that Schultz escaped about July 1.

Anthony originally bought Schultz from the dog pound, where he had been kept after becoming lost from a previous owner.

The recruiting office said Schultz was born into the marine corps on March 9, 1942 and served with the marines in China. He wears an identification card bearing the name Sgt. Hardy of the 3rd marines, and his own picture and serial number.

Schultz was in good shape on arrival here, except his toenails were worn down.

During its 15 years of operation the Federal Housing Administration has insured more than $16 billion in loans for buildings and improvements.

The Federal Housing Administration does no building and make no loans. It insures housing loans.

Oil Producer Found In Catahoula Lake Region

Oilers in northeast Louisiana abondoned four wells, brought in an oil producer and three gas yielders and sited ten new locations in Catahoula, Grant, LaSalle, Ouachita and Union parishes last week, according to the conservation department's weekly report revealed here yesterday.

The single oil well found last week was the Justiss Mears Oil Company's J. E. Harris No. 1 in 2-6-3E of the Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish. Brought in at a total depth of 5,356 feet, the new producer was gauged at 112 barrels under pump.

All three of the new gas yielders were unearthed in the Monroe field of Union parish.

In 3-20-3E, the Feazel, et al, and the Monroe Drilling Company's Sawyer No. 1 was gauged at 1,574,000 cubic feet.

The Monla Gas Company's V. Edwards Crow, et al, No. 2 ,located in 8-21-3E, was gauged at 3,226,000 cubic feet.

The South C. C.'s Fee No. 75 in 5-21-3E was gauged at 278,000 cubic feet.

In 41-10-8E of Catahoula parish, the H. K. Strief Company abandoned their W. S. Peck No. 1 at 8,796 feet.

The Hunt Oil Company La Del Hardware Lumber Company inc., et al's, No. 11 in 1-4-4E was reported dry and abandoned at 5,925 feet.

In a wild cat strike in Union parish, the Sklar Oil Co., et al,'s Ludie Sawyer No. 1 in 1-23-3W was abandoned at 2,350 feet.

The Sohio Petroleum Company's LaSalle Lumber Company No. C-1 in 27-13-5E of Caldwell parish, was given up at 6,347 feet.

GETS PROMOTION IN OIL COMPANY

J. Edward Salter Is Moved Into District Manager's Chair With Sun Oil

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(AP)—Appointment of J. Edward Salter as Sun Oil Company district manager at Atlantic City, N. J., was announced today by S. B. Eckert, vice-president in charge of marketing.

Salter succeeds Prescott A. Flage, who is retiring after almost 25 years as manager of the company's Atlantic City marketing district. Flage joined Sun as a salesman at Philadelphia in 1921 and went to the resort city as district manager when the office was first opened three years later.

Flage, who resides at 6809 Ventnor avenue, Ventnor, N. J., is a member of the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce, Ocean City-Somers Point Golf Club, Morris Guards, and the Union League of Atlantic County.

In his new position, Salter moves from the general office in Philadelphia, where he has been T. B. A. (tires, batteries, accessories) manager for the middle Atlantic states.

Salter joined Sun Oil Company at Philadelphia in 1927 soon after graduating from Upper Darby (Pa.) High School. During his first year with the company he worked as a service station salesman and attended evening classes at the University of Philadelphia. He became service station manager in 1928 and held various sales posts at Philadelphia before his appointment as middle Atlantic regional T. B. A. manager in 1945.

His wife is the former Christine Elizabeth Mitchell, whom he married at Philadelphia in 1931. They have three daughters, Christine, 17; Jane, 13, and Margaret, 2. He is a member of the Masonic lodge, 607 Olivet; the Benjamin Franklin Consistory, and the Lulu Temple Shrine.

U. S. Crude Oil Output Shows Third Large Drop

TULSA, Okla., July 23.—(AP)—The Oil & Gas Journal reported today that for the third straight week the country's daily average crude oil production showed a large decline.

It figured total daily average production in the week ended July 16 at 4,653,925 barrels, a drop of 26,950 barrels.

Most of the over-all loss, The Journal said, was due to further cuts by individual states to conform more closely to recently-lowered allowables.

Top decrease for the week was in Kansas, where production fell off 17,250 barrels to 228,700 barrels.

Oklahoma's output dropped 8,750 barrels to 377,550. Michigan was down 1,600 to 38,100. Wyoming declined 1,200 to 126,600 and California lost 2,300 to 911,900.

Other decreases included the eastern area, down 600 barrels to 61,000; Florida, off 50 to 1,375; Illinois, 800 to 178,900; Louisiana, 100 to 473,950; Colorado, 550 to 65,200, and Montana, 1,000 to 27,500.

The greatest gain for the week were in Indiana, up 2,100 barrels to 26,300, and Mississippi, up 4,750 to 96,700. Kentucky increased 300 barrels to 23,500 and Utah added 100 to 950.

Production was unchanged in Alabama 1,200 barrels; Arkansas, 72,600; Nebraska, 600; Texas, 1,805,000, and New Mexico, 136,300.

Average daily production in Canada was reported by the Journal at 58,515 barrels, with 55,015 barrels coming from Alberta Province.

The daily averages:

	July 16 Crude Oil	B of M July Demand	July 9 Crude Oil

CANADIAN OIL BOOM SPREADS

Get-Rich-Quick Schemes Plunge Across International Border

HOUSTON, Tex., July 23.—(AP)—Canadian oil boom get-rich-quick schemes are moving across the international border by mail, telegraph and telephone.

Better business bureaus report receiving numerous complaints and inquiries on Canadian oil stock solicitations. Few are found to be legitimate. Feew hold sound claims to oil leases, to say nothing of oil itself.

Predicted immediate investment returns range as high as $40 for each $1 sent across the border.

Mail order promotion of Canadian oil stocks flooded two Texas cities recently—Houston and Dallas—whose residents had their fill of bogus stocks in the old Texas boom days.

A Toronto, Canada, company mailed promotion literature and application blanks in wholesale fashion.

Commented C. Edward Buehner, manager of the Houston better business bureau:

"They seem to have mailed to everyone in the city directory. Practically everyone in our office received the letters."

Buehner has accumulated a bulky file on fake Canadian stock promotions dating back to days when there was wild speculation on Canada's gold mines. The recent rich oil strike in Alberta Province apparently has caused many of the mail order speculators to switch to oil.

Canada's boom in fake stocks, Buehner said, can be traced back to the time the U. S. securities and exchange commission cracked down on practices of companies in the states.

"Many operators just moved into Canada," he explained.

The Canadian operations center around Toronto. Better business bureau records indicate S. E. C. and various state commissions have investigated several hundred Toronto firms in recent years.

But differences in American and Canadian laws make it impossible to establish efficient protection against the fake schemes.

United States brokers must register their stocks and securities with the S. E. C. Canadians controls are left to each of the 10 provinces.

Canadian law does not permit extradition of Canadians on charges of violation of United States securities laws.

Until recently the only weapons held by S. E. C. and state commissions were rather meaningless court injunctions, stop orders, cease and desist orders, and indictments. There have been hundreds of such cases but the brokers affected still are in Canada.

There can be no prosecution unless the defendants step across the international border and find themselves under arrest. As long as they stay in Canada, they still can drop letters in the mail, telephone and send telegrams to prospects.

Better business bureau officials, Buehner said, are hopeful a recent action taken by the U. S. postmaster general will develop into an efficient weapon.

The action was explained in a bulletin from the Boston bureau.

The postmaster general recently issued a fraud order against a Toronto company alleged to have been flooding the United States with mail promotion on an oil lease block in Alberta.

Investigation, it was said, proved the company's claims to be fraudulent.

Postmasters throughout the country were directed to refuse to accept postal money orders to the company. They also were instructed to stamp the word "fraudulent" on all letters addressed to the company and return them to the senders.

The order is to continue as long as the company "evades and avoids" registration with S. E. C. and state commissions.

Evidence of fraud must be presented before the postmaster general can take such action. In this particular case, it was charged the company sought quick rich investments ranging from $25 to $250. A $25 investment was to result on a quick return of $1000. A $250 payment was to return $10,000.

It was further claimed the Alberta government had refused to grant leases to the company. Leases claimed were said to have been found to be several miles from oil production and in wildcat territory previously explored and tested without success.

The postmaster general was said to have acted after the S. E. C. reported large amounts of money were being sent to the Toronto firm and that cease and desist court orders had been ineffectual.

Canada's oil boom has not caused the stock brokers to forget the Dominion's mines entirely.

Buehner tells of a current case in which a Houston resident received a telephone call from a Toronto broker urging an investment in a gold mine. The Houston man had just received an inheritance and invested $800 at 25-cents a share.

A shore time later he placed his case before Buehner.

An investigation, too late for remedy, had found the stock to be worth 2-cents a share.

SUFFOLK, Va.—(AP)—Readin' and writin' and 'rithmetic—that'll make speeding penalties stick! Trial Justice Marshall Bowden's arithmetic consisted of dividing the usual $50 fine for speeding or reckless driving by two. But in lieu of the other $25 he required two youths to read and twice write out, in longhand, a magazine article on teen-age killers at the wheel.

vanced education for ambitious nurses. It should place nursing on a high plane.

New problems bob up in some form every day, admits the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce over at Vicksburg, but yesterday's problem is destined to go unsolved. It will mean that Cedar Vale, Kan., must scurry around and find their own oxen yoke bows somewhere else than in the famous Mississippi city.

It is explained that Cedar Vale proposes a diamond jubilee celebration and hence needs the yokes and bows for essential atmosphere.

And here is how the request came: "We know oxen are used in remote sections of the deep south. Please find the bows for us," wrote O. D. Sartin, of Cedar Vale.

The Chamber wrote a diplomatic reply after inquiring of a few people who might have access to oxen equipment. They suggested that Warren county, Mississippi, has been mechanized for a good many years—probably as long as Kansas—and they knew of no supplies of the yoke equipment that is still available in this year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and forty-nine.

Some of the people hereabouts may have heard this yarn but we think it is so good that it will bear repetition. On the never-to-be-forgotten trip of the ensemble to Wales, the director, Miss Velma Nichols, informed the young people not to expect modern facilities in Wales. She said that modern bath rooms, for instance, might not be common and to adjust themselves to conditions as they found them. Tommy Spurlock and David De Rossett, who were teamed up together, were like the others prepared for the worst.

They were assigned to the home of a Mr. and Mrs. Densdale. The host escored them to the basement of the house, immediately upon arrival and suggested they wash in the lavatory provided there. They found a sort of enlarged kitchen sink and after a minutes inspection they decided that this was the family bathtub. David quickly ripped off his clothes and managed to double himself up sufficiently to get into the container. It was a hard job but he did his best to scrub his anatomy. But it took some time, and their host, wondering at their delay, opened the door and broke into a roar of laughter when he viewed the odd sight of a full grown man in a tub far too small to hold him.

"What on earth are you doing?" he asked between peals of laughter.

"Why I thought this was a Wales bathtub" David replied as he himself choked back laughter.

"Our bathroom is upstairs, this is only a place to wash hands and face, not the entire body," Mr. Densdale explained. The boys got adjusted after several days to life as it is lived in Wales.

James H. Trousdale, Jr., is ending a successful year as commander of the L. B. Faulk, American Legion post. The outstanding achievement is the erection of the stadium in Bernstein park for the baseball team. This has caused many hours of unrelenting effort to raise the money required. Mr. Trousdale and his fellow officers are to be congratulated for having accomplished something that the post has long desired.

The newly-elected officers are all well known and capable and it is expected that they will continue the excellent record established the past year. Here's wishing them success!

will lose everything eventually in the supreme court if they do not reach an agreement with federal authorities.

Louisiana Attorney General Bolivar Kemp, who has been in on the discussions, early this week said the main points in the compromise are:

1. Federal control and management of all oil and gas leases except in inland waters—such as lakes, bays, harbors.

2. An allocation to the states of 62 1/2 per cent of future revenues from tidelands not more than three miles out from shore; 50 per cent from tidelands farther out up to the edge of the continental shelf.

3. A waiver by the government of claims to tidelands revenues already collected by the states.

4. Guarantees for the state of control of inland waters and of jurisdiction in all coastal waters over fish, oysters, shrimp and other marine life.

The Texas land board raised these objections. 1. The compromise bill does not vest ownership or title to any part of the disputed property or minerals in the state.

2. It treats Texas the same as all other coastal states limiting its boundary to three miles in spite of the fact its gulfward boundaries were fixed at three leagues (10 1/2 miles) by the state when it was a republic.

3. The bill does not provide for acceptance or approval by the Texas legislature of the terms which require affirmative action by state officials.

Investigate Death Of Levee Board Employe

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.— (AP) — Police were investigating the mysterious death of a levee board employe whose battered body was found today on an Audubon park bench after he left a bus saying, "'m looking for the end of the line."

The body was identified as that of Anthony Cassanova, 35, of Jefferson parish by his brother, who lives at the same address.

Dr. Philip Montelepre, assistant coroner, said death was caused by a brain hemorrhage. He said the man's forehead was badly bruised and that the nose and an arm may have been broken.

The assistant coroner said he is investigating the case and has asked police to check further.

Bus Driver Minor Formenthal said he picked up Cassanova about 9:55 p. m. last night. On reaching the end of the line, he said he told the man, "this bus doesn't go any further."

Formenthal quoted Cassanova as replying, "that's good. That's what I'm looking for—the end of the line."

Two hous later, police received an anonymous telephone tip and found Cassanova lying on a bench under a bus stop shed.

His brother, James, said Cassanova had been missing since early last night.

Communist coast, drouth, floods, famine and an uncontrolable labor situation, are immediate problems.

These and other developments seem to have convinced the Reds that they can expect little or no aid from the west; and Russia does not have what they need.

Chou En-Lai, China's No. 2 political Communist, told the Sino-Soviet Friendship Association in Peiping.

"United States imperialism and Kuomintang (Nationalist) reactionaries are scheming to blockade China economically. Chinese must be mentally prepared for a blockade of eight to ten years."

(As a matter of fact, the United States and other western powers have refused to recognize the Nationalist blockade of Red China, but western business men have found that the chances for profitable commerce with the Reds are too small to justify the risks.)

Chou compared China to Russia after the 1947 revolution, when the western powers limited their economic traffic with the Soviets.

All this is in contrast with statements of Red leaders as recently as two months ago. (That was when they took Shanghai and were bubbling over with optimism.)

Then they said China must take help wherever she could get it, because western aid was essential to industralization. Now, recent events seem to have convinced the Reds that they cannot depend on western assistance.

This may mean that they feel they have alienated the west through failure to keep trade open and through their propaganda, and with such episodes as the Olive case. (U. S. Consul William M. Olive was arrested in a minor traffic case in Shanghai July 6, and held for three days incommunicado. The Reds announced they had "educated" him in that period, but the U. S. consul general said they had brutally beaten him.)

Whatever the reasons, the Reds seem to have given up hope of important aid from the west. As this hope has declined, they seem to have accelerated their efforts to squeeze out foreign businesses and individuals.

This is logical enough, as the only reason they ever wanted foreigners to stay in China was to help their industrial program.

Part of this shift in policy involves an effort to lessen the burden imposed by the half-dead seaports. Without maritime trade, the port cities are nothing but liabilities. Projects for moving millions of people out of Shanghai (estimated population 6,000,000) have been discussed, and small starts have been made, however, economic pressures in Shanghai may take care of this for the Reds.

As one business man remarked, "all they need to do to get the people out of Shanghai is to keep rice at its present high price."

Reducing the populations of coastal cities is to go hand in hand with removal of coastal industries to inland centers. However industries require electricity, and the interior cities don't have much of it.

All last winter the Communist leaders emphasized that their chief effort was being shifted from the peasantry to the laborers in big cities.

Now they seem to have shifted back to emphasis on the countryside. For example, Gen. Lin Piao, top man in central China, called for placing the center of effort in the country to "create the prerequisite conditions for development of the cities."

This is a complete backflip in Red planning.

The grandiose industrial production drives that the Reds had launched seem in restrospect to have been sparked by a huge propaganda campaign, and not much else.

TRUMAN TO ASK

vious call for President Truman to take up the other objectives of the so-called Vandenberg resolution passed by the Republican 80th Congress from which the Atlantic pact stemmed.

The Michigan senator said that these call on the president to work for (1) a voluntary agreement to remove the United Nations veto on settling world disputes peacefully, (2) an arms reduction agreement, or, if these efforts fail, (3) an amendment to the U. N. charter under provisions permitting a review by a general conference.

He urged they be purused to the utmost.

Several senators who voted for the Atlantic pact when it was ratified last week, as well as most of the 13 who opposed it, have indicated they will fight any large scale arms outlay at this time.

Chairman Kee (D.-W. Va.) of the house foreign affairs committee said that he would begin hearings on the highly complicated measure at once. He expressed confidence that it would be passed by the house after considerable debate. Secretary Acheson probably will be the first witness at hearings expected to start Tuesday.

But the house committee, like the rest of congress, appeared to be deeply split on the issue of supplying arms to other governments in peacetime even with a "cold war" going on.

In fact some experts doubted whether the administration would succeed in getting it through both branches of congress before the hoped-for adjournment in early September.

One possibility is that congress may authorize the arms program but run out of time to consider appropriating funds for it. If that seems likely as debate progresses, the administration probably will try to enlarge the sum in the bill which could be advanced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance the first months of the project. This sum is presently fixed at $125,000,000.

The Truman proposal for the $45,000,000 emergency fund is designed at least in part to answer the desire for flexibility as the president's advisers in the state department see it. For example, should one of the countries in the southeast Asian area become deeply involved in a threat from communism Mr. Truman might employ some of this money in an attempt to help block that threat.

Another kind of possibility, speculatively at least, would arise if The Netherlands and Indonesian native political groups were able to agree in the next few months on a political program for Indonesia and then were to seek American assistance in organizing the security of the islands.

The European arms production fund, on the other hand, is aimed at stimulating the output of Atlantic pact partners so that eventually they will no longer require any help from the United States. To build up their armament industries without hurting their general economic recovery, in the opinion of state department planners, they must be given some additional dollar help.

As the program has been completed, the total of $1,450,000,000 would cover approximately $1,100,000,000 for this nation's European allies under the pact and about $350,000,000 for other nations lined up with the west in the struggle against communism.

In urging only a stop-gap aid program at this time, Vandenberg told reporters:

"My general view is that if arms are sought under the North Atlantic pact the program should be developed through the advisory council and the defense committee on a self-help basis as set up by the pact itself.

"The pending program is separate from the pact itself, although serving a common objective.

"My general view is that it should confine itself to the relatively short interim until recommendations can be made to the next congress under the terms of the pact.

"But I am withholding any decisions until I have seen the president's proposals and their supporting evidence."

From his hospital bed Cohen said Brancato "couldn't have done it. He's not important enough."

He also said Tarantino had visited him in the hospital yesterday. "I've know him for a long time," Cohen said. "We exchange favors several times. He visited me about 45 minutes before noon yesterday and talked about the shooting, just generally, you know."

The San Francisco arrests were made at the request of Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, who sent two agents from here to question the trio.

Cohen and three others were wounded early Wednesday as they were leaving a Hollywood night club. Cohen, shot in the shoulder, may be released soon. The others, including an attorney general's agent assigned to protect Mickey, are in serious condition.

Oil Producer Found In Catahoula Lake Region

Oilers in northeast Louisiana abondoned four wells, brought in an oil producer and three gas yielders and sited ten new locations in Catahoula, Grant, LaSalle, Ouachita and Union parishes last week, according to the conservation department's weekly report revealed here yesterday.

The single oil well found last week was the Justiss Mears Oil Company's J. E. Harris No. 1 in 2-6-3E of the Catahoula Lake field in LaSalle parish. Brought in at a total depth of 5,356 feet, the new producer was gauged at 112 barrels under pump.

All three of the new gas yielders were unearthed in the Monroe field of Union parish.

In 3-20-3E, the Feazel, et al, and the Monroe Drilling Company's Sawyer No. 1 was gauged at 1,574,000 cubic feet.

The Monla Gas Company's V. Edwards Crow, et al, No. 2 ,located in 8-21-3E, was gauged at 3,226,000 cubic feet.

The South C. C.'s Fee No. 75 in 5-21-3E was gauged at 278,000 cubic feet.

In 41-10-8E of Catahoula parish, the H. K. Strief Company abandoned their W. S. Peck No. 1 at 8,796 feet.

The Hunt Oil Company La Del Hardware Lumber Company inc., et al's, No. 11 in 1-4-4E was reported dry and abandoned at 5,925 feet.

In a wild cat strike in Union parish, the Sklar Oil Co., et al,'s Ludie Sawyer No. 1 in 1-23-3W was abandoned at 2,350 feet.

The Sohio Petroleum Company's LaSalle Lumber Company No. C-1 in 27-13-5E of Caldwell parish, was given up at 6,347 feet.

New Locations

Catahoula parish, Sicily Island field: The Interstate National's TenDel, et al, No. 1 in 11-9-7E.

Grant parish, Tullos Urania field: The Placid Oil Company's Tremont Lumber Company's No. B-11 and B-12, both in 10-9-1E.

LaSalle Parish, Wild Cat field: The Hunt Oil Co., et al, La Del Hardware Lumber Company, Inc., et al, No. 14 in 25-5-4E; the Nebo Extension field: The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Co., Inc.'s F-152 in 25-7-3E.

Ouachita parish, Monroe field: The Union Producing Company's Fee 59 No. 1 and Fee 92 No. 1, both in 25-19-3E, and the Union Producing Company's Fee 16 No. 1 and Fee No. 136 No. 2, both in 23-19-3E.

Union parish, wild cat field: the Sklar Oil Corporations ,et al, G. L. Risinger No. 1 in 10-23-2W.

GETS PROMOTION IN OIL COMPANY

J. Edward Salter Is Moved Into District Manager's Chair With Sun Oil

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(AP)—Appointment of J. Edward Salter as Sun Oil Company district manager at Atlantic City, N. J., was announced today by S. B. Eckert, vice-president in charge of marketing.

Salter succeeds Prescott A. Flage, who is retiring after almost 25 years as manager of the company's Atlantic City marketing district. Flage joined Sun as a salesman at Philadelphia in 1921 and went to the resort city as district manager when the office was first opened three years later.

Flage, who resides at 6809 Ventnor avenue, Ventnor, N. J., is a member of the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce, Ocean City-Somers Point Golf Club, Morris Guards, and the Union League of Atlantic County.

In his new position, Salter moves from the general office in Philadelphia, where he has been T. B. A. (tires, batteries, accessories) manager for the middle Atlantic states.

Salter joined Sun Oil Company at Philadelphia in 1927 soon after graduating from Upper Darby (Pa.) High School. During his first year with the company he worked as a service station salesman and attended evening classes at the University of Philadelphia. He became service station manager in 1928 and held various sales posts at Philadelphia before his appointment as middle Atlantic regional T. B. A. manager in 1945.

His wife is the former Christine Elizabeth Mitchell, whom he married at Philadelphia in 1931. They have three daughters, Christine, 17; Jane, 13, and Margaret, 2. He is a member of the Masonic lodge, 607 Olivet; the Benjamin Franklin Consistory, and the Lulu Temple Shrine.

U. S. Crude Oil Output Shows Third Large Drop

TULSA, Okla., July 23.—(AP)—The Oil & Gas Journal reported today that for the third straight week the country's daily average crude oil production showed a large decline.

It figured total daily average production in the week ended July 16 at 4,653,925 barrels, a drop of 26,950 barrels.

Most of the over-all loss, The Journal said, was due to further cuts by individual states to conform more closely to recently-lowered allowables.

Top decrease for the week was in Kansas, where production fell off 17,250 barrels to 228,700 barrels.

Oklahoma's output dropped 8,750 barrels to 377,550. Michigan was down 1,600 to 38,100. Wyoming declined 1,200 to 126,600 and California lost 2,300 to 911,900.

Other decreases included the eastern area, down 600 barrels to 61,000; Florida, off 50 to 1,375; Illinois, 800 to 178,900; Louisiana, 100 to 473,950; Colorado, 550 to 65,200, and Montana, 1,000 to 27,500.

The greatest gain for the week were in Indiana, up 2,100 barrels to 26,300, and Mississippi, up 4,750 to 96,700. Kentucky increased 300 barrels to 23,500 and Utah added 100 to 950.

Production was unchanged in Alabama 1,200 barrels; Arkansas, 72,600; Nebraska, 600; Texas, 1,805,000, and New Mexico, 136,300.

Average daily production in Canada was reported by the Journal at 58,515 barrels, with 55,015 barrels coming from Alberta Province.

The daily averages:

CANADIAN OIL BOOM SPREADS

Get-Rich-Quick Schemes Plunge Across International Border

HOUSTON, Tex., July 23.—(AP)—Canadian oil boom get-rich-quick schemes are moving across the international border by mail, telegraph and telephone.

Better business bureaus report receiving numerous complaints and inquiries on Canadian oil stock solicitations. Few are found to be legitimate. Feew hold sound claims to oil leases, to say nothing of oil itself.

Predicted immediate investment returns range as high as $40 for each $1 sent across the border.

Mail order promotion of Canadian oil stocks flooded two Texas cities recently—Houston and Dallas—whose residents had their fill of bogus stocks in the old Texas boom days.

A Toronto, Canada, company mailed promotion literature and application blanks in wholesale fashion.

Commented C. Edward Buehner, manager of the Houston better business bureau:

"They seem to have mailed to everyone in the city directory. Practically everyone in our office received the letters."

Buehner has accumulated a bulky file on fake Canadian stock promotions dating back to days when there was wild speculation on Canada's gold mines. The recent rich oil strike in Alberta Province apparently has caused many of the mail order speculators to switch to oil.

Canada's boom in fake stocks, Buehner said, can be traced back to the time the U. S. securities and exchange commission cracked down on practices of companies in the states.

"Many operators just moved into Canada," he explained.

The Canadian operations center around Toronto. Better business bureau records indicate S. E. C. and various state commissions have investigated several hundred Toronto firms in recent years.

But differences in American and Canadian laws make it impossible to establish efficient protection against the fake schemes.

United States brokers must register their stocks and securities with the S. E. C. Canadians controls are left to each of the 10 provinces.

Canadian law does not permit extradition of Canadians on charges of violation of United States securities laws.

Until recently the only weapons held by S. E. C. and state commissions were rather meaningless court injunctions, stop orders, cease and desist orders, and indictments. There have been hundreds of such cases but the brokers affected still are in Canada.

There can be no prosecution unless the defendants step across the international border and find themselves under arrest. As long as they stay in Canada, they still can drop letters in the mail, telephone and send telegrams to prospects.

Better business bureau officials, Buehner said, are hopeful a recent action taken by the U. S. postmaster general will develop into an efficient weapon.

The action was explained in a bulletin from the Boston bureau.

The postmaster general recently issued a fraud order against a Toronto company alleged to have been flooding the United States with mail promotion on an oil lease block in Alberta.

Investigation, it was said, proved the company's claims to be fraudulent.

Postmasters throughout the country were directed to refuse to accept postal money orders to the company. They also were instructed to stamp the word "fraudulent" on all letters addressed to the company and return them to the senders.

The order is to continue as long as the company "evades and avoids" registration with S. E. C. and state commissions.

Evidence of fraud must be presented before the postmaster general can take such action. In this particular case, it was charged the company sought quick rich investments ranging from $25 to $250. A $25 investment was to result on a quick return of $1000. A $250 payment was to return $10,000.

It was further claimed the Alberta government had refused to grant leases to the company. Leases claimed were said to have been found to be several miles from oil production and in wildcat territory previously explored and tested without success.

The postmaster general was said to have acted after the S. E. C. reported large amounts of money were being sent to the Toronto firm and that cease and desist court orders had been ineffectual.

Canada's oil boom has not caused the stock brokers to forget the Dominion's mines entirely.

Buehner tells of a current case in which a Houston resident received a telephone call from a Toronto broker urging an investment in a gold mine. The Houston man had just received an inheritance and invested $800 at 25-cents a share.

A shore time later he placed his case before Buehner.

An investigation, too late for remedy, had found the stock to be worth 2-cents a share.

SUFFOLK, Va.—(AP)—Read in' and writin' and 'rithmetic—that'll make speeding penalties stick! Trial Justice Marshall Bowden's arithmetic consisted of dividing the usual $50 fine for speeding or reckless driving by two. vanced education for ambitious nurses. It should place nursing on a high plane.

New problems bob up in some form every day, admits the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce over at Vicksburg, but yesterday's problem is destined to go unsolved. It will mean that Cedar Vale, Kan., must scurry around and find their own oxen yoke bows somewhere else than in the famous Mississippi city.

It is explained that Cedar Vale proposes a diamond jubilee celebration and hence needs the yokes and bows for essential atmosphere.

And here is how the request came: "We know oxen are used in remote sections of the deep south. Please find the bows for us," wrote O. D. Sartin, of Cedar Vale.

The Chamber wrote a diplomatic reply after inquiring of a few people who might have access to oxen equipment. They suggested that Warren county, Mississippi, has been mechanized for a good many years—probably as long as Kansas—and they knew of no supplies of the yoke equipment that is still available in this year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and forty-nine.

Some of the people hereabouts may have heard this yarn but we think it is so good that it will bear repetition. On the never-to-be-forgotten trip of the ensemble to Wales, the director, Miss Velma Nichols, informed the young people not to expect modern facilities in Wales. She said that modern bath rooms, for instance, might not be common and to adjust themselves to conditions as they found them. Tommy Spurlock and David De Rossett, who were teamed up together, were like the others prepared for the worst.

They were assigned to the home of a Mr. and Mrs. Densdale. The host escored them to the basement of the house, immediately upon arrival and suggested they wash in the lavatory provided there. They found a sort of enlarged kitchen sink and after a minutes inspection they decided that this was the family bathtub. David quickly ripped off his clothes and managed to double himself up sufficiently to get into the container. It was a hard job but he did his best to scrub his anatomy. But it took some time, and their host, wondering at their delay, opened the door and broke into a roar of laughter when he viewed the odd sight of a full grown man in a tub far too small to hold him.

"What on earth are you doing?" he asked between peals of laughter.

"Why I thought this was a Wales bathtub" David replied as he himself choked back laughter.

"Our bathroom is upstairs, this is only a place to wash hands and face, not the entire body," Mr. Densdale explained. The boys got adjusted after several days to life as it is lived in Wales.

James H. Trousdale, Jr., is ending a successful year as commander of the L. B. Faulk, American Legion post. The outstanding achievement is the erection of the stadium in Bernstein park for the baseball team. This has caused many hours of unrelenting effort to raise the money required. Mr. Trousdale and his fellow officers are to be congratulated for having accomplished something that the post has long desired.

The newly-elected officers are all well known and capable and it is expected that they will continue the excellent record established the past year. Here's wishing them success!

will lose everything eventually in the supreme court if they do not reach an agreement with federal authorities.

Louisiana Attorney General Bolivar Kemp, who has been in on the discussions, early this week said the main points in the compromise are:

1. Federal control and management of all oil and gas leases except in inland waters—such as lakes, bays, harbors.

2. An allocation to the states of 62 1/2 per cent of future revenues from tidelands not more than three miles out from shore; 50 per cent from tidelands farther out up to the edge of the continental shelf.

3. A waiver by the government of claims to tidelands revenues already collected by the states.

4. Guarantees for the state of control of inland waters and of jurisdiction in all coastal waters over fish, oysters, shrimp and other marine life.

The Texas land board raised these objections. 1. The compromise bill does not vest ownership or title to any part of the disputed property or minerals in the state.

2. It treats Texas the same as all other coastal states limiting its boundary to three miles in spite of the fact its gulfward boundaries were fixed at three leagues (10 1/2 miles) by the state when it was a republic.

3. The bill does not provide for acceptance or approval by the Texas legislature of the terms which require affirmative action by state officials.

Investigate Death Of Levee Board Employe

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.— (AP) — Police were investigating the mysterious death of a levee board employe whose battered body was found today on an Audubon park bench after he left a bus saying, "'m looking for the end of the line."

The body was identified as that of Anthony Cassanova, 35, of Jefferson parish by his brother, who lives at the same address.

Dr. Philip Montelepre, assistant coroner, said death was caused by a brain hemorrhage. He said the man's forehead was badly bruised and that the nose and an arm may have been broken.

The assistant coroner said he is investigating the case and has asked police to check further.

Bus Driver Minor Formenthal said he picked up Cassanova about 9:55 p. m. last night. On reaching the end of the line, he said he told the man, "this bus doesn't go any further."

Formenthal quoted Cassanova as replying, "that's good. That's what I'm looking for—the end of the line."

Two hous later, police received an anonymous telephone tip and found Cassanova lying on a bench under a bus stop shed.

His brother, James, said Cassanova had been missing since early last night.

Communist coast, drouth, floods, famine and an uncontrolable labor situation, are immediate problems.

These and other developments seem to have convinced the Reds that they can expect little or no aid from the west; and Russia does not have what they need.

Chou En-Lai, China's No. 2 political Communist, told the Sino-Soviet Friendship Association in Peiping.

"United States imperialism and Kuomintang (Nationalist) reactionaries are scheming to blockade China economically. Chinese must be mentally prepared for a blockade of eight to ten years."

(As a matter of fact, the United States and other western powers have refused to recognize the Nationalist blockade of Red China, but western business men have found that the chances for profitable commerce with the Reds are too small to justify the risks.)

Chou compared China to Russia after the 1947 revolution, when the western powers limited their economic traffic with the Soviets.

All this is in contrast with statements of Red leaders as recently as two months ago. (That was when they took Shanghai and were bubbling over with optimism.)

Then they said China must take help wherever she could get it, because western aid was essential to industralization. Now, recent events seem to have convinced the Reds that they cannot depend on western assistance.

This may mean that they feel they have alienated the west through failure to keep trade open and through their propaganda, and with such episodes as the Olive case. (U. S. Consul William M. Olive was arrested in a minor traffic case in Shanghai July 6, and held for three days incommunicado. The Reds announced they had "educated" him in that period, but the U. S. consul general said they had brutally beaten him.)

Whatever the reasons, the Reds seem to have given up hope of important aid from the west. As this hope has declined, they seem to have accelerated their efforts to squeeze out foreign businesses and individuals.

This is logical enough, as the only reason they ever wanted foreigners to stay in China was to help their industrial program.

Part of this shift in policy involves an effort to lessen the burden imposed by the half-dead seaports. Without maritime trade, the port cities are nothing but liabilities. Projects for moving millions of people out of Shanghai (estimated population 6,000,000) have been discussed, and small starts have been made, however, economic pressures in Shanghai may take care of this for the Reds.

As one business man remarked, "all they need to do to get the people out of Shanghai is to keep rice at its present high price."

Reducing the populations of coastal cities is to go hand in hand with removal of coastal industries to inland centers. However industries require electricity, and the interior cities don't have much of it.

All last winter the Communist leaders emphasized that their chief effort was being shifted from the peasantry to the laborers in big cities.

Now they seem to have shifted back to emphasis on the countryside. For example, Gen. Lin Piao, top man in central China, called for placing the center of effort in the country to "create the prerequisite conditions for development of the cities."

This is a complete backflip in Red planning.

The grandiose industrial production drives that the Reds had launched seem in restrospect to have been sparked by a huge propaganda campaign, and not much else.

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—Flour buying in the northwest gave support to wheat futures on the board of trade today.

Wheat closed 3/4 to 2 1/4 higher, September $2.05 3/4 to 5/8, corn was unchanged to 1 cent higher, September $1.29 1/4 to 1/2, oats were 1/8 lower to 1/8 higher, September .65 5/8 to 1/2, rye was 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 higher, September $1.56 3/4 to 1/2, soybeans were 2 to 2 5/8 higher, November $2.24 7/8 to 1/2, and lard was 5 to 12 cents a hundred pounds higher, September $11.37.

In the century after their discovery in 1789, the Hawaiian Islands' population decreased from 300,000 to about 57,000.

TRUMAN TO ASK

vious call for President Truman to take up the other objectives of the so-called Vandenberg resolution passed by the Republican 80th Congress from which the Atlantic pact stemmed.

The Michigan senator said that these call on the president to work for (1) a voluntary agreement to remove the United Nations veto on settling world disputes peacefully, (2) an arms reduction agreement, or, if these efforts fail, (3) an amendment to the U. N. charter under provisions permitting a review by a general conference.

He urged they be purused to the utmost.

Several senators who voted for the Atlantic pact when it was ratified last week, as well as most of the 13 who opposed it, have indicated they will fight any large scale arms outlay at this time.

Chairman Kee (D.-W. Va.) of the house foreign affairs committee said that he would begin hearings on the highly complicated measure at once. He expressed confidence that it would be passed by the house after considerable debate. Secretary Acheson probably will be the first witness at hearings expected to start Tuesday.

But the house committee, like the rest of congress, appeared to be deeply split on the issue of supplying arms to other governments in peacetime even with a "cold war" going on.

In fact some experts doubted whether the administration would succeed in getting it through both branches of congress before the hoped-for adjournment in early September.

One possibility is that congress may authorize the arms program but run out of time to consider appropriating funds for it. If that seems likely as debate progresses, the administration probably will try to enlarge the sum in the bill which could be advanced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance the first months of the project. This sum is presently fixed at $125,000,000.

The Truman proposal for the $45,000,000 emergency fund is designed at least in part to answer the desire for flexibility as the president's advisers in the state department see it. For example, should one of the countries in the southeast Asian area become deeply involved in a threat from communism Mr. Truman might employ some of this money in an attempt to help block that threat.

Another kind of possibility, speculatively at least, would arise if The Netherlands and Indonesian native political groups were able to agree in the next few months on a political program for Indonesia and then were to seek American assistance in organizing the security of the islands.

The European arms production fund, on the other hand, is aimed at stimulating the output of Atlantic pact partners so that eventually they will no longer require any help from the United States. To build up their armament industries without hurting their general economic recovery, in the opinion of state department planners, they must be given some additional dollar help.

As the program has been completed, the total of $1,450,000,000 would cover approximately $1,100,000,000 for this nation's European allies under the pact and about $350,000,000 for other nations lined up with the west in the struggle against communism.

In urging only a stop-gap aid program at this time, Vandenberg told reporters:

"My general view is that if arms are sought under the North Atlantic pact the program should be developed through the advisory council and the defense committee on a self-help basis as set up by the pact itself.

"The pending program is separate from the pact itself, although serving a common objective.

"My general view is that it should confine itself to the relatively short interim until recommendations can be made to the next congress under the terms of the pact.

"But I am withholding any decisions until I have seen the president's proposals and their supporting evidence."

tody, but merely wanted to question them.

From his hospital bed Cohen said Brancato "couldn't have done it. He's not important enough."

He also said Tarantino had visited him in the hospital yesterday. "I've know him for a long time," Cohen said. "We exchange favors several times. He visited me about 45 minutes before noon yesterday and talked about the shooting, just generally, you know."

The San Francisco arrests were made at the request of Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, who sent two agents from here to question the trio.

Cohen and three others were wounded early Wednesday as they were leaving a Hollywood night club. Cohen, shot in the shoulder, may be released soon. The others, including an attorney general's agent assigned to protect Mickey, are in serious

FARMERS INVITED TO VISIT L. S. U.

Offer Instructions In Latest Methods Of Farming, Homemaking

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(Special)—A general invitation to attend Farm and Home Week at Louisiana State University, August 15-18, has been extended to all farm people by the College of Agriculture, sponsor of the event.

Dean J. G. Lee said that between 2,000 and 3,00 farm men and women are expected to attend the university to brush up on the latest developments in farming and homemaking and find out more about the services that the university offers the people of the state.

The Agricultural Extension Service, a branch of the College of Agriculture, is in charge of arrangements. The Agricultural Experiment Station and the Teaching Division of the college will cooperate in staging an elaborate three-day program. Many specialists from industry and business, from other states, and from Washington, D. C., will be included on the Farm and Home Week staff.

Dean Lee urges that all who plan to attend should get in touch with their parish agricultural agent or home demonstration agent so that the university can know about how many to expect and so that they can arrange group transportation to the university if they wish. Guests will be housed without charge in dormitories on the campus and may take their meals at the university cafeteria at moderate cost. Registration will be held on the afternoon of August 15 and the program will get underway at 8:15 a.m. the following day.

One highlight of the program, the dean said, will be Grassland Farming Day, August 18. Prominent speakers will be heard at general assemblies each of the four nights of Farm and Home Week.

FARMERS INVITED TO VISIT L. S. U.

Offer Instructions In Latest Methods Of Farming, Homemaking

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(Special)—A general invitation to attend Farm and Home Week at Louisiana State University, August 15-18, has been extended to all farm people by the College of Agriculture, sponsor of the event.

Dean J. G. Lee said that between 2,000 and 3,00 farm men and women are expected to attend the university to brush up on the latest developments in farming and homemaking and find out more about the services that the university offers the people of the state.

The Agricultural Extension Service, a branch of the College of Agriculture, is in charge of arrangements. The Agricultural Experiment Station and the Teaching Division of the college will cooperate in staging an elaborate three-day program. Many specialists from industry and business, from other states, and from Washington, D. C., will be included on the Farm and Home Week staff.

Dean Lee urges that all who plan to attend should get in touch with their parish agricultural agent or home demonstration agent so that the university can know about how many to expect and so that they can arrange group transportation to the university if they wish. Guests will be housed without charge in dormitories on the campus and may take their meals at the university cafeteria at moderate cost. Registration will be held on the afternoon of August 15 and the program will get underway at 8:15 a.m. the following day.

One highlight of the program, the dean said, will be Grassland Farming Day, August 18. Prominent speakers will be heard at general assemblies each of the four nights of Farm and Home Week.

SOVIET HARVEST REPORTED GOOD

Agency Claims High Production, But Shortage In Machinery

MOSCOW, July 23.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's 1949 harvest prospects are good, the Central Statistical Administration reported today. June rains benefitted a vastly increased acreage of grain and other crops.

The statistical agency also announced industrial production was running to 101 per cent of targets boosted since the first of the year, but indicated shortages of certain agricultural, electrical and other machinery.

Livestock production also was reported up since July 1, 1948: cattle 28 per cent; pigs 79 per cent; goats and sheep 11 per cent. The number of the animals was not stated.

(Russia recently agreed to swap wheat and other grains to Britain for machinery in a proposed new one-year trade agreement. She also has been negotiating for a grain deal with France. She seeks machinery from the west.)

The crop announcement reported "good" and "favorable" conditions resulting from the June rains in all important farm areas, including the "black earth" grain belt of the Ukraine and north Caucusus.

The official report went no further.

But it has been announced that there are 15,000,000 more acres under cultivation this year than last, including 4,000,000 additional acres in spring wheat.

Good yields everywhere presumably could mean a record total, particularly of the wheat and other grains that traditionally have been one of Russia's major exports.

The industrial report said efforts to meet new targets resulted in a total output for April, May and June 20 per cent above that for the same period last year.

It said iron production was 46 per cent above that of June, 1948. Despite the spurt, however, the agency reported failure to meet the quarter's targets by "certain ministries" responsible for certain products.

The items listed included tractor sowers and forestration machinery; steam turbines, electrical cables and metals, tractors, coal and petroleum rolled steel.

The extent of the failures was not given.

Items produced in excess of targets included ferrous and non-ferrous metails, tractors, coal and petroleum products, electric power, freight cars, trolley-buses, automobiles, buses, roller bearings, metal lathes and textile machinery.

Light consumer goods also were reported over the targets, including phonographs, cameras, watches, cotton, wool and linen goods, silk, footwear, canned goods, meats, tea, soap, liquors, cigarettes and champagne.

DOG HOUSE

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Dog catching, police decided, may call for fast footwork, but not zig-zag driving. Officers pulled Frank W. Hammond, 52 off the dog catcher's wagon, and Acting City Judge John C. Shively fined him $85 for drunken driving.

SEVEN IN, NONE TO GO

Mrs. C. D. Harris, West Monroe, counts off the number of her sons who have gone into Uncle Sam's army at one time or another. Marion A. Harris, 17, center, is the last to travel the way of six of his brothers. Sergeant Boren started Marion to Camp Chaffee recently. Four saw service during World War II, with three getting over where the bullets flew. Two younger ones, Julius, 20, and Delmar, 19, are serving in Japan at present. In the army during the war were Sephious, 33, Otho, 27, Kenneth, 26, and Garland, 23. All except Otho, now in Michigan, are living near West Monroe.—(Staff photo by Leon C. Noland, Jr.).

PICKENS LANDS HUGE SAIL FISH

Outing In Old Mexico Proves Novel; Deep Sea Sport Delights

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Pickens, back from a fortnight in Old Mexico, delight to tell of the 100-pound sail fish that Mr. Pickens landed after a battle of one and one-half hours, 10 miles out in the so-called "blue waters" of the Pacific, off Acapulca. This town is possessed of modern hotels and is a headquarters for deep sea fishing.

The Pickens flew from here to Mexico City and then flew the 300 miles to Acapulca. If they had gone by car it would have taken 14 hours, the highways are so badly equipped for traffic.

When they started the deep sea fishing trip, 30 boats were in the party and only six boats were successful in reporting a big fish capture. The bait used was mullet and the fish was hooked three times but this did not stop a terrific battle being waged for freedom. Finally after an hour and a half, the big fellow was pulled up to the level of the boat and knocked four times in the head. This is always the procedure, for the sail fish never give up until they are finally dispatched for good.

Many people desire to have sail fish stuffed as souvenirs which is done in some cases. They are skinned on the scene by natives who know this work and then can be sent to Mexico City for stuffing but oft times they are lost or in no condition for preservation, Mrs. Pickens stated.

The Acapulca region is of interest as it is 10,000 feet up in the air. Divers barefooted climb a precipice 120 feet high and dive to a narrow mountain stream far below. A miscalculation and the diver is dashed to pieces on the rocks.

The Pickens visited Tasco mines, largest silver mines known; they saw a bull fight and visited many places of interest while away for their two-week outing.

12 Die In Canadian Dysentery Outbreak

OTTAWA, July 23.—(AP)—Twelve infants are reported to have died and many others to have been stricken in an outbreak of dysentery in Ontario province.

All deaths confirmed so far occurred in the area of Mattawa, lumbering district in northern Ontario. Six children were reported to have died at St. Jovite, Que., but this was denied by a physician there.

In the Mattawa area, six children were reported in hospitals and 40 to 50 others under treatment in their homes for dysentery. The outbreak was attributed to water pollution.

Dr. Raymond Dupre, one of two practicing doctors in St. Jovite, 80 miles north of Montreal, said one child had died within the last week from meningitis but that there was nothing in the nature of a dysentery or other epidemic in the community.

Hunting with firearms is practiced on a larger scale in the United States and Canada than anywhere else in the world.

Archibald Soldier Is Among 6 Wreck Victims

ARCHIBALD, La., July 23.—(Special)—Sgt. Aldridge Free, 22-year-old air force sergeant and resident of Archibald, was among six persons killed Friday in an automobile crash near Hattiesburg, Miss.

At the time of his death, he was assigned to the Keisler air force field at Biloxi, Miss.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Free and two sons, James A. and Gerald Wallace Free, all of Archibald; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sim H. Free, also of Archibald; eleven brothers, Wallace, Lewis, Charles E. and X. Free, all of Archibald, and James W. Free, with the army in Japan, Simmie E. Free, West Monroe, Virgil Free, of Winnfield, La., H. N. Free, of West Monroe, Herbert Free, of New Iberia, La., Wyatt Free, of Redland, Calif., and Roy Free, of El Paso, Tex., and four sisters, Mrs. Estelle Smith, of Rayville, Mrs. Catherine Huckaby, and Miss Margaret Free, both of Archibald, and Mrs. Thomas Lee, of Baskin, La.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Archibald Church of Christ Church with the Rev. Murphy Phillip, Rayville pastor, officiating. Mililtary rites will be conducted at the grave, with interment under the direction of the Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville.

Widow Recluse Says Intruder Takes $22,000

DENVER, July 23.—(AP)—An aged widow who has lived for ten years as a recluse in the railroad shops district of West Denver told police today she had been robbed of $22,000 in hundred dollar bills.

The woman, Mrs. Katherine Krieg, 79, said a man awakened her about 1:30 a. m. by striking her in the face, held a flashlight in her eyes and said:

"Don't move or I'll kill you. Where is the money?"

She gave him a purse containing $7, she said, but he rummaged behind a dresser and found a black handbag containing the $22,000, then fled after locking the bedroom door.

Mrs. Kreig told police she had accumulated the money through life insurance policies and sales of property. Her husband, John Kreig, a furnace repair man, died in 1939.

"I never spent any money," she explained. "John made good money. I always saved it.

"But I haven't got a penny now."

PETRILLO PIPES CAN MUSIC OUT

Strike Threat Of Hotel Musicians Removes Canned Tunes

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—James C. Petrillo won a battle against canned music today without firing a shot. But his victory gave six disabled veterans the jitters.

In New York yesterday, Petrillo issued an ultimatum to Chicago hotels and cafes which have been supplementing music of his American Federation of Musicians unionists with piped-in tunes supplied by the Boom Electrical and Amplifier Co.

The A. F. M. boss said that if the recorded music was played in places where his men worked, they'd walk out. The result was that Boom's amplifiers were switched off.

The move was part of a campaign by Petrillo directed at the Muzak Corporation of New York, which supplies recordings for services like Boom's in 54 major cities. Boom holds Muzak's Chicago franchise.

Petrillo said his action was taken because non-union disk jockeys were hired by the Muzak firms. He said he wanted the platter spinning jobs for members of his own union at the A. F. M.'s $107 a week scale.

Milton A. Boom, president of the Chicago Music Service firm, said he employes six severely crippled disabled veterans, all members of the A. F. L. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

He said his employes are paid $54 a week.

"It seems to me Petrillo's action is a jurisdictional matter between the union and the I. B. E. W.," Boom said. "There's no question of my company hiring non-union help or paying low wages. I can't speak for the other firms with Muzak franchises."

A man who answered the telephone at Boom's control room said that the employes are disabled veterans members of the I. B. E. W.

"I think Petrillo didn't know the situation here," he said. "The other guys are worried. But I can't believe Petrillo's out to get our jobs." He declined use of his name for publication.

Schedule 40,000-Mile U. S. Road Plan In Next 20 Years

By Vern Haugland

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—The nation's road-builders have drafted a 40,000-mile master highway system.

The network of broad, high-speed, trunk highways would link every important commercial and transportation center, 42 state capitals and 183 of the largest cities. It would provide routes free of cross traffic for swift passage through metropolitan areas.

The time-table calls for the system to be completed within 20 years. The estimated cost: $11,266,000,000. Congress has been asked to appropriate for the project at the rate of $500,000,000 a year compared with $75,000,000 a year now being spent for work on major highways.

Actually more than 37,000 miles of the system already have been outlined by the Bureau of Public Roads (formerly the Public Roads Administration) and by the 48 state highway commissions. The remaining miles are held in reserve for bypass routes that may be selected in the future for defense purposes.

Almost one-third of the system will have to be new construction—departing completely from existing routes. This is expected to cost $7,236,700,000—$311,900 a mile for 9,867 miles of rural construction and $2,055,000 a mile for 2,024 miles in cities of 5,000 or more.

The rest of the system already is in use, but only about six per cent, or 1,998 miles of rural roadway and 300 miles of urban routes, is good enough that it won't have to be changed or improved.

An estimated 8,687 miles will have to be widened, at a likely cost of $957,800,000. The average cost for 8,306 rural miles is figured at $87,800 a mile and for 381 urban miles at $599,800 a mile.

The rest—14,283 miles—will need more than widening but does not have to be relocated to any considerable degree. This is expected to cost $3,022,700,00—$157,200 a mile for 13,467 rural miles and $1,109,800 a mile for 816 urban miles.

The total cost breaks down to $5,973,000,000 to bring the rural sections up to express-highway standards, $5,293,000,000 for urban sections.

Of the amount, $735,000,000 is expected to go into the purchase of rights-of-way on rural sections, at an average cost of $23,200 a mile, and $1,667,000,000 on urban sections, at $517,600 a mile.

Road construction is expected to cost $5,869,300,000—$126,100 a mile in rural areas and $583,600 a mile in the urban section.

The building of 4,893 new bridges and improving or rebuilding of 5,925 bridges now in use are estimated at $2,888,900,000.

And $82,400,000 must be set aside for enlarging 15 of the 21 tunnels now in use and $23,800,000 for building five new highway tunnels.

Of the 13 rural tunnels on the system, seven are in Pennsylvania, four in Oregon, one in Idaho, and one in California.

Six of the "least adequate" of the 13 are to be avoided by relocation of approach roads. The other seven are to be supplemented by parallel bores. Each of the resulting twin bores will carry one-way traffic.

Of the five new tunnels proposed, only one is in a rural area—on California's U. S. Route 40 at the approach to the Carquinex Strait bridge.

The others are a 900-foot tunnel in Louisville, Ky., a 700-foot expressway tunnel in Boston, a 2,400-foot freeway tunnel in Kansas City, Mo., and a new palisades tunnel in New Jersey.

Urban tunnels proposed by state highway departments for enlargement are California's Yerba Buena tunnel, between the spans of the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge; the Sumner tunnel under Boston harbor, a depressed highway on Route 25 in Jersey City, N. J.; the Beaucatcher tunnel at Asheville, N. C.; the McCalliee tunnel at Chattanooga, Tenn.; the St. George, Utah, tunnel, and Seattle's west approach to the Lake Washington floating bridge.

The eighth existing urban tunnel is the Bankhead tunnel at Mobile, Ala. The Bureau of Public Roads says that although the Alabama highway department proposed no improvement there the tunnel is "definitely inadequate" and should be supplemented with a parallel tube, probably costing around $5,500,000.

Of the total cost of tunnels, $46,600,00 is for tunnels in rural areas and $59,600,000 in urban area.

Texas would account for about one-fourteenth of the mileage of the entire system. California would account for more than one-fifth the total cost.

Design standards call for concrete or asphalt paving, four-lane divided highways where peak traffic volume exceed 800 vehicles an hour, traffic lanes 12 feet wide in heavily-traveled areas and a 250-foot right-of-way in rural areas.

An absolute maximum grade of six percent is prescribed. There are now 668 grades on the system exceeding that limit. The steepest grades on the system are U. S. Route 70 at Marion, N. C., almost 11 per cent for 0.15 mile, and U. S. 40 at Old Washington, Ohio, 10 per cent for a third of a mile.

Longest grade on the system is a 20-mile section of four per cent grade on U. S. 99 south of Bakersfield, Calif.

SOVIET HARVEST REPORTED GOOD

Agency Claims High Production, But Shortage In Machinery

MOSCOW, July 23.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's 1949 harvest prospects are good, the Central Statistical Administration reported today. June rains benefitted a vastly increased acreage of grain and other crops.

The statistical agency also announced industrial production was running to 101 per cent of targets boosted since the first of the year, but indicated shortages of certain agricultural, electrical and other machinery.

Livestock production also was reported up since July 1, 1948: cattle 28 per cent; pigs 79 per cent; goats and sheep 11 per cent. The number of the animals was not stated.

(Russia recently agreed to swap wheat and other grains to Britain for machinery in a proposed new one-year trade agreement. She also has been negotiating for a grain deal with France. She seeks machinery from the west.)

The crop announcement reported "good" and "favorable" conditions resulting from the June rains in all important farm areas, including the "black earth" grain belt of the Ukraine and north Caucusus.

The official report went no further.

But it has been announced that there are 15,000,000 more acres under cultivation this year than last, including 4,000,000 additional acres in spring wheat.

Good yields everywhere presumably could mean a record total, particularly of the wheat and other grains that traditionally have been one of Russia's major exports.

The industrial report said efforts to meet new targets resulted in a total output for April, May and June 20 per cent above that for the same period last year.

It said iron production was 46 per cent above that of June, 1948. Despite the spurt, however, the agency reported failure to meet the quarter's targets by "certain ministries" responsible for certain products.

The items listed included tractor sowers and forestration machinery; steam turbines, electrical cables and metals, tractors, coal and petroleum rolled steel.

The extent of the failures was not given.

Items produced in excess of targets included ferrous and non-ferrous metails, tractors, coal and petroleum products, electric power, freight cars, trolley-buses, automobiles, buses, roller bearings, metal lathes and textile machinery.

Light consumer goods also were reported over the targets, including phonographs, cameras, watches, cotton, wool and linen goods, silk, footwear, canned goods, meats, tea, soap, liquors, cigarettes and champagne.

DOG HOUSE

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Dog catching, police decided, may call for fast footwork, but not zig-zag driving. Officers pulled Frank W. Hammond, 52 off the dog catcher's wagon, and Acting City Judge John C. Shively fined him $85 for drunken driving.

SEVEN IN, NONE TO GO

Mrs. C. D. Harris, West Monroe, counts off the number of her sons who have gone into Uncle Sam's army at one time or another. Marion A. Harris, 17, center, is the last to travel the way of six of his brothers. Sergeant Boren started Marion to Camp Chaffee recently. Four saw service during World War II, with three getting over where the bullets flew. Two younger ones, Julius, 20, and Delmar, 19, are serving in Japan at present. In the army during the war were Sephious, 33, Otho, 27, Kenneth, 26, and Garland, 23. All except Otho, now in Michigan, are living near West Monroe.—(Staff photo by Leon C. Noland, Jr.).

PICKENS LANDS HUGE SAIL FISH

Outing In Old Mexico Proves Novel; Deep Sea Sport Delights

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Pickens, back from a fortnight in Old Mexico, delight to tell of the 100-pound sail fish that Mr. Pickens landed after a battle of one and one-half hours, 10 miles out in the so-called "blue waters" of the Pacific, off Acapulca. This town is possessed of modern hotels and is a headquarters for deep sea fishing.

The Pickens flew from here to Mexico City and then flew the 300 miles to Acapulca. If they had gone by car it would have taken 14 hours, the highways are so badly equipped for traffic.

When they started the deep sea fishing trip, 30 boats were in the party and only six boats were successful in reporting a big fish capture. The bait used was mullet and the fish was hooked three times but this did not stop a terrific battle being waged for freedom. Finally after an hour and a half, the big fellow was pulled up to the level of the boat and knocked four times in the head. This is always the procedure, for the sail fish never give up until they are finally dispatched for good.

Many people desire to have sail fish stuffed as souvenirs which is done in some cases. They are skinned on the scene by natives who know this work and then can be sent to Mexico City for stuffing but oft times they are lost or in no condition for preservation, Mrs. Pickens stated.

The Acapulca region is of interest as it is 10,000 feet up in the air. Divers barefooted climb a precipice 120 feet high and dive to a narrow mountain stream far below. A miscalculation and the diver is dashed to pieces on the rocks.

The Pickens visited Tasco mines, largest silver mines known; they saw a bull fight and visited many places of interest while away for their two-week outing.

12 Die In Canadian Dysentery Outbreak

OTTAWA, July 23.—(AP)—Twelve infants are reported to have died and many others to have been stricken in an outbreak of dysentery in Ontario province.

All deaths confirmed so far occurred in the area of Mattawa, lumbering district in northern Ontario. Six children were reported to have died at St. Jovite, Que., but this was denied by a physician there.

In the Mattawa area, six children were reported in hospitals and 40 to 50 others under treatment in their homes for dysentery. The outbreak was attributed to water pollution.

Dr. Raymond Dupre, one of two practicing doctors in St. Jovite, 80 miles north of Montreal, said one child had died within the last week from meningitis but that there was nothing in the nature of a dysentery or other epidemic in the community.

Hunting with firearms is practiced on a larger scale in the United States and Canada than anywhere else in the world.

Archibald Soldier Is Among 6 Wreck Victims

ARCHIBALD, La., July 23.—(Special)—Sgt. Aldridge Free, 22-year-old air force sergeant and resident of Archibald, was among six persons killed Friday in an automobile crash near Hattiesburg, Miss.

At the time of his death, he was assigned to the Keisler air force field at Biloxi, Miss.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Free and two sons, James A. and Gerald Wallace Free, all of Archibald; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sim H. Free, also of Archibald; eleven brothers, Wallace, Lewis, Charles E. and X. Free, all of Archibald, and James W. Free, with the army in Japan, Simmie E. Free, West Monroe, Virgil Free, of Winnfield, La., H. N. Free, of West Monroe, Herbert Free, of New Iberia, La., Wyatt Free, of Redland, Calif., and Roy Free, of El Paso, Tex., and four sisters, Mrs. Estelle Smith, of Rayville, Mrs. Catherine Huckaby, and Miss Margaret Free, both of Archibald, and Mrs. Thomas Lee, of Baskin, La.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Archibald Church of Christ Church with the Rev. Murphy Phillip, Rayville pastor, officiating. Mililtary rites will be conducted at the grave, with interment under the direction of the Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville.

Widow Recluse Says Intruder Takes $22,000

DENVER, July 23.—(AP)—An aged widow who has lived for ten years as a recluse in the railroad shops district of West Denver told police today she had been robbed of $22,000 in hundred dollar bills.

The woman, Mrs. Katherine Krieg, 79, said a man awakened her about 1:30 a. m. by striking her in the face, held a flashlight in her eyes and said: "Don't move or I'll kill you. Where is the money?"

She gave him a purse containing $7, she said, but he rummaged behind a dresser and found a black handbag containing the $22,000, then fled after locking the bedroom door.

Mrs. Kreig told police she had accumulated the money through life insurance policies and sales of property. Her husband, John Kreig, a furnace repair man, died in 1939.

"I never spent any money," she explained. "John made good money. I always saved it.

"But I haven't got a penny now."

PETRILLO PIPES CAN MUSIC OUT

Strike Threat Of Hotel Musicians Removes Canned Tunes

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—James C. Petrillo won a battle against canned music today without firing a shot. But his victory gave six disabled veterans the jitters.

In New York yesterday, Petrillo issued an ultimatum to Chicago hotels and cafes which have been supplementing music of his American Federation of Musicians unionists with piped-in tunes supplied by the Boom Electrical and Amplifier Co.

The A. F. M. boss said that if the recorded music was played in places where his men worked, they'd walk out. The result was that Boom's amplifiers were switched off.

The move was part of a campaign by Petrillo directed at the Muzak Corporation of New York, which supplies recordings for services like Boom's in 54 major cities. Boom holds Muzak's Chicago franchise.

Petrillo said his action was taken because non-union disk jockeys were hired by the Muzak firms. He said he wanted the platter spinning jobs for members of his own union at the A. F. M.'s $107 a week scale.

Milton A. Boom, president of the Chicago Music Service firm, said he employes six severely crippled disabled veterans, all members of the A. F. L. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

He said his employes are paid $54 a week.

"It seems to me Petrillo's action is a jurisdictional matter between the union and the I. B. E. W.," Boom said. "There's no question of my company hiring non-union help or paying low wages. I can't speak for the other firms with Muzak franchises."

A man who answered the telephone at Boom's control room said that the employes are disabled veterans members of the I. B. E. W.

"I think Petrillo didn't know the situation here," he said. "The other guys are worried. But I can't believe Petrillo's out to get our jobs." He declined use of his name for publication.

Schedule 40,000-Mile U. S. Road Plan In Next 20 Years

By Vern Haugland

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—The nation's road-builders have drafted a 40,000-mile master highway system.

The network of broad, high-speed, trunk highways would link every important commercial and transportation center, 42 state capitals and 183 of the largest cities. It would provide routes free of cross traffic for swift passage through metropolitan areas.

The time-table calls for the system to be completed within 20 years. The estimated cost: $11,266,000,000. Congress has been asked to appropriate for the project at the rate of $500,000,000 a year compared with $75,000,000 a year now being spent for work on major highways.

Actually more than 37,000 miles of the system already have been outlined by the Bureau of Public Roads (formerly the Public Roads Administration) and by the 48 state highway commissions. The remaining miles are held in reserve for bypass routes that may be selected in the future for defense purposes.

Almost one-third of the system will have to be new construction—departing completely from existing routes. This is expected to cost $7,236,700,000—$311,900 a mile for 9,867 miles of rural construction and $2,055,000 a mile for 2,024 miles in cities of 5,000 or more.

The rest of the system already is in use, but only about six per cent, or 1,998 miles of rural roadway and 300 miles of urban routes, is good enough that it won't have to be changed or improved.

An estimated 8,687 miles will have to be widened, at a likely cost of $957,800,000. The average cost for 8,306 rural miles is figured at $87,800 a mile and for 381 urban miles at $599,800 a mile.

The rest—14,283 miles—will need more than widening but does not have to be relocated to any considerable degree. This is expected to cost $3,022,700,00—$157,200 a mile for 13,467 rural miles and $1,109,800 a mile for 816 urban miles.

The total cost breaks down to $5,973,000,000 to bring the rural sections up to express-highway standards, $5,293,000,000 for urban sections.

Of the amount, $735,000,000 is expected to go into the purchase of rights-of-way on rural sections, at an average cost of $23,200 a mile, and $1,667,000,000 on urban sections, at $517,600 a mile.

Road construction is expected to cost $5,869,300,000—$126,100 a mile in rural areas and $583,600 a mile in the urban section.

The building of 4,893 new bridges and improving or rebuilding of 5,925 bridges now in use are estimated at $2,888,900,000.

And $82,400,000 must be set aside for enlarging 15 of the 21 tunnels now in use and $23,800,000 for building five new highway tunnels.

Of the 13 rural tunnels on the system, seven are in Pennsylvania, four in Oregon, one in Idaho, and one in California.

Six of the "least adequate" of the 13 are to be avoided by relocation of approach roads. The other seven are to be supplemented by parallel bores. Each of the resulting twin bores will carry one-way traffic.

Of the five new tunnels proposed, only one is in a rural area—on California's U. S. Route 40 at the approach to the Carquinex Strait bridge.

The others are a 900-foot tunnel in Louisville, Ky., a 700-foot expressway tunnel in Boston, a 2,400-foot freeway tunnel in Kansas City, Mo., and a new palisades tunnel in New Jersey.

Urban tunnels proposed by state highway departments for enlargement are California's Yerba Buena tunnel, between the spans of the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge; the Sumner tunnel under Boston harbor, a depressed highway on Route 25 in Jersey City, N. J.; the Beaucatcher tunnel at Asheville, N. C.; the McCalliee tunnel at Chattanooga, Tenn.; the St. George, Utah, tunnel, and Seattle's west approach to the Lake Washington floating bridge.

The eighth existing urban tunnel is the Bankhead tunnel at Mobile, Ala. The Bureau of Public Roads says that although the Alabama highway department proposed no improvement there the tunnel is "definitely inadequate" and should be supplemented with a parallel tube, probably costing around $5,500,000.

Of the total cost of tunnels, $46,600,00 is for tunnels in rural areas and $59,600,000 in urban area.

Texas would account for about one-fourteenth of the mileage of the entire system. California would account for more than one-fifth the total cost.

Design standards call for concrete or asphalt paving, four-lane divided highways where peak traffic volume exceed 800 vehicles an hour, traffic lanes 12 feet wide in heavily-traveled areas and a 250-foot right-of-way in rural areas.

An absolute maximum grade of six percent is prescribed. There are now 668 grades on the system exceeding that limit. The steepest grades on the system are U. S. Route 70 at Marion, N. C., almost 11 per cent for 0.15 mile, and U. S. 40 at Old Washington, Ohio, 10 per cent for a third of a mile.

Longest grade on the system is a 20-mile section of four per cent grade on U. S. 99 south of Bakersfield, Calif.

MRS. GRUBER AND MRS. PHILLIPS GIVE BRUNCH FOR RECENT BRIDE

In the series of social affairs given for Miss Wava Jenkins before her recent marriage to Mr. Harry Frazer, Jr., was a beautifully appointed brunch at the DeSiard Country Club. Mrs. Louis Gruber, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Phillips were hostesses on this occasion honoring Miss Jenkins and her bridesmaids.

A feature of the table decorations was the centerpiece, marked by originality and effectiveness. A basket designed from a watermelon overflowed with luscious fruit. Green grapes and California cherries fell in graceful fashion from the ahndle that was tied with yellow and pink satin ribbons.

At one end of the table was a pretty arrangement of yellow gladioli, rose pink carnations and California foliage.

The honor guest was wearing a smart green and gray striped chambray dress with gray bolero and corsage of mixed flowers in colors that blended with those forming the centerpiece.

Her mother, Mrs. William Jenkins, wore a soft blue mesh frock with deeper blue flowers, tube roses and carnations.

Mrs. Gruber and Mrs. Phillips presented the bride-elect with two cups and saucers in her china pattern.

For this enjoyable occasion, covers were laid for the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Miss Elstner Frazer, Miss Suzanne Phebus, Miss Margaret Watson, Mrs. William Durrett, Mrs. Faye Kramer, Mrs. Gruber and Mrs. Phillips.

LARGE GROUP ATTENDS REUNION OF M'BRIDE FAMILY AT WESTON

The McBride family of Weston celebrated their annual family reunion Sunday, July 10, with a large number of relatives and friends attending. President of the group, Mr. H. P. McBride, presented an informal program, which opened with a prayer by Mr. J. D. McBride of Baton Rouge.

Impromptu talks were made by various members of the family, and a discussion of "Trends of Our People Today" was given by Mr. Walton McBride of Ruston.

The speaker related the way in which our forefathers had pioneered and settled this country, and he stresses the hardships and problems that they were forced to face. He placed emphasis upon the present danger of drifting into socialism or some other form of "ism."

During the short business meeting following the program, H. P. McBride and Miss Ruth McBride were re-elected president and secretary respectively to serve during the coming year.

An interesting feature of this reunion was the booklets containing the history of the McBride family since 1800 which was prepared by Mrs. Paul Stinson. They were made available to members of the family, Mrs. Stinson had worked several years compiling the information in the booklets and her efforts were greatly appreciated.

At noon a dinner was served buffet style to the following members of the family:

From Jonesboro and vicinity, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. McBride, Mrs. J. L. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. McBride, Mr. J. A. McBride, Miss Ruth McBride, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McBride, and Jeri Mac, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie McBride, Martha and Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. McBride.

From Vivian and Vernell, Mrs. B. F. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Hermie Shows, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Shows, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Johnson and Annice, Mrs. Jimmie Minter and Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Avery, Mrs. D. R. Avery, Carolyn Fay, Eleanor Joe Sarah Jean and Mrs. Lee Avery. Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Johnson and Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stewart, Mrs. D. A. Walsworth, Mrs. G. C. Koonce, Mrs. Emmite Thompson, Mrs. C. C. Koonce, Mr. J. W. Stewart, Jo Anne and Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Rasbury, Martha Nell Boulware, Sammitt Powelle, Mrs. Betty Wyatt, Mrs. Paul Stinson and David Stinson, Miss Sue Lawrence.

From Monroe, Sgt. and Mrs. B. J. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow, McBride, Jimmy, Tommy and Sue.

TALLULAH

Miss Christine Medlin has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Martha Howell in Bastrop.

Mrs. Ben D. Capshaw and little son Ben III of Lawton, Oklahoma, are visiting Mrs. Capshaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rountree.

Miss Betsy Builtman has returned from a visit with relatives in Many.

Friends in Tallulah will be interested to learn that Rev. Lael Jones, who recently graduated at Emory University, has been appointed to the Methodist Church at Vidalia. Rev. Jones and his wife, the former Miss Polly Towne of Delta will move to Vidalia in September when the Methodist parsonage is available.

Mrs. Harry Latterty and children are enjoying a vacation with relatives in western Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Crayton Laughman and little daughter, Belinda, were recent visitors to relatives in New Orleans and Gulfport.

Miss Elizabeth Craig and R. H. Craig of Osceola, Ark., are visiting Mrs. James Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Maberley of Atlanta, Ga., are visiting relatives in Tallulah.

P. W. Byrd who recently underwent an operation at Mercy Hospital in Vicksburg is reported to be improving satisfactorily.

Dr. David Amacker of Lake Providence spoke at the Friday meeting of the Tallulah Rotary Club on "Current Farm Legislation." His address, which was informative and timely, was highly appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Afentakis of San Antonio, Texas, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joan Helen, to Pete A. Poulos, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Poulos of this city. Their wedding will be solemnized in the early fall.

MRS. GRUBER AND MRS. PHILLIPS GIVE BRUNCH FOR RECENT BRIDE

In the series of social affairs given for Miss Wava Jenkins before her recent marriage to Mr. Harry Frazer, Jr., was a beautifully appointed brunch at the DeSiard Country Club. Mrs. Louis Gruber, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Phillips were hostesses on this occasion honoring Miss Jenkins and her bridesmaids.

A feature of the table decorations was the centerpiece, marked by originality and effectiveness. A basket designed from a watermelon overflowed with luscious fruit. Green grapes and California cherries fell in graceful fashion from the ahndle that was tied with yellow and pink satin ribbons.

At one end of the table was a pretty arrangement of yellow gladioli, rose pink carnations and California foliage.

The honor guest was wearing a smart green and gray striped chambray dress with gray bolero and corsage of mixed flowers in colors that blended with those forming the centerpiece.

Her mother, Mrs. William Jenkins, wore a soft blue mesh frock with deeper blue flowers, tube roses and carnations.

Mrs. Gruber and Mrs. Phillips presented the bride-elect with two cups and saucers in her china pattern.

For this enjoyable occasion, covers were laid for the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Miss Elstner Frazer, Miss Suzanne Phebus, Miss Margaret Watson, Mrs. William Durrett, Mrs. Faye Kramer, Mrs. Gruber and Mrs. Phillips.

LARGE GROUP ATTENDS REUNION OF M'BRIDE FAMILY AT WESTON

The McBride family of Weston celebated their annual family reunion Sunday, July 10, with a large number of relatives and friends attending. President of the group, Mr. H. P. McBride, presented an informal program, which opened with a prayer by Mr. J. D. McBride of Baton Rouge.

Impromptu talks were made by various members of the family, and a discussion of "Trends of Our People Today" was given by Mr. Walton McBride of Ruston.

The speaker related the way in which our forefathers had pioneered and settled this country, and he stresses the hardships and problems that they were forced to face. He placed emphasis upon the present danger of drifting into socialism or some other form of "ism."

During the short business meeting following the program, H. P. McBride and Miss Ruth McBride were re-elected president and secretary respectively to serve during the coming year.

An interesting feature of this reunion was the booklets containing the history of the McBride family since 1800 which was prepared by Mrs. Paul Stinson. They were made available to members of the family, Mrs. Stinson had worked several years compiling the information in the booklets and her efforts were greatly appreciated.

At noon a dinner was served buffet style to the following members of the family:

From Vivian and Vernell, Mrs. B. F. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Hermie Shows, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Shows, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Johnson and Annice, Mrs. Jimmie Minter and Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Avery, Mrs. D. R. Avery, Carolyn Fay, Eleanor Joe Sarah Jean and Mrs. Lee Avery, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Johnson and Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stewart, Mrs. D. A. Walsworth, Mrs. G. C. Koonce, Mrs. Emmite Thompson, Mrs. C. C. Koonce, Mr. J. W. Stewart, Jo Anne and Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Rasbury, Martha Nell Boulware, Sammitt Powelle, Mrs. Betty Wyatt, Mrs. Paul Stinson and David Stinson, Miss Sue Lawrence.

From Monroe, Sgt. and Mrs. B. J. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow, McBride, Jimmy, Tommy and Sue.

From Bastrop, Mrs. C. F., McBride; from Hattisburg, Miss., Mr. Waylon McBride, from Translvania, La., Mrs. Charles Tullos and Charles William; from Ruston, Mr. and Mrs. Walton E. McBride, Billy and Katherine; Mr. and Mrs. Rupert McBride, Jeanette and Rupert, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lampkin Hogan, Misses Jeanette and Bobby Sue Hogan.

From Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McBride, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rush; from Choudrant, Mrs. E. G. Edwards and Miss Sallie Edwards; from Calhoun, Mrs. Gorey Staples and sons, Mac, Mike and Bill; from Lafayette, Mac Raymond Chandler; from Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Homer McBride, Margaret and Marcia, Lyman McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Naremore, Paula and Dan, Mrs. Carl Jones, Miss Dorothy Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Grady C. Tucker, James Daniel and Martha Ann Tucker, Miss Vera Tullas, Mr. and Mrs. Elsie Bush and Kenneth, Mrs. Annie Albritton and Mrs. W. E. Bush.

From Rayville, Mrs. Janie Stephenson and son, Don Johnson of U. S. navy.

TALLULAH

Miss Christine Medlin has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Martha Howell in Bastrop.

Mrs. Ben D. Capshaw and little son Ben III of Lawton, Oklahoma, are visiting Mrs. Capshaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rountree.

Miss Betsy Builtman has returned from a visit with relatives in Many.

Friends in Tallulah will be interested to learn that Rev. Lael Jones, who recently graduated at Emory University, has been appointed to the Methodist Church at Vidalia. Rev. Jones and his wife, the former Miss Polly Towne of Delta will move to Vidalia in September when the Methodist parsonage is available.

Mrs. Harry Lafferty and children are enjoying a vacation with relatives in western Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Crayton Laughman and little daughter, Belinda, were recent visitors to relatives in New Orleans and Gulfport.

Miss Elizabeth Craig and R. H. Craig of Osceola, Ark., are visiting Mrs. James Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Maberley of Atlanta, Ga., are visiting relatives in Tallulah.

P. W. Byrd who recently underwent an operation at Mercy Hospital in Vicksburg is reported to be improving satisfactorily.

Dr. David Amacker of Lake Providence spoke at the Friday meeting of the Tallulah Rotary Club on "Current Farm Legislation." His address, which was informative and timely, was highly appreciated.

YWCA Enjoys Variety Of Informal Affairs For Summer Schedule

Characterized by fun and variety, Y. W. C. A. events of the summer continue to give a full calendar. The Y-Wives' Club met at the "Y" Wednesday morning with the president, Mrs. George Forman, directing. The program chairman presented Miss Jane Wallace, a special guest on this occasion, who related interesting experiences which she and other members of the Ouachita Parish High School Ensemble had during their trip to Wales and countries on the European continent.

New club officers of the year were announced as follows: Mary Eason, president; Mary Ellison, vice-president; Ruth Gerson, secretary-treasurer. A guest of the organization, Mrs. Helen Reece, was presented.

During the summer months the Y-Teens have no regular meetings but special activities and parties often are planned. A week-end trip to Chemin-a-haut, state park, bowling, swimming, softball, a party-craft class and other things have all been on the schedule.

On the night of July 15 the following group enjoyed an ice cream party: Carolyn Hudson, Martha Krumm, Sue Wade, Janis Dyar, Willie Mae Flannigan, Lorraine Sechler, Mary Ann Griffith, Shirley Harvey, Elwyna Wills, Flora Kitchingham, Ann Hebert, Jean Milner, Lillian Roddy, Jo Ann Fuller, Julia Bess Williams, Julie Wooley, Sara Cloud, Edna Jean Berry, Dot Grant, Dot Kinnison, and Miss Sharp.

The Y-Tenn Inter-Club Council met Tuesday morning to make plans for the club groups for 1949-50. Jane Steed is president of council and Mary Virginia Parker is vice-president.

The Business and Profressional Girls' Club has been enjoying informal meetings. The last one was a picnic supper at the home of Louise Phillips. Helen Hayes and Pat Patrick were hostesses for this meeting.

The Y. W. C. A. is one of the Red Feather Services of the Twin City Community Chest.

Chinese Theme Creates Interest At Luncheon Program Held By WSCS

Members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Stone Avenue church, recently were served a Chinese luncheon in the fellowship hall, with Mrs. J. E. Zufall and Mrs. H. F. Boyd as hostesses. The feature was planned as a prelude to a new study course emphasizing China.

Developing the theme, the buffet table was decorated with miniature parasols in bright colors and Chinese figurines. Presiding were two women who wore native dress comprising richly embroidered floral robes of Chinese silk.

Chicken chop suey and other appropriate dishes were included in the menu.

Following the luncheon, several interesting and informative papers dealing with conditions in China were read. These proved a challenging approach to the new program of the year planned by the organization.

As a basis for the study, the book, "China: Twilight or Dawn," will be taught by Mrs. H. F. Boyd, vice-president. She is to be assisted by Mrs. M. B. Hearne, secretary of missionary education.

Jenkins-Frazer Vows Exchanged In Prominent Summer Nuptials

Evening Ceremony Uniting Local Couple Takes Place At Grace Episcopal Church

One of the loveliest weddings of the summer season was that of Miss Wava Magdalen Jenkins and Mr. Harry Glenn Frazer, Jr., which was celebrated on Friday, July 15 at seven o'clock in the evening at Grace Episcopal Church. The Rev. Edward Farren Hayward, rector, officiated in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Jenkins and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Glenn Frazer.

Forming a beautiful setting for the exchange of nuptial vows were white gladioli, stock and smilax against a background of candle light formed by burning cathedral tapers in candelabra along the chancel.

Organ Concert

Preceding the ceremony a concert of organ music was given by Mrs. W. W. Cloud, who also accompanied Mrs. L. Jack Hays who sang "O Perfect Love" by Burroughs and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. The organist played the traditional wedding marches from Wagner and Mendelssohn for the processional and recessional, and she rendered soft music, favorites of the bride, during the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white Chantilly lace over satin. The bodice was a basque effect designed with a bertha of the lace and a yoke of silk marquisette embroidered in seed pearls, and the long sleeves were finished with lily points. The billowy skirt graduated to form a full train. The finger-tip veil of imported French illusion was gathered to a poke bonnet of shirred illusion with pearlized orange blossoms on either side. The bride carried a prayer book surmounted by a white glamellia with a shower of tube roses and white satin ribbon.

Bride's Attendants

Mrs. William Durrett was the bride's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Elstner Frazer, the bridegroom's sister, Miss Margaret Watson, Miss Suzanne Phebus and Miss Jean Collier of Gillette, Ark. They wore gowns of orchid organdy fashioned along identical lines. The bodice was created with an off-the-shoulder effect with a double ruffle encircling the neckline and puffed sleeves. The waist was joined to a hoop skirt of ruffles. They wore bandeaux of orchid organdy with purple asters on either side of the head, and they carried baskets of orchid asters and cascading purple satin ribbon holding a shower of asters.

Mr. Harry Frazer served his son as best man and the groomsmen were Mr. Randolph Brown, Mr. William Husted, W. R. William M. Jenkins, Jr., brother of the bride, and Mr. Harry Gamble, III, of New Orleans. The ushers were Mr. Herbert Wilson, Mr. Gordon Surguine, Mr. George Holt, Mr. Robert Holt and Mr. J. R. Hood.

Wedding Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Lotus Club. Mrs. Jenkins, the bride's mother, was wearing a floor-length model of aqua crepe and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Frazer, was lovely in a long gown of soft blue chiffon and a corsage of orchids.

The reception rooms where they received held attractive arrangements of gladioli and stock placed at vantage points. The bride's table was overlaid with an imported linen cloth of Italian cutwork and lace. Its central decor was a double wedding ring joined by an arch of roses and embossed in shell and rose designs. The reflector on which it rested was encircled with roses and delicate fern. On either side silver candelabra held burning pink tapers which cast a soft glow to enhance the effectiveness of the scene.

Assisting in extending courtesies in serving were Mrs. Harvey Dunn of Bastrop, Mrs. R. J. Graves, Jr., Miss Betty Jean Langston, of Tupelo, Miss., cousin of the bride, and Miss Carolyn Rial of McGehee, Ark.

Mrs. Eva Hanna, grandmother of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Frazer left on a wedding trip to Rockaway Beach, Mo., and other points of interest. For travel the bride wore a mauve weathervane suit and matching cocoa accessories and an orchid corsage.

Home In New Orleans

The couple will make their home in New Orleans until June when Mr. Frazer will graduate from Tulane University.

The bride is a graduate of the high school at McGehee, Ark., and she attended Arkansas State Teachers College, Conway, Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, where she pledged Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Frazer attended Northeast Junior College and Tulane University, where he is a senior in the school of commerce. He holds membership in Beta Theta Pi and Delta Sigma fraternities. During the war he served three years in the U. S. air corps and saw thirteen months of duty at Guam.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. J. D. Langston and Miss Betty Jean Langston of Tupelo, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Frazer of Bastrop; Miss Eugenia Seavey, Mr. Harry P. Gamble, III, Mr. Herbert Wilson, and Mr. Don Quinn, all of New Orleans; Miss Ruth King of Leesville; Mrs. D. M. Smith of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. C. W. Collier and Margaret Jean Collier of Gillette, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Rial, Miss Lelia Rial, Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Haisty, Mrs. J. B. Hill, Mrs. W. Y. Rial, Miss Carolyn Rial, Norma Gail Rial, Gloranell Brown, Mr. J. G. Blain, all of McGehee, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. S. Doltroff of Bastrop.

BRIDE OF BRILLIANT WEDDING

Eliciting interest of their many friends throughout this area of the state is the wedding of Mrs. Elma Lois Williams and Mr. Edward F. Caldwell which was solemnized on Wednesday, July 13 at seven o'clock in the evening.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor P. Johnson of West Monroe was the scene of the ceremony in which the Rev. Hugh Bradshaw, pastor of the Memorial Presbyterian church, West Monroe, read the impressive double-ring service. Only members of the two families and a few close friends attended.

Floor baskets of pink asters and fern were placed at either side of the archway where the couple stood to pledge their vows.

Mrs. George Goldsberry, the bride's only attendant, wore a becoming model of dusty pink with a shoulder corsage of white glamellias. Mr. Goldsberry served the bridegroom as best man.

The bride was charming in a lovely original model of Egyptian green, trimmed with bands of lace in the same hue. Her accessories were black and white and her shoulder corsage was of orchids.

Following the wedding, a reception was held. The bride's table, overlaid with a handsome cutwork linen cloth, was centered with an arrangement of yellow asters, flanked with tall yellow tapers burning in crystal holders.

Mrs. A. A. Wallace, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Alfred Jenkins of Jackson, Miss., sister of the bride, alternated in presiding at the punch bowl at one end of the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell are now at home to their friends at 900 North Third street, Monroe.

Woodrow Turner Addresses Club

In an address to the West Monroe Lions Club Thursday night, Woodrow Turner said that the West Monroe recreation grounds had an average of 2,000 children each day participating in its playground activities. Mr. Turner also said that during the month of June, the softball diamond had approximately 18 midget league baseball games, eight girls' games and 12 Civic League games. He also asked that all parents feel free to send their children to the playground as the activities were there for them and that the program would continue until about August 15.

Other distinguished guests of the club were Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, Miss Martha Ann Scott, assistant librarian, and Miss Margie Lynch, librarian in West Monroe. Miss Lynch discussed reading as a recreation and gave the benefits of the library. Miss Flanders and Miss Scott both praised the use of the book projectors and asked all who knew of any bedridden person to call them and they would make every effort to get a projector to them.

COLLEGE NURSE COURSE PLANNED

Prospective Trainees To Get Educational Work At Northwestern

In recognition of the need for better nursing services in Louisiana and the need for better educational opportunities for prospective professional nurses, Northwestern State College of Louisiana has instituted a program of nursing, effective in September. Four hospitals in Shreveport, which have been operating hospital schools of nursing, will not enroll freshmen classes in the future. Instead they will collaborate with Northwestern in the establishment of its newly launched program.

Northwestern's program is similar in general to that of the present three-year hospital schools. During the first two semesters and the following summer session, the students will be on the Northwestern State campus studying basic sciences and the other foundation courses; during the second and third years the students will be in Shreveport receiving clinical training experience in affiliated hospitals and other health agencies and will continue under the direction and control of the nursing faculty of Northwestern State.

Upon the student's completion of the three-year program Northwestern State will issue a certificate of graduation; the graduate will be eligible to take the state examination for registration as a R. N. (registered nurse).

Northwestern will exercise complete control of the school of nursing, including its curriculum, faculty, students, facilities owned by Northwestern State College and every other educational phase of the program. Dean George T. Walker states some of the objectives of the proposed new nursing school, which is being established at the urgent request of hospitals, physicians and nurses of Shreveport. He says:

"1. There is now a shortage of nurses in terms of both quantity and quality. Northwestern State College, with the collaboration of Shreveport hospitals, is providing an improved educational program for prospective nurses better organized curricula, better qualified instructors, better educational facilities and better supervised and directed clinical experiences.

"2. The shortage of well-qualified nurses is detrimental to the general welfare of every member of society. The level of nursing in Louisiana will be raised through the establishment of the school of nursing at Northeastern State College which has education as its primary function and carries out its educational function on a professional level.

"3. The duties of professional nurses have become progressively more complex from year to year. The school of nursing has curricula which provide for a broader educational experience than has been possible in the most three-year hospital schools.

"4. The preparation of persons for a community health service, including preceptive and curative nursing, needs the guidance and direction of an institution established for the purpose of higher education hospitals and other health agencies can depend for the quality of patient care upon improved preparation of professional nurses. The Shreveport hospitals are assisting in improving the preparation of nurses and rendering a great service in the state by making their facilities available in the college program for clinical nursing practice."

Dean Walker anticipates a large registration of prospective nurses when the college opens this fall.

There will be three types of programs effective at Northwestern in September:

There will be a three-year diploma program for high school graduates who are interested in qualifying to take state examinations for the R. N. certificate.

Also a four-year program for students who are interested in qualifying to take the state examination for the R. N. certificate and who are interested in earning a B.S. degree in nursing.

And a third type program, a two-year program for registered nurses who are interested in earning a B.S. degree in nursing.

1. The admission requirements are graduation from a secondary school, public, private or parochial, approved by the Louisiana state department of education or by another recognized accrediting agency.

2. Applicants for admission who have done accredited work in colleges after high school graduation may be given advanced standing in accordance with the type and caliber of work completed.

3. A physical examination will be required as specified by the Louisiana state board of nurse examiners. The four affiliated hospitals will make the examinations without cost to prospective students.

4. The admission of married women will depend upon a close study of the family circumstances.

5. Men will also be admitted.

6. Candidates must be between the ages of 16 and 35.

There will be liberal scholarships available and further details will be available by writing the Director of Nursing, Southwestern State College, Natchitoches, La.

Lake Bruen Club House Remodeled

FERRIDAY, La., July 22.—(Special)—Remodeling of the St. Joseph Lake Bruen Club project is progressing very rapidly. The roof has already been repaired and the pier almost completed. The floor and dressing rooms are now being repaired.

A group of interested members of the various organizations of St. Joseph met at the Community House to ask their moral and financial support in the completion of this project. Mrs. John Redditt, president of the St. Joseph Improvement Council, and Mrs. A. G. Bondurant, chairman of the Child Welfare Committee, presented the project to the council.

Mayor O. N. Wilds appointed Mrs. Philip Watson, Mrs. C. B. Haddon, Mrs. A. G. Bondurant, Dr. Joseph Whitaker, and Glynn McIntosh to serve on the building committee and supervise remodeling of the club house. Mrs. John Redditt and Mayor Wilds of St. Joseph were asked to serve as ex-officio members of this committee.

Pleasant Hill Ending Revival

Dr. C. E. Autrey has just completed a revival at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church. There were 18 members added to the church roll and the services were deeply inspiring.

All who heard the sermons assured that they were deeply inspiring.

MAKES MUD NEST

When certain rivers in South Africa dry up in summer, a curious kind of fish, called mudfish, makes itself a nest in the mud and waits for the river to fill with water again.

Woodrow Turner Addresses Club

In an address to the West Monroe Lions Club Thursday night, Woodrow Turner said that the West Monroe recreation grounds had an average of 2,000 children each day participating in its playground activities. Mr. Turner also said that during the month of June, the softball diamond had approximately 18 midget league baseball games, eight girls' games and 12 Civic League games. He also asked that all parents feel free to send their children to the playground as the activities were there for them and that the program would continue until about August 15.

Other distinguished guests of the club were Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, Miss Martha Ann Scott, assistant librarian, and Miss Margie Lynch, librarian in West Monroe. Miss Lynch discussed reading as a recreation and gave the benefits of the library. Miss Flanders and Miss Scott both praised the use of the book projectors and asked all who knew of any bedridden person to call them and they would make every effort to get a projector to them.

COLLEGE NURSE COURSE PLANNED

Prospective Trainees To Get Educational Work At Northwestern

In recognition of the need for better nursing services in Louisiana and the need for better educational opportunities for prospective professional nurses, Northwestern State College of Louisiana has instituted a program of nursing, effective in September. Four hospitals in Shreveport, which have been operating hospital schools of nursing, will not enroll freshmen classes in the future. Instead they will collaborate with Northwestern in the establishment of its newly launched program.

Northwestern's program is similar in general to that of the present three-year hospital schools. During the first two semesters and the following summer session, the students will be on the Northwestern State campus studying basic sciences and the other foundation courses; during the second and third years the students will be in Shreveport receiving clinical training experience in affiliated hospitals and other health agencies and will continue under the direction and control of the nursing faculty of Northwestern State.

Upon the student's completion of the three-year program Northwestern State will issue a certificate of graduation; the graduate will be eligible to take the state examination for registration as a R. N. (registered nurse).

Northwestern will exercise complete control of the school of nursing, including its curriculum, faculty, students, facilities owned by Northwestern State College and every other educational phase of the program. Dean George T. Walker states some of the objectives of the proposed new nursing school, which is being established at the urgent request of hospitals, physicians and nurses of Shreveport. He says:

"1. There is now a shortage of nurses in terms of both quantity and quality. Northwestern State College, with the collaboration of Shreveport hospitals, is providing an improved educational program for prospective nurses better organized curricula, better qualified instructors, better educational facilities and better supervised and directed clinical experiences.

"2. The shortage of well-qualified nurses is detrimental to the general welfare of every member of society. The level of nursing in Louisiana will be raised through the establishment of the school of nursing at Northeastern State College which has education as its primary function and carries out its educational function on a professional level.

"3. The duties of professional nurses have become progressively more complex from year to year. The school of nursing has curricula which provide for a broader educational experience than has been possible in the most three-year hospital schools.

"4. The preparation of persons for a community health service, including preceptive and curative nursing, needs the guidance and direction of an institution established for the purpose of higher education hospitals and other health agencies can depend for the quality of patient care upon improved preparation of professional nurses. The Shreveport hospitals are assisting in improving the preparation of nurses and rendering a great service in the state by making their facilities available in the college program for clinical nursing practice."

Dean Walker anticipates a large registration of prospective nurses when the college opens this fall.

There will be three types of programs effective at Northwestern in September:

There will be a three-year diploma program for high school graduates who are interested in qualifying to take state examinations for the R. N. certificate.

Also a four-year program for students who are interested in qualifying to take the state examination for the R. N. certificate and who are interested in earning a B.S. degree in nursing.

And a third type program, a two-year program for registered nurses who are interested in earning a B.S. degree in nursing.

1. The admission requirements are graduation from a secondary school, public, private or parochial, approved by the Louisiana state department of education or by another recognized accrediting agency.

2. Applicants for admission who have done accredited work in colleges after high school graduation may be given advanced standing in accordance with the type and caliber of work completed.

3. A physical examination will be required as specified by the Louisiana state board of nurse examiners. The four affiliated hospitals will make the examinations without cost to prospective students.

4. The admission of married women will depend upon a close study of the family circumstances.

5. Men will also be admitted.

6. Candidates must be between the ages of 16 and 35.

There will be liberal scholarships available and further details will be available by writing the Director of Nursing, Southwestern State College, Natchitoches, La.

Let Reading Win A Certificate For You, Says Frances Flanders

Parish Public Library Sees Fine Results In Plan Sponsored By State Library

Reading for a certificate is one of the projects for adults which the Louisiana State Library sponsors annually. As a basis for earning this award, the library issues a list of current non-fiction titles according to groups so that the reader may select from a particular group a book which appeals to him.

Lists for each year's reading must be submitted before October 25. These are distributed, books are borrowed and the titles read are all handled through the various parish libraries. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is making a special effort to interest people in earning certificates this year, Miss Frances Flanders, librarian, said.

A great deal of interest is being shown in the project, she added for 170 adults in the parish are working toward certificates. Thirty-four have completed their requirements and many are almost through.

The current list is called "Blueprint for Reading." Books are arranged in nine divisions, according to subject. Since twelve volumes are required, there remains a choice of three extra books from any group in which the patron is interested, Miss Flanders explained.

The first class, travel and adventure, offers a selection of twenty-one titles. One of the most popular is "New Song in a Strange Land" by Esther Warner. It deals with customs and folk tales of Liberia. Another well-liked book is "Eskimo Doctor" by Aage Gilberg, a young Danish medical student, who tells how he and his bride spent more than a year working, seeing the country, and becoming acquainted with the Eskimos of the Arctic Circle.

Titles comprising the biography and memoir group offer a choice of twenty-eight books. "Patrick Calls Me Mother," by Ann Barley is a moving story of the way she adopted a war orphan. "With Much Love" by Anne Green is a delightful account of a most amazing family, and carries the reader from old Savannah to Paris. "Maria, the Potter of San Ildefonso" by A. L. Marriott is the interesting life story of a Pueblo Indian woman who is famed for her black pottery.

Books listed under the class, psychology and self-improvement, include many written in a popular manner, Miss Flanders commented. "Life Is For Living" by Dorothy Cameron is a reasonable interpretation of the moralities and motives which influence our lives. "How To Stop Worrying and Start Living" by Dale Carnegite is the most widely read of the entire group.

Works dealing with religion and philosophy include "The Bible Today" by C. H. Dodd. This is considered an excellent history of the Bible and the cause of its influence through the ages. The fifth group of titles deals with home making, hobbies and the like. "I Love My Doctor" by Evelyn Barkins is a humorous book dealing with experiences of a young girl who married a doctor. "Stop Annoying Your Children" by W. W. Bauer is challenging for parents. Its theme is: Parents should stop setting their children a bad example today and punishing them tomorrow for following it.

The sixth class of volumes deals with America today and yesterday. A popular title in this group is "The Hatfields and the McCoys," the story of the famed Kentucky-West Virginia family feud that lasted for more than sixty years. "A Ghost Town on the Yellowstone" by E. H. Paul concerns a frontier town in Montana which was founded as a result of a stage coach accident in 1907.

In the group pertaining to history and international impressions is "Russia and the Russians" by Edward Crankshaw. It is a thoughtful study of the U. S. R. R. Another title is "Latin America: Continent in Crisis" by Ray Josephs. The author gives a readable factual of the cultural, social, political financial and economic aspects of the nine Latin American countries.

One of the most interestering titles in the science and nature books is "Road to Survival" by William Vogt. Every person who wonders what is wrong with the world today should read Mr. Vot's work, Miss Flanders asserted.

In the classification of literature and fine arts are to be found Mark Van Doren's new beautiful poems. There also is an excellent collection of adventure stories, "The Lure of Danger" by Margaret Scoggin.

The titles listed for certificate reading may be borrowed from any of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

OLLA

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaines, Mike and Bobby Lynn have returned from Baton Rouge where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dulaney and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Heaton. While there Mr. Gaines attended the American Legion convention.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Meador left this week on vacation in Hot Springs. En route they will visit Mr. and Mrs. George Wesson in Little Rock.

Leo Baker, of Tullos, is a patient in the LaSalle Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Smith are leaving soon on a motor trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Alice Teddlie is the guest of her brother, Don Towsley, and family, of New Iberia.

College students from Northwestern State College spent the week end here with relatives. They were Elaine Harris, Francis Elliott and Paula McDaniel.

Recent guests of Mrs. Laura Zeagler in Monroe were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Prestridge and Mrs. Kate Elliott, of Olla.

MRS. HERMAN KENDRITH BEEBE

Before her marriage on Friday, July 8, Mrs. Beebe was Miss Mary Grace Womack, daughter of Mrs. William Dawson Womack of Chatham and the late Mr. Womack. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Silas Beebe of Boyce. The evening ceremony, solemnized in the home of the bride's mother, was followed by a reception. The couple are presently making their home in St. Joseph where Mr. Beebe holds the position of assistant parish agricultural agent.

MRS. WILLIAM EDWARD DUNN

The wedding of the former Miss Charlene Hill of New Orleans, formerly of Monroe, took place recently in the Jesuit rectory of New Orleans, with Father Walsh, S. J., officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Charles Hill and the late Mrs. Marie Louise Hurst Hill. Her relatives here include Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Hill, grandparents, and Mrs. G. F. Breard, her aunt. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Dunn of Hammond.

MISS MARY GRACE WOMACK MARRIED TO HERMAN K. BEEBE AT CHATHAM

White gladioli and tall white tapers in candelabra formed the setting for the wedding of Miss Mary Grace Womack and Mr. Herman Kendrith Beebe at eight o'clock in the evening of Friday, July 8 in the home of the bride's mother of Chatham. The Rev. J. T. Garrett, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Dawson Womack and the late Mr. Womack and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Beebe of Boyce.

Only relatives and close friends attended the wedding which was marked by beauty of detail. The couple stood before the large mantel in the reception room to exchange their vows. It bore an artistic fan-shaped arrangement of white gladioli flanked by white tapers in candelabra that were festooned with glistening magnolia leaves and white satin ribbon. Floor standards overflowing with gladioli and fern were placed on either side to complete the beautiful improvised altar.

Pre-nuptial music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Tullos of Chatham, who also played the traditional marches for the processional and the recessional.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Ronnie Edward Cannon of Beaumont, Texas, was her only attendant. She wore a soft blue linen dress fashioned with inserts of heavy lace and matching hat. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mr. Harold Beebe served his brother as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Dawson Womack, Jr., was wearing a navy faille suit with a sheer white blouse trimmed in lace and a white corsage. The smart tailleur was complete with a white hat and gloves and navy shoes and bag.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the home of the bride's mother, who wore a pink linen dress with lace trimming and a corsage of deep pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a pastel print and a corsage of orchid asters.

The bride's table was centered with a tiered cake encircled by white satin frills and sprays of white gladioli were further used in artistic fashion to enhance the effect.

Punch was served by Mrs. John Carroll of Monroe, who wore brown crepe, and Mrs. Baskin Tullos of Chatham, who was dressed in blue crepe. Serving a variety of confections was Mrs. McDonald Giffen who chose a gray linen frock.

Mrs. Beebe graduated from the Chatham High School and attended Northeast Junior College. Mr. Beebe graduated from the Boyce High School and Louisiana State University.

The couple are residing in St. Joseph where Mr. Beebe is assistant parish agricultural agent.

Clipping Pasture Deadline Is Set

FERRIDAY, La., July 22.—(Special)—July 30 is the final date for applying for assistance for clipping pastures, Miss Marie Saxe, parish supervisor, agricultural conservation program, states.

Farmers who expect to carry out this practice are urged to make applications for prior approval as soon as possible.

George A. Murray of Vidalia, parish chairman of the agricultural conservation committee, urged farmers to obtain assistance in seeding grasses and legumes and in obtaining lime, phosphate and potash to improve growing conditions.

Instead of piling up wasteful surpluses in cribs, bins, cellars, or warehouses, Murray stated, they should be stored in the soil. It is not in the national interest to leave land idle since it grows up to weeds and becomes a menace to the rest of the farmland, he pointed out.

About the only alternative is to seed the land to adapted grasses and legumes, thus building up the soil for future production, Murray said.

Catahoulans Ask For Gravel Road

JONESVILLE, La., July 22.—(Special)—Many Catahoula residents this week signed a petition requesting construction and graveling of a road to a point in the parish hitherto served only by waterways. The point lies between the Tensas and Ouachita rivers, a short distance from where they join with Little river to form the Black river at Jonesville.

The petition, which will be presented to Gov. Earl K. Long, State Sen. R. E. King and the state department of highways, asks for a gravel road from Tensas Point to connect with existing state highways in the northeastern part of Catahoula. The petition states that the road is "necessary due to the many people who live in this area and their children of school age, who have no means of getting to any town except by boat."

United States exports in the first ten months of 1948 declined 27 per cent from the corresponding period in 1947.

Farm Loan Group Will Meet Soon

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., July 23.—(Special)—The East Carroll National Farm Loan Association's annual meeting will be at the parish court house in Lake Providence on Wednesday, July 27 at 10 a. m.

James S. Green, secretary and treasurer, states that the 155 members will receive checks for dividend payments representing 6 per cent return on investments which indicate the strong financial condition of the association and totals $2,134.50.

W. D. Brown, president of the East Carroll association, gives the plans for the meeting as the biggest and best the association has ever held in the parish.

Rev. A. A. Collins, pastor of the First Methodist Church will give the invocation. Prof. David Amacker, former faculty member at Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., will inform on "International Affairs," and Fred J. Hurst of New Orleans, director of information for the farm credit administration will stress "Building a Strong National Farm Loan Association."

Two directors will be elected from the parish to serve on the board with Eugene V. Parker of Sondheimer. Roy Burgess of Monticello, and F. H. Schneider, Jr., and L. B. Atlas of Lake Providence.

Building Permits

Permission was granted Lloyd Everett to add to a dwelling at 605 Morton street. Cost will be held to $350 by use of old material and owner will do work.

Raymon Moore will construct a residence at 408 Florida street. Cost will be $4,850 and T. A. Sanders Lumber Company will be contractors.

P. G. Marine was granted permission to erect a dwelling at 4013 Spurgeon drive. Cost will be $6,000 and day labor will be used.

Mrs. Marguarete Costanza was granted permission to erect two duplex apartment buildings, one at 206 North 14th and one at the rear of 411 Wood street. Total cost will be $2,100 and day labor will be used on both buildings.

The earliest known plan of profit-sharing was introduced by a French fire insurance company in 1820.

DODSON

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Brown and son, of Haynesville, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Gates and Mrs. Ella Mixon.

Mrs. Kenneth Parker and Becky, of Dallas, spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Temple.

Mrs. Ida Whiteow had as a recent guest, J. R. Low, of Childress, Tex., a relative she had not seen in 35 years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Braush and son, of Bastrop, visited Mr. and Mrs. House, Dodson.

Miss Laura Tempee has returned from a visit with her brother, Judson Temple, and family in Jamestown, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Puckett and children, of Lafayette, visited Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Payne recently.

William Matthews, of Friendship, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Lizzie Sanders, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Peddie, of Waskom, Tex., spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Pennington.

Miss Bobbie J. Karnegay, of Northwestern State College, and Jack Emmons, of Tech, spent last week end at home.

Rev. J. F. Waitman, Jr., and family and his mother, Mrs. J. F. Waitman, visited in the home of Mrs. J. M. Gaar last week.

Marriott is the interesting life story of a Pueblo Indian woman who is famed for her black pottery.

Books listed under the class, psychology and self-improvement, include many written in a popular manner, Miss Flanders commented. "Life Is For Living" by Dorothy Cameron is a reasonable interpretation of the moralities and motives which influence our lives. "How To Stop Worrying and Start Living" by Dale Carnegite is the most widely read of the entire group.

Works dealing with religion and philosophy include "The Bible Today" by C. H. Dodd. This is considered an excellent history of the Bible and the cause of its influence through the ages. The fifth group of tities deals with home making, hobbies and the like. "I Love My Doctor" by Evelyn Barkins is a humorous book dealing with experiences of a young girl who married a doctor. "Stop Annoying Your Children" by W. W. Bauer is challenging for parents. Its theme is: Parents should stop setting their children a bad example today and punishing them tomorrow for following it.

The sixth class of volumes deals with America today and yesterday. A popular title in this group is "The Hatfields and the McCoys," the story of the famed Kentucky-West Virginia family feud that lasted for more than sixty years. "A Ghost Town on the Yellowstone" by E. H. Paul concerns a frontier town in Montana which was founded as a result of a stage coach accident in 1907.

In the group pertaining to history and international impressions is "Russia and the Russians" by Edward Crankshaw. It is a thoughtful study of the U. S. R. R. Another title is "Latin America: Continent in Crisis" by Ray Josephs. The author gives a readable factual of the cultural, social, political financial and economic aspects of the nine Latin American countries.

One of the most interestering titles in the science and nature books is "Road to Survival" by William Vogt. Every person who wonders what is wrong with the world today should read Mr. Vot's work, Miss Flanders asserted.

In the classification of literature and fine arts are to be found Mark Van Doren's new beautiful poems. There also is an excellent collection of adventure stories, "The Lure of Danger" by Margaret Scoggin.

The titles listed for certificate reading may be borrowed from any of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

OLLA

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaines, Mike and Bobby Lynn have returned from Baton Rouge where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dulaney and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Heaton. While there Mr. Gaines attended the American Legion convention.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Meador left this week on vacation in Hot Springs. En route they will visit Mr. and Mrs. George Wesson in Little Rock.

Leo Baker, of Tullos, is a patient in the LaSalle Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Smith are leaving soon on a motor trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Alice Teddlie is the guest of her brother, Don Towsley, and family, of New Iberia.

College students from Northwestern State College spent the week end here with relatives. They were Elaine Harris, Francis Elliott and Paula McDaniel.

Recent guests of Mrs. Laura Zeagler in Monroe were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Prestridge and Mrs. Kate Elliott, of Olla.

MRS. HERMAN KENDRITH BEEBE

Before her marriage on Friday, July 8, Mrs. Beebe was Miss Mary Grace Womack, daughter of Mrs. William Dawson Womack of Chatham and the late Mr. Womack. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Silas Beebe of Boyce. The evening ceremony, solemnized in the home of the bride's mother, was followed by a reception. The couple are presently making their home in St. Joseph where Mr. Beebe holds the position of assistant parish agricultural agent.

MRS. WILLIAM EDWARD DUNN

The wedding of the former Miss Charlene Hill of New Orleans, formerly of Monroe, took place recently in the Jesuit rectory of New Orleans, with Father Walsh, S. J., officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Charles Hill and the late Mrs. Marie Louise Hurst Hill. Her relatives here include Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Hill, grandparents, and Mrs. G. F. Breard, her aunt. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Dunn of Hammond.

MISS MARY GRACE WOMACK MARRIED TO HERMAN K. BEEBE AT CHATHAM

White gladioli and tall white tapers in candelabra formed the setting for the wedding of Miss Mary Grace Womack and Mr. Herman Kendrith Beebe at eight o'clock in the evening of Friday, July 8 in the home of the bride's mother of Chatham. The Rev. J. T. Garrett, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William Dawson Womack and the late Mr. Womack and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Beebe of Boyce.

Only relatives and close friends attended the wedding which was marked by beauty of detail. The couple stood before the large mantel in the reception room to exchange their vows. It bore an artistic fan-shaped arrangement of white gladioli flanked by white tapers in candelabra that were festooned with glistening magnolia leaves and white satin ribbon. Floor standards overflowing with gladioli and fern were placed on either side to complete the beautiful improvised altar.

Pre-nuptial music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Tullos of Chatham, who also played the traditional marches for the processional and the recessional.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Ronnie Edward Cannon of Beaumont, Texas, was her only attendant. She wore a soft blue linen dress fashioned with inserts of heavy lace and matching hat. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mr. Harold Beebe served his brother as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Dawson Womack, Jr., was wearing a navy faille suit with a sheer white blouse trimmed in lace and a white corsage. The smart tailleur was complete with a white hat and gloves and navy shoes and bag.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the home of the bride's mother, who wore a pink linen dress with lace trimming and a corsage of deep pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a pastel print and a corsage of orchid asters.

The bride's table was centered with a tiered cake encircled by white satin frills and sprays of white gladioli were further used in artistic fashion to enhance the effect.

Punch was served by Mrs. John Carroll of Monroe, who wore brown crepe, and Mrs. Baskin Tullos of Chatham, who was dressed in blue crepe. Serving a variety of confections was Mrs. McDonald Giffen who chose a gray linen frock.

Mrs. Beebe graduated from the Chatham High School and attended Northeast Junior College. Mr. Beebe graduated from the Boyce High School and Louisiana State University.

The couple are residing in St. Joseph where Mr. Beebe is assistant parish agricultural agent.

Clipping Pasture Deadline Is Set

FERRIDAY, La., July 22.—(Special)—July 30 is the final date for applying for assistance for clipping pastures, Miss Marie Saxe, parish supervisor, agricultural conservation program, states.

Farmers who expect to carry out this practice are urged to make applications for prior approval as soon as possible.

George A. Murray of Vidalia, parish chairman of the agricultural conservation committee, urged farmers to obtain assistance in seeding grasses and legumes and in obtaining lime, phosphate and potash to improve growing conditions.

Instead of piling up wasteful surpluses in cribs, bins, cellars, or warehouses, Murray stated, they should be stored in the soil. It is not in the national interest to leave land idle since it grows up to weeds and becomes a menace to the rest of the farmland, he pointed out.

About the only alternative is to seed the land to adapted grasses and legumes, thus building up the soil for future production, Murray said.

Catahoulans Ask For Gravel Road

JONESVILLE, La., July 22.—(Special)—Many Catahoula residents this week signed a petition requesting construction and graveling of a road to a point in the parish hitherto served only by waterways. The point lies between the Tensas and Ouachita rivers, a short distance from where they join with Little river to form the Black river at Jonesville.

The petition, which will be presented to Gov. Earl K. Long, State Sen. R. E. King and the state department of highways, asks for a gravel road from Tensas Point to connect with existing state highways in the northeastern part of Catahoula. The petition states that the road is "necessary due to the many people who live in this area and their children of school age, who have no means of getting to any town except by boat."

United States exports in the first ten months of 1948 declined 27 per cent from the corresponding period in 1947.

Farm Loan Group Will Meet Soon

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., July 23.—(Special)—The East Carroll National Farm Loan Association's annual meeting will be at the parish court house in Lake Providence on Wednesday, July 27 at 10 a. m.

James S. Green, secretary and treasurer, states that the 155 members will receive checks for dividend payments representing 6 per cent return on investments which indicate the strong financial condition of the association and totals $2,134.50.

W. D. Brown, president of the East Carroll association, gives the plans for the meeting as the biggest and best the association has ever held in the parish.

Rev. A. A. Collins, pastor of the First Methodist Church will give the invocation. Prof. David Amacker, former faculty member at Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., will inform on "International Affairs," and Fred J. Hurst of New Orleans, director of information for the farm credit administration will stress "Building a Strong National Farm Loan Association."

Two directors will be elected from the parish to serve on the board with Eugene V. Parker of Sondheimer, Roy Burgess of Monticello, and F. H. Schneider, Jr., and L. B. Atlas of Lake Providence.

Building Permits

Permission was granted Lloyd Everett to add to a dwelling at 605 Morton street. Cost will be held to $350 by use of old material and owner will do work.

Raymon Moore will construct a residence at 408 Florida street. Cost will be $4,850 and T. A. Sanders Lumber Company will be contractors.

P. G. Marine was granted permission to erect a dwelling at 4013 Spurgeon drive. Cost will be $6,000 and day labor will be used.

Mrs. Marguarete Costanza was granted permission to erect two duplex apartment buildings, one at 206 North 14th and one at the rear of 411 Wood street. Total cost will be $2,100 and day labor will be used on both buildings.

The earliest known plan of profit-sharing was introduced by a French fire insurance company in 1820.

DODSON

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Brown and son, of Haynesville, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Gates and Mrs. Ella Mixon.

Mrs. Kenneth Parker and Becky, of Dallas, spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Temple.

Mrs. Ida Whiteow had as a recent guest, J. R. Low, of Childress, Tex., a relative she had not seen in 35 years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Braush and son, of Bastrop, visited Mr. and Mrs. House, Dodson.

Miss Laura Tempee has returned from a visit with her brother, Judson Temple, and family in Jamestown, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Puckett and children, of Lafayette, visited Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Payne recently.

William Matthews, of Friendship, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Lizzie Sanders, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Peddie, of Waskom, Tex., spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Pennington.

Miss Bobbie J. Karnegay, of Northwestern State College, and Jack Emmons, of Tech, spent last week end at home.

Rev. J. F. Waitman, Jr., and family and his mother, Mrs. J. F. Waitman, visited in the home of Mrs. J. M. Gaar last week.

Communism in Russia deserves to be measured over against the intolerable tyranny and oppression of the Czars; it may even be a step in advance of that which it replaced.

But Communism within the United States is quite a different thing. Here it appears as a threat to that great good that we call democracy: and worse still, it seeks to overthrow the Christian religion which has been the sure foundation of our freedom and our integrity. Toward Communism in Russia we may take an attitude of sympathy, hoping that a great nation will move on to higher ground, though we recognize the right of the Russian people to choose their own political and economic system. So we say to each other, "Hands off" of the internal affairs of other nations. But we ought to be mightily concerned with the appearance of Communism in the U. S. A. Perhaps here, however, we ought to be on our guard against the reality rather than the name. It is one thing to belong to the Communist Party, which looks us squarely in the face and announces its position. It is quite another and a more dangerous thing to be a Communist and not let it be known. It is the under cover Communism which threatens us most.

Communism sets itself up as a religion, denying God and the Christian Faith; it would close the doors of the Church. Do you support the Church, or could its doors close so far as you are concerned? There are sixty million people in this country who are not members of any Church; they are the Communists we should fear. Godless women and men, intent on themselves or some political party as the chief good, irreverent and devoted to material ends—these are the Communists whom we Americans should fear and seek to change.

Miss Lurline Elaine Bacon And Max Brodnax, Jr., Are Wed

North Louisiana Couple United In Evening Ceremony At Mer Rouge Methodist Church

The First Methodist church of Mer Rouge was the scene of the wedding of Miss Lurline Elaine Bacon and Mr. Max Broadnax, Jr., which was solemnized at eight o'clock in the evening of July 1, with the Rev. Douglas Williams officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Donald Bacon of Mer Rouge and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Broadnax of Bastrop.

Soft greenery and frosted sprays of shrubbery outlined the altar and windows of the church. Baskets of white daisies, frosted fern and greenery were employed in the setting for the exchange of nuptial vows, and branched candelabra holding burning tapers added to the effectiveness.

The candles were lighted by Donald Bacon, brother of the bride, and John Coats III.

Mr. William Huckaby gave a prenuptial concert of organ music and he accompanied Misses Genevieve and Dorothy White, who sang "Through the Years," and Mrs. Hubert Sims who rendered "My Hero," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Attending Miss Bacon as her matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Warren Shelby White, Jr. Another sister, Miss Donna Bacon, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Marie Windsor and Miss Jo Ann Bell, and the flower girl was the bride's cousin, Lenna Armstrong.

They wore identically styled dresses of organza in rainbow shades fashioned with off-the-shoulder bodices with deep shawl collars. The waists and full skirts were adorned with appliqued flowers. They carried old-fashioned bouquets of rainbow daisies and wore crescents of these blossoms in their hair. The flower girl carried a basket of rainbow ribbons filled with rose petals.

Serving as best man was the groom's brother, Mr. Lewis Brodnax, and the ushers and groomsmen were Messers Donald Bacon, John Coats IV, Robert Davis and Duke Shackleford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of satin designed with low neckline outlined in seed pearls, and long tight sleeves which formed points over the wrist. Her veil of illusion fell from a coronet of pearls, and her bouquet was designed of white asters and dahlias, centered with a purple-throated orchid, and cascades of satin streamers with tube roses.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bacon entertained at a reception in their home. The hostess was wearing a rose crepe gown and a corsage of ping roses and tube roses. Mrs. Brodnax, mother of the groom, was attired in a pink lace gown with which she wore a corsage of roses.

White daisies were used throughout the reception rooms. In the dining room, the bride's table was centered with a cake in the form of a beautiful wedding ring. The buffet featured two white satin rings, studded with daisies and festooned with gladioli and fern.

Mrs. Roy Windsor presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Blanche Morrow, Miss Bonnie Jean Ginn, Miss Norma Jean Evans, Miss Nellwyn Jacobs, Mrs. G. A. White and Mrs. William Morrow assisted in serving.

Assisting in the courtesies of the evening were Mrs. G. A. Hume, Mrs. Elaine Armstrong, Mrs. C. C. Davenport, Mrs. Hugo Davenport, Mrs. C. B. Flinn, Mrs. Jessie Graves, Miss Thelma Powell and Mrs. Shelby White.

For their wedding trip to New Orleans and other places of interest in south Louisiana, the bride wore a suit of biege alpaca and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Brodnax attended Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. Mr. Brodnax also attended L. S. U. He served as a lieutenant in the U. S. army air forces during World War II.

Bossier Band Accomplishes Feat Which Lee Never Did

WASHINGTON, July 23. — (AP) — When the Bossier City, La., 85-piece high school band was in Washington recently the boys and girls succeeded in doing something general Robert E. Lee never accomplished.

They planted the confederate flag on the capitol grounds.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D.-La.) obtained permission for the band to play a concert on the bandstand in front of the east capitol steps—where the U. S. navy, army and marine bands give weekly concerts.

As the boys and girls got ready, they unpacked the flags they carry for stage decorations. These include American, Louisiana, Bossier City and confederate flags.

The boys hesitated at putting the confederate flag on the stage.

"Oh go on, put it up," urged Rep. Brooks. "We're just a bunch of rebels around here anyway."

So up went the flag and it waved in the breeze for nearly an hour.

That concert in front of the historic capitol was one of the high spots of the entire trip for most of the young musicians.

"Several of them told me it was the biggest thrill of their lives," Brooks related. "One boy got so excited he become ill and couldn't play—had to sit in the car."

The crack band was to have played for an hour but showers cut the time a little short and the youngsters didn't get to finish off with "The Star Spangled Banner."

"It is one of our best pieces, too," mourned one of the group.

Rep. and Mrs. Brooks were highly pleased with the impression the group made in Washington. The manager of the hotel where the youngsters stayed complimented them on their excellent behavior.

The band went from Washington to New York to represent Louisiana at the International Lions convention. In New York it played in Madison Square Garden.

The group traveled in three air-conditioned buses. With chaperones and directors, the group numbered 108 persons.

Harold Ramsey is director and Kenneth Green assistant director for the band. With the group was Mrs. Huffman Fuller, wife of the Bossier City mayor.

DOROTHY DIX

Slovenly Housekeeper

Children Often Blamed For Mother's Innate Laziness

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for three years and have a sweet baby girl. Even before the baby came my wife and I quarreled over her slovenly housekeeping and untidiness. Still, then she would make an effort to clean up for a while, but now she just lets everything go and uses the baby for an ilibi. I am able to afford one servant for her. What can I do?

SALESMAN

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: If a woman is just naturally trifling and lazy and slovenly, she is incurable. She will always love her ease better than anything else on earth and no consideration of her family's comfort will galvanize her into action. The only thing that a man cursed with that kind of wife can do is to make enough money to hire a good maid who will make him a comfortable home in which to live.

There are some faults in a wife that a husband can correct if he goes about it with tact and firmness, but he wastes his time trying to reform a lazy one. There is nothing in her to which he can appeal. She has no sense of duty, or else she would realize that she isn't playing fair in not being a good housekeeper. She has no sense of pride, or else she would be ashamed to go sloppy and untidily dressed and to keep a house that looks like a pigsty. Hence the man with such a wife must either get rid of her or make up his mind to endure her as she is. He can never change her.

As for your wife making an alibi of the baby, that's a common feminine practice. Thousands of women use their children as a standing excuse for everything they do and leave undone.

Plenty of women simply slump after the first baby is born. They let themselves go untidy. They don't even comb their hair or put on a decent dress for dinner. They never read any more. They give up their music or their painting or whatever accomplishments they had. They drop out of their old clubs and associations and get dull and unattractive and lose all their old graces and charms.

And the excuse they offer for it is the baby. They make a smoke screen of the poor little mite in the cradle, behind which they hide their indolence and general lack of pep and ambition. Also this supermother devotion saves their faces because it sounds grand and noble for them to be devoting themselves to their children.

But in reality, it is only a subterfuge. It is a lazy woman hiding behind the baby's pinafore, because any woman who wants to finds time to take care of her children adn do everything else she desires to do. As is witnessed by the myriads of women who are model mothers and housewives and yet frequent beauty shops and belong to clubs and play golf and help run the communities in which they live.

But as a standing excuse there is nothing equal to a baby.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think about the married woman who makes a personal friend out of another woman's husband and makes him handsome presents, but makes no effort to be friendly with his wife? Naturally the wife objects, displays jealousy, which results in her husband lying about the gifts he receives. What should the wife do?

JANE

ANSWER: I think a married woman who tries to take another woman's husband away from her commits one of the most cruel and dastardly crimes in the world, for she is ruthlessly breaking up a home just to gratify her own vanity and to get a thrill out of the flirtation.

But a woman can't have much confidence in her charms if she feels that she has to woo a man with expensive gifts. Evidently your husband is not in love with her for her own sake, but he puts himself in a very contemptible position when he becomes a sort of male gold-digger.

The only thing you can do is to sit tight and to hide your jealousy. You will get nowhere by making scenes and reproaching him with his affair, but you might shame him out of it by making him see what a ridiculous position he is putting himself in if you would laugh and point out his presents to your friends and make a few wisecracks about them.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 26 years old and my husband is 27. We were secretly married in December. I have learned that he is running around with women of bad character. He justifies himself in this by saying that it is his right. I have been raised in a Puritan home with very rigid ideas about marriage and divorce and find it difficult to believe that all men are untrue to their wives, as my husband says they are. I am thinking of getting a divorce, as there is no home or children for us to break up I am making my own living. Please advise me.

DISAPPOINTED

ANSWER: It is not true that all men are unfaithful to their wives. There are plenty of husbands who are just as true to their wives as their wives are to them. Perhaps every man who really loves his wife is loyal to her. Certainly a husband of a few months' standing cares very little for his wife if he has already begun to roam.

You have little chance of happiness married to such a man

BAPTISTS PLAN ON CELEBRATING

Parkview Church To Mark Anniversary; Has Had Healthy Growth

Parkview Baptist Church, established three years ago with 32 members, today has 183 members and more are being added constantly. Today marks the third anniversary of this church. The first services were held through courtesy of the city of Monroe and Miss Myrtle Rodgers in Georgia Tucker school auditorium. In course of time the new modern church edifice on Forsythe avenue at Willow street, was erected and occupied.

This structure now stands, state members, as testimony to the many blessings bestowed. It is the first unit of three which will be required to complete the church plan. Completion of the project is planned for a later date and after all the refinements have been completed on the first unit.

The history of the church is of interest. On July 21, just three years ago, Rev. Colon P. Coaker had just about completed plans for a north side Baptist church. After much preliminary work on his part and the loyal few, the church was established in the school building. But advice and valuable assistance was given by Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who was a great force in directing the course of the new church. He and the other leaders enjoined: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God" and with this spirit predominant in the hearts and minds of men and women, material things were properly evaluated.

There will be a suitable service held today to mark another milestone on the path of progress, it is stated. As the pastor and his followers view it, the task now requires a re-dedication of hearts and souls to Christ and the saving of souls that are yet outside of the fold.

The public is cordially invited to attend all services of this church today. They are invited to bring a lunch and go with the group to the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home after church. Out there will be found a cool shady screened place to eat and visit. Plenty of cold drinks will be available without charge and the youngsters will be able to play in safety in a place provided for them.

Miss Lurline Elaine Bacon And Max Brodnax, Jr., Are Wed

North Louisiana Couple United In Evening Ceremony At Mer Rouge Methodist Church

The First Methodist church of Mer Rouge was the scene of the wedding of Miss Lurline Elaine Bacon and Mr. Max Broadnax, Jr., which was solemnized at eight o'clock in the evening of July 1, with the Rev. Douglas Williams officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Donald Bacon of Mer Rouge and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Broadnax of Bastrop.

Soft greenery and frosted sprays of shrubbery outlined the altar and windows of the church. Baskets of white daisies, frosted fern and greenery were employed in the setting for the exchange of nuptial vows, and branched candelabra holding burning tapers added to the effectiveness.

The candles were lighted by Donald Bacon, brother of the bride, and John Coats III.

Mr. William Huckaby gave a prenuptial concert of organ music and he accompanied Misses Genevieve and Dorothy White, who sang "Through the Years," and Mrs. Hubert Sims who rendered "My Hero," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Attending Miss Bacon as her matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Warren Shelby White, Jr. Another sister, Miss Donna Bacon, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Marie Windsor and Miss Jo Ann Bell, and the flower girl was the bride's cousin, Lenna Armstrong.

They wore identically styled dresses of organza in rainbow shades fashioned with off-the-shoulder bodices with deep shawl collars. The waists and full skirts were adorned with appliqued flowers. They carried old-fashioned bouquets of rainbow daisies and wore crescents of these blossoms in their hair. The flower girl carried a basket of rainbow ribbons filled with rose petals.

Serving as best man was the groom's brother, Mr. Lewis Brodnax, and the ushers and groomsmen were Messers Donald Bacon, John Coats IV, Robert Davis and Duke Shackleford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of satin designed with low neckline outlined in seed pearls, and long tight sleeves which formed points over the wrist. Her veil of illusion fell from a coronet of pearls, and her bouquet was designed of white asters and dahlias, centered with a purple-throated orchid, and cascades of satin streamers with tube roses.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bacon entertained at a reception in their home. The hostess was wearing a rose crepe gown and a corsage of ping roses and tube roses. Mrs. Brodnax, mother of the groom, was attired in a pink lace gown with which she wore a corsage of roses.

White daisies were used throughout the reception rooms. In the dining room, the bride's table was centered with a cake in the form of a beautiful wedding ring. The buffet featured two white satin rings, studded with daisies and festooned with gladioli and fern.

Mrs. Roy Windsor presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Blanche Morrow, Miss Bonnie Jean Ginn, Miss Norma Jean Evans, Miss Nellwyn Jacobs, Mrs. G. A. White and Mrs. William Morrow assisted in serving.

Assisting in the courtesies of the evening were Mrs. G. A. Hume, Mrs. Elaine Armstrong, Mrs. C. C. Davenport, Mrs. Hugo Davenport, Mrs. C. B. Flinn, Mrs. Jessie Graves, Miss Thelma Powell and Mrs. Shelby White.

For their wedding trip to New Orleans and other places of interest in south Louisiana, the bride wore a suit of biege alpaca and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Brodnax attended Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. Mr. Brodnax also attended L. S. U. He served as a lieutenant in the U. S. army air forces during World War II.

THREE ARRESTED IN AUTO THEFTS

Two Ouachita Parish Youths And Oklahoman Are Accused

Two Ouachita parish youths and an Oklahoman were in parish jail today under charges of auto theft after stealing two cars on a wild dash over three states.

Held were Elmer Leo Foy, 19, Dooleyville, and George Traylor, Sterlington, and Jack Baker, Oklahoma. Foy was charged additionally with simple burglary, with bond set at $1,500 on each charge. Traylor and Baker are under $1,500 bond each.

The three were arrested in Shreveport by city police Thursday while trying to sell a 1947 Dodge automobile for $800. Sheriff Bailey Grant and Deputy Kirby were called to Shreveport after preliminary investigation revealed that Foy and Traylor lived here.

Under questioning by Sheriff Grant the trio admitted taking a 1947 Pontiac from Pickens Motor Co., 314 Walnut street, at the height of the Monday night auto show. They drove the vehicle to Parkdale, Ark., and abandoned it after a knocking started in the engine.

They then hitchhiked to Greenville, Miss., where the Dodge was stolen, then returned to Monroe. They went to Shreveport via Natchitoches where they were arrested. Baker attempted to flee on the arrival of police but halted after police fired several shots at him.

They were returned to Monroe Thursday night by Sheriff Grant and Deputy Kirby. Grant traveled to Parkdale that same night to retrieve the abandoned Pontiac. Charges were filed late Friday.

Warrants for the trio have been issued from Greenville. Federal authorities are expected to file charges for violation of the Dyer act, since three state lines were crossed. Foy was charged with burglary for entering the Pickens' office to acquire the key to the Pontiac.

In order to encourage wool production in Britain, Charles II decreed that all dead bodies should be buried in woolen shrouds.

Civil Air Patrol To Meet Monday

The Monroe squadron of the civil air patrol will hold its regular meeting on Monday, 8 p. m., in the C. A. P. building at Selman Field.

Engineering Officer Lieutenant Bruce guarantees that the building (thanks to Mr. Smith of Skateland, W. Monroe, for the use of ventilating facilities) will be comfortably cool.

This will be an action meeting, taking care of work and business which leads toward getting the local unit in readiness for the cadet recruiting program in the not too distant future.

Former Sicily Island Man Is Missing

JONESVILLE, La., July 23.—(Special)—John T. Reed, 39, of Los Angeles, Calif., former Sicily Island resident, was reported missing at sea Sunday night between the mainland and Catalina Island, in the Pacific ocean, according to word received by his sister, Mrs. Hubert Garner, of Foules. With a party of friends, Reed was fishing from a converted land barge between Wilmington and Santa Catalina Island. The owner of the boat reported that Reed, who had spent two nights on the boat, was last seen sleeping on top of the cabin. The vicinity was searched or several hours without finding the man.

Reed operated a foundry in Los Angeles. He had been living in California since leaving Sicily Island in 1930.

Two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Smith and Mrs. Juanita Wade, live in Los Angeles, and a brother, Earl Jacquet, lives in Shreveport.

31 Churches Will Start Revivals

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., July 23.—(Special)—The First Baptist Church of Lake Providence simultaneously with thirty other churches of the Bayou Macon, Richland-Madison Associations, comprising the parishes of East Carroll, West Carroll, Madison and Richland, will begin a two-week revival on Sunday, July 24, and run through Sunday, August 7.

Rev. C. A. Martin, local pastor, will do the preaching at the services with week days at 7 a. m., and 7:30 p. m. On Sundays the service hours will be at 11 a. m., and 8 p. m.

Mr. O. R. Daniels of Alexandria will lead the singing and Mrs. H. H. Moorman, church organist, will be in charge of all music.

Librarian On Job For Catahoula

JONESVILLE, La., July 22.—(Special)—Eunice Edna Heitman, of Ponchatoula, this week began her duties as librarian for Catahoula parish, in its recently opened one-year demonstration. She is a June graduate of the Louisiana State University library school, and has previously taught in schools of Bogalusa and Ponchatoula, and has worked in New Orleans and the Panama Canal Zone under United States civil service.

The Catahoula bookmobile on Thursday made its first regular run to Larto lake. The "Library On Wheels" will cover the parish by six regular routes, which are now being mapped out.

FACES FIVE CHARGES

John C. Dubois, 25, 211 Georgia street, was charged early Saturday morning with drunk and disorderly conduct, using profane language, fighting, damage to property, and resisting arrest. No bond had been set for Dubois late Saturday morning.

The great increase in population in the 19th century was mainly because of a decrease in the death rate.

Nomads To Leave For Convention

A group o Nomads from Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, Monroe, will leave via chartered bus on Thursday, July 28, to attend the National Convention of Nomads of Avrudaka which will convene in San Diego, Calif., from August 1 to 5. In addition to these Nomads are friends of the Nomads in Monroe, La., and Nomad Mr. McLain and Nomad Mrs. Ruby McLain from Jackson, Miss.

Dr. H. H. Baur, Rajah of Swami Santha No. 102, will represent this Santha at the convention, with Mrs. Montez Baur, Rani, accompanying as alternate representative.

The trip has been carefully mapped out so points of interest can be visited along the route. First will be a visit to Carlsbad Caverns in Carlsbad, New Mexico. A side trip to Tjuania, Mexico, from San Diego, tickets have already been secured for the party to attend Breakfast in Hollywood and Bride and Groom programs on August 5, 1949. All friends of these Nomads are invited to listen in on that date. On the return trip Grand Canyon will also be visited.

This organization seeks to take this means to thank all of their friends in Monroe who helped to make this trip possible, through the projects they sponsored to help defray expenses.

The site of Oklahoma City was opened for settlement at noon, April 22, 1889, and by night it had a population of 10,000 living in tents.

THREE ARRESTED IN AUTO THEFTS

Two Ouachita Parish Youths And Oklahoman Are Accused

Two Ouachita parish youths and an Oklahoman were in parish jail today under charges of auto theft after stealing two cars on a wild dash over three states.

Held were Elmer Leo Foy, 19, Dooleyville, and George Traylor, Sterlington, and Jack Baker, Oklahoma. Foy was charged additionally with simple burglary, with bond set at $1,500 on each charge. Traylor and Baker are under $1,500 bond each.

The three were arrested in Shreveport by city police Thursday while trying to sell a 1947 Dodge automobile for $800. Sheriff Bailey Grant and Deputy Kirby were called to Shreveport after preliminary investigation revealed that Foy and Traylor lived here.

Under questioning by Sheriff Grant the trio admitted taking a 1947 Pontiac from Pickens Motor Co., 314 Walnut street, at the height of the Monday night auto show. They drove the vehicle to Parkdale, Ark., and abandoned it after a knocking started in the engine.

They then hitchhiked to Greenville, Miss., where the Dodge was stolen, then returned to Monroe. They went to Shreveport via Natchitoches where they were arrested. Baker attempted to flee on the arrival of police but halted after police fired several shots at him.

They were returned to Monroe Thursday night by Sheriff Grant and Deputy Kirby. Grant traveled to Parkdale that same night to retrieve the abandoned Pontiac. Charges were filed late Friday.

Warrants for the trio have been issued from Greenville. Federal authorities are expected to file charges for violation of the Dyer act, since three state lines were crossed. Foy was charged with burglary for entering the Pickens' office to acquire the key to the Pontiac.

In order to encourage wool production in Britain, Charles II decreed that all dead bodies should be buried in woolen shrouds.

Civil Air Patrol To Meet Monday

The Monroe squadron of the civil air patrol will hold its regular meeting on Monday, 8 p. m., in the C. A. P. building at Selman Field.

Engineering Officer Lieutenant Bruce guarantees that the building (thanks to Mr. Smith of Skateland, W. Monroe, for the use of ventilating facilities) will be comfortably cool.

This will be an action meeting, taking care of work and business which leads toward getting the local unit in readiness for the cadet recruiting program in the not too distant future.

Former Sicily Island Man Is Missing

JONESVILLE, La., July 23.—(Special)—John T. Reed, 39, of Los Angeles, Calif., former Sicily Island resident, was reported missing at sea Sunday night between the mainland and Catalina Island, in the Pacific ocean, according to word received by his sister, Mrs. Hubert Garner, of Foules. With a party of friends, Reed was fishing from a converted land barge between Wilmington and Santa Catalina Island. The owner of the boat reported that Reed, who had spent two nights on the boat, was last seen sleeping on top of the cabin. The vicinity was searched or several hours without finding the man.

Reed operated a foundry in Los Angeles. He had been living in California since leaving Sicily Island in 1930.

Two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Smith and Mrs. Juanita Wade, live in Los Angeles, and a brother, Earl Jacquet, lives in Shreveport.

31 Churches Will Start Revivals

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., July 23.—(Special)—The First Baptist Church of Lake Providence simultaneously with thirty other churches of the Bayou Macon, Richland-Madison Associations, comprising the parishes of East Carroll, West Carroll, Madison and Richland, will begin a two-week revival on Sunday, July 24, and run through Sunday, August 7.

Rev. C. A. Martin, local pastor, will do the preaching at the services with week days at 7 a. m., and 7:30 p. m. On Sundays the service hours will be at 11 a. m., and 8 p. m.

Mr. O. R. Daniels of Alexandria will lead the singing and Mrs. H. H. Moorman, church organist, will be in charge of all music.

Librarian On Job For Catahoula

JONESVILLE, La., July 22.—(Special)—Eunice Edna Heitman, of Ponchatoula, this week began her duties as librarian for Catahoula parish, in its recently opened one-year demonstration. She is a June graduate of the Louisiana State University library school, and has previously taught in schools of Bogalusa and Ponchatoula, and has worked in New Orleans and the Panama Canal Zone under United States civil service.

The Catahoula bookmobile on Thursday made its first regular run to Larto lake. The "Library On Wheels" will cover the parish by six regular routes, which are now being mapped out.

FACES FIVE CHARGES

John C. Dubois, 25, 211 Georgia street, was charged early Saturday morning with drunk and disorderly conduct, using profane language, fighting, damage to property, and resisting arrest. No bond had been set for Dubois late Saturday morning.

The great increase in population in the 19th century was mainly because of a decrease in the death rate.

Nomads To Leave For Convention

A group o Nomads from Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, Monroe, will leave via chartered bus on Thursday, July 28, to attend the National Convention of Nomads of Avrudaka which will convene in San Diego, Calif., from August 1 to 5. In addition to these Nomads are friends of the Nomads in Monroe, La., and Nomad Mr. McLain and Nomad Mrs. Ruby McLain from Jackson, Miss.

Dr. H. H. Baur, Rajah of Swami Santha No. 102, will represent this Santha at the convention, with Mrs. Montez Baur, Rani, accompanying as alternate representative.

The trip has been carefully mapped out so points of interest can be visited along the route. First will be a visit to Carlsbad Caverns in Carlsbad, New Mexico. A side trip to Tjuania, Mexico, from San Diego, tickets have already been secured for the party to attend Breakfast in Hollywood and Bride and Groom programs on August 5, 1949. All friends of these Nomads are invited to listen in on that date. On the return trip Grand Canyon will also be visited.

This organization seeks to take this means to thank all of their friends in Monroe who helped to make this trip possible, through the projects they sponsored to help defray expenses.

The site of Oklahoma City was opened for settlement at noon, April 22, 1889, and by night it had a population of 10,000 living in tents.

DAIRIES' GRADES ARE ANNOUNCED

Standings Determined In Specifications Of Sanitary Code

Dr. Carroll W. Summer yesterday announced the grades of all dairies, milk processors, and milk distributors in Ouachita parish.

Dr. Summer, director of the Ouachita Parish Health Unit, is required by the state sanitary code to publicize at least once every six months the grades of all milk and milk products produced, processed, or offered for sale within the parish. At the same time he must issue grade certificates.

Grades have been determined by the health department in accordance with grade specifications set out in the sanitary code, Dr. Summer said.

Grade "A" pasteurized milk is identified as pasteurized milk produced from standard raw milk with an average bacterial plate count not exceeding 200,000 per milliliter, and with an average count on the finished product not exceeding 30,000 per milliliter.

The following plants in this parish are grade "A," Dr. Summer said:

Barnes Dairy, R. L. Barnes owner, West Monroe; Cloverleaf Dairy, M. L. Johnson owner, Monroe; Cooperative Dairies, L. E. Petit, manager, Monroe, and Riser's Dairy, Riser Bros, owners, West Monroe.

Plants outside Ouachita parish distributing milk in the parish in grade "A" rating are:

Allen's Dairy Products, Grady Smith manager, Tallulah.

Grade "A" raw milk is listed as raw milk which meets requirements by being produced from cows certified to be free from Bang's disease and the average bacterial plate count does not exceed 50,000 per milliliter.

Dairies in this classification are: Cobb Brothers, West Monroe; J. C. Halsell, West Monroe; O. G. Hattaway, Calhoun; D. C. Littleton, West Monroe, and Royal Dairy, Monroe.

Standard raw milk for grade "A" pasteurization is raw milk which has been produced and handled in conformity with the minimum requirements of these regulations for raw milk. The average bacterial count shall not exceed 200,000 per milliliter.

Producing standard raw milk for pasteurization in the parish are:

G. P. Avant No. 1, West Monroe; G. P. Avant No. 2, West Monroe; J. C. Avant, West Monroe; O. C. Avant, West Monroe; R. L. Barnes, West Monroe; J. Y. Barnes, Calhoun; W. S. Calloway, West Monroe; O. O. Cloyd, West Monroe; Otis Collie, Calhoun; Ben Crawford, West Monroe; Tom Golson, West Monroe; Green Brothers, West Monroe; W. O. Hattaway, Calhoun; O. D. Hollingsworth, West Monroe; D. D. Head, West Monroe; C. Holloway, West Monroe; Robert Harmon, Monroe; M. L. Johnson, Monroe; I. McDaniel, Calhoun; W. W. McDonald, Monroe; E. D. McGrew, West Monroe; North Louisiana Experiment Station, Calhoun; D. E. Owens, West Monroe; G. H. Owens, West Monroe; M. A. Thompson, West Monroe; Fred Staples, Calhoun; Fred Watson, Calhoun; M. M. Worthy, West Monroe, and H. B. Zeagler and Son, Monroe.

Standard raw milk is listed as milk which has been produced and handled in conformity with the minimum requirements with a bacterial count not exceeding one million per milliliter. W. H. Johnson, West Monroe, is the only standard producer-distributor of this type milk.

All milk coming into the parish from other areas for pasteurization is of the same quality as that produced in Ouachita, Dr. Summer added. All milk and milk products judged to be immediately dangerous to public health have been excluded, Dr. Summer explained.

BEAUTY ON PARADE AT CITY HALL

The six Water Carnival queen contestants leave the City Hall to meet the judges who selected the queen and two alternates. The three girls remaining in the contest are Ann Mims in the center car, and Ann Waters sitting with Billy Egloff on the right. Representatives of the Twin City Motor Company and Lennon Motor Company chauffered the girls. Six official greeters for the Twin Cities were chosen by Mayors George Breece and C. C. Bell when they appointed the six top contenders for the title of queen of the 1949 Water Carnival. Left to right, the girls are Billy Kaplan, Nita Beebe, Ann Mims, Ann Waters, Billy Egloff and Bobby Parker. Standing behind the mayors are commissioner Frank X. Cline and J. P. Simmons.

PLAYGROUNDS IN HIGHEST RECORD

Total Of 3,145 Attended Past Week; Bicycle Parade Featured

Attendance on the playgrounds last week came to 3,145 for the second high week of the season.

Barkdull Faulk announced the following winners in the bicycle parade: Most decorated, Bobby Ford; smallest, Bryan Richards; largest, Lydia Varino; unusual, Frank Hover; hardest to ride, Charlene Correro; prettiest, Susan Kay Stewart; and oldest, Linda Barton.

Georgia Tucker had the following: Most original, Dorothy Dawson; best girls' decorated, Ruth Ann Boggs; best boys' decorated, David George.

Atkinson the following winners: Best bicycle, Butchy Manning; most unusual, Dale Fleming; best decorated tricycle, Butchy Manning; oldest, Caralyn Fleming; newest, Jerry Landreth.

In the girls' ping pong championship held at Georgia Tucker the following playground champions were announced: Ann Choate, Georgia Tucker, 12 and under champ; Joan Abraham, Sherrouse, 14 and under champ; Susan Anderson, Georgia Tucker, 16 and under.

The playgrounds will honor the founder of playgrounds next Friday when all children will assemble at Barkdull Faulk for a full day of activities. The program will start at 9 a. m. and end at 2 p. m. Children are asked to meet at their playgrounds at 8:30, bring their lunch and bathing suits. The public is urged to visit Barkdull Faulk on this day and see the kind of program that is offered their children on the playgrounds.

Tidelands Plan Would Give Louisiana Share Of Revenue

Amount Fixed In Proposed Compromise Better Than Expected

By Edmond le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(AP)—In the compromise proposed to settle the tidelands question, Louisiana lost on the question of control, but did better than many expected in the matter of revenue.

The state went into the compromise negotiations officially holding to its position that the tidelands are the states' to control and develop for revenue as they see fit. But there was evidently reason to doubt that the supreme court would uphold a state in so strong a claim. The court ruled for the government in a suit for control of the California tidelands and then authorized the filing of similar suits against Louisiana and Texas, over determined opposition by the two Gulf of Mexico states.

The settlement discussions, arranged by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, a Texan, were confidential. However, Louisianians close to the negotiations say that this state put up a strong fight for state control of leasing. Many of the Louisiana spokesmen believe that a principal motive in the federal government's attempt to control the tidelands is to halt or at least slow down development and keep the offshore oil fields as an emergency reserve. They say the government has virtually blocked California tidelands leasing since the 1947 decision. The states, by and large, favor development. The resulting revenues are important items in their budgets.

Hence the emphasis on the right of states to continue fostering the development of these mineral properties. As one Louisiana official put it, "We'd rather have only a 25 per cent share of the revenues, and drilling, than a 75 per cent share, and no drilling."

However, the proposed compromise terms, as disclosed by Louisiana Attorney General Bolivar Kemp provide that offshore leasing, aside from that of clearly inland water bottoms, shall be government controlled.

There has long been debate as to where inland waters give way to outside waters. The definition in the settlement proposal is fairly liberal, from the state point of view. It would class Louisiana's numerous and extensive bays, lakes and inlets—many of which are now producing oil fields—as inland waters, under state jurisdiction.

There is one clause in the proposed settlement which may be considered a victory for the critics of government control. It is a requirement that the government change its way of leasing mineral properties and take competitive bids. Except in proven oil fields, the government now leases lands by application. The New Orleans Times-Picayune, in a comparative study of state and federal leasing, said recently that Louisiana averaged $14.16 an acre in bonuses and rentals for the water bottoms it had leased, while the government, on the basis of its administration of similar property, would have received 50 cents an acre.

For purposes of revenue division—not control—the proposed settlement recognizes the three-mile limit as a boundary. Within that limit, the state would get 62 1/2 per cent. Outside the line and all the way out to the edge of the continental shelf, 120 miles or more, it would get 50 per cent.

Louisiana negotiators reportedly succeeded in having the states' share of revenues from the farther tidelands increased from an original 37 1/2 per cent proposal—and without much assistance from California, which wanted the close-in figure kept high because most of its production is near shore.

So is most of Louisiana's—but most of the potential development, for which oil companies may be willing in future to pay high bonuses, is outside.

One clear victory for Louisiana in the proposed settlement is the waiver of any government claim to revenues already collected from the tidelands. Some $17,000,000 is involved there, according to Register of State Land Office Lucille May Grace, who collects the mineral revenues on behalf of the state.

The government was advancing a serious claim to any revenue collected from the tidelands after the California decision, apparently on the theory that this ruling should have put all states on notice that the offshore lands were federal. Attorney General Tom Clark in a Baton Rouge interview soon after the 1947 decision indicated that such a claim might be made, and the suit filed against Louisiana included a demand for an accounting.

The state mineral board meanwhile by formal resolution confirmed its intention of continuing leasing tidelands, but since last September no oil company has offered to lease any more of the disputed property. In fact, practically all lease holders in the Louisiana tidelands now are suing for a suspension of their lease obligations until the ownership question is settled.

FARM CROPS TO BE ON DISPLAY

Vets' Output In On-The-Farm Training To Be Scrutinized In Public

JONESVILLE, La., July 23.—(Special)—Nineteen fields of "the best looking cotton and corn in Catahoula" will be officially on exhibit next week, after getting admiring glances from neighboring farmers and passersby for the past several weeks.

These fields are those belonging to veterans taking on-the-farm training and selected from their classes for experimental projects financed in part through the Catahoula school board. One member from each class was chosen to plant cotton and one to plant corn.

Next week, as their farms are visited by fellow classmates and anyone else who is interested, the veterans will explain how the land was prepared, how it was fertilized and cultivated, how planted, what mistakes were made, how much yield is expected, and many other things that might prove beneficial to parish farmers.

The "local experiments" idea was developed by S. E. Richardson, veton-farm supervisor, who got the school board to help finance the buying of seed, fertilizer, etc., up to $75 per veteran.

"We have had good luck with most of our experiments," Richardson said. "Two or three we have had bad luck with. Our cornfield at Manifest, for instance, was eaten up by bugs and had to be planted three times. Some of our cotton is young. But even with adverse condition, these fields are showing up better than the usual run of crops."

Progress, Brawls Mark 2 Years Of Unification

By Elton C. Fay

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—The United States is two years along in its first experiment with a unified military system.

The men who asked for the law enacted on July 26, 1947, claim that "unified direction" of the armed forces under civilian control is working. They produce a score of examples of progress toward unification of the services' operations, examples ranging from strategy to a common standard for making coffee.

After a trial, President Truman and the national military establishment (N. M. E.)leaders decided that the unification law needed correction, that it should provide more authority and more assistance for the secretary of defense.

Mr. Truman, in recommending amendments to congress last winter, said "the issue today is not whether we should have unification, but how we can make it more effective."

He proposed, among other things, that congress provide for an undersecretary of defense and three assistant secretaries and that the joint chiefs of staff the military commanders of the army, navy and air force) have a chairman with "precedence" over the other members.

Congress approved quickly the plan for an undersecretary. Stephen T. Early, press secretary to the late president Roosevelt, was chosen to serve with defense secretary Louis Johnson.

The lawmakers took more time on the other proposals, and long hearings and debate ensued, including arguments over the proopsal for a chairman of the joint chiefs. A threat of still more delay came at one time in house committee decision to hold off on the unification amendments until an inquiry into the B-36 bomber had been completed.

President Truman, apparently weary of waiting, finally issued a presidential order which would carry out most of the reforms he and the defense establishment sought. The order would become operative in two months, provided the order is not overridden by the senate or house before that time. But Mr. Truman expressed hope the two branches of congress would get together on a house-approved version and provide the change by normal legislative procedure.

What else besides progress and amendments to the law resulted from two years of unification?

1. The bitterest brawl yet within the armed forces household, a quarrel over whether the navy should built a 65,000-ton carrier. At its hottest moment Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan resigned and sent an angry letter to Johnson. The air force opposed the navy's carrier plan and apparently, in a showdown at a joint chiefs' session, got the backing of the army.

2. The suicide of James Forrestal, crushed by the unrelenting work-load of setting up the gigantic military establishment. He died in a plunge from a skyscraper hospital after resigning the secretaryship.

Johnson took over the defense post with indications there would be harmony among the services—or some offenders would get fired. In this determination he appeared to have the support of the president.

What are some of the things done to bring the services under single overall direction, make them a military team using common facilities where possible?

Started off by Forrestal and subsequently pressed by Johnson, the N. M. E. succeeded in getting the four jealous armed forces into a general agreement on their "roles and missions" in time of war.

Complete agreement on all points was not reached. The navy and the air forces were not entirely reconciled on how much bombing of strategic targets should be done by the navy. Out of this grew the wrangle over the supercarrier.

Johnson pushed the idea of more fraternization among the joint chiefs—army general Omar Bradley, Admiral Louis Denfeld, Air General Hoyt Vandenberg. He ordered that every few months the three men get out of town, play some golf together, relax—and have some business sessions among themselves and with the defense and his advisers.

The defense establishment also has intensified what it calls "cross-training." This means sending an army officer to a tour of duty with the navy or marines or assigning a naval officer to fly with the air force.

Moreover, officers attend common schools—the national war college for senior officers here. And members of all four services attend schools of each of the separate services.

First Aid Saves Negro Man's Life

First aid training, such as the Red Cross offers, does come in handy, states C. G. Pearce, Sr., chairman of the Ouachita parish chapter of the Red Cross. He cites the following which he read in a newspaper recently:

John Berry, a Negro of Montgomery, Ala., owes his life to the quick thinking and Red Cross first aid training of F. B. Day and L. Perkins, of the Montgomery police force.

The two policemen received an urgent call for help and at the scene found one man shot and Berry with his throat cut. While one policeman called for an ambulance, the other put his first aid training to work. Unable to stop the flow of blood in the usual way ,the officer caught hold of the cut artery in the throat and held tightly with two fingers until the patient could be admitted to the hospital. Berry's complete recovery was credited by the chief nurse to the policemen's quick use of their training. Both Perkins and Day, along with other members of the police force, received their training in standard and advanced first aid through the Montgomery county chapter.

DAIRIES' GRADES ARE ANNOUNCED

Standings Determined In Specifications Of Sanitary Code

Dr. Carroll W. Summer yesterday announced the grades of all dairies, milk processors, and milk distributors in Ouachita parish.

Dr. Summer, director of the Ouachita Parish Health Unit, is required by the state sanitary code to publicize at least once every six months the grades of all milk and milk products produced, processed, or offered for sale within the parish. At the same time he must issue grade certificates.

Grades have been determined by the health department in accordance with grade specifications set out in the sanitary code, Dr. Summer said.

Grade "A" pasteurized milk is identified as pasteurized milk produced from standard raw milk with an average bacterial plate count not exceeding 200,000 per milliliter, and with an average count on the finished product not exceeding 30,000 per milliliter.

The following plants in this parish are grade "A," Dr. Summer said:

Barnes Dairy, R. L. Barnes owner, West Monroe; Cloverleaf Dairy, M. L. Johnson owner, Monroe; Cooperative Dairies, L. E. Petit, manager, Monroe, and Riser's Dairy, Riser Bros, owners, West Monroe.

Plants outside Ouachita parish distributing milk in the parish in grade "A" rating are:

Allen's Dairy Products, Grady Smith manager, Tallulah.

Grade "A" raw milk is listed as raw milk which meets requirements by being produced from cows certified to be free from Bang's disease and the average bacterial plate count does not exceed 50,000 per milliliter.

Dairies in this classification are: Cobb Brothers, West Monroe; J. C. Halsell, West Monroe; O. G. Hattaway, Calhoun; D. C. Littleton, West Monroe, and Royal Dairy, Monroe.

Standard raw milk for grade "A" pasteurization is raw milk which has been produced and handled in conformity with the minimum requirements of these regulations for raw milk. The average bacterial count shall not exceed 200,000 per milliliter.

Producing standard raw milk for pasteurization in the parish are:

G. P. Avant No. 1, West Monroe; G. P. Avant No. 2, West Monroe; J. C. Avant, West Monroe; O. C. Avant, West Monroe; R. L. Barnes, West Monroe; J. Y. Barnes, Calhoun; W. S. Calloway, West Monroe; O. O. Cloyd, West Monroe; Otis Collie, Calhoun; Ben Crawford, West Monroe; Tom Golson, West Monroe; Green Brothers, West Monroe; W. O. Hattaway, Calhoun; O. D. Hollingsworth, West Monroe; D. D. Head, West Monroe; C. Holloway, West Monroe; Robert Harmon, Monroe; M. L. Johnson, Monroe; I. McDaniel, Calhoun; W. W. McDonald, Monroe; E. D. McGrew, West Monroe; North Louisiana Experiment Station, Calhoun; D. E. Owens, West Monroe; G. H. Owens, West Monroe; M. A. Thompson, West Monroe; Fred Staples, Calhoun; Fred Watson, Calhoun; M. M. Worthy, West Monroe, and H. B. Zeagler and Son, Monroe.

Standard raw milk is listed as milk which has been produced and handled in conformity with the minimum requirements with a bacterial count not exceeding one million per milliliter. W. H. Johnson, West Monroe, is the only standard producer-distributor of this type milk.

All milk coming into the parish from other areas for pasteurization is of the same quality as that produced in Ouachita, Dr. Summer added. All milk and milk products judged to be immediately dangerous to public health have been excluded, Dr. Summer explained.

Tidelands Plan Would Give Louisiana Share Of Revenue

Amount Fixed In Proposed Compromise Better Than Expected

By Edmond le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(AP)—In the compromise proposed to settle the tidelands question, Louisiana lost on the question of control, but did better than many expected in the matter of revenue.

The state went into the compromise negotiations officially holding to its position that the tidelands are the states' to control and develop for revenue as they see fit. But there was evidently reason to doubt that the supreme court would uphold a state in so strong a claim. The court ruled for the government in a suit for control of the California tidelands and then authorized the filing of similar suits against Louisiana and Texas, over determined opposition by the two Gulf of Mexico states.

The settlement discussions, arranged by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, a Texan, were confidential. However, Louisianians close to the negotiations say that this state put up a strong fight for state control of leasing. Many of the Louisiana spokesmen believe that a principal motive in the federal government's attempt to control the tidelands is to halt or at least slow down development and keep the offshore oil fields as an emergency reserve. They say the government has virtually blocked California tidelands leasing since the 1947 decision. The states, by and large, favor development. The resulting revenues are important items in their budgets.

Hence the emphasis on the right of states to continue fostering the development of these mineral properties. As one Louisiana official put it, "We'd rather have only a 25 per cent share of the revenues, and drilling, than a 75 per cent share, and no drilling."

However, the proposed compromise terms, as disclosed by Louisiana Attorney General Bolivar Kemp provide that offshore leasing, aside from that of clearly inland water bottoms, shall be government controlled.

There has long been debate as to where inland waters give way to outside waters. The definition in the settlement proposal is fairly liberal, from the state point of view. It would class Louisiana's numerous and extensive bays, lakes and inlets—many of which are now producing oil fields—as inland waters, under state jurisdiction.

There is one clause in the proposed settlement which may be considered a victory for the critics of government control. It is a requirement that the government change its way of leasing mineral properties and take competitive bids. Except in proven oil fields, the government now leases lands by application. The New Orleans Times-Picayune, in a comparative study of state and federal leasing, said recently that Louisiana averaged $14.16 an acre in bonuses and rentals for the water bottoms it had leased, while the government, on the basis of its administration of similar property, would have received 50 cents an acre.

For purposes of revenue division—not control—the proposed settlement recognizes the three-mile limit as a boundary. Within that limit, the state would get 62 1/2 per cent. Outside the line and all the way out to the edge of the continental shelf, 120 miles or more, it would get 50 per cent.

Louisiana negotiators reportedly succeeded in having the states' share of revenues from the farther tidelands increased from an original 37 1/2 per cent proposal—and without much assistance from California, which wanted the close-in figure kept high because most of its production is near shore.

So is most of Louisiana's—but most of the potential development, for which oil companies may be willing in future to pay high bonuses, is outside.

One clear victory for Louisiana in the proposed settlement is the waiver of any government claim to revenues already collected from the tidelands. Some $17,000,000 is involved there, according to Register of State Land Office Lucille May Grace, who collects the mineral revenues on behalf of the state.

The government was advancing a serious claim to any revenue collected from the tidelands after the California decision, apparently on the theory that this ruling should have put all states on notice that the offshore lands were federal. Attorney General Tom Clark in a Baton Rouge interview soon after the 1947 decision indicated that such a claim might be made, and the suit filed against Louisiana included a demand for an accounting.

The state mineral board meanwhile by formal resolution confirmed its intention of continuing leasing tidelands, but since last September no oil company has offered to lease any more of the disputed property. In fact, practically all lease holders in the Louisiana tidelands now are suing for a suspension of their lease obligations until the ownership question is settled.

FARM CROPS TO BE ON DISPLAY

Vets' Output In On-The-Farm Training To Be Scrutinized In Public

JONESVILLE, La., July 23.—(Special)—Nineteen fields of "the best looking cotton and corn in Catahoula" will be officially on exhibit next week, after getting admiring glances from neighboring farmers and passersby for the past several weeks.

These fields are those belonging to veterans taking on-the-farm training and selected from their classes for experimental projects financed in part through the Catahoula school board. One member from each class was chosen to plant cotton and one to plant corn.

Next week, as their farms are visited by fellow classmates and anyone else who is interested, the veterans will explain how the land was prepared, how it was fertilized and cultivated, how planted, what mistakes were made, how much yield is expected, and many other things that might prove beneficial to parish farmers.

The "local experiments" idea was developed by S. E. Richardson, veton-farm supervisor, who got the school board to help finance the buying of seed, fertilizer, etc., up to $75 per veteran.

"We have had good luck with most of our experiments," Richardson said. "Two or three we have had bad luck with. Our cornfield at Manifest, for instance, was eaten up by bugs and had to be planted three times. Some of our cotton is young. But even with adverse condition, these fields are showing up better than the usual run of crops."

Progress, Brawls Mark 2 Years Of Unification

By Elton C. Fay

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—The United States is two years along in its first experiment with a unified military system.

The men who asked for the law enacted on July 26, 1947, claim that "unified direction" of the armed forces under civilian control is working. They produce a score of examples of progress toward unification of the services' operations, examples ranging from strategy to a common standard for making coffee.

After a trial, President Truman and the national military establishment (N. M. E.)leaders decided that the unification law needed correction, that it should provide more authority and more assistance for the secretary of defense.

Mr. Truman, in recommending amendments to congress last winter, said "the issue today is not whether we should have unification, but how we can make it more effective."

He proposed, among other things, that congress provide for an undersecretary of defense and three assistant secretaries and that the joint chiefs of staff the military commanders of the army, navy and air force) have a chairman with "precedence" over the other members.

Congress approved quickly the plan for an undersecretary. Stephen T. Early, press secretary to the late president Roosevelt, was chosen to serve with defense secretary Louis Johnson.

The lawmakers took more time on the other proposals, and long hearings and debate ensued, including arguments over the proopsal for a chairman of the joint chiefs. A threat of still more delay came at one time in house committee decision to hold off on the unification amendments until an inquiry into the B-36 bomber had been completed.

President Truman, apparently weary of waiting, finally issued a presidential order which would carry out most of the reforms he and the defense establishment sought. The order would become operative in two months, provided the order is not overridden by the senate or house before that time. But Mr. Truman expressed hope the two branches of congress would get together on a house-approved version and provide the change by normal legislative procedure.

What else besides progress and amendments to the law resulted from two years of unification?

1. The bitterest brawl yet within the armed forces household, a quarrel over whether the navy should built a 65,000-ton carrier. At its hottest moment Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan resigned and sent an angry letter to Johnson. The air force opposed the navy's carrier plan and apparently, in a showdown at a joint chiefs' session, got the backing of the army.

2. The suicide of James Forrestal, crushed by the unrelenting work-load of setting up the gigantic military establishment. He died in a plunge from a skyscraper hospital after resigning the secretaryship.

Johnson took over the defense post with indications there would be harmony among the services—or some offenders would get fired. In this determination he appeared to have the support of the president.

What are some of the things done to bring the services under single overall direction, make them a military team using common facilities where possible?

Started off by Forrestal and subsequently pressed by Johnson, the N. M. E. succeeded in getting the four jealous armed forces into a general agreement on their "roles and missions" in time of war.

Complete agreement on all points was not reached. The navy and the air forces were not entirely reconciled on how much bombing of strategic targets should be done by the navy. Out of this grew the wrangle over the supercarrier.

Johnson pushed the idea of more fraternization among the joint chiefs—army general Omar Bradley, Admiral Louis Denfeld, Air General Hoyt Vandenberg. He ordered that every few months the three men get out of town, play some golf together, relax—and have some business sessions among themselves and with the defense and his advisers.

The defense establishment also has intensified what it calls "cross-training." This means sending an army officer to a tour of duty with the navy or marines or assigning a naval officer to fly with the air force.

Moreover, officers attend common schools—the national war college for senior officers here. And members of all four services attend schools of each of the separate services.

The colossal statue of the sun-god at Rhodes, 105 feet high, was levelled by an earth quake in 224 B. C., but its remains endured until 656 A. D., when they were sold to an old metal dealer.

First Aid Saves Negro Man's Life

First aid training, such as the Red Cross offers, does come in handy, states C. G. Pearce, Sr., chairman of the Ouachita parish chapter of the Red Cross. He cites the following which he read in a newspaper recently:

John Berry, a Negro of Montgomery, Ala., owes his life to the quick thinking and Red Cross first aid training of F. B. Day and L. Perkins, of the Montgomery police force.

The two policemen received an urgent call for help and at the scene found one man shot and Berry with his throat cut. While one policeman called for an ambulance, the other put his first aid training to work. Unable to stop the flow of blood in the usual way ,the officer caught hold of the cut artery in the throat and held tightly with two fingers until the patient could be admitted to the hospital. Berry's complete recovery was credited by the chief nurse to the policemen's quick use of their training. Both Perkins and Day, along with other members of the police force, received their training in standard and advanced first aid through the Montgomery county chapter.

Effective Sunday, July 24

In regard to the 25c taxi fares in West Monroe, we are forced by unfair competition to meet their 25c rate.

While I was in New Orleans, La., at the bedside of my son, Johnny Rogers, who underwent a major operation, lingering between life and death, this was done—without my knowledge.

When I returned to West Monroe Sunday night, July 17, these prices were in effect by:

Ouachita Cab Co., owned by Haze Gentry
Jacks Cab Co. and West Monroe Cab Co., owned by Jack Russell.

I think I am entitled to a living over and above my investment, therefore, at this time I think prices should remain the same.

With my 30 years in the transportation business in West Monroe, I have never been this greedy or undermining. As you know, for seven years I was in the bus business and hauled all you good people to and from the church of your choice—FREE.

TIBET TOSSES CHINESE OUT

Order Nation's Government Personnel Out In Two Weeks

CANTON, China, July 25.—(AP)—The priestly rulers of Tibet have kicked out Chinese government officials in the latest effort to smash Chinese influence in that remote land at the top of the world, qualified Canton sources reported tonight.

The Chinese Nationalists claim suzerainty (a sort of feudal control not so definite as sovereignty) over Tibet.

A Chinese diplomatic mission, a radio station and school long have been maintained at Lhasa, the remote capital in the Himalaya Mountains.

Canton sources said that on July 7 the Tibetan state council—the Lamas who rule in the name of the teen-age Dalai Lama—ordered all Chinese government personnel out of Tibet within two weeks.

The informants said the Chinese departed immediately for India. They hinted that British influence may have caused the Tibetan action. Britain and China long have vied for paramount position in the country.

(First hint of trouble in Tibet reached the western world a couple of days when the Indian government disclosed suspension of all telegraph and radio service except government messages as of July 9. No reason was given. Vague reports of a Communist-inspired uprising in Tibet were denied in India, however. There has been no word of actual disorder.)

In Canton, it was said that the weakening of the Chinese Nationalists through Communist civil war victories may have influenced the Tibetan action but that it was not directly instigated by the Reds.

Only last August, the Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet, reported to the Nationalist government that he had launched a protracted anti-Communist prayer meeting. This he described as the only way his non-military nation could show its aversion for the Reds.

The current anti-Nationalist movement therefore was seen as largely opportunistic. It was said to have been partly based on Chinese government plans to send an official representative to the future enthronement of the Panchan Lama.

Since 1924 the Panchan Lama has been a refuge in northwest China. He claims spiritual rule over Tibet's 9,000,000 Buddhists. The present Panchan Lama, a boy of 12, is regarded as pro-Chinese, like his predecessors. His rival, the Dalai Lama, is considered pro-British.

Kwan Chi-Yu, chairman of the Nationalist government's Mongolian and Tibetan affairs commission, said he was still awaiting details of Tibetan developments and could make no decision until he received them.

HERE'S the big broad seat that will carry you there in sofa-like ease. At your toe is the treadle that brings to life 150 eager Fireball horsepower.

In your hand is a wheel, neat and tidy, friendly and obedient. And under it the Dynaflow lever that's key to a whole new experience.

SET it once—and you can forget it. Until you park or back up, you won't need to touch it again. Find a comfortable spot for your clutch-foot too—that's just going along for the ride—and smoothly feed gas.

No jar, no jerk, no sudden lurch. Just one smooth crescendo of power, soft and silky and forever free of direct-geared harshness!

TRAFFIC slides by, no longer a headache. Open roads spread their welcome, tall hills bow meekly to the power at your command. Cares fall away with the dust-clouds of your going, and you've forgotten the world and the weather.

You know now why scores of thousands wouldn't be without the sweet luxury of Dynaflow Drive—or the velvet power of ROADMASTER. You know why the Buick ride sets the standard for the industry—above all, why Buick's the buy.

FOR it isn't just what the price tags say nor what a demonstration shows that makes Buick such a satisfying investment.

It's in the way a car grows on you when it's planned to please in many ways, and not just through a single feature.

IN such a car, any trip's "a breeze." How about breezing around to your Buick dealer to see how quickly you can get a ROADMASTER?

TIBET TOSSES CHINESE OUT

Order Nation's Government Personnel Out In Two Weeks

CANTON, China, July 25.—(AP)—The priestly rulers of Tibet have kicked out Chinese government officials in the latest effort to smash Chinese influence in that remote land at the top of the world, qualified Canton sources reported tonight.

The Chinese Nationalists claim suzerainty (a sort of feudal control not so definite as sovereignty) over Tibet.

A Chinese diplomatic mission, a radio station and school long have been maintained at Lhasa, the remote capital in the Himalaya Mountains.

Canton sources said that on July 7 the Tibetan state council—the Lamas who rule in the name of the teen-age Dalai Lama—ordered all Chinese government personnel out of Tibet within two weeks.

The informants said the Chinese departed immediately for India. They hinted that British influence may have caused the Tibetan action. Britain and China long have vied for paramount position in the country.

(First hint of trouble in Tibet reached the western world a couple of days when the Indian government disclosed suspension of all telegraph and radio service except government messages as of July 9. No reason was given. Vague reports of a Communist-inspired uprising in Tibet were denied in India, however. There has been no word of actual disorder.)

In Canton, it was said that the weakening of the Chinese Nationalists through Communist civil war victories may have influenced the Tibetan action but that it was not directly instigated by the Reds.

Only last August, the Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet, reported to the Nationalist government that he had launched a protracted anti-Communist prayer meeting. This he described as the only way his non-military nation could show its aversion for the Reds.

The current anti-Nationalist movement therefore was seen as largely opportunistic. It was said to have been partly based on Chinese government plans to send an official representative to the future enthronement of the Panchan Lama.

Since 1924 the Panchan Lama has been a refuge in northwest China. He claims spiritual rule over Tibet's 9,000,000 Buddhists. The present Panchan Lama, a boy of 12, is regarded as pro-Chinese, like his predecessors. His rival, the Dalai Lama, is considered pro-British.

Kwan Chi-Yu, chairman of the Nationalist government's Mongolian and Tibetan affairs commission, said he was still awaiting details of Tibetan developments and could make no decision until he received them.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

George Wunder

MADEMOISELLE BURGUNDY! I DO NOT UNDERSTAND. I COME TO BRING MY MASTER'S INVITATION TO VISIT HIM AT HIS PALACE. YOU SPURN MY GIFTS. YOU KICK ME OUT. BUT NOW YOU SAY YOU WILL COME.

BUT OF COURSE! CANNOT BURGUNDY DE NEUF, THE GREATEST STAR OF THE FRENCH CINEMA, CHANGE HER MIND?

THE LOWLY SECRETARY OF THE MOGUL BEY IS HAPPY INDEED THAT HIS MISSION IS CROWNED WITH SUCCESS.

I SHALL VISIT MY OLD FRIEND, MOGUL BEY. THE MAKING OF PERSONAL APPEARANCES IN THESE STUPID COLONIAL THEATERS BECOMES DULL.

TERRY, M' LAD. I BEGIN TO WISH WE HADN'T TAILED CURLY CHIN HERE. IT WASN'T UNTIL YOU STOPPED THIS FLICKER FILLY FROM CROWNING HIM WITH A LAMP THAT SHE CHANGED HER MIND. MAYBE SHE CATERS TO THE MASTERFUL TYPE.

MADEMOISELLE REALIZES THAT MY MASTER'S SUBJECTS ARE QUITE, ER, CONSERVATIVE. THERE MUST BE NO PUBLIC GOSSIP. WE MUST BE MOST DISCREET.

OH, OH! THAT'S WHY OUR PAL WAS MAKING LIKE A WHODUNIT.

I SHALL CANCEL THE REST OF MY PERFORMANCES AT THIS MISERABLE HOVEL. WE WILL LEAVE IN THE MORNING.

A THOUSAND THANKS, KIND LADY...COME, GENTLEMEN, LET US GO.

HMPH!

SO! YOU WERE LISTENING AS USUAL, EH, CHARMAINE?

I AM THE HANDMAIDEN OF A FOOL! THE MOGUL BEY WISHES TO MARRY MADEMOISELLE. HER CAREER WANES, YET SHE TERRORIZES THE BEY'S EMISSARY. EVIDENTLY SHE IS NOT INTERESTED IN SECURITY.

STUPID ONE! DO YOU THINK THAT I, WHO'VE MOVED IN THE SMARTEST CIRCLES IN PARIS, WOULD BE CONTENT TO BE THE WIFE OF THE RULER OF INDIAN MUD VILLAGES?

BUT YOUR TUNE CHANGED FAST ENOUGH, ONCE YOU'D SEEN THE BEY'S HANDSOME BLOND PILOT.

SILENCE, CACKLER! THE ATTRACTIVE MR. LEE IS EXACTLY THE TYPE OF WHIP I NEED TO BRING MY FUTURE HUSBAND TO HEEL. I SHALL BE THE WIFE OF THE MOGUL BEY— ON MY TERMS!

Chester Gould

HE WAS SHOWING B.O. PLENTY AROUND HIS ESTATE.

I THOUGHT I HEARD A SHOT. HOWEVER, I CAME INTO THE HOUSE TO CALL MR. FREELY FOR HIS ADVICE IN POSING SPARKLE'S NEXT GARMENT.

WHEN NO ONE ANSWERED MY CALL I WENT THROUGH THE HOUSE—I FOUND HIM THERE! B.O. PLENTY HAD GONE.

THE DOCTOR AND AMBULANCE CREW ARE HERE, DICK.

NOTHING ELSE IN THIS ROOM IS TO BE TOUCHED OR DISTURBED.

HE'S STILL ALIVE.

HE AND B.O. ARGUED, BUT I CAN'T BELIEVE B.O. WOULD SHOOT HIM.

GRAVEL GERTIE DOESN'T KNOW A THING ABOUT THIS, DICK.

I'LL HAVE TO TELL HER A WHITE LIE ABOUT SENDING B.O. ON AN ERRAND. THEN I'LL TAKE HER AND SPARKLE HOME.

CHIEF, ALERT ALL SQUADS—CITY AND COUNTY—TO PICK UP B.O. PLENTY, THIS THING HAS TO BE CLEARED UP.

2-WAY WRIST RADIO

AFTER WE TAKE PHOTOGRAPHS, MEASURE AND DIAGRAM THE ROOM, WE'LL TAKE THAT GUN TO HEADQUARTERS, SAM, FOR EXAMINATION.

LATER—THAT EVENING.

NO—NO, I JIST CAN'T FACE IT! THE DISGRACE TO GERTIE AND LITTLE SPARKLE IS TOO MUCH. IT'LL BE MUCH BETTER EFFEN THEY NEVER SEE MY FACE AGIN.

I NEVER FELT THAT GUN KICK, BUT I HEARD IT GO OFF. HEARD IT WITH MY OWN EARS—AND SAW HIS BODY THERE.

TOOT WOO WO

7-24-49

MY RECORD AIN'T TOO GOOD—I CAN'T BEAR THE THOUGHT OF THEM COLD STEEL BARS AGIN. ANYWAY, GERTIE WILL SOON FERGIT. SHE MAY EVEN MEET A FELLER BETTER LOOKING THAN I.

IT'S BETTER THIS WAY.

WHEEOO-OOWO

STILL LATER

THAT OLD MUSKET HASN'T BEEN FIRED IN 50 YEARS! THIS .32 SLUG, WHICH JUST ARRIVED FROM THE HOSPITAL, DID THE DAMAGE! IT WAS TAKEN FROM FREELY'S LUNG.

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"THE ROUND ONES!" WOLO MUTTERED. "ONONOES!" TARZAN WHISPERED. "I'M GOING TO HAVE A CLOSER LOOK. WAIT HERE, WOLO!"

WITH INFINITE STEALTH TARZAN MOVED NEARER TO THE STRANGE CREATURES, DROPPING TO A LIMB DIRECTLY ABOVE THEM.

EVER SO CALITIOUSLY HE PARTED THE LEAFY FOLIAGE AND PEERED DOWN INTO THE LITTLE GLADE.

WITH A LOUD, TEARING SOUND THE BRANCH GAVE WAY, AND TARZAN WAS PRECIPITATED INTO THE MIDST OF THE SURPRISED ONONOES.

WITH A SUDDEN, TWISTING WRENCH, HE TORE HIMSELF LOOSE.

TARZAN

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"THE ROUND ONES!" WOLO MUTTERED. "ONONOES!" TARZAN WHISPERED. "I'M GOING TO HAVE A CLOSER LOOK. WAIT HERE, WOLO!"

WITH INFINITE STEALTH TARZAN MOVED NEARER TO THE STRANGE CREATURES, DROPPING TO A LIMB DIRECTLY ABOVE THEM.

EVER SO CAUTIOUSLY HE PARTED THE LEAFY FOLIAGE AND PEERED DOWN INTO THE LITTLE GLADE.

WITH A LOUD, TEARING SOUND THE BRANCH GAVE WAY, AND TARZAN WAS PRECIPITATED INTO THE MIDST OF THE SURPRISED ONONOES.

WITH A SUDDEN, TWISTING WRENCH, HE TORE HIMSELF LOOSE.

SMOTHERED BY THE FIGHTING, CLAWING ONONOES, HE STRUGGLED TO HIS FEET.

HOGARTH.

WELL, WE'RE SCHEDULED TO TAKE OFF IN AN HOUR, OOP... WE'D BETTER GO GET RIGGED!

YEP...WE BETTER!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

GADFRY, OSCAR, YOU MUST THINK IT'S GONNA BE AWFUL COLD WHERE WE'RE GOIN'!

THESE OUTFITS ARE NOT SO MUCH FOR THE COLD AS FOR THE SHOCK OF THE TAKE-OFF!

OH...Y'FIGGER WE'RE APT TO GET BOUNCED AROUND SOME?

PLENTY! IF WE SURVIVE THE TAKEOFF WE'RE PRACTICALLY THERE!

THE PRESS, OSCAR... A FEW LAST WORDS?

YOU FIGURE THE BOOSTER WILL SAVE MOST OF YOUR FUEL FOR NAVIGATION?

EXCEPT FOR ONE BIG SHOT! THE REMAINDER IS FOR STEERING, BRAKING ONTO THE MOON, AND THE RETURN TAKE-OFF AND LANDING BACK HERE ON EARTH!

WELL, WE'RE ALL BUTTONED UP! HOW ABOUT IT, OOP, YOU READY?

I'M READY... LE'S GO!

OH, DOCTOR, I'M SCARED!

YES, I KNOW, OOOLA... STEADY NOW!

THE MOMENT OF THE TAKE-OFF IS HERE...THE BIG ROCKET POISED...IT SEEMS ALMOST TO SHUDDER!

SUSAN MARCH HAS BEEN TRANSFORMED IN A BEAUTY SALON FROM A DRAB YOUNG WOMAN INTO A BEAUTIFUL GIRL

NEVAIRE IN MY LIFE HAVE I, PIERRE, CREATED SUCH A MASTERPIECE!

IT'S A LUCKY YOUNG MAN WHO HAS A DATE WITH YOU TONIGHT, MISS MARCH!

THANK YOU-- AND I'M A LUCKY GIRL!

AND MEANWHILE, WASH AND EASY HAVE BEEN SEARCHING FOR SUSAN

SHE'S NOT HOME, EASY! I FEEL SORT OF RESPONSIBLE FOR SUSAN-- SINCE I'M A MEMBER OF THE LIBRARY BOARD AND ALL.

AND I'VE BEEN THINKING ABOUT THAT NOTE--

THE ONE ASKING HER FOR A DATE TONIGHT-- IT MIGHT NOT HAVE BEEN FOR HER AT ALL!

GOLLY! AND MISS BOOKLEY SAID MR. MOHAWK, THE GUY SHE'S TO MEET, IS A WOLF!

WE GOTTA FIND HER, EASY!

ROADSIDE TAVERN, 8. P.M.

I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHAT'S KEEPING OUR OPERATIVE! I LEFT THAT NOTE IN THE USUAL PLACE, GIVING THE MEETING TIME AT 8 O'CLOCK!

THAT'S THE TROUBLE WITH THAT LIBRARY SHELF "MAIL BOX", MOHAWK!

IT'S RISKY! TOO MUCH CHANCE OF IT FALLING INTO THE WRONG HANDS!

SO WHAT, SNIDE? IF WE USE A PHONE, THE WIRES ARE TAPPED! BESIDES, NOBODY COULD FIGURE THE NOTE MEANT MONKEY BUSINESS!

THERE'S MR. MOHAWK-- WAITING FOR ME!

OH, MR. MOHAWK! I'M HERE! I HOPE YOU WON'T THINK I'M BRAZEN-- MEETING YOU LIKE THIS!

DON'T YOU RECOGNIZE ME?

IT ISN'T--NO, IT CAN'T BE -- YES, IT IS! THE ASSISTANT LIBRARIAN!

GET RID OF THIS DAME, MOHAWK! SHE AIN'T OUR OPERATIVE!
